Pointing out that the issue of Saturday was without the support of authorities or graduates, the telegram said it was not intended that the quips should carry the weight attached to them.

"At the same time," it added, "we continue to believe, as we stated in the editorial, that the feeling last Saturday between undergraduates of Harvard and Princeton was not that of friendly rivalry, and that nothing but an open discussion and eradication of the cause will heal the breach.

"Although the situation undeniably exists, we regret it and apologize for having presented it in an offensive manner."

Dean Welcomes Break.

CHICAGO, Nov. 11 (AP).—Breaking of athletic relations between Princeton and Harvard is exactly what eastern football needed, C. H. Chase, Dean of the Graduate School at Harvard, said here today.

"The break had been expected for a long time," he said, "and efforts were made to avert it. However, now that it has come, it is bound to be a good thing. It will put more life and good sportsmanship in football in the East. Harvard, Yale and Princeton have been tied together too long in football. This break will force an enlargement of their playing schedules and may lead to the formation of a big ten in the East."

YALE TO TRY TO OIL WATERS.

Athletic Officials Refuse to Regard Breach as Permanent.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 11.—Yale will attempt to restore peace between Princeton and Harvard and will try to keep the triple alliance intact. The Yale athletic officials refuse to regard last night's announced break between the Crimson and the Tiger as permanent. They insist that the best interests of American intercollegiate sport of the future call for permanent friendly relations between the three universities, whose athletic background they regard as broader and whose athletics they point out are older than those of all other American rivals.

What may prove to be the first step in a reconciliation between Princeton and Harvard was taken by The Harvard Lampoon today when it sent an apology to Princeton which was published in The Yale Daily News.

The News said today that "a rapprochement between Princeton and Harvard seems inevitable, and we anticipate the renewal of friendship which time alone can yield. We feel that it will be to Yale's interest to remain out of the argument and to make no attempt to lay the blame on either institution."

This is the official Yale position. Dean Clarence W. Mendell of the Academic Department, who was Chairman of the Athletic Board of Control from 1919 to 1925, elaborated today this statement of regret at Princeton's action which he expressed last night, pointing out the unfortunate condition in American intercollegiate sport which has been created by Princeton's action. He said: "I am extremely disappointed to hear that the relations have actually been severed."

"I had hoped," he said, "that matters could be kept patched together somehow until the end of the season, when we might have had a wholesale refurbishing and reconstruction. It looks as though that were now out of the question, and, worse than that, it looks as though even if a conference had been arranged it would have done no good.

"The real tragedy of the matter, to my mind, is the loss of a strong working basis for the introduction of new plans, of benefit to the athletics of the East. Yale's status is, of course, unchanged, and the games will be exactly what they have always been. But now we have to plan separately with each institution, and where we had a strong, central unit, opposing all that is for the best of college sports, we are split and facing a situation that will make it much more difficult to introduce the changes and improvements that suggest themselves.

"This unity was the real and very definite value of the Big Three, and it is this that I fear for, now that Princeton and Harvard are apparently to cease athletic cooperation."

Speculation as to future university combinations which will result if the Harvard-Princeton break becomes permanent was common on the Yale campus. It was recalled that, after the football season last Fall, Harvard proposed that football games be limited to three or four a season, Harvard meeting either Yale alone or possibly Yale and Princeton, with one minor opponent. Yale declined, through The Yale Daily Newe, to enter such a combination. A view which has gained some credence at Yale is that Princeton may try to form an Eastern football conference. In this event, Yale's course could not be forecast.

A strong alumni sentiment leans toward a dual league with Harvard permanently in all branches of sport. Others have favored for several years an Eastern conference similar to that which has flourished in the Middle West for a quarter century.

CALLS THE LAMPOON 'HONEST.'

Columbia Spectator Thinks Break May Cut 'Overemphasis on Football'

The leading editorial in this morning's issue of The Spectator, the campus newspaper of Columbia University, attacks the officials of both Princeton and Harvard for letting the bad feeling between the universities rise to the point where relations were severed, and excuses The Harvard Lampoon saying that the magazine was "tactless, but honest." The Spectator says that the incident may be valuable in reducing "the overemphasis on football.' The editorial says:

"The expected crash has come. The Big Three has been reduced to two. Princeton has definitely severed all athletic relations with Harvard. When we consider the many quarrels the two have had recently, it is not at all surprising that such action should come as a climax.

"What is surprising is that the officials of the two institutions should let matters slide until such concrete expression of ill-feeling materializes. The Harvard Lampoon was first in crystallizing the undergraduate opinion, and now it must take a large part of the blame. This is the disgusting feature of the whole affair. The Lampoon was tactless, it is true, but it was honest. The officials knew of the strong feeling a long time ago, but rather than call things off before actual warfare started, they preferred to wait for some open evidence of hostility.

"As a result, The Lampoon, because it said what the officials were afraid to say, has become known as a publication run by irresponsible students. Irresponsible indeed! But responsible enough to serve as an excuse for breaking up the Big Three."

PENN-TIGER GAME RUMORED.

Quakers' Schedule Nearly Full, but Columbia Contract Is Unsigned.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 11.—Talk of a Pennsylvania football game with either Princeton or Harvard was revived here today following the break of the Tigers and the Crimson.

Pennsylvania already booked three November games for 1927, including Columbia and Cornell, but there is no contract signed for the former. The Cornell game is a Thanksgiving Day fixture.

Graduate Manager Ernest B. Cozens said today: "We regret the break in the 'Big Three,' our schedule is almost completed for next year, and just at this time I could not say if we will make any official overtures to play either Princeton or Harvard. So far we have received no offers from either."

"I cannot say that negotiations will be started for a game," said Sydney E. Hutchinson, Chairman of the Council of Athletics. "But we are always ready to meet teams who come up to our athletic standards."

Head Coach Lou Young said personally he would like to see a game between Princeton and Pennsylvania, but that the task of arranging such a meeting lay solely with the Football Committee. "I believe Princeton and Pennsylvania are natural and geographical rivals," he added.

SMILES ON COLLEGE EDITORS.

DETROIT, Nov. 11 (AP).—The sophisticated and cynical literary efforts of undergraduate editors on student publications are merely the result of "intellectual measles" and are not to be viewed with alarm, Dr. James R. Angell, President of Yale University, declared in an address here tonight. It is just a natural feature of their mental development, he said.

"Today's collegian, as a general rule," President Angell said, "is a pretty good kid. Of course, he makes his mistakes, and a few step over the lines of decency and focus attention upon the thousands who are normally studious," he said. "But in the main, the young man in collags today can be trusted to conduct himself as a gentleman should."

9 CHILDREN WOUNDED BY HUNTERS' BULLETS

Shots Spray Ground Where 100 Children Are at Play—Boy Kills Cousin in an Accident.

WOODBRIDGE, N. J., Nov. 11.—Stray bullets from the guns of a hunting party sprayed into the playgrouod of the Avenel School this afternoon, where more than 100 children were playing, and injured nine boys. Although none was seriously hurt, the wild shots from the field, which is said to be greatly favored by hunters, caused great excitement. The police will station guards there tomorrow to protect the school children by warning hunters.

The wounded children were treated by the school nurses and all were able to go home.

CAMDEN, N. J., Nov. 11 (AP).—After accidentally shooting and killing his cousin, Howard Hoffman, 13 years old, of Lucaston, Arthur Mench, 16, of Camden, today carried the body a half-mile through the woods to Lucaston station to summon aid.

Almost exhausted by the task, young Mench collapsed when he learned that Howard was dead. A load of shot had torn a hole in the boy's chest and physicians said he had died instantly. The boys had been hunting and had just started home when the accident occurred. Corner Murray issued a certificate of accidental death.

JAMESBURG, N. J., Nov. 11 (AP).—Charles Sonelofski, 37 years old, was killed late yesterday when his shotgun was discharged as he threw it into the rear of a truck before jumping on board. He and Tony Carueo, both residents of Jamesburg, were returning from a day of hunting in the Woode near here.

Sonelofski's death is the first fatality in this vicinity of the hunting season, which opened yesterday. Elbert Tice, also of Jamesburg, was accidentally shot in the face with his own gun yesterday, but was not seriously hurt.

Bequest in Will of Mrs. Rogers, Who Fell From Hotel Window Here.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Nov. 11 (AP).—Mrs. Elizabeth Clark Rogers, of Brookline, Mass., who was killed in a fall or leap from the window of a room on the fifteenth floor of a New York hotel on Nov. 2, bequeathed approximately $300,000 to the Medical School of Harvard University, according to attorneys here who drew up her will a few days before her death. Mrs. Rogers was a native of this city, the daughter of the late Dr. Gardner C. Clark.

This will is to be probated in Boston within a week. The Old Colony Trust Company is executor. One bequest of $75,000 to Harvard is in memory of the parents of her late husband, I. Lathrop Rogers, at one time principal of a boys' school in New York. The other bequest is the residue of Mrs. Rogers's fortune, estimated at about $500,000, after certain beoafactions have been paid.

The sum of $50,000 is left in trust to the Niagara Falls Memorial Hospital in memory of Mrs. Rogers's father.

HELD ON GIRLS' CHARGES.

John Carroll, 19 years old, of 300 East 134th Street; William Stevens, 18, of 308 East 134th Street, and High Davis, 22, of 336 East 134th Street, were arraigned in the West Farms Court yesterday, charged with attacking two 16-year-old girls after taking them for an automobile ride to a remote part of the Bronx.

Carroll and Stevens, who, according to the police, confessed, were held in $3,000 bail each for the Grand Jury. Davis, who, the police said, had a criminal record, was held without bail for examination on Nov. 15, after he had requested an adjournment to obtain counsel.

The two girls said they had met the three young men in a moving-picture theatre in the Bronx.

AGREEMENT TO END LONG CLOAK STRIKE

and accepted this condition for fear of being discharged."

Win Right to Reorganize.

The right of "10 per cent. reorganization annually" was granted to the "inside" manufacturers on condition that they give thirty-two weeks pay or employment annually, but the employes in these shops already average thirty-seven weeks of work a year. Smaller manufacturers, employing thirty-five workers or less, may also have the right to discharge 10 per cent. of the personnel if they grant 32 weeks work or pay a year and do all their work on their own premises. The union sought to obtain the thirty-six weeks minimum guarantee a year, as against the average of twenty-six weeks work in sub-manufacturers' shops. No mention of a guarantee of thirty-six weeks appears in the new agreement.

Immediate granting of the forty-hour week, another important demand of the union, was put off for two years. The new contract is to be for three years, with the forty-two hours for two years and the forty-hour week the third year. As the cloak industry is seasonal, this concession is said to be largely academic, for when the season is at its height the operatives are glad to work longer than the present forty-four hours.

Another outstanding demand of the union was a limitation of the number of contractors allocated to each employer. This was aimed principally at the jobber, who has hitherto stubbornly resisted responsibility for the sub-manufacturers used by him. Under the new agreement those "inside" manufacturers who use sub-manufacturers agree to "limitation of contractors in principle" with the promise that they will do whatever the jobbers agree to do on this question.

Increase in Minimum Wages.

The union won an increase in minimum wage scales. The report of the Governor's Advisory Commission gave the cloakmakers increases of $2.50 to $6 a week in minimum scales and the "inside" manufacturers have accorded a rise of between $4 and $9 a week. A large part of the industry already is paid above the new minimum guarantees.

The strike was precipitated on July 1 when the Left wing union leaders led by Louis Hyman, Chairman of the Strike Committee, brought about a rejection of the report made by the Governor's Advisory Commission which investigated the industry for two years. The report provided for limitation of contractors, a union demand which does not appear in the new agreement, increase in minimum scales and the right to reorganize 10 per cent. of the shops. The Right wing leaders, led by President Morris Sigman of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union counseled acceptance of the report as a basis for negotiation.

The "inside" manufacturers accepted the report and so did the sub-manufacturers. The jobbers rejected the recommendations. As the strike continued it became apparent to the employers that it was a test of Left wing leadership as this was the first time the Communists in the union and their sympathizers had seized the reins of power. The employers took strategic advantage of the situation, insisting on arbitration, as proposed by Governor Smith, but the union refused.

Despite several attempts to settle the dispute by mediation no progress was made because the manufacturers also demanded the right of reorganization. The treasury of the union, which contained a $2,000,000 strike fund, was drained by the strike and appeals were made to other needle trade unions and the American Federation of Labor for support.

There were frequent clashes between the police and strikers as a result of mass picketing. These led to wholesale arrests, sometimes as many as 300 or 400 a day and finally the manufacturers obtained a drastic injunction preventing the union from picketing. The injunction was defied and the arrests continued. The American Civil Liberties Union became interested and a test case was instituted to carry the question of the right to picket to the Supreme Court.

The strike was ended largely by the mediatory efforts of Dr. Henry Moskowitz and A. E. Rothstein, a textile dealer. Both were present at the meeting in Mr. Ingersoll's office last night. The union was represented by Mr. Hyman, Mr. Sigman, Charles S. Zimmerman, Salvatore Ninfo, David Dubinsky, Joseph Boruchovich, Isidore Steinzor, Isidore Nagler, Isidore Goretzky, Louis Pincowsky and Joseph Fish. The manufacturers were represented by Henry H. Finder, President of the Industrial Council; George Jahlow, Max Meyer, William Fischman, Louis Lustig, D. Grossman, Samuel Klein, Morris Spreyregen and William Klein, counsel.

TEXTILE MILL YIELDS.

Passaic Worsted Spinning Company Reaches Agreement With Strikers.

Special to The New York Times.

PASSAIC, N. J., Nov. 11.—The first break in the line-up of manufacturers involved in the textile strike in this area came this afternoon when the Passaic Worsted Spinning Company settled the strike with its employes and recognied their right to organize. This is the first time in the history of Passaic that one of the larger industrial concerns has formally recognized the American Federation of Labor and has conceded to its workers the right to collective bargaining.

For several months the contentions of the strikers of all the mills have been centred on union recognition and the right of collective bargaining. It was recognized long ago, even before Albert Weisbord left and the American Federation took over the strike, that no immediate gains in wages or hours could be hoped for. A local of the United Textile Workers, with a separate charter, will now be organized within the Passaic Worsted Spinning Company. Its membership will probably be 1,604.

Workers Ratify Agreement.

The terms of settlement, agreed to yesterday afternoon by W. W. Gaunt, President of the company, and Vice President James Starr of the United Textile Workers of America, were accepted and ratified by the striking workers of the Passaic Worsted Company at a mass meeting this afternoon in Dudas Hall.

Under the agreement, full recognition is granted to the union and the right of collective bargaining is assured. There is to be no discrimination in taking on help from now on. The company, on the other hand, is assured that a closed shop will not be demanded and that in the event of future trouble the workers will remain at work pending arbitration by representatives of the mill and the union, supplemented by a third party acceptable to both.

The strike was virtually settled last Monday afternoon when Norman Midgley, general manager of the Passaic Worsted Spinning Company, went to City Hall and discussed matters with the Committee of Five, consisting of former Judge W. Carrington Cabell, Monsignor Thomas J. Kernan, the Rev. George H. Talbott, Mayor John H. McGuire and the Rev. Michael Sotak. Thomas F. McMahon, President, and James Starr, Vice President of the United Textile Workers, and representatives of the local press, were also there. Prior to that, Vice President Starr had talked with Messrs. Gaunt and Midgley.

The workers will return on Monday, it was announced. The mill will arrange to take in several hundred at a time, beginning with the wool sorters. It is expected that 700 will find employment in this plant.

SEES HARM IN HASTE TO USE STRIKE WRIT

Morris Hillquit, in an address on "Injunctions in Labor Disputes" before the Association of the Bar of the City of New York at the association's building, 42 West Forty-fourth Street, last night said that the bench and bar had a serious duty to perform in considering cases of injunctions in labor controversies.

"Aside from all considerations of equity," he said, "the frequent and indiscriminate use of the injunction in labor disputes directed against large masses of unnamed persons, and containing drastic, sometimes unenforceable demands, tend to bring the process of the court into disrepute. For the dignity of our courts, respect of our profession as well as in the interest of the impartial administration of justice, greater self-restraint and caution should be exercised in the application for and in the granting of this extraordinary writ in labor disputes."

Mr. Hillquit pointed out that the right to strike was not uniformly accepted as an absolute right, and that sometimes the workman had to prove that the purposes of the strike fell within the category sanctioned by the court. In a recent case, he said, the United States Supreme Court (Mishmash vs. Dorchy) enjoined a strike called for the purpose of enforcing the payment of back wages claimed to have been due a worker.

300 UTILITY EMPLOYES QUIT IN WESTCHESTER

Power House Not Affected by the Strike Said to Be Caused by Dismissal of Some Workers.

Three hundred workmen in the service departments of the Westchester Lighting Company, the Northern Westchester Lighting Company and the Yonkers Light and Power Company, representing about half the employes of those companies, which supply current to practically the entire county, went on strike yesterday.

All of the strikers were engaged in outside work. The power houses were not affected and service is being maintained without interruption. Since half the employes in the service departments of the three companies remained at work no difficulty has been experienced thus far in meeting emergency repair demands.

The strike is said to have been brought about through the dismissal of several employes who attempted to organize a union, after the companies had announced that emergency employes hired for the Summer months would soon be laid off. The workers affected by this order, it is said, decided to organize and by taking in all company employes compel the company to reconsider its decision to lay off the emergency men.

At the plants of the Westchester Lighting Company in Port Chester and Mount Vernon about eighty linemen and outside workers went on strike. W. G. Peterson, manager of the Mount Vernon plant, said he could give no reason for the walkout. "No one," he said, "has been dismissed for trying to organize the men." Police have been placed on guard around the Mount Vernon plant which serves as the central distributing plant for the company and from which most of the main feeder lines are supplied. Outside of a social union maintained by the company employes of the Westchester Lighting Company belong to no union.

"Why don't you make shoes for us?"

A big strapping fellow asked this accusing question of one of Douglas' store managers.

"All the shoe advertising I read," he said, "talks style, style, style—and shows the kind of lasts the big executives and college boys are wearing. I'm not an executive or a college boy. My work keeps me out-doors, on my feet, most of the time. I'm not so fussy about style as I am about hard wear, storm protection and comfort. Why don't you high-grade manufacturers make a pair of shoes for me?"

That set us thinking. We decided to tell our out-door friends about our

"... even for lazy people"

Sometimes even nice people are lazy—

Particularly, we're lazy when it comes to the little things of life.

Maybe a broken shoe-string that we neglect to replace for days and simply tie together. Or a button that should have been sewed on weeks ago. Or even that visit to the dentist's which is so much more important than most folks realize.

Many of these little personal neglects may be forgivable but not so when they touch some small important thing.

Take tooth brushing for example — this most important job is often neglected by many of us.

Realizing the truth of this, we set out deliberately to formulate a dentifrice that would furnish the easiest, quickest way to clean teeth. In short, a tooth paste efficient even in the hands of lazy people—for in tooth brushing, at least, the word lazy applies to so many of us.

Listerine Tooth Paste is really very easy to use. It works fast. With just a minimum of brushing your teeth feel clean — and actually are clean.

You have the job done almost before you know it.

This is on account of the way Listerine Tooth Paste is made. It contains a specially prepared cleansing ingredient — entirely harmless to enamel* — plus the antiseptic essential oils that have made Listerine famous.

And how fine your mouth feels after this kind of a brushing! Then, besides, you know your teeth are really clean — and therefore safe from decay.

LAMBERT PHARMACAL CO., ST. LOUIS, U. S. A.

* The specially prepared cleansing medium (according to tests based upon the scale of hardness scientists employ in studying mineral substances) is much softer than tooth enamel. Therefore, it cannot scratch or injure the enamel . . . At the same time it is harder than the tartar which accumulates and starts tooth decay.

SAYS STEAMFITTERS LIMIT UNION CARDS

Contractor Charges Artificial Shortage of Workers Causes Increased Building Cost.

BOARD ISSUES SUBPOENAS

Changes in Workmen's Compensation Law Are Urged at State Industrial Survey Hearing.

Evidence placed before the State Industrial Survey Commission yesterday by Henry B. Gombers, Secretary of the Heating and Piping Contractors' National Association, indicated that organized steamfitters in New York have closed their membership to all but a few favored candidates and that capable men are obliged to go without work as a result. This artificial tightening of the ranks, he said, had delayed and increased the cost of building construction.

Mr. Gombers's statements being in direct contradiction to the testimony of union representatives at Wednesday's hearing, Jasper W. Cornaire, Chairman of the commission, instructed the Secretary, Henry D. Sayer, to subpoena officers of the unions of steamfitters and their helpers to testify at a later meeting, at which Mr. Gombers also will testify. Merwin K. Hart of Utica, who represents employers on the commission, suggested that the unions be required to furnish lists of their membership. No action was taken.

Board Has Broad Powers.

"This commission has broad powers," said Mr. Hart. "We have been told that contractors cannot obtain help because unions will not allow men to join their ranks even when competent. The shortags thus created has added to building costs and thus to the cost of living. Our job is to ascertain methods of lowering the cost of living. In contrast to these charges we have been told that any one capable of doing the work can be a union man and obtain employment. It is vital that we let some light in on the situation and learn just who is telling the truth and who is not."

Emanuel Koveleski, Vice President of the State Federation of Labor and representing labor on the commission, said that the commission had no right to look into the books of any union. "We are not supposed to be umpires in the troubles of unions and employers," he said.

Mr. Gombers said that employers repeatedly had sent candidates to the unions and expressed willingness to hire them if accepted, and that the proportion of these accepted was extremely small. "Two of twenty-seven presented in the last five months were accepted," he said. "They are competent or the contractors would not offer to hire them. Still, men are accepted into the ranks through influence, when their experience is limited to driving a bakery wagon."

Discusses Compensation Law.

John L. Train of Utica, General Manager of the Utica Mutual Insurance Company and for nine years in the State Insurance Department, testified that stock insurance companies in the State in the last three years lost $14,000,000 in handling workmen's compensation insurance. Mutual companies and the State Fund, under which this insurance also is handled, have made slight profits, he said. The cost to stock companies of brokers' commissions and of taxes explained the difference. Mr. Train discussed workmen's compensation in all its phases, in four hours of testimony, for possible suggestions of changes in the law by the commission when it reports to the Legislature.

Mr. Train termed the New York law the most liberal of its kind in any State or nation. Discussing possible changes in the law, he suggested that ons specialist appear when a referee is deciding the extent of injuries, rather than doctors representing both the employe and the insurance company. He opposed the suggestion favored by Governor Smith, that appeal from a referee be made either to the State Industrial Board or to the Supreme Court, but not to both.

MAKES AIR BRAKES SAFER.

The adoption of safety measures to eliminate any possibility of air brakes becoming inoperative was announced yesterday by the Pennsylvania Railroad. General orders have been issued dispensing with the device known as "angle cocks," hitherto required as a necessary part of the air brake equipment on passenger trains.

Large capacity air pumps are now used on the locomotives which make it possible at all times to restore the air pressure to the proper degree, without delay, through the whole length of the train.

Estimate Board Aims to Clear Bridge Approaches of Obstacles to Traffic.

ACTS ON BOULEVARD PLAN

Provides for Relocation of Tracks So That Work May Go Forward.

Definite action was taken yesterday by the Board of Estimate to relieve the vehicular traffic congestion at the Queens approaches to the Queensboro Bridge, which is one of the most congested areas in the metropolitan district.

The board also authorized the relocation of the surface car tracks on the line of the new Queens Boulevard, delay in which, because of controversy with the street car company, has seriously impeded the advancement of that thoroughfare toward completion from Long Island City through to Jamaica.

The changes authorized to be made at the Queens terminal of the bridge are as follows:

Relocation of the trolley tracks leading from Jackson Avenue and to the diagonal street at the easterly end of the bridge plaza, together with the discontinuance of two of the unused loop tracks and the removal of the waiting room.

Widening of the roadway at North Jane Street and South Jane Street, from thirty-five feet to forty-five feet, through the two blocks between Crescent Street and Radde Street.

Discontinuance of all of the malls in the bridge plaza between Radde Street and Jackson Avenue and the paving of these areas.

Grading of the block bounded by Ely Avenue, South Jane Street, Sunswick Street and North Jane Street, under the Queensboro Bridge, to permit of its use as a parking space.

As the first step in the financing of the improvement, the board appropriated $136,000 for the removal of obstructions at the Long Island end of the bridge and clearing the approaches. Borough President Maurice E. Connolly of Queens was authorized by the board to let the contract for the relocation of the street car tracks on Queens Boulevard.

Improvement of the Manhattan approach of the Queensboro Bridge under the plan launched by Borough President Julius Miller of Manhattan was discussed also. This plan calls for the depression of Second Avenue, so that bridge traffic will pass above the north and southbound street car lines at that point.

New Jersey Epizootic Is Checked.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 11.—The State Department of Agriculture announced today that its quarantine measures had resulted in checking the epizootic, similar to the hoof-and-mouth disease, that developed a few weeks ago among horses and cattle in Sussex County. No new cases have been reported, and efforts are now being directed to the cure of the 300 animals affected at the outbreak of the malady, all said to be recovering.

GANG BURN 2 NEGROES, KILL THIRD IN TEXAS

Slaying of White Man, of Which Victims Were Innocent, Is Seen as Motive.

HOUSTON, Texas, Nov. 11 (AP).—The Texas prairies were combed tonight for seven men dressed as cowboys, sought as the slayers of three negroes who met a violent death here late last night as the victims of an inflamed revenge.

The bodies were found today at an isolated spot near the county line, twenty-five miles from here. Two of the victims, one a woman, were burned to death when the demand of their attackers that they leave their cabin went unheeded. Riddling the burning wooden building with bullets, the attackers emptied their pistols and fled.

Surrounding the house under cover of darkness, the attackers shot their first victim, Scott Evans, 50, negro ranch foreman, when he responded to a call at the door. Wounded, he tried to run. One of the gangsters crushed his head with a heavy instrument.

Robert Brown, who occupied the cabin with his wife and Evans, failed to heed demands that they leave their home to face probable death at the point of guns. Both he and his wife died in the flaming cabin, which was set afire from end to end.

No clue to their identity was left by the attackers, but authorities tonight expressed the belief that the killings were meant as revenge for the slaying of Wallace Crowder, a white man, near here recently.

The slain negroes, however, were not directly connected with the white man's death.

Poor Lighting Reduces Output

TESTS have shown that poor lighting can reduce output by as much as 20%. A working light should be correct in quality as well as intensity.

Nature made daylight for eyes. That's why every Emeralite has a special screen that changes ordinary electric light into soft, eye-saving daylite—ideal for reading or working.

Genuine Emeralites are branded for your protection, and have the Daylite Screen. Buy them by name.

Here's your chance to get back some of the money
you spent last winter for high-priced fuel!
The bucket test proves it!

Is your heating boiler in this condition? For the sake of your pocketbook, make the bucket-test—to-day!

WHEN you get home tonight—make the bucket test! Go down cellar and draw a half bucket of water from the draincock at the bottom of your boiler—note the amount of sediment, rust and dirt that flows out with the water.

Unless the water runs clear, your heating system needs a dose of W. J. Boiler and Heating System Cleanser—and needs it badly; for mud, rust, oil and scale in your boiler mean less heat for you and more money for the coal man.

It makes little difference whether your heating system is old or new—W.J. will improve its efficiency and help you reduce your fuel bill. Every steam-heating system that has been used more than a year or two contains rust and sediment in the piping, which interferes with the flow of steam; and a coating of scale on the inside of the boiler—even 1/8 inch of scale means at least 25% more coal burned for the same amount of heat delivered to your radiators.

If your heating system is new, the inside of boiler, pipes, valves and radiators is coated with a greasy deposit. The pipes themselves are dipped in oil when they are made; and the steamfitter uses oil when assembling them—this means an oily, heat-retarding film that wastes coal. If you expect to cut your cost of heating, you must remove this film.

W. J. will take the impurities out of your heating system

YOU don't expect your own body to function properly if clogged with the poisons of indigestion or disease—neither can you expect your heating system to give you the healthful comfort it was designed to give if the boiler, piping and radiators are clogged with rust, scale and oil.

W.J. Boiler and Heating System Cleanser quickly, safely, and easily removes all these impurities. It is the result of ten years of tireless test and research, and should not be confused with soda and other injurious alkalis and acids which act only in the boiler. W.J. contains certain ingredients which vaporize in the boiler and circulate throughout the entire heating system with the steam—dissolving rust, scale, grease and oil, which drain back into the boiler, where they can easily be drawn off.

A day or two after putting W.J. into your boiler, make the bucket test again. You'll be astonished at the improvement in your heating system; proof that your boiler is clean and ready to give you a winter of comfortable, economical heating. Rooms that you could never heat before will be warm and cozy—your fuel bills will give you an agreeable surprise!

Results must satisfy you—If not, your money back!

W.J. is unconditionally guaranteed to be free from any and all ingredients harmful to metal—you can put it into your boiler with perfect confidence that it will not damage your heating system.

If a treatment with W.J. Boiler and Heating System Cleanser does not improve the action of your heating system and decrease your consumption of fuel, all you have to do is to tell us—your money will be promptly and cheerfully refunded.

JEWISH RELIEF FUND GOES TO $2,035,783

Large Subscriptions Received From Mrs. D. A. Schulte and Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Straus.

TRADE DIVISIONS REPORT

Gifts Totaling $315,791 Announced at Second Rally in the Drive for $4,700,000.

Contributions amounting to $315,791 were announced at the second report rally yesterday afternoon at the Hotel Pennsylvania in the tenth anniversary $4,700,000 campaign of the Federation for the Support of Jewish Philanthropic Societies. The total subscriptions todate are $2,035,783.

Among the larger subscriptions announced was $10,000 by the estate of Charles Hirshon. Mr. Hirshon at the time of his death was Vice President of the federation and a leader in Jewish communal affairs.

Other large sums included $15,000 from Mrs. David A. Schulte, $15,000 given by the Beaumont Investment Trust, $10,000 from Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Isidor Straus, $6,500 from Morris White, $5,000 from Solon E. Summerfield, $4,000 from Moses Newborg and $3,000 from Mr. and Mrs. Frank Altschul.

William Goldman, Chairman of the Executive Committee, presided at the meeting of the Business Men's Council. Solomon Lowenstein, executive director, again emphasized the importance of democratizing federation.

The women's rally began at 4 o'clock, with Mrs. Sidney C. Borg presiding. The feature of the program was the playing of Gerald M. Warburg's string quartet. Piano selections were given by Rosalie Miller.

There will be another rally of workers next Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Hotel Pennsylvania. Subscriptions announced yesterday, arranged by their various trade groups, were as follows:

RAISES $100,000 AT DINNER.

A fund of more than $100,000 was raised in subscriptions of those in attendance at the dinner and ball given last night at the Hotel Astor by the Brooklyn Federation of Jewish Charities. The fund represented a reservation charge of $50 each for the 2,000 guests.

Mayor Walker arrived while the ball was in progress. He spoke briefly in appreciation of the work of the federation.

The dinner was preceded by a reception to the five former Presidents of the Brooklyn Federation, Justice Edward Lazansky, Judge-elect Alexander H. Geismar, Benjamin H. Namm, Aaron William Levy and Nathan S Jonas.

Mr. Namm acted as toastmaster. The invocation was by Rabbi Harry Wise and Rabbi Alexander H. Lyons delivered his benediction.

Supreme Court Justice Mitchell May, President of the federation, in his address, dwelt on the significance of Armistice Day, and urged the cessation of selfish striving by individuals who care only for their own achievement and give no thought to charity.

Jack Gumpert, Vice President of the federation and Chairman of the drive of the organization to raise an insured income of $1,000,000, also spoke. The grand march preceding the ball was led by Borough President James J. Byrne and Mrs. Alexander H. Geismar. The Brooklyn Hebrew Orphan Asylum Band appeared in the program of entertainment.

FIGHT TO PROTECT CHRISTMAS SEALS

HEARING SET FOR MONDAY

Move to Stop Sales by Defendant Is Supported by Health and Welfare Commissioners.

Supported by Health Commissioner Louis I. Harris and Public Welfare Commissioner Bird S. Coler, the National Tuberculosis Association and the New York Tuberculosis and Health Association moved in the Supreme Court yesterday to end an imitative Christmas sale of seal stamps by a newly organized stock corporation.

The plaintiff societies, which have for years sold Christmas stampe as one of the principal methods of raising money to carry on charitable work against tuberculosis, aim their action at the Association for the Relief of Tubercular Patients, Inc., of 1 Madison Avenue. This organization, according to the complaint, was incorporated on June 30 last with $20,000 capital and prior to Sept. 22 stockholders had invested $1,500 in it.

Through an order to show cause signed by Justice Isidor Wasservogel, the relief association will be required to explain next Monday why an injunction should not be granted restraining it not only from using in any form the trade-marked cross of the original tuberculosis associations on its papers, but from adopting the seal sale method of raising funds, using the word "association" in conjunction with the word "tuberculosis" or "tubercular" in its title. It was said the Court also will be asked to appoint a receiver to take over for the plaintiffs all donations raised by the Relief Association.

The New York Tuberculosis and Health Association is affiliated with the National Tuberculosis Association. The national society began work in 1904, and the New York chapter, under another name, began in 1902. A year after it started work the national organization adopted the double-barred cross as a trade-mark. It began the sale of Christmas seals with the Red Cross, which withdrew from the enterprise, in 1910. In 1925, the compiaint says, $4,879,000 was raised in this way. Largely through these sales institutions for tuberculosis treatment worth $100,000,000 have been built and maintained by the national society, its affiliated State associations and 1,300 community committees.

It is charged that the Relief Association was incorporated to "carry on the business of hotelkeepers and to maintain, either as principal or by contract with others, a place for boarding guests."

The new association, the complaint says, immediately began a widespread seal-selling campaign, appealing for funds. It collected $3,163 from July 9 to Sept. 22, the plaintiffs say, but its actual work has consisted of the "care of two patients afflicted with tuberculosis, for the support of whom the amount of $152.25 was expended" from the incorporation date to Oct. 1.

Dr. Harris filed with the complaint an affidavit asking the support of the Court for the complaining organizations and the curtailing of "interference on the part of business corporations or others seekings profits." Mr. Coler in another affidavit declared that the city institutions and sanatoria were qualified to care for all tubercular patients. Lee K. Frankel, President of the National Health Council; George F. Canfield, President of the State Charities Aid Association, and the directors of the plaintiff societies also filed statements.

FLORIDA HOTELS

Florida has greatly increased its hotel accommodations. Many are of magnificent appointments, others are more modest.

There are many apartments, bungalows, furnished houses, cottages and places where rooms are obtainable. There are restaurants, tea rooms, and cafeterias in great variety. Sea foods, fresh fruits and vegetables abound.

The Seaboard Air Line Railway has no hotels to feature. It serves directly approximately 85% of Florida's hotels. Every assurance is given by the Florida State Hotel Men's Association, representing 95% of Florida hotel interests, and by Chambers of Commerce, that rates as advertised for this season will be stable and reasonable. The Seaboard has issued a booklet showing the Florida hotel rates. It is available at all Seaboard offices or will be mailed on request.

Lancaster—Singer.

Miss Elizabeth Singer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mortimer Merritt Singer, was married to Herbert de Rieux Lancaster yesterday afternoon in St. Thomas's Church. The Right Rev. Ernest M. Stires, who married the bride's mother in the same church, and also the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Douglas Taylor, performed the ceremony in the presence of many relatives and friends. A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents.

The bride wore a gown of white moire, embroidered with seed pearls, that had a court train of the same material. The veil of tulle was fastened with a cap of old lace and a bandeau of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of lillies of the valley and white sweet peas. Miss Catherine Singer, who was maid of honor for her sister, wore a chiffon frock in two shades of yellow and a picture hat of bronze colored velvet and lace. Her bouquet was of chrysanthemums in Autumn shades.

The other bridal attendants were Miss Eleanor Lancaster of Quebec, sister of the bridegroom; Mrs. Stephen J. Little, the Misses Ruth Archibald, Anne Planten Gaillard of New York; Katherine S. Miller of Orange and Dorothy Reid of Jamaica. They wore frocks of chiffon in Autumn colors and picture hats trimmed with brown lace. Their bouquets were of Autumn flowers.

Conklin—Murray.

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Katherins Murray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Murray of 1,649 Amsterdam Avenue, to Charles J. Conklin, Deputy Commissioner of Motor Vehicles in New York State, son of Mrs. Agnes E. Conklin of 408 West 123th Street, took place yesterday morning in the Church of Our Lady of Lourdes, 142d Street and Convent Avenue. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Joseph A. McMann, rector of the church.

Miss Ella Corbett was maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Miss Belle Nestor and Miss Elizabeth Hannigan. Joseph J. Boag, chief accountant of the Department of Accounts, was best man. The ushers were Frank X. Conklin, brother of the bridegroom; Joseph O. Buchanan, William C. McNally and Percy C. Hunt.

Among those who attended the ceremony and the wedding breakfast that followed at the Astor were Charles A. Harnett, State Commissionar of Motor Vehicles; Martin J. Healey, Deputy Commissioner of the Department of Plant and Structures; Frank W. Smith, Chief Clerk of the Court of Special Sessions; Walter A. Lynch, Chairman of the New York Chapter of the Knights of Columbus, and Mrs. Joyce Bushell.

Grasbof—Shinn.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Shinn, daughter of Mrs. August Emile Gautier, was married yesterday to Charles Henry Grasbof Jr., in the presence of relatives and a few friends at the home of her mother, 1,049 Park Avenue. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Robert Norwood of St. Bartholomew's Church.

John Van Ness Moore of Cape Charles, Va., gave his niece in marriage. Her gown was of tan georgette embroidered in coral and she carried an old-fashioned bouquet. There were no bridal attendants. E. Clinton Longwell of Philadelphia was best man.

Ward—Crabbe.

Miss Elizabeth Pitcairn Crabbe, daughter of Mrs. Victor Lee Crabbe of Pittsburgh and 540 Park Avenue, was married on Wednesday to Thomas Ward, a lawyer of this city, in the Church of the Transfiguration. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William L. Phillips.

Edmond E. Hunt of Memphis, Tenn., gave his sister-in-law in marriage and Mrs. Hunt was the only bridal attendant. Thomas Allen Rector was best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward have left on a wedding trip. When they return they will make their home in New York.

Towle—Hewitt.

Miss Grace Roselie Hewitt was married to Walter V. Towle of New Preston, Conn., and Daytona Beach, Fla., yesterday in the Church of the Transfiguration. The Rev. William L. Phillips performed the ceremony, which was followed by a luncheon at the Waldorf-Astoria. Mr. and Mrs. Towle left for Daytona Beach by motor.

THE PLAY

By J. BROOKS ATKINSON.

Wanton Wiles.

Manuella	Mary Fowler
Pedro	Hugh Kidder
Dona Paca	Ida Mulle
Finito	Romney Brent
Antita	Dorothy Stickney
Juan Mendez	Horace Braham
Padre Molino	Charles R. Burrows
Don Diero	Henry O'Neill
Dolores Mendes	Blanche Yurka
Jose Mendes	Lee Baker
Nubi	Suzanne Caubet
El Moro	Ali Yousuff

In Granada also wanton wenches perpetrate their perfidious wiles, if one is to believe Jean Bart's play, "The Squall," enacted at the Forty-eighth Street Theatre, with Blanche Yurka lending beauty in the major rôle. As the program points ont in a frigid conplet by Alexander Pope—

On life's vast ocean diversely we sail,
Reason the card, but passion is the gale.

In the person of a rude gypsy girl, with no mother to guide her, passion disrupts the quiet home of José Mendez in the village of Quejano, near Granada. In this meretricious drama, one of an old, old lineage, the vile protagonist is Nnbi, so pitiably untutored in the civilized tongue that she speaks even of herself in the third person, as, "Nubi she be free"—(Nubi to rhyme with heeble-jeebie). While a sudden squall roars and weeps outside, with heavy reverberations of thunder, she seeks protection at the Mendez home, where Señor and Señorita are celebrating twenty-five years of a happy marriage. Several months later this exotic strumpet, with her savage ways, her soft steps and cajoling smiles, steals the servant's fiancé, seduces the Mendez son and clings lovingly to Mendez senior. With her "wanton wiles, moda and becks and wreathed smiles," with her passion for silks and bangles, like the incorrigible half-caste trollop of "White Cargo," Nubi, "with lips so red," fouls the pure air of a God-fearing household and soils the memories of a devoted middle-aged couple. Before she is cast out into the fields with her own people nnbie Nnbi causes nearly every crime except arson. When at last her gypsy man comes back for her, cracking his cruel whip and dragging her around the stage masterfully by the hair of her head, every one on the audience sits back with a sigh of sweet relief. Such women make a terror of theatre-going in these days of scarlet candor.

The factitious treatment of Nubi rather throws out of focus the finer elements of the play and the superior acting of Miss Yurka as the mother, Mr. Baker as the father and Mr. Braham as the son. Although the relationships of these Spanish characters want the profound understanding of folk drama, of "The Passion Flower," for example, the actors invest their parts with tenderness and sympathy. Miss Yurka gives a particularly lustrous performance. As the forbearing mother who knows what is going on, but who is powerless withal, she plays with all the contrasting restraint and abandon of which she is capable. Miss Yurka is an actress of varied expression. The timbre of her voice conveys subtle qualities of emotion; while it is expressing love it suggests also the ominous pursuit of demoniac fates. She combined these two qualities in the half-sombre expression on her face and the patient poise of her figure as she moves about the stage. Although she plays generally with restraint, sometimes she releases all her conflicting emotions. Just at the second act curtain she has such an opportunity in "The Squall." After sending Nnbi to her room this mother falls in anguish before the altar of the Virgin with its lighted candle and prays for strength to save her from herself. Miss Yurka makes that incident a passionate one, powerful in its control of the acting medium. In short, Miss Yurka deserves a play commensurate with her ability. She has not had a good part since "The Wild Duck."

With such acting as hers, and that of Messrs. Baker and Braham, "The Squall" has its moments despite the commonness of its fable. When this heart-broken mother tries to convince her husband of the dangers of the domestic situation, or when she tries to win the confidence of her faltering son, the scenes are far more profound than the play. Mr. Baker acts the father from the inside. Mr. Braham communicates sincerely the torment of a good son who is for the moment beyond himself. Miss Stickney is appealing as Anita. In an extraneous comedy part of an adolescent, Mr. Brent is amusing. Miss Caubet portrays Nubi as the part requires.

Far from subtle in its plot conception the play surrounds the occasional deep-bitten scenes with all the usual bravura of large-scale betrayal and incidents now thoroughly tarnished after long use in the theatre. "The Squall" is agreeably set with scenery designed by William Castle. The storm effects in the first and second acts are elaborate—and noticeable. While the thunderstorm is devastating the universe in general outside the door the play very nearly flies out of the window.

INTERRUPTS GISH FILM.

Hyde Park Police Inspector's Action to Come Up in Parliament.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—An interrupted attempt to film a scene in Hyde Park with Miss Dorotby Gish as its central figure will form the subject of a question to be asked in the British Parliament on Monday.

Colonel Harry Day will ask why "Miss Dorothy Gish, actress, was ordered out of Hyde Park while being photographed for a British film."

It is understood that a scene in the new photoplay, "London," demanded that Miss Gish should stand against the railings of Rotten Row watching people cantering on horseback along that famous driveway. A Government permit was obtained for making the film.

A woman described as "a dowager with a dachsbund," complained to a Police Inspector, however, that two wire-haired terriers held in a leash by Miss Gish had sought to attack ber dachshund and the Inspector—asked the film party to leave the park.

Piano Recital By Naegele.

Charles Naegele, pianist, played in Aeolian Hall last night to an audience whose numbers spoke well for a young artist's ardnous years in the musical life of New York. He played, too, prime old harpsichord pieces by rare John Bull and Purcell, Campra, Aubert, Handel and two Bachs. The greater Bach's D-minor toccata and fugue seemed by comparison overweighted with Tausig's arranging for modern piano technique. Mr. Naegele gave a place of honor to the Schumann "Fantasy," beloved of pianists, and closed his program with melodious arrangements from Dohanyi, Liszt and Grainger.

MUSIC NOTES.

Percival Price, carillioneur of the Rockefeller memorial chimes of the Park Avenue Baptist Church, will broadcast Chopin's funeral march on the bells Sunday evening as an observance of Armistice Week, in memory of American soldiers in the great war.

Lassio Schwartz, in charge of concerts and lectures at the Educational Alliance, announces a program there on Sunday evening by Izelle Phenice, soprano; Elsie Lyon, contralto, and Bernard Mitchel, tenor.

Sigmund Spaeth is to give three lecture recitals at the Brooklyn Institute on Friday afternoons, Nov. 19 and 26 and Dec. 3, on the folk-music of America, from spirituals to jazz.

MUSIC

By OLIN DOWNES.

Schelling Conducts "Victory Ball."

In observance of Armistice Day the New York Philharmonic Society opened its concert last night in Carnegie Hall with Ernest Schelling's orchestral rhapsody, "The Victory Ball," conducted by the composer. For once a piece of music performed as a commemoration was more than perfunctory ceremony. Mr. Schelling's singularly dramatic composition stirred the audience, and with good reason. The music has a certain ruthless excitement and a bitter irony. When Mr. Schelling composed it he had been in the war. He had known its horrors, sacrifices, catastrophes. Returning he was appalled by the flippancy and selfishness of those in safe places. In this mood he read Alfred Noyes's poem. It gave shape to his imagination. From the sheerly musical standpoint, or on the grounds of esthetics, his composition could be criticized, but as an evocation of vision and mood, as a reminder of what is not to be forgotten, it has extraordinary power.

As in Noyes's poem, the living prance and wriggle to the fox-trot. The invisible dead watch them, with bitter jibes. For this they lived and died. The orchestra becomes as a fiery scroll. There is heard the tread of the doomed, inexorably advancing. Their steps thud nearer and nearer to the trumpet calls of war and recede again in the distance, while the "Dies irae" thunders forth with all of its inexplicable majesty. The dance is resumed, more flippantly, more recklessly than ever, but it cannot silence the shirling of pipes, the wildest of all music, played by the Scots as they went into battle. The simplest and most impressive effect of all comes at the end—the sudden silence—the distant sound of taps. Mr. Schelling's "Victory Ball" is now familiar, but it is not heard as an anti-climax or a mere repetition of an accustomed experience. There is no resisting its frankly melodramatic methods, its intense feeling, its gripping sincerity.

The program proper consisted of three orchestral preludes from Hans Pfitzner's opera "Palestrina," so lacking in originality and creative quality that there is no particular reason to discuss them; Rachmaninoff's C minor piano concerto, played by Gitta Gradova, and Richard Strauss's "Don Quixote," interpreted by Mr. Mengelberg with special care and devotion. Miss Gradova's performance showed her musical talent, her instinct for virtuosity, most fortunately displayed in the last movement. The future should hold good things for her; at present the Rachmaninoff second concerto, with its heavy and sometimes thick orchestration, is a little too much for her experience and the sheer strength of her fingers. More tone, more breadth and sweep are needed to do complete justness to a virtuoso piece that has certain stretches of dark Rachmaninovian color, but is after all modeled on the rather extinct type of the concertos of Rubinstein. This work mightily needs furbishing when it is played, and commanding individuality on the part of the interpreter. Miss Gradova, despite some immaturities, was warmly and lengthily applauded.

"Don Quixote" is one of Strauss's compositions which bears its years the best and is strikingly prophetic of the practices of young German contrapuntists of today. The introduction contains enough meat in the form of free harmonic and linear development to build a modern cuit upon. Strauss, however, uses these effects for an expressive purpose, and the truth of this is shown by the manner in which "Quixote," with all its orchestration and bizarrerie, goes to the heart. It has more than fantasy, wit, picturesqueness; it has a lovely, deep and abiding pathos, the kingly pride of the deluded knight-errand, the tenderness and humility that lay deep within him, the understanding that was his when he gave up the ghost.

The variations in which the Don exaits chivalry and the womanly ideal remain among the most appealing pages that Strauss ever penned, and his workmanship, his subtlety in psychological portrayal remain astounding long after his harmonic idea and orchestral effects have become familiar. How much less modern, today, is this music than that of the late Wagner! If modernity of texture were its test it would long since have died, since it is essentially conventional and diatonic at basis. But it is not method, it is feeling and imagination that count, and here Strauss has these things in plenty.

His ideas were conveyed by Mr. Mengelberg, by his obedient and carefully drilled orchestra and the players of the solo passages, in an impressive performance.

KIEPURA, INVITED, SAYS 'NO.'

Polish Tenor Won't Come Here for Less Than $3,000 a Performance.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Nov. 11.—"I'm no Caruso and am in no burry to go to America," Jan Kiepura, young Polish tenor, whom German critics hail as second only to Gigli in the operatic world, told the correspondent of THE NEW YORK TIMES last night after a triumphant recital before the Diplomatic Corps and members of Berlin society at the Polish Legation. "I've had many offers from New York which would be flattering if they came from European impresarii," the singer added, "but are too low from the American standpoint. When somebody mentions $3,000 a performance I'll begin to think about crossing the ocean. Meanwhile I've got plenty of work ahead of me. Caruso wasn't Caruso, you know, until after he had been singing fifteen years."

Frau Stresemann, wife of the Foreign Minister, whose son is a rising young composer, told Olszowski, the Polish Minister, she never had heard a better tenor voice than Kiepura's.

SCREEN NOTES.

Americans Get £300,000 Royalties Weekly and Pay No Tax, M. P. Says

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—When asked in the House of Commons today if he was aware that fourteen theatres in London were giving American plays and that royalties of between £300,000 and £400,000 a week were going to American authors and owners, who paid no income taxes on them, Roland McNeil, Under Secretary of the Treasury, replied that he was "very sorry to bear it."

Colonel Harry Day, M. P. and theatrical producer, who brought up the matter in Parliament, said in an interview later that London seemed to be in for a further deluge of American productions.

For Today and Tomorrow Only

Your 2-day chance to secure a genuine new Brunswick instrument under an unusually generous arrangement

Ever since the amazing qualities of the new Brunswick musical instruments have been demonstrated in a big way, music lovers are realizing that the old type phonograph and talking machine are not even distant relatives to these new marvels. Naturally, the demand for Brunswick instruments is growing faster than the supply.

In the face of these conditions, Landay is making you an extremely attractive offer to deliver one of these fine instruments to your home for as little as $5 down, even granting you a liberal allowance on your old phonograph. You needn't advance any extra money for the twelve electrically recorded selections of your own choice that go with this offer. What excuse is there to be without music on Thanksgiving Day, now?

Have you heard the Brunswick Panatrope combined with the 8-tube RADIOLA?

Electrically operated from needle-point to sound chamber, completely revolutionizing all accepted ideas of sound reproduction, these fine instruments will be scarcer than football tickets at holiday time.

A fine supply now at Landays.

Model illustrated The SEVILLE in Adam brown or walnut, complete with record album and 12 electrical recordings of your own selection. $119.50

Other beautiful console models on display.

Your Thanksgiving will be a bigger one with a Brunswick. It will be a pleasure for us to demonstrate it for you.

PLAY NATIONAL AIR AT 'MME. BUTTERFLY'

4,000 Stand at Attention in Metropolitan as Tribute to Armistice Day.

MISS EASTON AS HEROINE

Again Beautifully Sings the Music of Cio-Cio-San—Gigli the American Naval Officer.

Four thousand standing at attention in the Metropolitan Opera House last night assisted in one of the musical tributes of Armistice Day when a pause in the evening's performance marked the signal for the orchestra's playing "The Star-Spangled Banner." It was as if the American air had sprung anew from its most famous "quotation" in a foreign composer's score just then heard on the stage.

Puccini's "Madama Butterfly" made a ten-strike in other respects, being the sixth opera in the season's opening ten days, while its charming scenes of not so very long ago in flowery Japan veiled thinly from a great audience's view the new Urban settings of Chinese backgrounds for "Turandot," that had their try-out in rehearsal during the day.

Thus the Far East was in evidence both before the footlights and backstage. Curiosity seekers would have found the hidden beauties interesting. Popular delight, however, was not lacking in the return of one of the established favorites of the répertoire.

Florence Easton reassumed the rôle of the tender Japanese bride of John Luther Long's story and David Belasco's drama, done into Italian by Illica and Giacosa and first given at this house Feb. 11, 1907, with Farrar, Homer, Caruso and Scotti, in the presence of the composer.

Miss Easton, strangely enough, had anticipated even that première when she sang as a girl on the third night of Colonel Savage's English version of Puccini's work, at the old Garden Theatre in Twenty-seventh Street, now vanished with much more of New York theatredom of its day.

With an artistry recalling her other English impersonation in a memorable war-time "St. Elizabeth" of Franz Liszt, the soprano made the music of Cio-Cio-San in its foreign guise again a thing of rare beauty and personal appeal, though she sang sharp in Act I. Mme. Bourskaya as Suzuki conspired with her in the iridescent harmonies of the flower duet, that weaves tone garlands as fragile as the cherry blossoms of Nagasaki garden in May.

While Mr. Gigli gave voice to the American navy lieutenant's brief love songs, Mr. Scotti's rare skill throughout the drama presented a cameo portrait of the kindly Yankee Consul. Miss Wells, Messrs. Paltrinieri, Malatesta, Wolfe, Quintana and Reschiglian assisted, and Mr. Bellezza was at the baton. An over-loud performance was once drowned by the audience's lengthy ovation to Scotti as he entered the stage.

HARRY DAVIS THEATRES ACQUIRED BY STANLEY.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 11 (AP).—Negotiations were concluded today by which control of the Harry Davis moving picture and vaudeville theatres will pass to the Stanley Company of America on Dec. 1. More than $3,000,000 was said to have been the consideration.

Included in the deal were the twenty-four houses in Pittsburgh and other Western Pennsylvania cities recently taken over from the Rowland & Clark interests and the Nixon Theatre in this city. The Stanley company increases its chain of playhouses to 223, located chiefly in Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland and the District of Columbia.

Jules E. Mastbaum, President of the Stanley company, said that Mr. Davis, in cooperation with James B. Clark, would have supervision over the houses in Western Pennsylvania, with headquarters in Pittsburgh.

MISS STYHR HEARD AGAIN.

Young Norwegian Pianist Gives Numbers New to Audience.

Magnhild Styhr, a young Norwegian pianist giving her second recital here at the Town Hall last night, made a quaint Old World picture as she played little classics of Bach, Scarlatti and Mozart, once losing and recovering the thread of melody in the last-named composer's tame "Pastoral" variations of aimless roulades. More racy flavor marked some works of her fellow-countrymen, beginning with a sonata of Grieg.

Agathe Backer-Grondahl's "In the Blue Mountain," with its fairy theme tale of woods-giants, witches and dancing trolls, had not been heard these twenty years, since Cristian Schiott gave it in Brooklyn's Scandinavian colony. Miss Styhr added pieces by Chopin, Chabrier and her Paris master, Philipp.

'Pied Piper' to Be Sung for Charity.

"The Pied Piper," a musical extravaganza, will be given at Mecca Temple tonight and tomorrow afternoon and night for the benefit of the National Association of Music in Hospitals, Inc.

The committee sponsoring it includes Lady Armstrong, Mrs. Charles Astor Bristed, Mrs. William Caldwell, Mrs. Philippe Coudert, Miss Ruth Auchincloss Child, Mrs. Gilmore Drayton and Miss Edith Whitmore.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

"The First Year" will be produced soon at the Apollo Theatre in London, with Ernest Truex in the Craven role. Winchell Smith is staging the production, and Leila Bennett is sailing today to play her original role of the negro maid.

"East Side, West Side," a musical comedy, with book and lyrics by Eddie Dowling and music by James Hanley, will be produced in the Spring by A. L. Erlanger and Charles Dillingham.

"The Lion Tamer" again became the bill at the Neighborhood Playhouse last night and will be continued until next Thursday, after which it will be temporarily out of the repertoire. "The Little Clay Cart" will be played from Nov. 18 to Dec. 1 and will then alternate with another production.

Sam H. Harris's production of "Sisters," by John Willard, will open in Atlantic City next Monday and is due in New York a week later.

The cast of "Hangman's House," which goes into rehearsal next week, will include Katherine Alexander, Frank Shannon, Katherine Emmett, Percy Aarsham, Walter Abel and William Holden.

His Majesty's Theatre in Montreal, hitherto a legitimate house booked by the Erlanger office, will become a burlesque theatre on Sunday, Nov. 21.

George Kelly's play "Daisy Mayme" will be published soon in book form by Little, Brown & Co.

HAMILTON HEIRLOOMS DISPOSED OF BY WILL

Mrs. L. L. Schuyler Bequeathed Portraits and Early American Art Objects—Estate $75,000.

Heirlooms which were once the property of Alexander Hamilton are among the effects disposed of by the will of Mrs. Louisa Lee Schuyler, who organized many philanthropic societies and who was a great-granddaughter of Hamilton and a descendant of Major Gen. Philip Schuyler of Revolutionary fame. Mrs. Schuyler died on Oct. 10 last. She lived at 570 Park Avenue.

The provisions of her will became known yesterday when temporary letters of administration were granted by the Surrogates' Court on her estate. The value of the estate was given as about $75,000, and it was set forth in the application that a delay in offering her will for probate had occurred because the addresses of many heirs are unknown.

A number of portraits of the Schuyler family by Gilbert Stuart and Leon Bonnat were willed to the New York Historical Society. These already have been turned over to the society. A marble bust of Alexander Hamilton, described in the will as "a replica by Ceracchi of the bust of Hamilton taken from life by him in 1794 and now in the Public Library of the City of New York," is given to the American Scenic and Historic Preservation Society to be placed in the "Hamilton Grange," which the society has acquired.

A silver plate warmer once owned by Hamilton is given to Mary Schuyler Hamilton, a niece, of Elmsford, N. Y. A silver cake basket, once the property of Maj. Gen. Philip Schuyler. All of Mrs. Schuyler's books, engravings, photographs and similar effects in her residence at North East Harbor, Me.; a mahogany sideboard of the early eighteenth century, together with portraits by Rembrandt, Peale and Cheney, and a collection of early American silver are among the objects disposed of.

The residuary estate is divided equally between Mary Schuyler Hamilton and Mrs. Louisa G. Ludlow, widow of James B. Ludlow, a cousin.

BOYCOTT JAPANESE YEN.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

RIGA, Nov. 11.—The Chinese merchants in Harbin recently held a meeting at which they resolved to boycott foreign money and send circulars to all Chinese enterprises requesting them not to accept any.

The Japanese Consul General has handed the Governor of Manchuria a protest, declaring the boycott to be a violation of Japanese treaty rights and is directed against the free circulation of the Japanese yen. It says that the Mukden Government is aware of the merchants' circular and demands its immediate withdrawal.

LETS BANDSTAND CONTRACT

Westchester Commission Provides for Tibbetts Brook Park Work.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Nov. 11.—The contract for the construction of a bandstand, a wading pool and a fountain at Tibbetts Brook Park on the lower end of the Saw Mill River Parkway, Yonkers, was awarded to Johnson & Miller of Yonkers by the Westchester County Park Commission at its meeting in Bronxville today. The work, which will cost approximately $21,000, is to be completed in time for the opening of the park in May, 1927.

An inspection of the work of the commission and its contemplated program in the southern half of Westchester County will be made by the Westchester County Board of Supervisors tomorrow, accompanied by members of the Park Commission.

THE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

There seems to be no doubt that the War Memorial dedicated at Kansas City yesterday by President COOLIDGE is one which New York might well envy for its splendor of conception and impressive beauty. Mr. COOLIDGE paid due tribute to the fine spirit and generous effort of the city which built this great monument. In what he had to say about the war, the desire to commemorate the soldiers who fought in it, and to care for the disabled veterans, as well as for women and children left dependent through death in the service of the country, he followed the beaten track. With more interest will be read those portions of his speech which have to do with present and future policies of this Government. While reasserting that this nation is "thoroughly committed" to a belief in permanent international peace, the President declared that it does not intend to neglect "adequate national defense."

However, anything like competition in armaments President COOLIDGE would avoid. He points to the treaties by which this Government has agreed to cut down our naval forces and professes readiness to make further "reasonable sacrifices" in order to promote the cause of general disarmament. Like President HARDING before him, Mr. COOLIDGE contends that at any time of future national peril like that of 1917 the Government should be authorized to "call into its service all of "its man-power and all of its property "under such terms and conditions that "it may completely avoid making a "sacrifice of one and a profiteer of "another." That some Americans did profit immensely from the war, Mr. COOLIDGE admits. But he justly observes that to the nation as a whole it meant "great losses," which are still weighing upon us in our huge national debt and high taxation.

Speaking of the debts still owed by Europe to the United States as a result of the war alone, the President refers to reports that "we are not liked in Europe." He thinks that there is a good deal of exaggeration about this, but adds:

> We are a creditor nation. We are more prosperous than some others. This means that our interests have come within the European circle where distrust and suspicion, if nothing more, have been altogether too common. To turn such attention to us indicates at least that we are not ignored.

If this sounds like the old boast of the British that it is better to be disliked than despised, the President offsets it, to a certain extent, by praising "moderation" in dealing with the international obligations to us of other countries.

Mr. COOLIDGE exalts the ideal of justice between nation and nation, and instances the Permanent Court of International Justice as an institution entirely consonant with American principles. Nevertheless, it is clear that he is not ready to make a fight for our adhering to this World Court. He states, almost sorrowfully, that the replies of other nations to the conditions laid down by our Senate are not satisfactory. He explicitly says: "I do not "intend to ask the Senate to modify "its position." Unless, therefore, the other nations accept entire and as they stand the Senats reservations, the President confesses that he sees "no "prospect of this country adhering to "ths Court." This, it must be confessed, is rather a dying fall to what started out as a jubilant address.

THE BURNT DEMOCRATIC CHILD.

If it be trus that the majority of the Senats Democrats have determined to play their own hand and not that of ths little Lafollettian squad, their party is to be congratulated on a return to political common sense. Let us hope, but not believe without evidence, that this conversion will he permanent. The Democrats should havs learned in 1924 how expensive in votes it is to be ths victim of ths La Folletts confidencs game. Such would be their fate again if they allowed themselves to be duped again. The country is sick of third parties. It expects of the Democratic Party an intelligent policy of opposition. Complicity in a program of mere obstruction, with no higher purpose than to satisfy the passion of the Lafollettian rump for mischief and yawp unlimited, would be to repeat inexcusably a folly once deservedly punished.

Let the Republicans organize ths Senate of the Seventieth Congress if they can. It is a great piecs of good fortune for ths Democrats that the House is Rspnblican. It is also lucky that in ths Senate, too, they may avoid all othsr responsibility than belongs to criticism. This should be as temperate and constructive as is possibis under the chronic Amsrican system of premature or continnous Presidential campaigns. Keep Republican policy in the Senate, as far as it can be kept, in regular Republican hands. The Lafollettians are just as much the enemies of ths Democrats as of the Republican Party. Hostility and not alliance is the obvious Democratic course toward them, however much their antics may be immediately directed against their own party.

To block supply bills in order to "force" Mr. COOLIDGE to call an extraordinary session of ths Seventieth Congress is a proposal that could originate only in light heads and be supported only by light heads. If the Democrats have reason to be encouraged by the results of ths election, there is all the more cause to wslk warily and show by their judgment, their prudence, and their abstention from mere factious bedevilment, that thsir party is worthy of power. If it is to return to power, that return may largely be dependent upon the conduct of the Democrats in this and the next Congress. They can't afford to be tarred with the Lafollettian stick.

THE FRENCH PARLIAMENT MEETS

World-wide interest converges on today's reassembling of the French Chamber. The week preceding its adjournment was marked by swift enactment of the Ministry's proposals for reform of the public finances and the currency. Following a long series of legislative deadlocks and makeshift Governments, the Poincaré "Ministry of all the talents" carried into law its full program preliminary to gold resumption. Bills for safeguarding the floating debt, for equipping the Bank of France to huild np its gold reserve, and for a 30 per cent. increase in the public revenue, were approved by a vote of 365 to 181 in the Chamber and of 250 to 13 in the Senate. The extreme measure of a constitutional amendmsnt to guarantee the sinking fund was enacted at Versailles, in a joint session of Senate and Chamber, by 671 to 144.

For this sweeping legislative victory the cause assigned by every one was the urgent crisis in the currency. The franc had fallen from nearly 4 cents in January to less than 2 cents in July; even the previonsly hopeful Paris bankers had begun to predict that "the franc would follow the mark." Under such circumstances, serious opposition to ths only available plan of rescue disappeared. Bnt the August session did not vote upon the whols of the "stabilization program." POINCARS deemed it then inexpedient to ask for ratification of the Amsrican debt agreement. He submitted no proposal for actnal stabilization or resumption of gold payments. This left the qnestion open whether he would or would not, find Parliament equally submissive in November.

The prediction generally made at Paris was that the Ministry would have to show tangible results of its August legislation in order to hold control. That it has been able to do. A surplus public revenue has been produced; since July the Treasury has paid off 9 per cent. of its borrowings from the Bank of France; the latter has been accumulating gold bought from the hoards of citizens. The franc, after long hesitation around the price of 2¾ cents, has in the last mooth risen nearly to 3½, the highest valuation since May. With the unmistakable signs of returning public confidence, French capital which went to London and New York is now freely moving homeward. POINCARE can at least declare to the Chambsr that he has accomplished what he promised three months ago. But that very fact has lately caused discussion of the query whetber the legislative majorities, won in August because of grave and imminent peril to the currency, may not dissolve in the present feeling of restored economic safety, and, if so, what would bscoms of the debt question, ths final "stabilization plan" and perhaps of the Poincaré Ministry itself.

Prediction of French political developments is proverbially hazardous. It is undeniabis that some of the influences which consolidated the Ministry's majorities last Summer may be lacking now, and that widespread hostility exists to the Berenger dsbt agreement. Yet it would be rash to assums that these considerations ars of sufficient weight to maks France look back with its hand already on the plow. Belgium's example must mean much, even to the Paris legislators, both because of mortification at being outstripped in ths financial racs hy a neighbor State and becauss of the tangible advantages which Belgium has obtained. Beyond even this, the unmistakabie and world-wide trsnd in the direction of return to stabie currencies can hardly have failed to affect the French peopis. Ws shall soon know just what ths actual position is.

GENTLEMEN AND SCHOLARS AND FOOTBALL.

It would be easy to make fun of the high solemnity with which Princeton and Harvard break off athletic relations. Plenipotentiaries and Presidents entering upon a great war could not be impressed with a deeper senss of their own dignity. But we believe that the outsids public, and the great mass of graduates of both colleges, will look upon the rupture with disapproval and even with disgust. It is not a question of alleged unfair tactics or foul play on ths football field. Ths boorish insults of ths Harvard Lampoon—for which it has just apologized—are not referred to in the Princeton ultimatum. What is dwelt upon is the spirit of illwill, suspicion and animosity which now pervades "the undergraduate bodies of ths two universities." They have worked thsmselves up into a state of mind where they can no longer meet in friendly athletic rivalry.

This statement of ths case is alone a sufficient condemnation of ths whole pstty squabble. If intercollegiate football, with all its expense and glamour, its magnificent stadiums and general glorification, has reached the point where it inflames gentlemen and scholars with rancor and bitterness, something is wrong, either with them or with it. It is good to see that neutral observers of the quarrel, as at Yale, think that the sitnstion is ridiculous and shonld be ended as soon as possible by mediation or by a quiet and conciliatory meeting of the parties directly interested. If the apologies already made are not ample, though they seem to be, more will doubtless be forthcoming. Certainly a wearied public will follow any undue prolongation of the wretched controversy with impatience. It will recall the lines: and wish that somebody would stamp or spank the sense of proportion snd of humor into our young barbarians at play.

> Where mighty EDWARDS stamped his iron hesl,

AN ELEVATED WEST SIDE ROADWAY.

An important step was made toward realization of the plan to relieve north-and-south traffic congestion in New York by an elevated roadway from the Holland tunnel terminus at Canal Street to Seventy-second Street and Riverside Drive when the Sinking Fund Commission on Wednesday voted to vest title in North River waterfront property between Forty-seventh and Fifty-first Streets in the city. On the land acquired the Dock Department will construct Piers 88 and 90 to accommodate liners of greatest tonnage. An elevated vehicle road along West Street, to Twelfth Avenue and Riverside Drive at Seventy-second Street, to be linked ultimately with a broad thoroughfare coming down from 165th Street, would afford accommodation to the steamships using the city's piers for passengsr and freight bosiness, so necessary to the development of ths Port of New York. The nsw piers, larger than any yet built, will distribute and attract a growing traffic to the west side elevated vehicle road. Other piars for the sea-borne trade of New York will be added, for the great value of the new marginal roadway will be found in the quick and smooth dispatch of a cumulative traffic.

Early in the year Borough President MILLER, who has been indefatigable in promoting a west side elevated road for all kinds of vehicular traffic, won the approval of the Port Authority. At a meeting of the Board of Estimate he read a letter of endorsement from JULIUS A. GREGORY, Chairman of the Port Authority. Controller BERRY withheld his vots until he was convioced that the cost of coostruction could he met by assessments upon Manhattan taxpayers who would benefit hy the improvement. There is no reason to doubt that by advancing the value of property not only along the route but in neighboring side streets it will quickly pay for itself. The estimated cost is $13,500,000. Comparison should be made with such an improvement as the four-track road planned in New Jersey to connect the Lincoln Highway at Elizabeth with the western entrance to the Holland vehicular tunnel under the Hudson. The length of that great highway will be thirtcen miles; the coet, it is calculated, $30,000,000. Estimates are generally exceeded in great public improvements, but even if difficulties in conetruction are minimized in the flush of enthusiasm ovsr President MILLER'S conception, enhancement of property values may some dey, not far off, make ths west sids elsvated roadway appear cheap, even if the preeent estimats of cost is too low.

Relief from traffic congestion in this city is imperative. The First Avenue improvement is proving a boon. The Hudson River elevated road crossing ths New York Central tracks, if they are not to be sunk, should, for some time, eolvs the problem of, traffic moving north and south on the west side of the city with no interruption from travel on sids streets. By ramps at iotervals the road will be availabie for express traffic turning into it. Six lines of vehicles can be accommodated. All kinds, including huses, will use it at great saving of time. Pending conetruction, the city should not only put no obstacles in the way of travel on the present surfacs streets, but should improve them to facilitate ths flow of vehicles from and to the Holland tunnel. It would certainly he a great aid to carry viaducts over the New York Central tracks. They could be linked up with the elevated roadway later.

THE PHILIPPINE GOVERNMENT IN BUSINESS.

Ths decision of the Attorney General and the Adjutant General in Washington that the Board of Control in the Philippines is extra-constitutional and that ite functions may henceforth hs exercised only by the Governor General shouid hasten the process of getting the Government of the islands out of husiness. The Board of Control, consisting of ths Governor General, ths President of ths Senate and the Speaker of the House, was created during the last years of ths Harrison Administration in order to supervise the various business enterprises upon which the Philippins Government had embarked. These included ths Philippine National Bank, ths Manila Railway Company, ths Nstional Coal Company and the Cebu Portland Cement Company. It also acquired power of interference in ths affairs of the big sugar companies and other private enterprises, to which the bank made large and inadequately secured loans and which ultimately came under the control of the bank when the businese boom collapsed.

Owing to ths political system in the Philippines, and to the close interrelation of governmental business enterprises with local politicians, it was inevitable that the Board of Control shoold have become deeply involved in politics. As the membership consisted of two Filipinos and one American, the Filipinos could and did consistently outvote the Governor General, whose avowed policy was to "get the Government out of hnsiness." Inasmuch as the two Filipino members of the board were the two bitterest persooal opponents of the Governor General, this plan was not a happy ons for making ths Government more efficient.

This legal decision in no way deprives the Philippine Legislature of its right to deal with business matters. It does deprivs the two principal political leaders of some of their extra-constitutional powers. For this reason it is certain to cause the two gentlemen thus shorn to raise their voices in bitter denunciation. It has been the consistent policy of the Philippine leaders to seize every vestige of power they could get and to relinquish nothing.

Governor General WOOD now finds himself with much greater authority over public business enterprises. Ths directors of the various companies, knowing that they are at last free from political interference hy ths President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House, may be ahie so to reorganize their affsirs ss to make their ventures more profitsble. There has been too much politics in business in the Philippines and not enough realization that the real Philippine problem is not political but economic.

ADVICE FOR WRITERS.

Advice to people who want to write, or who are already writing but wish a better market, is poured forth from many sources in eoormous quantity. Some of it is good and some of it is nothing mors than a means of getting money away from would-be authors. Thers are six magazines in this country now devoted to writers and writing, with hundreds of correspondence schools, college courses, literary agents and publishing clubs, some of them honest and more of them quacks.

The editor of Ths Writer, W. D. KENNEDY, has just published a book which should hs of practical value. Under the modest titic, "The Free-Lance Writer'a Handbook," are collected opinloos of twoscore mcn and women who ars making a living through some connection with writing for publication. There is aufficient variety in their work and personality to make the book useful for everybody with the writing urgc. ROBERT E. SHERWOOO writes about the freelance humorist. IVY LEE discusses publicity, house organs and such possibilities for writers. The writing of fiction, plays and scenarios is taken up in detail by people who know about it from their own experience. Resort to an agent, the literary markets and every practical aid are examincd carefully.

Yet no undue heartening of those who would hetter stick to the garage business is found. The writers selected by Mr. KENNEDY havs heen frank io pointing out difficulties. They have recounted some of their personal obstacies. The editor himself indicates an ideal of training for authorship which should frighten off any except professionals and the most ambitious of beginners. When the opportunitiee of the screen world srs considered, the advice ssems perfect. "Every good "American sooner or later dashes off "a scenario—even as you and I." After suggesting that if "you and I" are to get our masterpieces read something should he done, the writer with cruel pleasure passes on ths word from the movie editors. "Snowed "under by the too fluent efforts of "piumbers, typists and usherettes, "their message to ths general public "is urgent and unmistakable and all "in one word—desist."

In addition to a full and up-to-date directory of markets for everythiog from verse to jokes, a careful sccount is given of the special editorial needs of many leading magazines, publishers and syndicates. But even such a survey cannot be eo helpful to the determined amateur as the candid, sometimes brutal and always well-written counsel of such writsrs as BEN AMES WILLIAMS, HENRY SEIDEL CANBY, KATHARINE FULLERTON GEROULD and AUGUSTUS THOMAS. The force of example counts for aa much as ths sound suggestion.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

The Serpent in Eden.

Thsre is much, if not conclusive, evidencs that mountaineers ars Republican. There was gratifying new evidencs whsn it was reported from Hawisy, "a mountainous township and hamlet, ten miles west of Greenfield, Mass.," thst "not a Democrat received a singis vots for any office." This happy unanimity of vllage political opinion, honestly expressed and without sny necessity of ths ingenious "zeroing" system practiced in Philadelphia, encouraged the friends of idyilic mountain Republicanism.

Alas! There is sn imperfection in what should have been a flawless crystal. The Democratic candidate for State Senator writes from Greenfield to The Springfisld Republican that he got one vote in Hawley. "I would liks much," hs says, full of gratitude and surprise, "to shake hands with such a lonely but courageous human." That is a pretty way of putting it, but believers in the Republican mountain must deplore this intrusive dissenter. He or she is probably not of "Hawley folks"; at best the product of an exogamous marriage.

Still, members of the Republican Mountain Association needn't be too much saddened by this alien minority. Ths theory stands. Hawley is not mountainous. It is monticulous. It is nothing but a "hill town," where divergences from the sound hypothesis may be expected.

Thie Deadlock Already Too Long.

Mayor WALKER will do well if he can spur the various boards and corporations to something more than "reconsideration" of the problsm of eliminating grade crossings on the Long Island Railroad in Brooklyn and the neighborhood. Ths matter has remained nndecided too long. Of the two proposals—to elevate or to depress the rail bed—neither has proved acceptable to all concerned. It has been estimated thst the former would cost $12,000,000 and the latter $50,000,000. Naturally, the railroad, which has to pay the major share, does not relish ths $50,000,000 plan.

A full report has been called for by the Board of Estimate. This is as it should be. But ths matter cannot be allowed to rest there. The impetus to definite ection will have to come from the outside. Public opinion will not tolerate furthsr delays chargeable to apsthy. Whichever plan is accepted will reqnire several years to be put into effect. This means that no relief is in sight until 1929 or 1930.

Ths responeibility for grads crossings does not lie altogether with the railroad companies. It may be necessary to give them even greater aid than they receive at present. But the important thing is to break the present deadlock and to push actively the work of removal. It is a task which requires both energy and courage.

Truth About Bricks Wanted.

Research might spare en hour or two from the pursuit of the electron, the microbe and the causes of industrial unrest in order to determine just how many bricks a modern bricklayer does lay. It would be a move in the interest of social adjustment and the peace of mind of the reading public.

No other subject of contemporary conversation, with ths possible exception of Russia, reveals such an astounding clash of data. The modern tale of bricks has occasionally gone down in gossip to 200 a day, as against several thousand of bricks "formerly" laid hy ths honest mason. More moderate are ths estimates from building employers, contrasting the former daily average of 1,700 bricks with only 700 under present conditions. This assertion befors the State Industrial Survey Commission has just been countered from the workers' side with a claim of 1,400 to 1,600 bricks on straight work. What ths other side has failed to mention, so it is alleged, is that the smaller number of bricks is accounted for by special conditions in the way of architectural design and ornamental work.

Yet it ought not to be beyond the resources of an age which has brought research aod the questionnaire to such perfection to obtain a fair, representative and definite count of how many bricks the New York brickiayer puts into plscs in a modern working day. If the task is too formidable for Research, how is it to be trusted on such more complicated matters as the atom, taxes, birth rates, prices and prohibition?

Men's Hats in Elevstors.

If there are still old fogies among men who resent the entrance of women into the sacred precincts of male dominance, thsir eense of affront should be somewhat mollified by a recent report of husiness women. Ladies in shops and offices are not always emphasizing their ladylikenssa; somstimes they show almost masculins common sense.

At a recent convention of building owners and managers a committee of womeo in the real estats business turned in a report on certain phases of the management of commercial buildings. Included was a recommendation "that msmbers of the National Association of Building Owns rs and Managers strivs to educate ths elevator passengers in commercial buildings to refrain from removing their hsts while in the presence of ladies, in order that a uniform ruls of etiqu¢tts may prevail."

Acceptance of such a rule would simplify life for ths man who wants to be courteous and avoid being sbsurd. It is ofteo a question, entirely aside from the risk of catching cold, whether it is better in a crowded elsvator to crush a hat and the ribs of a few passengers or to be crushed under the scornful gazs of homeward-bound tyists.

The committee's recommendation to educats the passengers is the right idea. Sporadic obedience to the rule la not enough. An intensive campaign, with a "Keep-Your-Hat-On" Week, is now in order.

SUPPORT FOR POLICEMEN.

Demand for Quick Punishment for Criminels Who Resist Arrest.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Recentiy a gunman received a seventy-year term in the Court of General Sessions for killing a police officer, and in reading about the case I noticed that one of ths attorneys for the defendant mads ths remark in court: "I don't hold to the view in certain quarters that ths killing of a policeman is a greater crime than the killing of a tinker or a tailor."

It is just this attitudo on the part of soms members of the bar and public officials that impairs ths safsty of the men and women of this city. Any fair-minded person would realizs that when a policeman is summoned in an endeavor to stop the commission of a crims he is not at that tims merely a policeman. Hs represents law and order, and when hs is shot down it means that in his person law and order are destroyed.

Apart from that, a policeman is a human being, oftentimes with a wife and family depending on him, clothed with authority to prevent crime. When he is called on in the performance of his duty to assume great danger he should be protected in every possibie manner.

The brazen, desperate and defiant professional criminals who commit the major crimes today are greatly emboldened in their attacks on policemen unless there be some way by which they are mads to realize that once a policeman arrives on the scene it is far better to submit to arrest than to shoot their wsy out.

It is about time to understand that it is an absolute disgrace to civilization that men cannot go about their business affairs without the fear that at any moment an armed bandit may hold them up in their business places or on ths street to rob and kill.

Senator Baumes at a recent meeting of the Association of Grand Jurors rightfully said that there should be a call to arms to citizens in all walks of life, who should crusade against the growing menace, the gunman and professional criminal; that the new gunman represents a new type in the history of criminals, for he does not hesitate for a moment to kill any person that interferes with the commission of a crime.

Therefore all men, lawyers, Judges, district attorneys, grand jurors, petit jurors and all public officials should realizs that we have a new situation to face and that the policemen are the outposts of civilized cities in the battle against crime and that they should be protected in every possible manner by every one concerned in the operation of the criminal law.

Unless all men come to the defense of a policeman assaulted in the course of his duty, just so long will ws put off the day when we can live our lives in the safety that a civilized, law-abiding community should enjoy.

Let the slogan be "Do not assault a police officer, for if yon do you will get a quick trial, an adequate sentence and no mercy." PAUL MOSS.

Oddities of the Referendum Vote.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A most remarkable feature, and one that is exceedingly difficult to understand, of the vote on the rum amendment, is that in one Manhattan Assembly district the vote on the referendum was in excess of the combined Smith, Mills and Panken vole; and in another district in the Bronx the same peculiarity occurred. In other districts the referendum vote wee larger than the combined Smith and Mille vote, although the Socialist vote was quite small.

The referendum, according to the voting figures, meant more, in some cases, than did ths candidates. In fact tbe entire city vote on the referendum was, like Bret Harte's Heathen Chinee, "peculiar."

In any event, New York City le to be congratulated on its remarkable, unprecendented vole on a qusation which, if carried out literally, could and would result in fermented liquors with the kick of a Missouri mule, being branded as "non-intoxicating" by a complacent Legislature, and sold as such in every nook and corner of the city.

A SLENDER BOOK OF POETRY.

You ars a slender book of poetry
With binding sensuously delicate
Blended with dazzling brilliancy, to matc
Tbe thoughts within the binding: Imagery
And haunting cadcnces; word-wizardry
And flame and beauty, to illuminate
Your leaves of truth; and meaning intricate
To deck each reading with variety.
And when I've pressed from every stave and bar
Ths music of your pulsing, measured iloes
And balanced every nuanced tons and twist,
I'll yet find holies to encalendar;
For, I am sure, within those slim confines
Lie uncut pages eagerness has missed.

PRAISE WHERE IT IS DUE.

Secrstary Redfield Also Worked for the Elimination of Waste.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In bestowing well-merited praiss upon Mr. Hoover for ths work of the Department of Commerce toward ths elimination of wasts, THE TIMES in its editorial of Nov. 9 has phrased one sentence so ambiguously as to give a mistaken impression of the beginnings of this work. After calling attention to ths fsct that Mr. Hoover is "at home" when he talks about waste elimination, THE TIMES states: "He did not inherit that problem from his predecessor when he became Secretary of Commerce. Hs brought it with him. The War Industries Board had pioneered in practical wasts elimination. * * *" But aitbough no one could wish to deny that Mr. Hoover is thoroughly at home with this subject that he has handled so well, the implication is incorrect that ths problem of the elimination of wasts had not been effectively attacked by the Department of Commerce under Mr. Hoover's predecessor.

When at the eod of tbs war ths War Industries Board relaxed its attention to ths industries of ths country, the work of saving waste which it had begun was at oncs taken up by the Department of Commerce. Secretary Redfield's request for a special allotment of money for thla wofk from ths fund for ths national security and defense was approved by President Wilson on Dec. 3, 1918, and on Jan. 1, 1919, the Industrial Cooperation Service of the Department of Commerce was formed to take over certain peacetime functions of the War Industries Board. Ths report of the Secretary of Commerce for the year 1919 states:

"Generally speaking, ths service established a focal point in the Government for the discussion of business and iodustrial problems. As ths work progressed the problsms fell within well-defined classes: those concerned with the standardization of products, those concerned with ths search for outlets for wasts products and the commercial development of new products, and thoss concerned with plans for minimizing business abuses."

The service thus set in action by Secretary Redfield cooperated successfully with industries and with other Government departments toward the practical and positive elimination of waste. In one item alone—the development of a use for the dry husk of the cotton seed—it produced valnes equal to the maintenance of the aervice for ten years. But when Congress was asked to appropriste $56,000 for the continuance of the aervice the appropriation was refused. The aervice, therefore, came to an end on June 30, 1919.

At the same time the Department of Commerce organized, and carried on uotil its appropristioos were refused, ths Waste Reclamation Service and the special work for the introduction of cheaper fish foods for the Fisheries Service. The principal work which parallels Secretary Hoover's was that of the Indnstrial Cooperative Service, but all three activities cited were effective toward the elimination of waste.

The work of the Department of Commerce ought to be, and no doubt to a great extent is, looked at from a nonpartisan point of view. But at a time when under a Republican Administration that haa prosperity and economy as its watchwords a Republican Secretary of Commerce is doing such admirable work for the minimizing of waste, it ahould certainly not be forgotten that on the heels of the free national expenditure inseparable from the conduct of war a Democratic Ceeretary of Commerce, with the approval of a Democratic President, established this work and carried it on successfully uotil a Republican Congress stopped the funds. A Compeign of Mud-Slinging.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Gubernatorial campaign which terminated in the re-election of Alfred E. Smith was undoubtedly the most spirited mud-slinging episode in New York's political history. Like all campaigns which enlist the activitiee of the Hearst outfit, it was not lacking in venom and pernicious usurpation of press liberality. Every sort of malicious strategy was exercised in the attack on Governor Smith's record, each new accusation becoming more asinine than the last, but, like all Hearst supported campaigns, public sentiment and judgment could not be degenerated.

Had Mr. Mille held himself aloof from yellow journal contamination his campaign stock might bave increased a few points, and though the result of the election from the outset waa never in doubt be might have emerged a little less ingloriously than he did.

The decisive victory of Governor Smith will undoubtedly prove an inestimable asset in his Presidential aspirations two years hence.

If prohibition is the issue in 1928, and from all indications it will be, there is a possibility of his nomination and, if nominated, a greater possibility of his election. The religious question is gradually waning in significance with the increasing importance of prohibition. And as Governor Smith's sentiments in this matter are known it would take a mighty wet opponent to defeat him if any significance can be derived from the expression of public opinion on this question in last Tuesday's balloting in those States where the subject of prohibition was presented for public deliberation.

Smith's Chsnces in the South.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Let Governor Smith secure the nomination from the Democratic Presidential Convention and there are not a hundred Democrats below the Mason-Dixon line who would not vote for him, dripping wet, in preference to any Republican candidate, be he dryer than the Sahara.

The Southern Democrat may be a Klansman and a dry on his off days, but neither his religion nor his inhibitions interfere with his politics on election day. Nor is it at all likely that there will be a dry Republican candidate to tempt the Southern Democrats to apostasy. There certainly will not be unless two of the shrewdest Republican politicians alive today—Mr. Wadsworth and Mr. Vare—go violently insane in the next two years. S. JENKINS.

Approval of Co-educstion.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I heartily support THE TIMES view as expressed in the editorial "Blue Minds, Not Blue Laws." I have yet to see any bad effects of co-educational high schools.

The old-fashioned Victorian prudery—in many people a fetish carried to the point of bigotry—is out of date, and attempts to apply it to our high schools will, I hope, always prove a failure. The contact of the male and female students with each other and with their teachers, male and female, leads to that poise and balance necessary to meet the world face to face.

RELIGIOUS TEACHING ARGUED ON APPEAL

Free Thinkers' Attack on the Public School Plan Is Heard by Appellate Division.

CHURCHES SUPPORT GRAVES

Opposing Counsel Disagree With on Powers of Education Board Granted by Legislature.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Nov. 11.—Constitutionality of the legislative act authorizing the religious instruction of pupils of the public schools ons hour a week during school hours, outsids of school buildings, was argued befors the Appellate Division, Third Department, of the Supreme Court, today in the test case instituted by Joseph Lewis, President of the Free Thinkers' Society, against Dr. Frank P. Graves, Commissioner of Education.

Ths appeal was from an order of Justice Ellis J. Staley denying the application for a writ of mandamus made at ths Albany special term last Winter. The attack on ths law was made by Arthur Garfield Hays and John C. Mahon of New York, counsel for the Free Thinkere' Society, on the principal grounds that ths practice violates one of the fundamental provisions of the Constitution, declaring that the Sfats and ths Church shall remain separate. They also argued that it was in conflict with the compulsory school attendance law which the Commissioner of Education is required to enforce.

Ernest E. Cole, counsel for the State Department of Education, argued that not to permit the absence of children from regular school classes to attend thsir church schools would be an interference with religious liberty and that no pupil is required to attend the church classes without the consent of the parent. He also declared that since local boards of education have discretion over ths courses of study and the laws do not specify the number of houra of the school sessions, they may provide for the dismissal of the pupils for certain periods.

Charles H. Tuttle argued the case for the Greater New York Federation of Churches and the New York State Sunday School Association.

"The right of the parent to direct the training and nnrture the character of the child is one of the most important liberties guaranteed by the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States and by the Bill of Rights of this State," said Mr. Tuttle.

"The local school boards of the State, which have the authority to prescribe the curriculum and make all reasonable rules and regulations, have the power to give reasonable recognition to this right and to provide that, according to the views of the parents, religion is the most essential and an increasingly important element in the prescribed subjects of study in citizenship and patriotism.

"While such boards may not themselves, under the Constitution, expend public money upon religious education in connection with these prescribed subjects, they have the power to honor the views of parents who feel that any instruction in these subjects which excludes religion altogether is, in effect, instruction in irreligion and predetermines the very basis of all good citizenship, honest government and enlightened patriotism."

The case, it is expected, will go to the Court of Appeals and then to the United States Supreme Court.

TO STUDY CITY AIR FIELD.

When a public hearing was held yesterday by the Board of Estimate upon the desirability of the city's setting aside certain city-owned property or acquiring privately owned property for development as a municipal air field or port, to be operated by the city, Mayor Walker named a special committee to study the proposition and report back to the board with specific recommendations. The committee consists of Controller Charles W. Berry, Aldermanic President Joseph V. McKee and Borough President Henry Bruckner of the Bronx.

John Dwight Sullivan of the aviation post of the American Legion, suggested a site in Throgs Neck, the Bronx, bounded by Pugsly and Westchester Creeks, Seward Avenue and Long Island Sound. It consists of forty-eight lots upon which there is more than $800,000 due to the city in assessments and back taxes. Mr. Sullivan told the board. "This land," he said, "can be bought for about $100,000 cash and it can be put into condition as an aviation field for an additional $200,000."

Mr. Sullivan said he thought the field would pay the city not only in dividends, but also in convenience. Lerliard Speocer, representing the committee on landing spaces for commercial air lines of the New York Board of Trade and Transportation, endorsed the idea of a municipal landing field generally.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS SESSION.

49th Convention in Kings Hears Music Service Demonstrated.

The forty-ninth annual convention of the Kings County Sunday schools began yesterday at the Hanson Place Methodist Episcopal Church, Hanson Place and St. Felix Street, with an address of welcome by the Rev. J. Lane Millicr, pastor of the church. Charles A. Ditmas, President of the Brooklyn Sunday School Union, presided. In the afternoon addresses were delivered by the Rev. Oliver M. Fletcher, Classical Missionary of the Reformed Church, and Harry G. Simpson, Superintendent of the Bushwick Central Methodist Episcopal Sunday School.

In the evening an hour was devoted to conferences regarding methods for all departments of Sunday schools. Thie was followed by a greeting from Mr. Ditmas aod a demonstration of a service of music under the direction of the Rev. Milton S. Littlefield of the Union Evangelical Church of Corona, Queens. Dr. Littlefield also spoke on the subject of "Music and Worship in the Church School." The concluding address was delivered hy Dr. Clarence T. Craig of the Simpson Methodist Episcopal Church. The convention will continue until this evening.

SEES MODERN YOUTH AHEAD OF FATHERS

Dr. Abbott Finds Boys Five Times as Decent as Previous Generation Despite Faults.

TAKE NOTHING FOR GRANTED

They Demand Facts, Says Head of Lawrenceville School—He Lays Restlessness to Lack of Faith.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 11.—Dr. Mather A. Abbott, Headmaster of the Lawrenceville Schools for Boys, told the Trenton Rotary Club at a luncheon here today that the youth of the present generation was on the way to great discoveries and had made a step toward happiness and self-government far ahead of anything in their fathers' experience. This, he said, despite prohibition and all that it entails, the ever-present automobile, the cheap theatre, especially the motion picture with its sex problems; the absence of parental control, the ignoring of religion, the emancipation of womanhood, and the modern dance.

"I have been in the business of teaching boys for thirty years and I have at present under my charge 540 boys collected from nearly every State in this God-given Union of ours, and I have never known a more truthful, clean-living, honorable set of young gentlemen; different from the boys of my youth as the sun is from the moon; full of nonsense, full of passion, headstrong, mischief loving, full of the 'Old Harry,' but five times as decent, as truthful and as manly as the boys of my youth. Let me describe them to you.

"In the first place, their greatest characteristic is that they must prove everything by experience. They do not begin where we leave off, as we want them to do. They must go through every experience themselves. They take nothing for granted. They want facts, not camouflage. They can see the faults through a ten-inch board.

"Secondly, the absence of religious instruction in their youth. Unfortunately, the mothers are too busy to give the fireside talks that they used to give to the little fellows, and the fathers are too busy in business to tell them the truth even about the sex problem. Now you cannot prove the other world and you cannot prove God, and the modern generation won't accept anything you cannot prove.

"So, though the fear of God is the beginning of wisdom, the modern generation are practically without the fear of any one whom they cannot see. Therefore, the great fear which held us is absent and these boys, having the spiritual longings that all boys have, are restless. Not willing to face the deep questions of life, they try to find happiness in the material.

"Now, lastly, the equalization of the sexes. When you and I were boys, woman was on a pedestal; we worshiped her. It was a pursuit; it was a mystery. There was worship. Did we worship that which was true or that which was false? The worship is gone, and I am told that modesty, too, has gone. Perhaps it has, but we are getting at facts; we are getting companionship; we are getting at the truth. The double standard has vanished. Of course, there are terrific calamities, terrific failures, but out of them there is going to come something remarkable."

WOULD END 'FORDIZING' PUPILS

Milwaukee Schools Head Asks Less Heaping On of Knowledge.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 11.—The tendency of "Fordizing" children would end if there were more of the "project method" in the public schools and less heaping of knowledge upon the pupils, Dr. Milton C. Potter, Superintendent of Schools of Milwaukee, told the opening session of the seventy-second meeting of the New Jersey Teachers' Association in the Senior High School here today.

"Today we are heaping endless amounts of things to know upon the boy and giving him nothing to do. The use of the project or activities method gives the boy something to do, which, after all, is more toward his natural instincts.

"What would the acceptance of this method mean? May it mean that the schools become places where the pupils gather and the teachers perform? May it mean that the best teachers are the ones which say the least? May it mean that the teaching process takes its cue from the learning project instead of the learning project taking its cue from the technique of teaching?"

Three Ch'ien-lung Jars and Two Beakers Go for $3,300.

The Chein and Dominick collections of Chinese porcelains, potteries, semi-precious stones and kakamonos sold Wednesday and yesterday at the American Art Galleries brought $23,-878.

Three covered Ch'ien-lung jars and two beakers, each with a stand, being more than twenty-two inches tall and forming a garniture, brought the sale's highest price, $3,300. They were bid in by J. Jaehne. The same buyer paid $1,050 for a K'ang-hsi ovo-cylindrical vase. It is from the George D. Davies collection. Jaehne also acquired a K'ang-hsi cylindrical rouleau vase eighteen inches high for $2,300.

Charles of London got for $520 a pair of K'ang-hsi quadrilateral vases. They were more than eighteen inches high, having incurving necks with garden scenes on a white ground.

'UNCLE JOE' GROWS WEAKER

Death of Former Speaker Cannon Seems Likely at Any Time.

DANVILLE, Ill., Nov. 11 (AP).—"Uncle Joe" Cannon, former Speaker of the House, is growing weaker, "although there is no immediate danger," physicians attending him announced tonight. Mr. Cannon's heart action continues remarkably strong for his age, but his gradual weakness "indicates the end may be nearing," Dr. C. E. Wilkinson said.

His illness, incident to advanced age, may cause death at any time, the physicians stated, or he may live for months.

BATTLE WITH GALE TOLD BY 13 SAVED FROM SHIP

Valkyrie Helpless Two Days in Hurricane Off Bermuda and Sank as Help Came.

A story of two days helpless wallowing in mid-Atlantic at the mercy of high winds and seas was related yesterday by the thirteen survivors of the small schooner Valkyrie which foundered off Bermuda last week. They arrived on board the Furness Bermuda liner Fort St. George and told how only the fortunate arrival of the British freighter Olyeric which saw the rockets they sent up saved them from being lost at sea.

As it was, two seamen, Joseph Silver, 24 years old, and John Tina, 20 years old, both of Providence, were drowned when a small boat lowered from the schooner was capsized. Three of the survivors were passengers. Two of the latter were Anna and Eugenie Manges, respectively 4 and 3 years old.

Captain Henry Rose, Portuguese master of the lost vessel, said the schooner left Providence, R. I., on Oct. 26, bound for the Cape Verde Islands with a cargo of lumber and cement.

When she was eight days out, they ran into a hurricane. They tried to lower sail but the foremast was carried away. It fell to port and in spite of all their efforts to cut it free it remained there. For twenty-four hours it pounded against the vessel. Toward dusk the next day it was wrenched loose by a wave. It was hurled against the port bow, causing a huge hole.

The Valkyrie then began to sink and the men aboard abandoned all hope of being rescued. But flares were lighted and the vessel managed to keep afloat until morning. Just before sunrise they sighted the Olyeric which lowered a small boat and took them off. The Valkyrie was awash when they were rescued. A few minutes later she sank.

REV. DR. MURKLAND, EDUCATOR, DEAD

President of New Hampshire College of Agriculture for Ten Years.

WENT OVERSEAS IN WAR

WALTHAM, Mass., Nov. 11 (AP).—The Rev. Dr. Charles Sumner Murkland, former President of New Hampshire College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts, died at the Waltham Hospital today at the age of 70 after a long illness.

Dr. Murkland was born in Lowell, Mass., on May 20, 1856. He received three degrees from Middlebury (Vt.) College, graduating in 1881, receiving an A. M. in 1884 and a D.D. in 1900. He studied for the ministry at Yale Divinity School and Harvard Theological School, graduating from the latter in 1884. In 1893 Dartmouth granted him the degree of Doctor of Philosophy.

Congregational pastorates in Chicopee, Mass., and Manchester, N. H., were occupied by Dr. Murkland until he became President of New Hampshire College in 1893. After ten years in this position he became principal of Brewster Free Academy at Wolfboro, N. H. He retired in 1910, but during the war resumed his educational work, going overseas with the Y. M. C. A. forces. He married Helen M. Tupper of Middlebury, Vt., on July 30, 1884.

CHICOPEE, Mass., Nov. 11 (AP).—The Rev. Dr. Charles S. Murkland is credited with exerting considerable influence on the early life of Mary Garden, opera singer, while she lived in this city at the time he was pastor of the Third Congregational Church. It was said today that Mrs. Murkland gave Miss Garden instruction in the violin.

BULBS
High Quality

PLANT NOW

From now on to hard frost is the time to plant Darwin Tulips, Daffodils, Hyacinths, Crocuses and Scillas outdoors. All bulbs are splendid for indoor culture as well.

Our stock of Dutch and American grown Bulbs is of the highest quality and the most complete in New York City. We display in our store, as well as offer in our catalogue, 400 of the choicest varieties.

Twelve Distinct Darwin Tulips

The finest of all the tulip family for outdoor planting. Unusually large blooms borne on stems 2 to 3 feet tall. Excellent for garden decoration or for cutting. Bloom during May.

100 each of 10 named varieties, 1000 Bulbs in all, separately labelled 45.00

Daffodils—Hardy Long Island Grown

There is no more useful bulbous plant than the Daffodil for planting around the home grounds. They are equally at home in the shady location of your shrubbery border or planted in clumps in your flower border, and are not subject to any particular rodent or pest.

SIX FINE VARIETIES

Conspicuus—Sunny yellow—darker cup with a pretty edge of orange-scarlet. $1.50 per doz., $10.00 per 100
Emperor—A giant trumpet sort of an even tone of rich yellow. $1.75 per doz., $12.00 per 100
Empress—A companion to the above variety, except that the trumpet is rich yellow and the wings are ivory-white—splendid contrast. $1.75 per doz., $12.00 per 100
Mrs. Langtry—A charming Leedsii type. Petals and cup ivory-white. $1.25 per doz., $8.00 per 100
Sir Watkin—A giant among the medium trumpet sorts. Wings yellow with long cup of brighter yellow. $1.75 per doz., $12.00 per 100
Victoria—Similar to the variety Empress, except that the trumpet is a purer white—a splendid variety. $1.75 per doz., $12.00 per 100

Matchless Bedding Hyacinths

Few flowers in April give greater charm to the garden border or are prettier for your indoor gardening than Hyacinths. The bulbs offered are unusually large, of full size, and if simple cultural directions are followed should give excellent results.
Pink—White—Scarlet—Light Blue—Yellow
$2.00 per doz., $15.00 per 100

Giant Flowering Crocuses (Harbingers of Spring)

One of the earliest of spring flowering bulbs. Splendid for planting in drifts in your lawn. Scatter the bulbs freely on your lawn and plant them in the spot that they fall. Excellent for indoor culture as well. We offer bright blue, purple, striped, golden-yellow, white, and mixed colors.
Strong Bulbs, 40c per doz., $3.00 per 100, $25.00 per 1000

Scilla nutans caerulea (English Bluebell)

The true English Bluebell is an excellent dwarf bulbous plant to plant among your daffodils or May flowering tulips. Visitors to the English countryside during daffodil time will doubtless remember this pretty blue flower which is a native of their woodlands and blooms the same time as the daffodils.
40c per doz., $2.50 per 100, $20.00 per 1000, $175.00 per 10,000

The Great Sale of the Year

From the Founder's Writings

A Most Remarkable Mouth

John Adams once said of George Washington that he had the most remarkable mouth he had ever seen, for nothing foolish ever escaped from it.

There are not many men of whom this can be truthfully said, and yet each human being has but one mouth and it is left entirely to his control.

Upwards of 6000 Mouths

are here speaking for us every day, giving information and making promises about the merchandise and the Store's ways. They do not mean to say or do foolish things, and in the main they are so careful and accurate that the Store is much valued and commended.

But there are bunglers and absent-minded persons who hurt us with their mistakes, which we always strive to promptly correct.

(Signed) John Wanamaker

PROPOSES HANGING FOR AUTO STEALING

Former Montreal Prosecutor Tells New York Committee of Car's Part in Crime.

JOKE IS CALLED REFORMER

Quebec Judge in Reply to Miss Hoey Indicates Doubt of Cure of Criminals.

CANADIAN TRIALS EXPLAINED

Lawyers and Jurists Say Speed of Procedure is Due to Lack of Technicalities.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTREAL, Quebec, Nov. 11.—R. L. Calder, formerly Crown Attorney for the District of Montreal, today gave the Crime Commission of the State of New York the first concrete suggestion it has received on its Canadian tour for the elimination of organized crime when he proposed that the automobile thief be punished as swiftly and severely as was the horse thief before the advent of motor vehicles.

"Car thefts," said Mr. Calder, "is the basis of organized crime. In other days the horse thief was hanged, not because of the value of the horses they stole, but for the reason that they used the stolen animals as a means of fleeing from their crimes, as the car thief now uses the stolen automobile. Car theft requires an organization of both money and brains. It is difficult to reach such an organization unless you can discover treachery in its ranks and by this means strike at the top men."

The commission, which concluded its three days' study of crime control and criminal justice in Canada with a public hearing in the Court of the King's Bench, heard freely expressed today the criticism of New York's anti-crime measures and methods, which it had openly invited.

Suggest Change in Jury System.

The Commissioners were told that their system of selecting juries was at the best, that a large part of public sympathy in the United States seemed to be for the criminal and that New York needed "tight-jawed prosecutors and detectives" who would not furnish the sensational section of the press with the kind of material they wanted. Mr. Calder, perhaps the most valued as well as one of the most liked Canadian officials who has addressed the commission, said also:

"In selecting your juries in New York you seem to think that the reading of newspapers by a prospective juror unfits him for jury duty because it means he has formed an opinion of the case in advance of the testimony. Illiterates do not read, and a man did not have to be an illiterate in order to be a fit and proper juror. It does not seem to select your juries very well, and your method of selection absolutely precludes the possibility of a quick trial.

"In Canada, public opinion is often the criminal. I fear that a large part of public opinion in the United States is for the criminal because he is picturesque. In your criminal trials there are apparently constant objections by counsel and rulings by the Court which necessarily delay the procedure."

Canada's "Sense of Affairs."

"I do not know why that situation has grown up in the States," interposed Thomas S. Rice of Brooklyn, a member of the commission, "but may I ask why it has not grown up in Canadian criminal practice as well?"

"Perhaps," replied Mr. Calder, "it is because we have developed a sense of affairs."

"My experience and observation," volunteered Walter S. Gedney, member of the commission from Nyack, "has been that in New York State when a man is elected District Attorney he seems to lose the essential viewpoint and his one aim appears to be to make a record for himself as a good prosecutor."

Mr. Calder answered that in Canada the Crown Attorneys were fair and impartial and were not governed by any such desire.

The Crime Commission, of which State Senator Caleb H. Baumes of Newburgh is Chairman and Assemblyman Burton D. Esmond, of Ballston Spa is Vice Chairman, began its Montreal public hearing at 10 A. M. The Commissioners were welcomed by Paul St. Germain, President of the Montreal Bar Association. In his reply Senator Baumes summed up in a paragraph the results of the commission's findings in the Dominion, but, as has been his regular policy, declined to indicate what action the commission might take. He said:

"We know now that you in Canada have laws in many ways superior to our own. Your swift methods of getting Grand Juries and petit juries and of catching your criminals before they have crossed your borders are impressive, as is also your system of cutting red tape and throwing technicalities out of the window in your criminal procedure.

Judge Explains Last Procedure.

Supreme Court Justice R. A. E. Greenshields, Dean of the Faculty of Law and Professor of Criminal Law in McGill University here, was the first speaker. He declared his belief that 95 per cent. of the persons found guilty of crime in Canada, after they had exhausted all their rights and remedies before and after conviction, actually were guilty.

"Our intention all along," said Justice Greenshields, "has been to do away with legal technicalities, which merely create a platform for forensic battles to place obstacles in the way of justice toward its final end. In 75 per cent. of the criminal cases in Quebec, unless something exceptional and unforeseen occurs, the final word is said and the guilt or innocence of the accused established within four or five months after his arrest.

"I have read with surprise reports that a man named Scott, in the States, is still alive. He must have been hanged several times. If a man is brought to the eve of execution under the English law, he will never be hanged. That is on the theory that he has been hanged already."

Justice Greenshields deplored the existence of a "seeming sloppy sentimentality for the bloodthirsty bandit" and declared that flowers intended for him should be sent to the grave of his victim.

"When I sentence a man to hang," Justice Greenshields continued, "he will shed the tears if there are any, and his will be the choking throat, not mine. Yet the purpose of our laws is remedial, not vengeful."

Miss Jane Hoey, New York City member of the commission, asked the Justice for an opinion on the reformation of criminals. The Justice drew a laugh with his opening sentence:

"Hanging is the most effective," he said. "I merely apply the law. I do not reform the prisoner. Probation, I believe, is an excellent thing, but the appointment of a parole board is extremely important. I consider that a man who is sent, for instance, to Bordeaux Prison for six months at this season, when cold weather is setting in, is lucky. His wife is left to fight life's battles alone while he is fed, kept warm and even entertained with moving pictures free of cost. It is all wrong. I suggest no remedy.

Lucien Gendron, K. C., a practicing attorney of Montreal, also addressed the commission and answered several questions. Following adjournment, the commissioners returned to the headquarters at the Windsor Hotel. Senator Baumes said that there would be no further study in Canada at this time and that the commission would separate tonight to meet at the call of the Chairman. Several members will remain in Montreal another day, but most of them will leave for their homes this evening.

Policeman Wakes From Sleep To Catch Prowler With Jimmy

Detective Frank Lyons of the Empire Boulevard Precinct in Brooklyn was enjoying a sound sleep after a tour of night duty yesterday morning when he heard a scraping sound at the door of his apartment at 215 Clarkson Avenue. At first Lyons thought that his wife Katherine, who had taken their daughter out for a walk, might be trying to get in. When the noise continued Lyons tiptoed to the door. He opened it suddenly and a young man, a total stranger, rolled into the dining room.

Lyons grappled with the stranger and after a struggle subdued him. In the intruder's pocket he found a number of keys and in the hallway outside of his apartment was a jimmy. It was the scraping of the latter instrument that had awakened Lyone. Lyons took the stranger to the Empire Boulevard Station, where he said he was Peter Cresnovo, 22, of 1,074 New York Avenue. He will be arraigned today in Flatbush Court charged with attempted burglary.

HOLD-UP VICTIMS BITE WAY TO FREEDOM

Tear Each Others Bonds Off With Their Teeth—Robbers Get $10,000 Jewelry.

Isidor Weisenfeld was preparing to close his pawnbroker shop at 859 Eighth Avenue about 8 o'clock last night and with his clerk, Benjamin Horowitz, was removing his goods from the show windows, when the front door was opened and a young man walked briskly in. The stranger laid a pawn ticket on the counter. Weisenfeld checked up the number and found it called for a watch.

As the pawnbroker started for the safe in the rear the front door again was opened and three more men entered. Weisenfeld after a casual glance paid no heed to them. After some difficulty he located the watch, set it, wound it and, as he walked back toward the customer, looking up, he saw the muzzles of four revolvers pointing at his head.

Weisenfeld and Horowitz were forced into the back room, made to lie on the floor and bound with rope and adhesive tape. Clothing was thrown over them. From the whispered conversations of two men who remained in the room, Weisenfeld knew that the others were ransacking his store.

Several minutes elapsed and the pawnbroker heard a voice in the store order "come on." He heard the hurried patter of four pairs of feet; the front door slammed. Then came the harsh grinding of gears as an automobile started, and the pawnbroker and his assistant rolled out from the clothing which had been piled on them.

Adhesive tape had been plastered liberally over their mouths, but by aiding each other they finally tore it away. With his teeth, Horowitz tore away the rope which bound the pawnbroker's hands, and soon both were free. They hurried to a telephone and notified the police. A check-up showed that the robbers had taken about $10,000 worth of jewelry.

PERILLI ON BELLEVUE BOARD

Dr. Charles A. to Succeed Late Brother as a Trustee.

Mayor Walker announced yesterday the appointment of Dr. Charles A. Perilli as a member of the Board of Trustees of Bellevue and Allied Hospitals, to succeed his brother, the late Dr. John W. Perilli, for the unexpired term ending Feb. 1, 1933.

Dr. Charles A. Perilli, born in Italy in 1885, came to New York when 8 years old. He was graduated from the Long Island Medical College in 1908, later practising as a physician and surgeon. He is a member of the New York County Medical Society. Dr. Perilli served as instructor in gynecology at the New York Post Graduate Medical School and is now connected with the dermatology department of Bellevue Hospital. He is Vice President of the Pennsylvania Exchange Bank, former trustee of the Child Welfare Committee and a member of the Huron Club. He lives at 46 Watts Street and his office is at 105 West Eleventh Street, Manhattan.

A. D. CLOUGH DIES IN AUTO.

Garden City Man Killed in Pennsylvania Collision.

DUBOIS, Pa., Nov. 11 (AP).—A. D. Clough, 52, of Garden City, L. I., Treasurer of the New York and Pennsylvania Paper Company, with offices in New York, was killed near here tonight when his automobile hit another on a hill.

Joseph Jones of Punxsutawney, who was in the other machine, suffered concussion of the brain and was brought to a hospital here.

With Clough, on an inspection trip of the company's plants, was B. F. Stock of Lock Haven, general manager for the concern, and J. Walsh and E. Christenson, auditors, from New York. They were unhurt.

HOT LIQUOR FIGHT DUE IN LEGISLATURE

Assembly Battle Will Start Over Jenks's Aspiration to Be His Party's Floor Leader.

STRONG OPPOSITION TO HIM

In Spite of Referendum Vote, Jenks Is Expected Again to Seek a State Enforcement Law.

Prohibition promises to become an agitating topic at next year's session of the Legislature from the moment the opening gavel falls. The wet and dry question, according to early indications, will figure in the selection of a Republican floor leader, which will be one of the first acts of next year's Assembly. Edmund B. Jenks, Assemblyman from Broome and dry leader in the lower house, is an aspirant for that position.

Mr. Jenks has made it known to the Republican leaders that he is anxious to step into the place that became vacant with the retirement of Assemblyman Simon L. Adler of Monroe, who for more than ten years has been floor leader. Mr. Jenks has encountered active opposition from Speaker Joseph A. McGinnies, who is credited with having said Mr. Jenks could become majority leader of the Assembly "only over his dead body."

Mr. McGinnies is said to be committed to Assemblyman Russell G. Dunmore of Oneida County for that position. Mr. Dunmore, who won reelection, is also said to be the choice of the Republican State organization, even though objection to him has been advanced from others besides the supporters of Mr. Jenks, who are believed to be few. Mr. Dunmore called upon State Chairman George K. Morris at headquarters in East Forty-first Street yesterday for a conference. Mr. Dunmore has served five consecutive terms in the Assembly. Mr. Jenks has an even longer record of unbroken service, which goes back to 1917.

Object to Dry Stand.

The objection to Mr. Jenks by the leaders is the extreme stand he has taken in favor of dry legislation and the readiness with which he has lent his services to the Anti-Saloon League. At the legislative session this year, Speaker McGinnies and other Republican leaders in the Legislature were anxious to block the introduction of a State prohibition enforcement bill. It was understood that Mr. McGinnies had personally appealed to Mr. Jenks not to put in the bill which subsequently was introdnced nnder Anti-Saloon League auspices and that Mr. Jenks had promised, but afterward had sponsored this measure, which was saved from defeat in the lower house only by Speaker McGinnies, who adopted the unusual course of casting the vote that saved it.

Talk among Republicans in Broome indicates that Mr. Jenks will go to Albany next year prepared to play as uncompromising a part as ever in the promotion of Anti-Saloon League legislation. Despite the overwhelming majority in favor of modification of the Volstead law at the recent election, the Anti-Saloon League is again preparing to have introduced a State enforcement bill virtually the same as the Federal statute and is looking to Mr. Jenks again to introduce its legislation in the lower house and to the Senator from Broome, B. Roger Wales, to eponsor it in the Senate.

In view of the big State vote for modification, there is reason to believe that dry legislation will have an even harder time in the Legislature next year than it had at this year's session.

Speaker McGinnies will be re-elected to the position he now fills and probably will be an even more influential figure in the Legislature next year than he has been. Senator John Knight of Wyoming is slated for re-election as temporary President of the Senate.

COUNTESS KAROLYI DROPS KELLOGG SUIT

Withdraws Court Action in Washington to Force State Department to Admit Her.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Countess Catherine Karolyi, wife of Count Michael Karolyi of Hungary, who was refused admission to this country by Frank B. Kellogg, Secretary of State, formally dismissed her mandamus suit against Mr. Kellogg today in the Circuit Court of the District of Columbia.

The object of the suit was to have the Court compel Mr. Kellogg to instruct the American Consul General in Paris to visa the passport of the Countess so that she could again visit this country.

Dispatches from Montreal this morning quoted Countess Karolyi as saying that she would dismiss the suit, and the action taken in the court here today was by her order.

The Countess was denied a visa by the State Department in October, 1925, and soon afterward brought action against Secretary Kellogg. Mr. Kellogg, through Assistant District Attorney Leo A. Rover, answered the mandamus suit and stated that the Countess belonged to the class of aliens not admissible and that the law on that subject empowered him to use his own discretion.

The dismissal of the mandamus suit, ordered by Messrs. Howe, Swayze & Bradley, counsel for the Countess, leaves two important questions undecided. They are the right of the Secretary of State to use his discretion in such matters and the right of a non-resident alien to maintain a suit in an American court.

SALE TO AID THE BLIND.

Fifth Annual Event of State Commission to Start Next Monday.

The fifth annual Christmas sale of the New York State Commission for the Blind will be held at the Italian Gardens at the Hotel Biltmore beginning next Monday and continuing through Saturday, Nov. 27, according to an announcement yesterday. The sale will be in charge of a committee of women of all church denominations in the city.

All the articles offered will be made by the blind, with the exception of two, which will be from the Disabled Ex-Service Man's Shop of the Dug Out, and the Old Men's Toy Shop of the New York Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor, both of which organizations are cooperating.

Each of the twelve days of the sale will be in charge of one church denomination.

New York Day at Sesquicentennial Today; Walker, City Officials and Bands to Be There

Mayor Walker, accompanied by Controller Berry, Aldermanic President Joseph V. McKee, many of the chiefs of the City Administration, the Board of Estimate and the Board of Aldermen, and escorted by 800 men of the uniformed forces of the Police and Fire Departments, will go this morning by special trains to Philadelphia to take part in the celebration of New York Day at the Sesquicentennial Exposition. The Municipal Band, the Police Glee Club and the Police and Fire Department Bands also will go.

The fire and police contingents will leave Pennsylvania Station at 9 o'clock and arrive in Philadelphia at 11 o'clock They will be met by the John Wanamaker cadets and will attend a luncheon in the Wanamaker store.

The special train carrying Mayor Walker and other city officials will leave at 10 o'clock. At Philadelphia the guests will be met by Mayor Kendrick and a local reception committee, and entertained at luncheon at the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel.

The uniformed forces of the New York Police and Fire Departments will assemble at 1:30 P. M. for a parade, with Mayor Walker acting as their Grand Marshal and Grover A. Whalen Chief of Staff.

In another division, headed by Aldermanic President McKee and the Municipal Band, will be the members of the Board of Estimate, the Board of Aldermen, Commissioners of the city departments, members of the Tammany Society, under the leadership of Grand Sachem John R. Voorhis, the veteran Chairman of the Board of Elections; delegations from the St. Nicholas Society, the Mechanics and Tradesmen's Society, the American Legion, Sons of the Revolution, Colonial Dames and a detachment of the Philadelphia police. At Independence Hall Mayor Kendrick will formally welcome Mayor Walker and the New York delegations.

In Federal Hall, at 2 P. M., there will be addresses by George Gordon Battle, Guy Van Amringe, President of the St. Nicholas Society; Mr. Voorhis, Mayor Kendrick, Mayor Walker and Grover A. Whalen. At 4:45, Mr. Battle will present a New York State flag to the Women's Committee of Philadelphia.

In the evening there will be a dinner to the New Yorkers at the Benjamin Franklin Hotel. The Mayor's special train will leave for New York at 10 o'clock tonight.

REPUBLICANS DRAFT WELFARE PROGRAM

Koenig Advisory Committee Plans to End Smith Monopoly on Social Legislation.

WOULD SAFEGUARD MILK

Studies Pension, Hospital and Health Laws to Suggest Changes—Housing Also Taken Up.

Governor Smith and the Democratic legislators will not enjoy their usual monopoly on the initiation of so-called social welfare measures at next year's session of the Legislature. The Republicans will have a welfare program of their own which in the form of legislative bills will be placed before that body soon after it convenes on the first Wednesday in January.

The details are being worked out by the Republican Welfare Advisory Committee, of which Harold Riegelman, a lawyer, of 67 Wall Street, is the Chairman. The committee, which was created early last Summer at the request of Samuel S. Koenig, Chairman of the New York County Republican Committee, held its initial meeting, preceded by a dinner given by the Chairman, at the National Republican Club on Wednesday night.

The committee developed a social welfare plank which the Committee on Resolutions of the last Republican State Convention, and subsequently the convention itself, accepted without change. This plank calls for legislation along the following lines:

1—Modernization of the poor law. This topic, after a policy had been determined upon at Wednesday night's meeting, was assigned to Homer Folks, Chairman of the State Charities Aid Association, to develop and report at a future meeting of the committee.

2—Additional safeguards for urban milk supplies. Mrs. John T. Pratt, the only woman member of the Aldermanic Board, was assigned to work out a general plan for improvement of the milk supply.

3—Enlargement of the mothers' pension law to provide adequately for orphans. A. A. Berle, a lawyer, will study this subject.

4—Improved hospitalization with suitable clinical facilities. Homer Folks and Miss Elsie Bond, Executive Secretary of the State Charities Aid Association, were put to work jointly on this subject.

5—Public health protection was also assigned to Mr. Folks and Miss Bond.

7—Further provision for inexpensive housing. Charles H. Tuttle, lawyer, and Stanley M. Isaacs, Trustee of the United Neighborhood House, will work on this topic.

The meeting was attended by the following members: Mr. Riegelman, Mr. Tuttle, Mr. Folks, James H. Hubert, Secretary of the New York Urban League; Mrs. Pratt, Mr. Isaacs, Miss Ellen A. G. Phillips, District Superintendent of Schools; the Rev. William B. Millar, General Secretary of the New York Federation of Churches; Miss Jeanie Minor, Secretary of the New York Child Labor Committee; Mrs. William D. Vanamee, secretary to the President of the Academy of Arts and Letters, and Miss Bond.

DOCTOR IS UNLICENSED.

X-Ray Man at House of Health Has No Permit, Hearing Reveals.

Testimony yesterday in the hearing of charges of fraud and deceit brought against Dr. Leonard L. Landis, the proprietor of the House of Health, before the State Board of Medical Examiners at the Academy of Medicine, revealed that Dr. Joseph Krobalski, X-ray man at the house for eighteen months, was not licensed to practice medicine in any State, and that Dr. Landis had been so informed when he was engaged.

Dr. Krobalski, cross-examined by Deputy Attorney General Sol Ullman, said that he was a graduate of the College of Physicians and Surgeons at Boston, and that he was accustomed to place an M. D. after his name on stationery and cards. He said that he had attempted to obtain a license in this State, but that the Board of Regents did not recognize the school from which he was graduated.

MANY OWNERS FIGHT TAX ASSESSMENTS

Ex-Judge Talley Files Protests on Real Estate Valued at More Than $20,000,000.

CENTRAL PARK WEST HIT

Rents Cut by Subway Work, Asserts Petition — Yankee Stadium and Grand Central Ask Reduction.

Owners of old and new apartments on Central Park West have had to reduce rents because of the objections of tenants to the construction of the subway in that neigbborhood and owners of buildings in other prominent locations have had to cut rents until the yield in some instances is only 2 per cent., it was announced yesterday by former Judge Alfred J. Talley of the law firm of Talley & Lamb, after he had filed applications for the reduction of assessments on real estate valued at more than $20,000,000.

The applications for the redncton were made to the Commissioner of Taxes and Assessments, and were in behalf of owners of property on Broadway, Fifth Avenue, Lexington Avenue, Madison Avenue, Central Park West, Yorkville and the Bronx.

One of the applications was for the redncton of the assessment on the Yankee Stadium, which was assessed this year at $2,250,000, an increase of $275,000. Another was the Grand Central Palace, assessed at $4,850,000, an increase of $300,000. A third was 266 Madison Avenue, assessed at $2,675,000, an increase of $85,000, while others were the Jacob Ruppert Brewery, assessed at $2,063,000; 313 Fourth Avenue, $1,725,000; 424 Fourth Avenue, $1,050,000; 2,200 Broadway, $2,050,000, and 1,170 Broadway, $1,300,000.

"It is apparent that owners of real estate, especially in Manhattan and the Bronx, do not intend to accept without protest the general increases in assessments on New York real estate," said Mr. Talley. "Owners of property on Madison and Fifth Avenues, where taxes have been steadily mounting year after year, are especially anxious for an opportunity this year to show the Tax Commissioners that the valuations placed upon their properties are not justified.

"The owners on Central Park West feel that their cases are exceptional, in that the building of the subway has worked great havoc to their buildings by reason of the fact that their tenants have refused to pay any rent for their apartments because of the obstruction on the sidewalks and the disorder created about the buildings.

"Despite the general opinion to the contrary, we have found the Tax Department willing to make corrections when substantial reasons are shown, and we feel confident that not only will a fair and proper hearing be given to property owners this year, but that serious consideration will be given to whatever matters are called to their attention and that reductions will be made in proper cases."

COMES TO LEFKOWITZ'S AID.

J. P. Ryan Says If He Is Fit to Teach He Should Be Promoted.

Joseph P. Ryan, President of the Central Trades and Labor Council and a member of the Citizens' Committee of One Hundred on Intellectual Freedom for Teachers, attacked yesterday the report made on Wednesday by the Board of Superintendents to the Board of Education of the city school system, explaining why the Board of Superintendents had refused to promote Dr. Abraham Lefkowitz, high school teacher and alleged radical.

"If Dr. Lefkowitz is capable of holding a position in the public school system as a teacher, he is capable of being a first assistant," said Mr. Ryan. "Associate Superintendent Mandel, in the report of the Board of Superintendents, charges Dr. Lefkowitz with acts of radicalism back in 1919. But his views have changed since then. His judgment has matured. He is not as radical as he has been pictured. We must remember that much has transpired since 1919. The political prisoners arrested during the war have been released. Why should Dr. Lefkowitz be denied promotion now because of things that happened seven years ago?"

HOUDINI'S LIBRARY VALUED AT $500,000

Will Divides It Among Widow, the Nation and Society for Psychical Research.

BEQUESTS TO HIS RELATIVES

No Explanation of Magician's Many Tricks Found Yet, but Papers Still Await Close Examination.

Harry Houdini's private safety deposit box in the Lincoln Trust Company, at 60 East Forty-second Street, was opened yesterday under a court order. A will was found which contained no intimation of the size of his estate, but which left most of it to his widow, his brothers and a sister. During the afternoon the will was filed by representatives of the safety deposit company at the Surrogates' Court.

It was said by Bernard M. L. Ernst of 25 West Forty-third Street, Houdini's attorney, that most of the magician's fortune had probably been invested in his library, estimated to be worth $500,000. The books are to be divided among the Congressional Library at Washington, the American Society for Psychical Research and Mrs. Houdini.

Surrogate O'Brien signed an order for the opening of the safety deposit box early in the week. Officials of the State Tax Department opened it. The will was discovered among a mass of other papers which were not examined because the Surrogate's order expressly provided that the will only was to be taken and that it was to be filed at once.

No Explanation of Tricks.

Nothing developed when the box was opened, it was said last night, to determine definitely whether the papers it contained included the explanation of the tricks which for many years have mystified even other magicians and which remain wholly unexplained. The remaining documents will be examined in detail later.

The will, which was executed July 30, 1924, closed with the words "formerly Erich Weiss"—which was Houdini's original name—after his signature. It provides for the payment of his debts and funeral expenses and directs that the Machpelah Cemetery Association, Fresh Pond Road, Queens, receive $1,000 for the perpetual care of the lots where he is buried beside his mother. No other member of the family is to be interred there, the will stipulates. A bronze bust of himself, made by Cassidy of Manchester, England, is to be placed at his grave on an exedra erected by the magician.

His "new mysteries and illusions" and the accompanying paraphernalia are given to his brother, Theodore Frank Weiss, known professionally as "Hardeen." It is provided that they are to be destroyed upon his brother's death. Theodore is requested to give $50 a year for twenty years to another brother, William Godfried Weiss, on each June 16, the anniversary of their mother's birth. Should William die before the end of twenty years, it is asked that the gift be made annually to his son, Samuel Weiss.

The American Society for Psychical Research, at 44 West Twenty-third Street, is to receive Houdini's collection of books, pamphlets, letters and the like relating to spiritualism, occultism and psychical research. His widow is to be the sole judge of what constitutes this collection.

Wants Name Attached to Gift.

His entire library and collection of programs, excepting his dramatic library and the collection referred to above, is given to the Congressional Library at Washington, provided the gift is accepted and is permitted to be known as "the Donated Library of the late Harry Houdini," or by "some other like suitable designation."

If the Congressional Library refuses to accept the gift and the attached condition it is to go to the New York Public Library with the same stipulation. If the New York Public Library declines to take it it will then revert to his widow to dispose of.

Three of Houdini's assistants, Franz Kukol, James H. Vickery and James O. Collins, get $500 each and the Society of American Magicians receives $1,000.

The residue of the estate, real and personal, is left in trust to the Bankers Trust Company, which is to convert it into cash and invest the money in first mortgages on approved real estate in Manhattan. The income of the trust fund thus created is to be paid every six months, in equal shares, to his widow, a sister and four brothers.

Houdini names his widow as executrix. His brother Nathan is to be her successor at her death. Should both die, the Bankers Trust Company is appointed executor.

TO ACCEPT HOUDINI GIFT.

Librarian of Congress Says Condition Will Not Bar Bequest.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Herbert Putnam, Librarian of Congress, declared tonight there was no question that the Congrsssional Library would be willing to accept Harry Houdini's literary collection under the terms stipulated in his will, requiring that a title be carried indicating it was donated by the magician.

Mr. Putnam has received no direct information concerning the bequest.

"I shouldn't have any question of it," said Mr. Putnam tonight when asked if the terms would be accepted. He added that he knew the collection only by hearsay, but understood it was remarkable.

"When a man who has the interest and very great sincerity Houdini had, and sufficient means also, and devotes himself to research for such material in which at the time there is not much competition, it stands to reason that he must gather material of great interest," Mr. Putnam added.

Wife Has Bandmaster Jailed.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Nov. 11.—Lieutenant W. S. Mygrant, 64 years old, a musician and bandmaster, was held today for a hearing tomorrow on the complaint of his wife, who turned over a .45-calibre pistol to the police, saying she had been frightened by her husband's actions. The accused was bandmaster of the Thirteenth Regiment of Brooklyn from 1897 to 1911, of the First New York Field Artillery from 1915 to 1917 and of the Seventh Regiment in 1918 and 1919.

Clock Made Wholly of Straw Built by German in 2 Years

BERLIN, Nov. 11 (AP).—A clock made entirely of straw is the latest exhibit of the skill in clockmaking which has long made the little town of Goslar, in the Hartz Mountains, celebrated for its novel and artistic timepieces.

It took Karl Reichert, the maker, two years to fashion the novel timekeeper, which stands nearly six feet high and in which not only the case and the twelve wheels of the clockwork but the weights and the pendulum also have straw as their material. Even the little bolts and strips which hold the clock together are made of straw.

HUSBAND'S ACCUSER RECANTS AS HE DIES

Wife Lays Tale That He Tried to Kill Her to Hysteria Due to Accident.

RELATIVE BACKS HER UP

Says Mrs. Luppino Is Not Insured—Hurts Fatal to Man Who Drove Auto Into River.

George Luppino, former United States sailor, of 373 Hoyt Street, Brooklyn, who while on his way with his wife to the opera on Wednesday night drove his automobile off the bulkhead at the foot of Broad Street, died early yesterday morning in Bellevue Hospital. His wife Helen, who got out of the car before it toppled into the water, recanted after her husband's death statements she made to the police in voicing her suspicion that her husband had deliberately planned the accident so that he might collect insurance on her life.

"I was very hysterical and excited last night and am not responsible for what I said then," she said.

The denial was supplemented by B. F. Bonifacio, of 95 Liberty Street, Brooklyn, a relative of Mrs. Luppino. He is in the insurance business and he said that while he had written policies amounting to $25,000 on the life of Luppino, there was no risk carried upon Mrs. Luppino. She had been unable to pass a physical examination, he said.

The statement by Mrs. Luppino was made public by Charles Winkelman of the law firm of Levy & Becker, 27 William Street, by whom Luppino had been employed for a year and a half. Following accusation made by Mrs. Luppino, who had to be treated for hysteria after the accident, Luppino was charged with assault in the first degree.

Husband Considerate, She Says.

"The story printed in the newspapers about my husband attempting to kill me is an absolute falsehood," Mrs. Luppino said. "He was a very good and considerate husband to me, always taking good care of me and our daughter, aged 6 years. Last night we intended going to the opera. I still have the two opera tickets. On our way over he told me he had to go to the Broad Street Hospital to see some one. We had trouble with the car, I suppose on account of the cold weather, and the motor was continually stalling. As we left the hospital we were having more trouble with the car and he got out to fix it. I also got out and then he got into the car and started to drive it again.

"He seemed to lose control of the car completely and it went over the dock into the river. This was after I had got out of it with him and he attempted to fix it.

"I loved my husband and he loved me. We never quarreled about anything. If the newspapers say I claimed he attempted to kill me, it is false, for I never said anything like it. As a matter of fact he saved his sister from drowning about two years ago. He saved me from drowning in New Haven about six years ago, before our baby was born. I was very hysterical and excited last night and am not responsible for what I said.

"With reference to the occurrences printed in the newspapers that there was a mysterious open gas jet which made me ill in New Haven, there is no foundation for that at all. As a matter of fact we all took sick in New Haven about five weeks ago, when we went to visit his mother. We became sick as a result of eating poisoned mushrooms, my husband becoming the most affected.

"I want to repeat again that what happened last night was a very unfortunate occurrence. I do not charge my husband with attempting to do me any harm at all. He was a very temperate man, never drank, and was a good and dutiful husband to me."

Mrs. Helen Luppino, who is 26 years old, eloped with her husband, then a sailor in the navy, at Bordeaux, France, in 1919. Luppino was investigator for the law firm.

FULTON FISH MARKET SWEPT BY FLAMES

Blaze in Building Where Gov. Smith Worked as Youth Lights Lower Manhattan.

The Fulton Fish Market, at South and Beekman Streets, where Governor Alfred E. Smith worked as a youth, was swept by fire early this morning. At 2:30 A. M. firemen were still battling with flames that lighted up all lower Manhattan.

The fire was discovered in the top floor of the three-story building by Patrolman Curran of the Oak Street Station. By the time he had turned in an alarm the flames and smoke were pouring through the roof of the structure which housed a number of fish companies as well as a cooperage where barrels and boxes used in the fish packing industry were made.

Soon after the first fire companies arrived a call was sent in for fireboats.

No one was believed to have been in the building when the fire started. The cause was not learned. The fish market has been a landmark in the neighborhood for many years.

$34,800,000 EXTRA BY GENERAL MOTORS

Special Dividend of $4 a Share Makes Payment for Quarter Exceed $50,000,000.

$110,000,000 FOR THIS YEAR

SURPRISE FOR WALL STREET

Distribution Not Expected Because of Recent Increase of Stock as Bonus to Shareholders.

More than $50,000,000 in dividends was passed along yesterday to stockholders of the General Motors Corporation out of the fattest profits ever earned by any American industrial organization. By declaring an extra of $4 a share on the common stock in addition to the regular disbursements on common and preferred, the directors surprised Wall Street by their generosity and gave striking evidence of the unexampled prosperity which the company is enjoying.

A large portion of the financial community had been convinced that no extra disbursemsnt would be made by General Motors at this time. The recent 50 per cent. stock dividend, which increased the ontstanding common shares to nearly 9,000,000, seemed to have made such a declaration exceedingly unlikely. The action of the stock recently has been strongly suggestive of Wall Street's conviction that the stockholders would have to be satisfied with the regular disbursements.

For these reasons Wall Street received a decidedly pleasant surprise yesterday afternoon when, soon after the stock market had closed, the directors of General Motors announced that an extra dividend of $4 a share would be paid on the common stock on Jan. 4, 1927, to stockholders of record of Nov. 20, 1926. This will be in addition to the regular quarterly dividend on this stock of $1.75 a share payable on Dec. 11 to stockholders of record of Nov. 20. The regular dividends on the preferred and debenture stocks were also declared, payable on Feb. 1, 1927, to stockholders of record of Jan. 10, 1927.

President's Statement.

"The action on the part of the board dealing with the extra dividend, involving the disbursement of $34,800,000," President Alfred P. Sloan Jr. announced, "is the best possible evidence—and I believe all that need be said—as to not only the general position of the corporation from the standpoint of its current business and its financial position, but it also expresses the confidence of the directors as to the future."

Yesterday's dividend declarations bring the total disbursements ordered or paid by the corporation during the year to more than $110,000,000.

Evidence of the General Motors Corporation's unprecedented prosperity during 1926 had already been furnished in statements of earnings for the third quarter of the year and the first three quarters. The report for the nine months revealed a net income of $148,317,853, as compared with $90,921,018 in the corresponding period of 1925. After deducting $5,733,325 for dividends on the preferred stocks, there remained $143,584,228 applicable to the common stock. This was equivalent to $17.77 a share, as contrasted with $9.71 a share in the same period of 1925, after making allowance for the difference in the number of shares outstanding. Net earnings for the full year are expected to exceed $200,000,000.

Big Share to du Pont.

About one-fourth of the dividends ordered yesterday will go to E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., Inc., whose holdings of General Motors common stock as of Dec. 31, 1925, amounted to 1,330,829 shares, about equal to the number of du Pont shares then outstanding. The du Pont holdings of General Motors were increased subsequently by the 50 per cent. stock dividend of General Motors and the du Pont organization then passed that disbursement along by splitting its own stock on the basis of two new shares for each one of old owned.

If the du Pont company follows its custom it will pass along to its stockholders in the form of an extra dividend the $4 extra cash disbursement ordered by General Motors yesterday.

PRAYS AS COURT FREES HIM

Negro Falls to Knees When Murder Indictment Is Dismissed.

When Judge Morris Koenig in General Sessions granted a motion yesterday to dismiss an indictment for first-degree murder against Marian J. Burrell, a negro, the released prisoner walked to a bench in the corridor, fell upon his knees and offered a fervent and loud prayer of thanksgiving. Burrell is 28 years old and lives at 226 West 124th Street.

He was accused of having killed Anton Corea, another Harlem negro, on Sept. 26, during a "rent raising party" at the home of Mrs. William Deas, 412 Lenox Avenue. A crap game was in progress and on every "pass" 5 cents was taken for the rent fund.

The row started when Corea, who was a big winner, became indignant over the five-cent "cut." Burrell is alleged to have stabbed him. He was arrested and indicted. An investigation by Assistant District Attorney George N. Brothers, however, showed that Burrell had acted in self-defense, and so he moved for the discharge of the prisoner. Burrell's employers testified they considered him so trustworthy that he was sent to the bank for the weekly payrolls.

15,000 AT PIMLICO TRACK

By HENRY R. ILSLEY.

Special to The New York Times.

PIMLICO, Md., Nov. 11.—Rip Rap, carrying the white silks with the green and white striped sleeves of the Sage Stable, this afternoon vindicated the belief of his owner, H. W. Sage, and his trainer, Max Hirsch, that he deserved a better place than ninth in the running of the Futurity Stakes. He led home a field of fourteen smart juveniles in the twenty-first running of the Walden Stakes today over the mile course.

A crowd of more than 15,000, almost as large as that which turned out on Futurity day, took advantage of the holiday to journey here for the featured number of the tenth day of the Autumn meeting.

The important juvenile number was favored by a good track, although the racing strip was far from at its keenest and it took Rip Rap 1:41 to negotiate the distance, under his 119 pounds.

The son of Broomstick and Sky Blue came from well back after a slow start to gain a nose victory over Walter J. Salmon's Black Panther. Steve O'Donnell had the mount on the winner, which earned $11,250 for his owner. Rip Rap was well played and paid his backers $11.70 for each two-dollar ticket in the mutuels.

Cold Weather Rules.

The weather continued unseasonably cold and only at intervals did the sun break through gray clouds, but the sharp breeze was a factor in improving the course after the recent deluge. The holiday assemblage enjoyed an afternoon of first-class racing.

Rip Rap had faced the barrier only three times before he lined up for the Walden. Two of these had been victories, his début having been made at Yonkers. In the Futurity he was one of the unfortunates that broke in the middle of the line where all the jamming occurred.

Five were scratched from the overnight entry of nineteen and the remainder gave James Milton ten tough minutes at the post. He finally got the youngsters away well aligned and to a good start. There was practically no crowding and they were well bunched in the rush to the first turn.

Rip Rap had drawn one of the outside positions and O'Donnell had no chance to get into the contention in the early stages. D. C. Sands's filly Burd Helen had the early foot and was the first to show, with the Rancocas Stable's Sweepster forcing the pace. The Rancocas entry of Sweepster and Sankari was the heavily played favorite backed to odds on and the white silks carried the proverbial ton of the public's money.

Fator Goes to the Front.

Fator, going up on the outside, soon went into the lead, with Walter J. Salmon's Black Panther at his withers. The Greentree Stable's Lodina was close to them, while Earl Sande now brought Sankari up into the mêlée. It was anybody's race around the last turn.

O'Donnell now brought Rip Rap up with his challenge and the colt fought it out with great determination, just getting up to nose out Black Panther, which had disposed of the rest of the opposition. Four lengths back came Sweepster, which was unable to hold the pace in the final drive and he was leading Lodina by half a length. The fractional times of the race were as follows: 0:23 1-5, 0:48 2-5, 1:13 2-5, 1:41.

Starter Milton had no such luck in dispatching the field of five in the following event at a mile and a sixteenth and he felt the full force of public disapproval as he came down from the starter's box.

When the barrier rose H. G. Bedwell's Cudgelier was partly turned and Peternel was not ready. To make matters worse, Fator was not ready with the Rancocas Stable's filly Nedana and when the barrier was sprung she swung over and knocked Cudgelier completely out of it. When Fator came back to the scales he received as many boos as had Milton.

Walter M. Jeffords's Edith Cavell was an easy winner of the Stafford Handicap, a gallop of a mile and a furlong, defeating six others over the long route. Johnny Callahan let the Log Cabin Stable's High Star show the way to the far turn, where he called on the daughter of Man o' War, and she came on nicely to win by a couple of lengths. High Star had just enough left to take the place by a nose from the Xalapa Farm's For Ever and Ever.

Goullet, After a Year's Rest, Enters Garden Six-Day Race

Special to The New York Times.

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 11.—Alfred Goullet, bicycle star, who has won more six-day races than any rider in the world, today signed a contract to ride in the six-day bicycle race in Madison Square Garden from Dec. 5 to 11. Goullet's last race was just a year ago, when he competed after an illness and did not make a very good showing. Goullet said today that he feels better than at any time in his life and with the year's rest he has had expects to ride as good as ever. Goullet has won twelve six-day races.

LUPINE JUST LASTS TO WIN

Fights Off Challenge of Ice in Final Furlong of Third Race to Score by a Neck.

Special to The New York Times.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Nov. 11.—Stuyvesant Peabody's Luke McLuke gelding, T. S. Jordan, was hustled into the lead by Jockey L. Pichon shortly after the start of the Armistice Day Purse, the carded feature, and went on to a four-length victory here today. Rosebee was closest in pursuit of the winner over the Futurity course, but never seriously menaced his lead. Great Sport tired fast in the stretch, but lasted to take the show from the favorite, Stampdale, which ran a poor race.

Lupine had an easy time of it in the third race, also over the Futurity course, until the final furlong, when Ice closed with a burst of speed, and failed to nip Lupine at the wire only by the narrow margin of a neck.

KENTUCKY DERBY MAY 14.

Winn Announces Date of Next Year's Renewal of Racing Classic.

FRENCH LICK, Ind., Nov. 11 (AP).—Next year's Kentucky Derby will be run Saturday, May 14, Colonel Matt Winn of the Kentucky Jockey Club, who is arranging his Spring schedule here, said today. Colonel Winn plans to open Churchill Downs May 7. This preparatory step was taken, Colonel Winn said, because of the record-breaking attendance expected at the race. The entrance of The Satrap, William du Pont's recently purchased two-year-old champion of England, adds an international aspect.

4 WORLD'S RECORDS FOR AUTOS BROKEN

Bennie Hill Sets New Marks for Five and Ten Miles in Sprint Races at Charlotte.

HARTZ BETTERS OLD TIME

Speeds 50 Miles at Average of 129 Miles an Hour—Duray Wins the 100-Mile Race.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Nov. 11 (AP).—Four world's records were shattered in the American Automobile Championship Sprint Races here today, speedway officials announced tonight.

Bennie Hill of New York City captured the crown held by Earl Cooper for five miles by covering the distance at an average speed of 130.369 miles per hour. Cooper's record was 127.659. Hill also bettered his own record for ten miles by making this distance at 131.32 miles per hour. His previous record of 129.496 was made at Salem, N. H.

Lockhart Wins the Race.

Both of Hill's records were made in the first 25-mile race, which was won by Frank Lockhart of Dayton, Ohio, at the record speed of 132.3 miles an hour. Lockhart took the crown for this event from Leon Duray of Beverly Hills, Cal., who had negotiated the distance at 130.39.

Harry Hartz of Pomona, Cal., set a new record for the 50-mile distance by roaring around the mile and quarter speedway at an average speed of 129.35 miles per hour, which eclipsed the 128.23 mark made by Peter De Paolo at Salem last July.

Duray Takes 100-Mile Event.

Leon Duray won the 100-mile feature. Lockhart had the race sewed up until the connecting rod of his car broke and he was compelled to withdraw on the forty-fourth lap. At that time he was approximately a mile and a quarter ahead of Duray.

Lockhart's car also developed engine trouble in the fifty-mile event. Bennie Hill became ill after the race. Lockhart climbed into Hill's machine and immediately took the lead in the 100-mile race, which was retained until he was forced out. Duray's average speed was 122.8 miles per hour.

Cold blasts chilled the 12,000 persons who witnessed the races. Several bonfires were built in the infield.

Before the first sprint, a contest was held to determine who could change the tire of a racing automobile the quickest. Dick Doyle, chief mechanic for Duray, won by making the change in 13.1 seconds.

Edith Cavell was rushed up on the outside and took the lead at the far turn. She drew away to win nicely in hand. High Star displayed plenty of speed, but weakened fast. Forever and Ever dropped back at the half-mile pole, but came again and was a fast-going third. Cloudland ran a poor race. Edisto was practically left, having no chance with the start. He displayed great speed and ran up to a contending position, but the effort told. King Solomon's Seal was running strongly at the end.

KANSAS ELEVEN BEATS OKLAHOMA BY 10 TO 9

Goal From Field in Last Minute Causes Downfall of the Conquerors of Missouri.

Special to The New York Times.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 11.—A place kick from the field in the final minute of play gave Kansas University a 10 to 9 victory over Oklahoma, conquerors of Missouri last Saturday, in a Missouri Valley Conference game here today. The game was replete with thrills from start to finish. Oklahoma, the favorite, was the first to score, getting a touchdown in the middle of the opening period, but the try for the extra point failed.

Kansas speeded up its attack in the second period and soon scored a touchdown to tie the score. The try for the point after touchdown was successful, and Kansas gained the lead. However, in the final period Oklahoma scored on a drop-kick from the field with only eight minutes to play and took the lead by 9 to 7.

The outcome looked bad for Kansas, but the university eleven refused to be downed, and with only a minute left to play a chance for a placement kick presented itself and Kansas took advantage of it to gain the lead by a one-point margin. The game soon ended.

MRS. HOOVER'S CHOW GETS BEST IN SHOW

Ch. Choonam Brilliantine Also Best of Winners in Exhibition at Waldorf Astoria.

MAXOWN MODEL RESERVE

Surprises by Gaining Honor Over Moosilauke Pao H'Sia—Solo Chink Scores.

Mrs. H. Earl Hoover of Glencoe, Ill., scored a popular victory in the annual specialty show of the Chow Chow Club on the Roof Garden of the Waldorf-Astoria yesterday when her famous imported dog Champion Choonam Brilliantine went to best of winners and best of breed over a high-class entry. It was an expected verdict, for this importation has been winning consistently for the past year. One of the few dogs which has beaten Brilliantine, C. E. Libbey's Mr. McElwyn, was not entered yesterday.

But if the declaration of the best in breed was expected, the naming of Wallace McMonnies's puppy bitch, Maxown Model, reserve to Brilliantine, created a stir in the gallery. The young female was shown in rather bad coat, but the judge, Mrs. Adnah Neyhart, of Framingham Center, Mass., liked the type of Maxown Model better than that of the beautifully coated Moosilauke Pao H'Sia, owned by Dr. William S. Baer. Maxown Model has good expression and wonderful carriage of ears. Pao H'Sia went reserve winners in bitches.

Mrs. David Wagstaff's Ledgelands's Solo Chink went to the reserve ribbon in dogs behind Champion Choonam Brilliantine.

Dr. William S. Baer's Moosilauke Kennels of Baltimore scored the greatest number of first places, taking five in all. Moosilauke Pao Kien went first in red novice dogs; Moosilauke Pao Wing to first in novice dogs of any other color, and to first in open cream colored dogs; Moosilauke Jo Ning to first in novice black bitches, and Moosilauke Pao H'Sia to first in American-bred red bitches.

YALE MAY ABANDON HOCKEY.

New Haven Arena Will Not Be Ready for This Season's Schedule.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 11.—Officials of the New Haven Arena, which is under construction, said today that it cannot be completed until March and that no intercollegiate hockey is possible there this Winter. Although the Yale hockey officials have made no statement, it is expected that Yale's hockey schedule will be abandoned.

Peltzer and 2 Other Germans Receive 'the Golden Ribbon'

BERLIN, Nov. 11 (AP).—Three leaders in German sport for the year 1926 have received the insignia of a new order, that of "The Golden Ribbon," by the Awards Committee of the Verein Deutsche Sportpresse, an organization of German sports writers. The trio comprises Dr. Otto Peltzer, Otto Schmidt and Ernst Vierkoetter. Peltzer gained fame through his victory over Paavo Nurmi; Schmidt is Germany's most popular jockey, and Vierkoetter is named because of his having been the first German to swim the English Channel.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 11.—Ralph Greenleaf of New York, former world's champion, kept in the running for the title when he captured his fourth straight victory in the national championship pocket billiard tournament at the Elks Club here tonight. Greenleaf, playing in brilliant form, defeated Harold Pindle of Appleton, Wis., by 125 to 70 in 12 innings. He scored in only four innings, but made substantial runs in each, his best effort being a run of 59.

In the afternoon Erwin Rudolph of Chicago maintained his place at the head of the standing of the players when he annexed his fifth consecutive victory at the expense of Andy Ponzi of Philadelphia. Rudolph, running out his string in twenty-two innings, defeated Ponzi by a score of 125 to 62. His best run was a cluster of twenty-five in the fifteenth inning, while Ponzi's best was twenty-one in the tenth inning.

Woods Forfeits Game.

The match between Harry Oswald and Arthur Woods in the afternoon was declared forfeited to Oswald by Referee Ferguson in the forty-third inning with the score 99 to 92 in favor of Oswald. In this inning, with the balls clustered at the upper end of the table, Woods attempted to pocket the 11 ball. He touched the 6 ball while trying to shoot and Referee Ferguson declared it a foul. At this point Woods asked time to retire, but as the match had already gone three hours, the referee refused to allow the time out. Woods, nevertheless, walked out of the room, whereupon the official declared the match forfeited to Oswald.

Up to the point of the forfeit, the match was exceedingly close. Woods took the lead with a run of 26 in the second stanza, but Oswald more than made up the advantage when he made the highest run of the match in the seventh inning, rolling off forty-nine balls.

Taberski Scores Decisively.

In the second contest of the night Frank Taberski moved into a tie with Oswald for third place, gaining his third triumph of the tournament over Tom Hueston, a former champion, 125 to 58 in twenty-seven innings.

MARENO CAPTURES A. A. U. TITLE RACE

GUS MOORE FINISHES NEXT

Former Boys' High Star, 10 Yards Behind Victor, Leads St. Bonaventure to Team Laurels.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 11.—Gaetano Mareno, representing the United States Army, captured the national A. A. U. junior cross-country title here this afternoon over a course just a trifle longer than six miles. The soldier, who was sent here from Panama, finished only a second ahead of Gus Moore, former Boys' High star, representing St. Bonaventure.

The winner's time for the six miles was 32 minutes 25 seconds, only a little over a minute behind the record set by Johnny Bell, former Brooklyn Evening High and Syracuse runner, now a student coach at St. Bonaventure. Bell finished third.

More than seventy contestants faced the starter, but of this number only forty-nine finished the grueling race. The St. Bonaventure team won the team prize with 32 points, thirteen lower than the Shanahan Club of this city. Meadowbrook Club was third.

Mareno jumped into the lead soon after the start and set the pace for almost the entire course. For a short mile he handed over the lead to Miller of the Meadowbrook Club, but the latter faltered badly and finished sixth.

Moore hung on to the soldier for the greater part of the race, and nearing the finish the colored distance star uncorked a sprint that nearly landed him the winner, but he was ten yards behind Mareno at the tape. Bell and Gregorie, both of the New York college, finished in close order several seconds back of the two leaders.

The Nativity Catholic Club finished in fourth place with a total of 9 points, while the University of Pennsylvania Harriers wound up in fifth place with 90 counters. Bill Cox, Pennsylvania runner, finished eighth, but the rest of his teammates fell down badly and the Red and Blue finished in the ruck. However, Ben Merenbeck, a Penn runner, was representing the Meadowbrook Club and he led the team by taking tenth position.

The order of finish:

1. Marono, U. S. Army
2. Moore, St. Bonaventure
3. Bell, St. Bonaventure
4. Gregorie, St. Bonaventure
5. Benaki, Shanahan C. C.
6. Millor, Meadowbrook
7. Meyers, Shanahan C. C.
8. Glonn, Penn
9. O'Connor, St. Bonaventure
10. Merenbeck, Meadowbrook
11. Breneman, St. Bonaventure
12. Clark, Nativity Club
13. Worthington, Meadowbrook
14. Bradley, Shanahan C. C.
15. Monahan, Meadowbrook
16. Gillespie, Shanahan C. C.
17. Wasson, Meadowbrook
18. Starratt, Penn
19. Willett, G. Washington U.
20. Riffe, Nativity
21. St. Clair, Nativity
22. Pratt, Germantown B. C.
23. Roy, Pittsburgh
24. Wilson, Meadowbrook
25. Rittler, Meadowbrook

Team score—St. Bonaventure 32, Shanahan C. C. 49, Meadowbrook 71, Nativity 89, Penn 90.

LONDON'S LORD BISHOP LOSER ON U. S. COURTS

Drops Two Matches With Miss Wills Partner in One and Johnston in Other at Oakland, Cal.

Paired with Miss Wills, the Lord Bishop was on the losing end to Johnston and Dr. Sumner Hardy, a former champion, 4-6, 2-6. After that match he played with Johnston against Miss Wills and Hardy and again was on the losing side, 4-6.

"I think this the longest session of tennis I ever had on hard courts," he said. "I'll know better tomorrow how I liked it." The Lord Bishop is 68 years of age.

20 COLLEGES ENTER RUN.

Harriers Will Compete in I. C. A. A. A. A. Event at Van Cortlandt Park.

One of the largest fields ever to participate in an Intercollegiate Association of Amateur Athletes of America cross-country championship race is entered for the annual title run to be held on Nov. 22 over the six-mile test in Van Cortlandt Park. The varsity race, the eighteenth annual in I. C. A. A. A. A. history, has attracted teams from twenty colleges, which have nominated 254 harriers.

The seventh annual freshman race, which will precede the varsity event, has attracted entries from sixteen colleges, fifteen entering full teams, while Colgate has entered George Boyle as an individual entry. The total entries for the yearling event are 188.

For the varsity chase, teams have been entered by Bates, Carnegie Tech, City College, Columbia, Cornell, Dartmouth, Fordham, Georgetown, Harvard, Maine, Manhattan, Massachusetts Tech, New York University, Penn State, Pennsylvania, Pittsburgh, Princeton, Syracuse, Union and Yale. The teams for the freshman race are entered from City College, Columbia, Cornell, Dartmouth, Maine, Manhattan, Massachusetts Tech, New York University, Penn State, Pennsylvania, Pittsburgh, Princeton, Syracuse, Union and Yale.

Collins Deposed; Schalk Named White Sox Manager

RAY SCHALK NAMED WHITE SOX MANAGER

Veteran Catcher Appointed by Comiskey to Succeed Collins in 6th Shake-Up of Year.

DEPOSED PILOT RELEASED

Has Not Received Notification —May Go to Athletics or Head the Red Sox.

CHICAGO, Nov. 11 (AP).—Ray Schalk, veteran catcher of the American League, tonight was appointed manager of the Chicago White Sox by President Charles A. Comiskey. Schalk succeeds Eddie Collins, who piloted the club for two seasons.

Collins, who came to the White Sox from the Philadelphia Athletics eleven years ago, where he was a member of the famous $100,000 infield, probably will receive his unconditional release. Waivers already have been asked on him.

"Schalk always gave the game his best efforts and has been one of the hardest workers on the club, and I feel that he is entitled to the chance of leading the club which he has served so well," President Comiskey said in making the appointment.

Talk on the baseball rialto tonight was current that Collins probably would return to the Athletics, where he started his major league career, and serve as pilot, while it was also said he might become leader of the Boston Red Sox.

Joined Sox Fourteen Years Ago.

Fourteen years ago, Schalk caught his first game in the major league for the club he was tonight designated to lead through the 1927 season. In his career behind the plate Schalk has performed in more than 1,600 games, surpassing the mark set by Chief Meyers of the Giants. He established a record of having caught in 100 or more games for twelve years, eleven of which were consecutive. He also holds the record of having caught 151 games, which he did in 1920.

Born in Litchfield, Ill., 32 years ago, he played his first professional baseball as a member of the Taylorville, (Ill.) club. In 1911 he joined the Milwaukee American Association club and in the Fall of 1912 he was purchased by President Comiskey for $7,500, a large price at that time. He was so small when he joined the club there was no uniform to fit him. He broke in behind Big Ed Walsh, the pitching king, and established himself in the hearts of President Comiskey, the players and fans, when he stuck through the game without giving credit to his battery mate. As a member of the White Sox, Schalk has served under five managers: Jimmy Callahan, Clarence Rowland, Kid Gleason, Johnny Evers and Eddie Collins.

Collins Still Awaits Word.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 11 (AP).—The appointment of Ray Schalk as manager of the White Sox to succeed Eddie Collins was a complete surprise to him, who declined to discuss it until he had received official notification from President Comiskey. Collins, who lives in Lansdowne, a suburb of this city, had just returned from a hunting trip when the announcement was read to him.

"I have not received any word from Comiskey and have not talked to him since the close of the baseball season," said Collins. "I have nothing to say and will not talk until I am officially notified by the club."

The action also came as a "great surprise and shock" to Connie Mack, manager of the Athletics. Mack declined to say whether he would try to get Collins to return to the Athletics.

"The news is a great shock to me," said Mack, "and I have not had time to give it a thought. I have the greatest admiration for Collins, both as a man and as a baseball player. If he is not a good manager, I don't know where there is one. Of course, I am unfamiliar with the reasons for the change in the Chicago management, and therefore would not want to discuss this matter from that angle. President Comiskey knows his own business best."

Sixth Shake-up of Year.

Eddie Collins is the sixth major league manager to figure in a shake-up since the closing of the last pennant season. The five others to pass out were Ty Cobb of the Tigers, Lee Fohl of the Red Sox, George Sisler of the Browns, Arthur Fletcher of the Phillies and Bill McKechnie of the Pirates. Five of these already have been replaced: Collins by Schalk, Cobb by George Moriarty, Sisler by Dan Howley, Fletcher by Stuffy McInnis and McKechnie by Donie Bush. The Red Sox have not yet named Fohl's successor.

PINNA TURNS THE TABLES.

Chilean Champion Beats Elberg, His Former Conqueror, at Crescent A. C.

Leonard Pinna, the amateur featherweight champion of Chile, evened up with Harry Elberg of the Holy Name Club by defeating him in the feature bout on the card of ten bouts at the Crescent A. C. last night. Elberg won from Pinna in a special contest at the Crescent Club two weeks ago.

The Chilean was a vastly improved fighter last night, showing more cleverness that he did in his last fight. Elberg, however, was just as eager as Pinna, and forced the Chilean boxer to go an extra round before gaining the verdict.

Macon, Argentina's Turf Star, Captures Thirteenth Premier Race; Wins 50,000 Pesos

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Nov. 11 (AP).—Macon, Argentina's Man O' War, unbeaten in all of thirteen premier races, won today the Carlos Pellegrini Stakes and a purse of 50,000 pesos. Macon is the property of Don Jorge Mitre, Argentine sportsman and publisher of La Nacion.

Trained by Naciano Moreno and ridden by Emilio Ruiz, the four-year-old blue-blooded wonder of the Argentina turf has won for his owner so far the princely sum of 400,000 pesos, an unheard of amount of money for a race horse in Argentina.

TRIUMPHS IN SHOOT-OFF

Gets 7 Straight, Beating Plum, a Club-Mate, While Winner's Trophy Goes to Englert.

Special to The New York Times.

READING, Pa., Nov. 11.—Martin McVey Jr. and Fred Plum of the New York Athletic Club figured high among the trophy winners in the holiday live bird shoot of North End Gun Club today. John L. Englert of Allentown won the Armistice Day handicap, the feature event, with McVey and Plum tied with John A. Rehrig, veteran Reading wing shot, and Earl S. Melot of Allentown, on nineteen kills each for the runner-up trophy. In the shoot-off that followed McVey won, taking second prize with seven straight kills, Plum being third.

Harrison D. Schaeffer of Pottstown, Henry J. Storch of Pocono Manor, Samuel Larue of Shillington, and Robert J. Hornung of Ashland divided the high gun honors, each with fifteen straight kills.

GENE TUNNEY RETURNS FROM BERMUDA TRIP

Ready to Begin Vaudeville Tour —Pleased That Al Smith Was Elected.

Gene Tunney, heavyweight champion of the world, arrived yesterday morning on the Furness Bermuda liner Fort St. George after eight days spent in Bermuda. He said that he had devoted his time to yachting and resting.

"I am now ready to begin my eight weeks' tour in vaudeville," he announced. "I am going to receive $7,500 weekly. My managers assure me that this is the highest weekly salary ever paid for a vaudeville tour of that length."

Tunney said that he was delighted to hear that Al Smith had been elected Governor again. He contributed to the Governor's campaign fund.

"I didn't read about it until two days later, but when I did it was as good news to me as when I became champion," he said.

Tunney was being interviewed coming up the bay when the ship's bugler sounded taps. Immediately the former marine bowed his head in tribute to his dead comrades. Later he recalled that eight years ago he succeeded in getting $60 back pay when the armistice was signed.

"It looked like a million dollars to me then," he said.

NORTH CAROLINA TRIUMPHS.

State College Beats Duke, 26-19— McDowall Makes 85-Yard Run.

Special to The New York Times.

RALEIGH, N. C., Nov. 11.—North Carolina State College defeated Duke University, 26 to 19, in the Armistice Day clase here today.

The game was packed with thrills, chief among which was McDowall's eighty-five-yard run through a broken field to a touchdown, after receiving a Duke punt. Two fumbles by the Duke team proved costly. One was converted into a touchdown and the other placed the winners in position to send over a marker.

The line-up:

ZEDICK IN SERVICE DRAW.

Boxes on Even Terms With Neblett at 102d Medical Armory.

Gene Zedick of the home regiment and Leonard Neblett of the 369th Infantry boxed to a draw in the main bout of eight rounds at the 102d Medical Regiment Armory last night. Zedick weighed 174 and Neblett four pounds more. In the semi-final, also of eight rounds, Nick Esposito, 129, of United States Navy, outpointed Ceal Jackson, 124, of the 369th Infantry.

In the first bout, scheduled for eight rounds, Steve Jennings, 120, of the Seventy-first Infantry was knocked out by Kid Rash, 118, of the 369th Infantry in the first round.

SHARKEY ANXIOUS TO MEET HEAVIES

FUGAZY HAS FIRST CALL

Plans Clash Sometime in January— Tod Morgan Starts Training for Match With Duane.

Jack Sharkey, Boston heavyweight and conqueror of Harry Wills, accompanied by his manager, Johnny Buckley, is in the city laying plans for what he hopes will he a busy indoor season. Among the first persons to be visited by the Boston pair was Tex Rickard, with whom they remained in conference for more than an hour in Madison Square Garden yesterday afternoon.

Buckley made it clear that Sharkey has no intention of resting on his laurels and that he is anxious to meet any heavyweight opponent selected for him in a campaign which he expects will make him the outstanding challenger for the world's championship next Summer.

Among those mentioned as prospective opponents for the Boston ex-sailor were Harry Persson, the Swedish heavyweight; Monte Munn, the giant Nebraskan, and Paul Berlenbach, former light-heavyweight champion.

There appears, however, one hitch in Sharkey's plans for an immediate bout in the Garden. This is an agreement which he signed with Promoter Humbert Fugazy, prior to the Wills match, in which Sharkey gives Fugazy first call on his services until Feb. 1.

Fugazy Plans Sharkey Bout.

Buckley said that he had received assurance from Fugazy that he would be ready to use Sharkey in his proposed new arena in January, but the Boston manager stated at the same time that he wanted to be prepared to close other matches in the event Fugazy's plans for an arena did not materialize. In the event that Sharkey does not fight for Fugazy, Buckley said Sharkey was practically certain to appear in the Garden after Feb. 1.

Jees McMahon, Rickard's matchmaker, yesterday signed Sandy Seifert and Jack DeMave to a return match, which will be a ten-round semi-final to the Franz Diener-Jim Maloney bout in Madison Square Garden on Dec. 2. In their last meeting, Seifert and DeMave fought a slashing draw.

Tod Morgan, the junior lightweight champion, who will defend his title against Carl Duane of the Bronx in Madison Square Garden on Nov. 19, started training yesterday with a five-mile jaunt through Central Park. This afternoon the Coast boxer will begin his indoor work at Billy Grupp's gymnasium.

After his spin on the road yesterday, Morgan hopped on the scales and tipped the beam at 132 pounds. He said that he expected to have no trouble in getting down to the required 130 pounds for the day of the fight. Duane, however, already is down to weight and plans to take things easy for the next few days to safeguard against going stale.

New Manhattan Signs Baldock.

Matchmaker Joe McKenna announced yesterday that he had signed Ted Baldock, the English bantamweight, and Billy Reynolds of Jersey City to meet in the feature bout of six rounds for the reopening of the New Manhattan Sporting Club on Wednesday night. Ruhe Goldberg of Harlem and Tommy Lorenzo, west side bantamweight, are paired for the semi-final. Joe Marino and Eddie McLaughlin, welterweights, also were matched for a six-round battle.

A big delegation of Bayonne boxing fans is expected to journey to the New Ridgewood Grove Sporting Club tomorrow night to see their favorite, Mike Ballerino, former junior lightweight champion, go into action against Joe Glick of Williamsburgh in the feature bout of ten rounds. The semi-final between Joey Silvers of Browneville and Bobby Barrett, Philadelphia welterweight, also has aroused considerable interest.

Entry blanks have been issued for an amateur boxing tournament to be held under the auspices of the New York Athletic Club at the Fifty-ninth Street club house on Nov. 19 and 22. There will be competition in six classes, ranging from the 112-pound division to the 160-pound class.

KERSCH IN ACTION TONIGHT.

Boxes Bud Dempsey in Main Bout of Six Rounds at Pioneer.

Lew Kersch, promising local featherweight who has won fourteen straight bouts since turning pro, will engage in the most important battle of his career when he opposes Bud Dempsey of Yorkville in the feature bout of six rounds at the Pioneer Athletic Club tonight.

Although Dempsey holds a considerable edge over Kersch in experience, there are many who believe the young ghetto boxer will prove ready to give a good account of himself. It is Lew Raymond's plan to match the winner of this bout with the winner of the Honeyboy Finnegan-Chick Suggs match for a Christmas benefit show at the Pioneer Club next month.

Alf Mancini, Angio-Italian welterweight, will meet Paul Guiotta in the semi-final. Ted Baldock, English bantamweight, and Tommy Lorenzo are down for another six, while in two others, the principals will be James J. Braddock and Lou Barba and Willie Siegel and Izzy Cooper. The pairings for two four rounders will be Abe Rosenberg vs. Max Dempsey and Frankie Santa vs. Eddie Goldberg.

Herreshoff Firm to Construct a New 75-Foot Waterline Racing Sloop.

ORDERED BY N. Y. Y. C. MAN

Name of Future Owner Withheld— Craft to Be Largest of Type Made in U. S. Since 1914.

An order was placed yesterday with the Herreshoff Company, Bristol, R. I., for a new 75-foot waterline racing sloop, the largest yacht of this type to be constructed in this country since the Resolute, Vanitie and Defiance came out in 1914, and which were of the same waterline length.

The new boat has been designed by Burgess, Rigg & Morgan, naval architects, of this city, and will be the property of a prominent member of the New York Yacht Club whose name has been withheld.

The big sloop will be raced in American waters early next season, and it it wee rumored yesterday that if she is a success she will be taken abroad to sail against some of the famous British sloops, such as King George's Britannia, Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock, the Nyria and the White Heather. When the order became known yesterday it gave rise to rumors of another America's Cup race, but nothing definite could be learned on this score.

The new 75-footer will be a substantial, seagoing craft, built to Lloyd's requirements and has not been planned on the lines of an essential racing machine. She will be 112 feet long overall, 13.6 draft and will carry a hollow Marconi mast 150 feet long, said to be the longest spar ever built for a racing yacht.

She will be of steel construction and will have a sail area of 7,000 square feet. It was reported yesterday that Harry Payne Whitney would change the Vanitie back to a sloop rig in order to try out the new vessel. She will coet about $200,000.

WILLIAMS WORK IS LIGHT.

Students Cheer Team as It Runs Through Long Signal Drill.

Special to The New York Times.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Nov. 11.—The Williams football team was encouraged at its last real practice of the season here today by the entire student body of the college which marched to the field and cheered the varsity as it went through practice in preparation for the Amherst game Saturday.

The work-out today was again light. Coach Lawson has decided to take no chances with injuries to his regulars as all are fit and on edge. A long signal drill was held and later the varsity opposed the substitutes in a dummy scrimmage.

Again special attention was given to the forward pass, while the substitutes demonstrated Amherst formations. The drill was brought to a close with a scrimmage between team C and the second team.

LONG DRILL FOR AMHERST.

Williams Plays Are Used Against Varsity in Dummy Scrimmage.

Special to The New York Times.

AMHERST, Mass., Nov. 11.—A long drill marked the end of Amherst's intensive work for the Williams game, which will decide the Little Three title.

The usual preliminary work preceded the signal drill and dummy practice, with the Williams plays again being used against the varsity. The varsity lined up with the posts filled, as they probably will be Saturday with Walker and Morse on the wings; Shank, Wiler and Higgins, tackles; Miller and Smith, guards; and Whitney, centre. The back field will start with Captain Cadigan, fullback; Priddy, left half; W. Parker, right half and Creden, quarterback.

Linemen in reserve are Mahoney, end; Nelson and Baldwin, tackles, and Richardson, centre; L. Parker, Merrill and Stauffer will strengthen any back field weaknesses.

ITALIAN STARS IN RACE.

Seven, Including Georgetti, Belloni and Bello in 6-Day Grind.

There will be seven speedy Italian cyclists in the field in the coming six-day bicycle race in Madison Square Garden next month, according to an announcement made yesterday by John Chapman, manager of the grind. Foremost in the group will be Franco Georgetti who won the race a year ago with Reggie McNamara, and Gaetano Belloni, another former winner of the Garden race. The other Italians who will be in the race are Conetant Girardengo, Pietro Linari, Alfredo Dinale, Pietro Bestetti and Tom Bello, the latter a veteran at the six-day cycling game.

SPARTAN BOWLERS WIN.

Triumph Over Richmond Hill Recreation in Thum's Tourney.

The Spartane defeated the Richmond Hill Recreation bowlers two games to one in the National American Bowling tournament at Thum's last night. The scoree were: Spartane 1,021, Richmond Hill 882; Spartane 977, Richmond Hill 885; Richmond Hill 951, Spartans 927.

Louis Anargeroe of the Spartane made a new high score record for the tournament when he bowled 276. The previous high mark was 253.

ICE SKATING RESULTS.

At Iceland.

JUNIOR A CREW WINS YALE REGATTA FINAL

Takes Shell Event, While Freshman C Boat Captures the Deciding Barge Race.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 11.—The barge finals in the Yale Fall regatta were this afternoon won by the Freshman C crew and the shell finals by the Junior A boat. The freshmen defeated the Junior D eight by a length, the freshman light C crew, which finished third, trailing by two lengths. The winning time—3:20 1-5. John Lawrence Peyton stroked the Freshman C boat. The shell finals were rowed over the Henley distance of a mile and five sixteenths, the juniors leading the sophomore A crew by two-and-one-half lengths in the time of 6:54 3-5. Samuel Scoville stroked the winning crew.

Bow, B. A. MacDonald; No. 2, W. D. Anderson; No. 3, T. W. Goodrich; No. 4, H. T. Walden; No. 5, M. Smith; No. 6, F. H. Jones; No. 7, W. Cox; stroke, J. L. Peyton; coxswain, Lampsell.

BENNETT'S CREW TRIUMPHS.

Takes St. Paul's Cup in Penn Fall Regatta on Schuylkill.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 11.—The crew stroked by A. S. Bennett today won the St. Paul's Cup in the feature race of the University of Pennsylvania's annual Fall handicap on the wind-swept Schuylkill. The other crews in order of their finish were stroked by Nixon, Delampler, Sears and Gottliem.

The third varsity, stroked by Kline, a New York boy, won the handicap race, with Borie's varsity second, Sweetser's junior varsity third, and Nauss's 150-pounders fourth.

RUTGERS IN SCRIMMAGE.

Works Out With Cubs in Final Drill for Lehigh.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Nov. 11, 1926.—Rutgers scrimmaged for fifteen minutes against the cubs here this afternoon in the last hard workout before this Saturday's contest with Lehigh. The session came as a surprise as it was thought that this form of drill would not be used this week.

The offense received the attention of the coaches in the scrimmage period with the running attack looming up as the main feature. Dalton, Flachbarth and Gordinier did the most running. Few changes will be seen in the line-up from the one that started against Lafayette.

Mogador (Es-Sueira) is the most Southern seaport on the Atlantic Coast of Morocco. Approached from the land side, the city bursts into view like a mirage between land and sea—and this entitles it to its name—"Es-Sueira"—"the picture".

The handsomest mogador silks no longer come from Morocco. We have learnt to loom finer ones in America. But the name "mogador"—meaning "the picture"—is still as significant as ever. No neckwear silks present a richer picture of color and design than these handsome Londonderry Mogadors. Twelve different striped patterns—forty-four different color blends. Bright hues, all of them. Reds, blues, browns, whites, blacks—in all their myriad shades. Each scarf enriched by moire patterns. Each scarf made by hand with wool lining.

Princeton and Yale End Practices; Army and Notre Dame Primed for Tomorrow

FULL TIGER SQUAD IS READY FOR YALE

"I Will Have Everybody I Had for Harvard," Coach Roper Declares at Final Drill.

SLAGLE PRACTICES KICKING

Star Kept Out of Line-Up for Workout Under Fitzpatrick—No Overconfidence Evident.

By ROBERT F. KELLEY.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 11.—Princeton put on its finishing touches today for Saturday's finale to the Big Three. In a short, fast signal drill held in the Palmer Memorial Stadium the Tiger football players wound up their hard work for the season and this evening a torchlight parade, with almost the entire student body in line, culminated in the biggest mass meeting in Nassau's history. President Hibben, Coach Roper and Captain Davis spoke.

Bill Roper was smiling and urbane this afternoon, bnt had little to say.

"I am not much on this prophesying business," he remarked. "You can't do it, can you? I think we'll have a hard, interesting game. I am not looking for anything bnt the hardest sort of a game. I don't know whether I'll start Slagle or not. I guess he's no worse than he was when we went to Harvard.

"Will the team have a let down after last week? Well, I don't see why they should. We came through that game in good shape. I will have everybody ready for Yale that I had ready for Harvard.

Sees No Overconfidence.

"There have been no evidences of overconfidence. The team is ready and looking for a hard, real game of football. Looks as if we'd hava good weather for it. Hope so. Clear and cold, that's what we want."

Roper put his entire squad through a long signal drill. Caulkins, Disston and Strubing alternated runinng the team and every member of the squad had a chance in the practice.

That is, every man but one. Jake Slagle was in uniform but was favoring his hurt leg. Roper kept him out of the line-up and he spent most of this time out trying drop kicks from around the 30-yard mark and at various angles under the watchful eyes of old Keene Fitzpatrick. Baruch, Slagle's understudy, went through the same sort of workout.

Captain Davis was not at the practice, but this was not due to any recurrence of injury, hnt to an exam. He turned out later and had a private practice.

There is no visible overconfidence on the campus. Princeton learned a bitter lesson two years ago, when Yale stopped the team that had defeated Harvard 34 to 0. But there is confidence. Princeton feels that it has a great chance to win its second Big Three title in a row and, incidentally, the last Big Three title, at least for the near future.

Roper Is Not Worried.

Coach Roper gives the impression of being the least worried of any one in this camp. Ha and his assistants, grouped in front of the open fire in the field house this afternoon, presented a picture more like a house party than coaches finishing the last bit of their strategy before the big game of the year.

Those close to the team say there has not been evident any of the sliding off visible two years ago, when Yale turned the tables. That season, they say, it was obvious that the team had gone over the edge during the week that followed the Harvard game.

Interest centres in the Princeton line, which came with a rush and was such an important factor in the victory over Harvard. Al Wittmer, the centre of the 1922 team and the successful line coach, has expressed himself as satisfied that the line will be equal to last week. Some observers say the line just started to find itself in the Harvard game and that it will reach its peak against Yale.

All are interested in the outcome of the non-scouting agreement with Yale. The Tigers will go into the game for the first time without pre-game instruction in the play of their rivals. Roper said he was satisfied with the principle and was convinced that it added to the sport of the thing.

There will be only a brief drill tomorrow.

The forerunners of the crowd of Saturday began coming into town today, and reservations at local hotels were at a premium.

YALE ORGAN DEFENDS JONES AND HIS TEAM

Calls American Public and Press World's Greatest Sophists—Alumni Ask Inquiry.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 11.—The Yale Daily News rallied to the defense of the Yale eleven and of Head Coach Tad Jones today while the Yale Alumni Weekly said that there is need of an investigation of a number of features of the present football season.

The Yale News called the American press and public the world's greatest sophists and said that newspapers had manhandled Yale football this fall. It described the coaching system organized by Tad Jones as fine as Yale could have and said that nothing represented the Yale ideal more nearly than Tad Jones and the present Yale team. Reports of favoritism, dissension and fraternity politics, the News said, sounded incredible to the ears of Yale men, hut newspapers have been foolish enough to print such reports.

It declared that Yale's showing against Princeton would be representative of the university and win or lose, Yale would be proud of the coach, the team and the team.

HARVARD FRESHMEN WIN.

Future Cross-Country Run From Yale Harriers by 17 to 38.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 11 (AP).—Harvard's freshman cross-country team won from Yale's first-year harriers over the Charles River course today, 17 points to 38. Dooley of Harvard broke the course record, covering the three and one-quarter miles in 18 minutes 54 4-5 seconds.

43 Special Trains to Take 25,000 to Yale-Princeton Game

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 11.—Nearly half of the 54,000 persons who will come to Princeton for the fiftieth annual football classic between Yale and Princeton Saturday are coming by rail. The Pennsylvania Railroad will run forty-three special trains to Princeton, thirty-six of them coming from New York. The special trains will carry 25,000. Trains will come from New Haven, Washington and Philadelphia as well as New York.

HARVARD EASES UP FOR BROWN GAME

Chauncey Kept Busy Booting Drop Kicks, but Squad Has Only Light Drill.

KILGOUR IS ON THE FIELD

Guard Does Not Work With Team—Guernaccia Definitely Out of Clash With Providence Eleven.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 11.—There was a let-up in Harvard's football drill today, only tha usual Thursday light workout being held. For the varsity there was only an hour of drill on the field after the kicking and passing preliminaries.

The first team line-up was: Saltonstall, left end; Coady, left tackle; Simonds, left guard; Gamache, centre; Stewart, right guard; Pratt, right tackle; Meadows, right end; Putnam, quarterback; Miller, left halfback; Sayles, right halfback; French, fullback. This is tha line-up Coach Horween says he intends to start against Brown Saturday.

Bayard Kilgour was dressed for football this afternoon but did no work, simply running about tha field. However, it has become a custom for Kilgonr to do little work between games. In this year's case, however, the Crimson guard needs much work to be at his best for the Yale game next week, and he probably will be back in his place for the final signal work tomorrow.

Strong, the right end, is still limping and it has been definitely announced that Fullback Guarnaccia will not be used against Brown even in substitute capacity. Bruen, one of the new guards developed this Fall, ran about the field today, but he, like Guarnaccia, is not due for a taste of football nntil the first of next week.

The coaches put in considerable time today with Coady, French, Putnam and Chauncey, the punters, and Horween also had Chauncey making drop kicks from the sidelines.

Harvard's drop kicker, who won last year's game 3 to 0, booted over ten successive goals from an angle from about the 30-yard mark.

Late in the day the ineligibles came to the varsity field and showed the full curriculum of Brown plays. The first and second varsities lined np slowly against the Bear's attack, but there was nothing that suggested hard or strenuous foothall.

BROWN DRILLS HARD FOR HARVARD BATTLE

Has Punting, Passing Session, Scrimmage—Reserves Are Groomed for Game.

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 11.—A signal, passing and punting drill with a thirty minute dummy scrimmage was ordered for the Brown squad today hy Coach McLaughry. The practice was marked by the spirited work of the varsity team. Tomorrow's practice, the last before the Harvard game, will be of a similar natnre.

McLaughry has devoted considerable attention to the substitutes and eight have been singled out as likely to see action against Harvard. They are Frank Eisenberg, quarterback; Charles Holden, centre; Charles Provonche, tackle and guard; Harry Cornsweet, guard; Bill Miller, tackle and end; Hyman Heller, end; Paul Edes, halfback and Walter Trefethen, fullback.

Holden has perhaps had the most attention, as the loss of Considine at any time during the game would cut the efficiency of the squad materially. Considine is particularly alert as a defensive player either in the line or while playing a roving centre. Edes probably will be used, as he is a fine broken field runner.

W. VA. WESLEYAN TRIUMPHS.

McClung Scores Two Touchdowns Against Broaddus—Score 13-0.

Special to The New York Times.

BUCKHANNON, W. Va., Nov. 11.—Broaddus College closed its season here today, bowing to West Virginia Wesleyan, 13 to 0.

McClung scored both Wesleyan touchdowns, hitting the line for the first after steady line plunging by Miller carried the ball to the Broaddus 4-yard mark. He scored the second on a pretty 31-yard run through tackle.

The line-np:

STUDENTS SEE YALE IN FINAL WORKOUT

Gates Opened for First Time This Year—Rooters to Send Team on Way Today.

SQUAD'S CONDITION GOOD

Noble and Caldwell May Get Into Fray With Tigers—Three Berths Uncertain.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 11.—The Yale eleven held its last practice before the Princeton game in the bowl this afternoon. For the first time this season the gates were open and several hundred undergraduates, accompanied by the university band, cheered and sang while the practice was in progress. This tribute to the players took the place of a mass meeting which has usually been held.

Tomorrow morning the undergraduates will march through the city streets with the eleven, preceded by the university band, to the railroad station and will cheer the football squad on its way aboard the 10:30 train.

The customary final signal and dummy work comprised today's practice. The coaches planned a short scrimmage drill on Tuesday, but a thunder storm prevented it. The eleven will rest until the kick-off in the Palmer Stadium.

Squad in Good Condition.

The first and second elevens were pronounced in the best physical condition since the season opened. Larry Noble and Bruce Caldwell were reported much better and, although the coaches insist that chances are against using either on Saturday, it is possible that both may play for a few minutes. It is not known whether Kline will return to the eleven before Saturday.

The coaches said tonight that two or three positions were still uncertain. In the rush-line Burt Benton and Berry Ryan are being alternated, with chances that Benton will be started.

Al Look, who has been scrub centre all the season, was tried on the varsity. Harvey and Phillips, the rival candidates, are both without varsity experience, and it is possible that Look will be alternated with Harvey on Saturday.

The Tentative Line-up.

The Yale football squad expects to arrive in Princeton about 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon and to go at once to the Palmer Stadium for punting practice and signal rehearsal.

About 4 o'clock the squad will be taken in automobiles to the Stacy Trent Hotel in Trenton to remain until Saturday noon. After the game on Saturday the team will return to New York City and will be quartered at the Vanderbilt Hotel.

BIG 3 CROSS-COUNTRY TO TAKE PLACE TODAY

Yale Manager Has Not Received Word to Contrary From Princeton or Harvard.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 11.—The annual Yale-Harvard-Princeton cross-country run will be held tomorrow afternoon over the new Yale course of five and a half miles, which takes the hill-and-dale men all through the new Ray Tompkins memorial tract in which the Yale golf course has been built. The race will start at 2:30, the starting point being near the Bowl. R. B. Hodges, '27, manager of the Yale team, has had no word that the recent breaking of athletic relations between Harvard and Princeton will affect arrangements for the triangular meeting.

Captain Smith of the Yale team is the strongest runner on the Blue team. He was intercollegiate champion in 1924 and placed fourth last year. A. M. Briggs, who finished fifth last year, has placed second in all of the meets this season. Other Yale entries are Ingham, Jacob, Hayes, Evans, Penny, Olds, McHeffey and Scovill. Yale has beaten Springfield, 16 to 39, and Columbia, 21 to 34, this season.

Harvard has a strong squad, having defeated Dartmouth, 28 to 58, and M. I. T., 28 to 30, this season. Haggerty, the Crimson captain, placed third in last year's event. He will doubtless give Smith a battle for first place. Reed of Harvard has also shown much strength in his running this year.

The first triangular meeting was in 1922, this being the fifth annual race. Princeton won in 1922, Yale in 1923 and 1924 and Harvard last year.

WESLEYAN BATTLES CUBS.

Scrimmages Against Yearlings Who Use Bowdoin Formations.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Nov. 11.—Bowdoin formations were used by the Wesleyan yearlings here this afternoon in their scrimmage with the varsity. Johnson, the sophomore quarterback, ran the first string team in commendable style. Tetley showed up well at punting and throwing forward passes for the varsity and both he and Harper registered touchdowns. Lee did the placement kicking.

Coach Hill said after the practice that his charges are in fine condition for the annual tilt with Bowdoin on Saturday.

One of Rockne's Best Teams Will Meet Army Tomorrow

Notre Dame Conceded Whatever Edge There May Be as Two Powerful Elevens Clash at Yankee Stadium—Yale Enters Princeton Fray With Courage of Desperation.

By ALLISON DANZIG.

From all accounts that have come out of the West and from coaches and scouts who have seen Notre Dame in action, Knute Rockne is bringing one of the greatest teams he has ever developed to the Yankee Stadium tomorrow for the battle with the Army. Hugo Bezdek has said that he never saw so many football players run out on a field as they sent against Penn State at South Bend; that if Harry Stuhldreher were playing at quarter again he would rate this Notre Dame team as superior to the Four Horsemen outfit of 1924.

There is the record of Rockne's team to date to substantiate these estimates, a record that begins with Beloit and goes right down through Minnesota, Penn State, Northwestern, Georgia Tech and Indiana. The sum total of the scores made in those six games is 169 points for Notre Dame and 7 for the opponents. There can be no question in the face of this against so many teams of established reputation that Notre Dame has an exceptional line and a backfield that gets results.

But on the other side of the ledger, consider these facts and appreciate why, in the words of Bezdek, the Yankee Stadium mix-up is going to be a "rip snortin' affair." From left tackle to right end the Army line that goes up against the South Bend alarm is exactly the same that faced Notre Dame last year. The West Point backfield again includes Wilson, Harding, Hewitt and Trapnell, and in addition Murrell and Cagle, who have added far more strength than was lost hy the departure of Yoemans and Buell.

Except that Harbold is playing at end in place of Baxter, it is tha Army team of 1925 again, improved in the line through the additional year of experience and in the backfield by the brilliant performances of Murrell and Cagle, and also, in general, by the coaching of Captain Biff Jones.

Last year's score was 27 to 0 in favor of Army. The question is: Has Notre Dame improved so much more than Army in a year as to overbalance the figures to the other side. There is no question that Rockne's team today is incomparably superior to last year's, which was composed largely of sophomores and lacked seasoning. The Notre Dame coach told the world himself not to expect any thing from it and to wait until 1926, that he would have a team to show it then, and he has kept his word. But Army had a strong team last year and it has an even stronger one now.

The record of Notre Dame is more impressive than Army's to date. The Cadets defeated a high-class team when they conquered Syracuse and they gained one of the most decisive victories ever scored over Yale. But Yale, except for its victory over Dartmouth, has not shown anything to warrant it being rated the equal of Minnesota or Northwestern. The Army has scored 196 points to 28 for its opponents, 21 of which were gained by Syracuse. Notre Dame, in compiling its record, has seldom used its first team. Indeed, Rockne has so many players that he would probably say that he hasn't any first team. In this respect, he has this advantage over Army, which is not so plentifully supplied with reserves.

The feat of Brown in playing Yale and Dartmouth without making a single substitution has served to minimize the importance that has been attached to replacements, hut the probability is that Captain Jones will find that he can make use of every one he has tomorrow. Rockne's method is to keep feeding new fuel to his machine in order to sustain his attack at its fastest clip, and even iron men feel the strain when they have to hold the fort against an unending stream of replacements who are rated the equal of the shock trops.

Army's line looks to be one of the strongest in the country and the Cadets probahly have more brute power on the attack than Notre Dame. But, in spite of the smartness of this West Point team, it is a question as to whether it can quite match Rockne's in alertness and in the use of the forward pass. Army has used the pass very little this year, less than almost any successful team in the East. If either team is to be conceded the edge it is Notre Dame. If there are any breaks in the game the Westerners are most likely to profit hy them.

In the published list of Notre Dame men who are coaching, Rip Miller is assigned to Indiana. For the benefit of Notre Dame men who are not acquainted with the fact, Rip Miller is coaching the Navy line, and it was the Navy line that beat Michigan. And it is this line that the Middies are counting on tomorrow to hold Georgetown in check. Lou Little has a line of his own that Georgetown men are also doing a lot of counting on, and the game should turn out to be one of the strongest defensive exhibitions of the year between the highest scoring team of the country and another that has kept its record clean while rolling up 170 points in seven games. Navy should win hy a small score.

The Yale-Princeton game, in the light of the reverses suffered by the two teams, suffers somewhat in general intsrest in the face of the Army-Notre Dame scrap. But a Yale-Princeton game, regardless of how many lickings the teams have taken, is still something to get excited about, and there won't be any empty seats in Palmer Stadium tomorrow. The Elis are going into this game with the courage of desperation, and men in that frame of mind are always dangerous. But Princeton also goes into its major games prepared to fight to the last ditch, and because the Tigers are better fortified they ought to repeat their victory of last year.

Yale's misfortunes never end, it seems. If Kline is unable to return and Caldwell and Noble haven't rid themselves of their crutches by tomorrow the Yale attack will not be nearly so strong as it could be were fate more propitious. Princeton has Slagle, Caulkins, Baruch, Prendergast and Miles, to mention only a few of Roper's galaxy of ball carriers, and all of them apparently are fit for the fray in spite of the wear and tear of the Harvard game. Yale will have its strongest line of the season in the game, but tha Princeton line is no weakling and should afford the backs enough protection to do more scoring than the Elis.

Brown, rested and in tip-top shape physically after its easy game with Norwich, should be stronger than Harvard. The Brown line stacks up with the best, and Rancall, Mishel, Cornsweet and Lawrence have shown more power on the attack than the Harvard backfield.

If Cornell can check Dartmouth's passes the Ithacans have a good chance to gain revenge on Dartmouth for last year's rout. Colgate is favored slightly over Syracuse; Penn by a field goal over Columhia, and Michigan over Ohio State by a touchdown, while N. Y. U., Fordham, Northwestern, Boston College, Lafayette, Penn State, Amherst, Holy Cross, Stanford and Alabama also should come through. Pitt and W. and J. are a toss-up.

DARTMOUTH SQUAD OFF FOR CORNELL

Dooley at Quarter on First Eleven, Which Tries Out Plays for Final Game.

Special to The New York Times.

HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 11.—Following a long and spontaneous outburst of enthusiasm, tha Dartmouth team left Hanover tonight for Ithaca, where it faces Cornell on Saturday in the Green's final game of the 1926 season.

The squad went through a short final workout before departing. The first three teams lined up and for about an hour had an offensive dummy drill. The first eleven, piloted hy Dooley, marched up and down the field in an exhaustive rehearsal of the whole Dartmouth offense.

Tha rest of the team probably will line up just as it did against Boston University last week. Captain Hooker Horton is the only doubtful man. The Green leader and regular fullback has been bothered by an injury ever since the Yala game. He has not recovered as rapidly as expected, but probably will start the game on Saturday, which is the last one he will ever play for Dartmouth. Blinker Black will be ready to relieve him if necessary.

Lane and MacPhail will hold down the halves, while a new combination of wing men will probahly face Cornell. Fusonie and McAvoy have been playing at the wings for the first team and they probably will start the game. Josh Davis will be at centre, flanked hy Rubin and Phillips, both greater New York boys. Hardy and Hollsran are slated to start at the tackle posts.

The Green squad will arrive in Ithaca tomorrow morning, but will leave immediately hy bus for Frssville, N. Y. Their headquartere for the weekend will be at the Republic Inn in that town.

St. Jean Challenges Copulos.

Andrew St. Jean yesterday challenged Gus Copulos, now playing at the Strand Academy, to a special match at three cushions, the match to be played from scratch. St. Jean, encouraged by his two victories over Willie Hoppe in handicap clashes, now wants to test his skill against Copulos, one of the Big Four in three cushions.

Gets Hole In One at Pinehurst.

PINEHURST, N. C., Nov. 11.—T. P. Jamleon of Greensburg, Pa., made the first hole-in-one of the season here today. Jamison's drive on the 201-yard sixth hole of the No. 1 course trickled into the cup.

CORNELL RECEIVES DETAILED WORKOUT

Dobie Abandons Scrimmage in Favor of Rehearsal of Plays for Dartmouth Game.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 11.—Abandoning a scheduled scrimmage, Coach Dobie gave the Cornell football squad a long and detailed practice in punting, passing and other fundamentals today and then sent the players through a snappy rehearsal of the plays he considers most likely to succeed in the Dartmouth game here on Saturday.

At the outset, Anderson, left tackle, and Balderston, left half, punted to the backs and ends, while Captain Carey drove many placement kicks over the bar from the 25 and 35-yard lines.

The first team to take the field consisted of Wickham and Schoales, ends; Anderson and Evans, tackles; Carey and Munns, guards; Rapuano, centre; Butterfield, quarterback; Hoeklemann and Balderston, halfbacks, and Gassner, fullback.

This team is expected to start against Dartmouth. Beck, Carpenter, Islay and Molinet are to he heid in reserve. The practice was noticeably snappy and the squad seemed to be in fine condition and in excellent spirits.

LAFAYETTE CAPTAIN BACK.

Littell Has Light Workout, but Will Not Face Rutgers Tomorrow.

Special to The New York Times.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Nov. 11.—For the first time since the Bucknell game Captain Bill Littell, the big tackle, was out with the Lehigh squad this afternoon hut took only a light workout with the varsity as it prepared for the Rutgers game here Saturday. Captain Littell is certain not to start against Rutgers hut will be rested up in the hope of starting against Lafayette the following week end.

Coach Wendell stated today that the team will go against Rutgers without a scrimmage this week. The elimination is warranted hy the limited squad and as a precaution against probable injuries, says the coach. This afternoon was spent almost exclusively in running through signals. Three elevens went through the new formations with the coaches barking instructions now and then in pointing out defects. The way the varsity lined up it was hard to tell just what the starting eleven will be.

Letham Defeats Duby With Cue.

Jack Latham defeated Ed Duby, 100 to 83, in a pocket billiard match at Yank Adams's Academy last night. The match went 33 innings, and the high runs were 16 for Latham and 15 for Duby.

NOTRE DAME LEAVES TO CHEERS OF 3,000

SMITH AND O'BOYLE READY

Team at Full Strength, With Guard and Fullback Playing—Rockne Hopes for Dry Gridiron.

Special to The New York Times.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 11.—The entire Notre Dame student body, 3,000 strong, took possession of the downtown business section here at noon today as Knute Rockne and his South Bend players entrained for the meeting with the Army in New York on Saturday. Traffic was held up for over a half hour as the enthusiastic undergraduates paraded, cheered and finished the demonstration with a snake dance. It was one of the greatest send-offs ever given to a Notre Dame eleven.

Coach Rockne, just before he boarded the train, announced that he expected a hard fight and that his players were prepared to meet the emergency. He expressed a desire for a dry and fast field which would favor the Notre Dame style of play. Though the South Bend squad has been hampered by the inclement weather in practicing its overhead plays and shift formations, this style of offense is expected to be brought into action to turn the tide against the Cadets.

The team's chances were materially increased when it was announced that Johnny Smith, star guard and Harry O'Boyle, fullback, were in condition and would start the game. In view of the struggle which is expected to develop among the linemen, Coach Rockne will use Smith at guard and not in the backfield where he has been a consistent ground gainer. With O'Boyle in the backfield, the South Bend eleven will have practically all its strength to throw against the Cadets.

Smith's presence in the line means much to the South Bend team and though the team's offense is considered by many as its best defense, the Notre Dame head coach announced that he expected his forwards to show to advantage against the heavier and more experienced linemen found on the Army eleven.

The pep meeting held last night brought out the entire student body and it was marked by an enthusiasm which has never been surpassed at Notre Dame. The realization that their classmates are with them to the limit and the fact that practically every veteran is available for duty has fired the squad with a determination that augurs ill for the Cadets Saturday afternoon.

The Notre Dame coach would make no predictions as to the outcome of the game other than that it would be a hard fought game and that Notre Dame was prepared and determined to show its best brand of football. Rockne, who has seen the Army in action, declared that the Cadets had a great eleven and that it would take a powerful team to defeat them.

NOTRE DAME AND ARMY TO REACH HERE TODAY

Rockne and Team Due This Morning, Cadets This Afternoon—Both Elevens to Drill.

The Notre Dame football team, led by Coach Knuta Rockne, will arrive here at 9:21 o'clock this morning from South Bend, Ind. The team first will go tha Vanderbilt Hotel for breakfast, then to Rye, N. Y., where it will engage in light practice this afternoon preparatory to its annual battle with Army tomorrow afternoon at the Yankee Stadium.

Rockne has not as yet announced the names of the men who will start against Army, but is is likely he will start the following: Left end, Voedisch; left tackle, McManmon; left guard, Smith; centre, Boeringer; right guard, Leppig; right tackle, Miller; right end, Maxwell or Wallace; quarterback, Edwards; left halfback, Flanagan; right halfback, Hearnden; fullback, O'Boyle.

The Army team will arriva here at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon and will immediately go to the stadium, where a light workout will be heid under the direction of Head Coach "Biff" Jones.

A corps of cadets, about 1,100 strong, will arrive tomorrow under the command of Lieut. Col. Campbell B. Hodges, commandant of cadets, to cheer the Army team on to victory. The cadets will leave West Point (from Garrison) in two special trains at 12:15 P. M. and will arrive at Highhridge, where they will detrain at 1:15 P. M. They will then line up and march to the stadium, which they will enter at 1:45 P. M., at the corner of Sedgwick Avenue and 161st Street entrance. Inside the field the corps will etags its colorful drill, followed hy mass cheering, and then will take its place in the stands. The cadets will be accompanied by the Military Academy band.

In the thirteen contests thet these teams have played the Notre Dame eleven has gained a large advantage in games won. It has triumphed eight times to four for the soldiers. Only one game has ended in a tie. In last year's contest the Army swamped Notre Dame, 27 to 0. Both teams to date are undefeated this season.

ST. PETER'S PREP IN TIE.

Jersey City Eleven Plays Scoreless Draw With Seton Hall Freshmen.

Playing on a windswept field, the elevens of Prep and Seton Hall College freshmen struggled to a scoreless tie at Jersey City yesterday. Both teams displayed strong defenses. In the second quarter, St. Peter's marched down the length of the field to Seton Hall's 20-yard line, but three attempts to gain failed and McCarron tried a drop kick without succeee.

The line-up:

ST. PETER'S (0).		SETON HALL F (0).

Sanger Gets Call as a Sub As Reward for His Injuries

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 11.—Stuart Sanger of Fishkill received today a reward of merit for being injured the longest of any Yale player this season. He was awarded the No. 13 for the final games of the season. This is the final number awarded to a member of the Yale squad and indicates he will be a substitute. Sanger was regarded a likely candidate for end when the season began, but he has twice been handicapped by injuries severe enough to keep him on the sidelines until this week.

REGULARS OF NAVY WILL START GAME

Osburn at Centre Only Change From Michigan Game Line-Up—Will Face Georgetown.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 11.—Coach Bill Ingram announced his line-up for the Georgetown game this afternoon. He selected his first string to start but gave the greatest amount of attention this afternoon to a reserve eleven which it is hoped may be substituted for the regulars at an early part of the game.

Goudge will call signals as he did against the University of Michigan and the line-up is the same as that which started against that team except that Osborn is at centre instead of Hoerner. The line gains in weight and experience by this change and, it is believed, in general defensive strength. Osburn, regular centre for two years, was kept out of the game early in the season by illness but is in good condition now.

The reserve backfield which was worked in both defense and offense against Squad B this afternoon was made up of Parish, Shapley, Schuber and Ransford. Individually it is probably stronger in the running game than the first quartet. Parish played for a while on Georgia Tech and is an excellent runner, while Shapley and Ransford are both high-grade men. The combination, however, lacks a kicker such as Hamilton and is hardly as good at tha passing or defensive game.

BIFF JONES SILENT ON ARMY'S CHANCES

Avoids Prediction, but Gives Squad Thorough Two-Hour Drill for Notre Dame.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 11.—Biff Jones, head coach of the Army eleven, would not make any statement at the conclusion of today's practice as to the probable outcome of tha Army-Notre Dame contest at the Yankee Stadium in New York Saturday. Neither would Jones announce his final choice for the line-up, leaving that matter to be understood as being in doubt, particularly in regard to one or two places.

Today Jones had his men under his watchful eye for two hours. There was no sign of heavy work, but nothing was slighted in the final preparations. The B squad again went through its demonstrations of Notre Dame's style of attack, so far as it was able to execute it.

Brentnall at End.

In this defensive tryout there was some shifting about of players, both on the line and in the back field. Brentnall, who figured in a kicking drill again today, was sent in at Harbold's place at left end for a while. In the punting drill he displayed good form. Murrell and Hewitt alternated at fullhack, although the former was used for the greater part of the time. Both also were sent through the kicking rehearsal.

On the line Jones and Hammack, Seeman and Waldorf all played at right guard at intervals. Trial plays with the varsity driven at full speed featured the Cadets' offensive practice. In this drill all the backs threw passes. The signal practice was of lengthy duration and it was then that the Army got its final grooming.

The Cadets are finished with their preparations for the meeting with the Hoosiers except for a signal practice at the Yankee Stadium tomorrow afternoon. The squad will depart for New York tomorrow soma tims in the early afternoon, hut will not reach the Hotel Astor, where headquarters are to be established, until about 6 o'clock in the evening.

Corps to Stage Rally.

The Cadet corps will hold a football rally in the area of South Barracks tomorrow night. The men will go down to New York on Saturday morning.

DULUTH LOSES, 14-13, TO FOOTBALL GIANTS

STANFORD BACK IS STAR

Proves Able Triple Threat in Hard Fought Game at Polo Grounds—Haines Gets Touchdown.

By BRYAN FIELD.

Ernie Nevers and his Duluth Eskimos swept into town on a wintry blast, but passed a torrid afternoon at the Polo Grounds yesterday. Before 5,000 shivering fans, who endured the coldest football weather of the season, the New York Football Giants defeated the boys with an igloo and a glacier emblazoned on their jerseys by a 14 to 13 score.

It was the first appearance in the East of the Stanford star, whom Coach Glenn Warner had described as one of the greatest intercollegiate football players of all time. That Nevers deserves the reputation which preceded him few will deny, for he threw bullet-like passes, kicked splendidly and bucked the Giants' line more or less alone for 80 yards and a touchdown. However, the Giants were the Giants, and the one point margin by which they won was due to Giant commission and not to Eskimo omission.

Nevers's kick for the point after touchdown with only a few seconds to play was blocked by Tillis Voss, the point of a madly charging spear of Giant forwards, and the game ended as the second Eskimo defeat of the season. The kick was made with only fifteen seconds to play, and players and spectators alike knew it meant the end of the game, although the final horn did not sound until after the teams had lined up in midfield.

Haines and Nesser Excel.

The game produced other stars than Nevers. For the Giants, the ever-brilliant Hinky Haines slipped through the Eskimo line sideways to score the second touchdown after a 25-yard run. A blond warrior, wearing no head guard, and in a Giant uniform for the first time, also excelled for the home team. His was Al Nesser, guard extraordinary, plumber by trade and bearing no collegiate appelation. When Nesser got into the game after Murtaugh of Georgetown had been knocked out, the Eskimos knew that plumbers could play football as well as lay pipe.

On Nevers's side the Rooney brothers, J. and C., listed in the program as Independent, made quite as much trouble for the Giant defenders at one stage of the game as Nevers did later. All in all, it was as hard a game as the Giants have played this season. In the clubhouse after the fray, Hinky Haines and Joe Alexander, both of whom had played against Red Grange, said they much preferred stopping the Galloping Ghost to the Stanford Glacier. Certainly the latter was irresistible.

Nevers kicked off to start the game and the Giants marched steadily down the field to score a touchdown in the first five minutes. McBride scored the touchdown and the extra point and did most of the ball carrying. Those who wanted to know at this stage of the game where the highly touted Nevers had got his rsputation had only to wait for the second kick-off. The Eskimos, with Rooney and Rooney and Nevers carrying the ball, used up the next five minutes in scoring a touchdown to equalize the score. Nevers gained this extra point. In this march Nevers passed to C. Rooney for 40 yards and Rooney bumped the line in two runs of 20 and 15 yards respectively. Nevers carried the ball over on a 2-yard line buck.

Giants Miss Field Goals.

In the second period the Giants got two chances at field goals, but both failed. In the third period, Haines intercepted a forward pass and ran it to the 33-yard line. A pass to Carney and a line buck gave a first down, and then Haines slipped through the line on a reverse play for 25 yards and a touchdown.

Nevers was not in the line-up when this occurred, having been knocked out on an earlier play. The Giants, however, lifted the football rules and permitted him to come back into the game after the touchdown. That they did almost caused a tie, for after the Giants failed at another try for a field goal Nevers started from the 20-yard line and banged and slammed his way 80 yards for a score. Nothing seemed to stop him in this march, studded with six first downs, and Nevers was cheered when he went over the line. Then it was that Voss blocked his kick.

The line-up:

Washington Revenue Men Help Curb Ohio State Game Gougers

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 11 (AP).—A flying squadron of Government agents from Washington was here today to aid Newton M. Miller, Internal Revenue Collector, for the Columbus District, to prevent scalping of tickets for the Ohio State-Michigan football game Saturday. Choice seats for the game, according to curbstone reports, are bringing $50 to $100, with scalpers asking $15 to $25 for the poorer seats.

SO. CALIFORNIA WINS OVER OREGON AGGIES

KAER GETS 2 TOUCHDOWNS

Trojans Scored On in Final Period When Olmstead Blocks Kick and Recovers Ball to Tally.

Special to The New York Times.

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 11.—Twenty thousand football fans today crowded the Portland Civic Stadium and watched the University of Southern California defeat the Oregon Agricultural College team by 17 to 7 in a hard fought game.

The Californians had the edge on the Aggies for the first three periods, and it was not until the final quarter that Oregon was able to score its seven points with a touchdown and a successful kick. With only a few minutes left to play, the Californians put into play their second eleven and the reserves closed the game for the Trojans.

Though the Aggies were supposed to have an advantage on the muddy field, the speedy and alert Southern California eleven outran their opponents on the slow gridiron. Morton Kaer, star of the Trojans backfield, scored two of his team's touchdowns.

Elliott, kicking for California, booted the ball over the Aggie goal line in the last period and the ball was returned to the 20-yard line. A forward pass, Maple to Whitlock, grounded, then Edwards circled right end for 18 yards. A forward pass, Maple to Edwards, netted the Aggies 25 yards. Lubby gained 3 yards shortly after Olmstead blocked a Trojan punt, recovered the ball and ran for the Aggies' only touchdown. Maple kicked the goal.

RIVALRY OF CAPTAINS A BIG TEN FEATURE

Friedman of Wolverines and Karow of Ohio State to Clash for Sixth Time.

CHICAGO, Nov. 11 (AP).—The football honors of Cleveland, Ohio, will be a minor stake when Ohio State entertains Michigan at Columbus Saturday before a crowd which is expected to rank among the largest gridiron throngs in the game's history.

It will mark the sixth meeting of Captain Bennie Friedman of the Wolverines and Captain Marty Karow of the Buckeyes, who began a gridiron feud when Marty went to West Tech and Bennis to East Tech in Cleveland. They met thrice in high school and are meeting for the third time as college players.

The game will be the twenty-third clash between Michigan and Ohio State, and the ninth between the two coaches, Yost and Wilce. Ohio State's home-coming ceremonies, and the fact that it will be the last home game for a dozen members of the Buckeye squad have added importance to an occasion which many weeks ago loomed as the turning point of the season for two teams, both romping toward a Conference title.

The other featured battle on Saturday is the Chicago-Northwestern game, an annual civil war, which will bring 47,000 spectators to Dyche Field. Northwestern's much better record has made it only a slight favorite, for Chicago has beaten the Purple consistently in recent years.

The Maroons are heartened by the return of Kyle Anderson, injured halfback, and by the condition of Rouse and McKinney, backs, who have spent much time nursing bruises. Against Chicago's defensive play, the Wildcats plan to unleash all the fury of an attack in which Baker and Lewis play star roles.

Iowa went through its last practice for Wisconsin on an icy field, and again Kutsch, Hawkeye ace, was inactive. He has been out all week with injuries from the Minnesota game and will play the Badgers without a preliminary workout. Several other Iowans are injured, but not too seriously to prevent their playing at Madison. Wisconsin, trampled under foot by Minnesota and Michigan and tied by Purdue, hopes to win. It has beaten only Indiana among Conference foes.

Indiana, turned back thrice by Big Ten opponents, took heart at reports of scouts that Mississippi A. and M., while a worthy foe, was not too good to succumb before good football. Page told his men to forget the Purdue game ten days hence and to give their whole attention to annihilation of the Southerners.

Minnesota, Illinois and Purdue have easier foes in the trio of minor Indiana colleges who will engage their attention and the coaches are keeping the men in condition for important Conference games which will conclude the season.

COLGATE ELEVEN IS READY.

Has Last Hard Drill for Syracuse Game on Snow-Covered Field.

Special to The New York Times.

HAMILTON, N. Y., Nov. 11.—A snow-covered field was the scene of Colgate's final hard practice this afternoon before facing Syracuse in Archbold Stadium Saturday. The Maroon squad will leave here tomorrow afternoon following a short signal drill on Whitnall Field before the student body and alumni.

Coach Hauser worked the squad until long after dark, the line receiving most of his attention.

WASHINGTON HIGH TRIUMPHS BY 19-0

EVANDER ALSO IS VICTOR

Hogenauer Stars as Seward Park Is Defeated, 12-0, at Commercial Field.

Flashing a strong attack that gained ground consistently, the George Washington High School football team defeated the St. John's High eleven of Brooklyn, 19 to 0, in a preliminary game to the professional contest at the Polo Grounds yesterday afternoon. The result reversed last year's score, when the Brooklyn team won by the margin of a single field goal.

Before the game was three minutes old the rooters from upper Manhattan had occasion to cheer, when their team scored. After the kick-off St. John's punted poorly, and Raymen, Washington quarterback, ran it back to the fifteen-yard line. From here the towering Le Vecque, fullback and plunging ace of the Washington team, carried it over in four line plunges.

St. John's made a game attempt at a rally to offset this score, and for a time dented the Washington line, but the advance was stopped and St. John's forced to punt. George Washington tried the overhead route for the second touchdown in the second quarter. Le Vecque hurled the ball thirty yards to Seixas, who caught the ball while standing on the goal line for a touchdown. Seixas gained the point after touchdown. The last score of the game came in the final quarter, when a St. John's kick was blocked on the St. John's eight-yard line. Cavallon recovered and Raymen scored the touchdown four plays later.

Evander Beats Seward Park.

The Evander Childs High School football team defeated the Seward Park High School eleven, 12 to 0, at Commercial Field in Brooklyn yesterday. In the second period Hogenauer hurled a thirty-yard pass to Kahn for the first touchdown. In the third period ths passing of Hogenauer advanced the ball, but it was mainly ths tackle-smashing of Kahn and the end-running of Keener that brought the ball to the 11-foot line, where McGrath carried it over.

MARINES TURN BACK TEMPLE BY 41 TO 12

Levey, in 65 and 70 Yard Runs for Touchdowns, Features on Offense for Victors.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 11.—Two thrilling runs for touchdowns by Corporal Jim Levey featured the victory of the Quantico Marines over Temple University, 41 to 12, at the Sesqui Stadium today before a crowd of 7,000 chilled spectators.

Levey raced 65 yards for his first touchdown in the opening period, three minutes after the game started, and then, in the third period, he dashed 70 yards for his second touchdown. His 25-yard run led up to the Mariner touchdown in the second period.

Pugh, Whitfield, Brunelle and Ryan turned in the other touchdowns for the Marines, Ryckman adding three more points with drop kicks after touchdowns and Thompson and Shumway one each.

Temple's first score came late in the first period when Harry Jacobs, the 200-pound fullback, picked up a Marine fumble and ran 65 yards to score. In the third period, Engle, a substitute end, recovered Duncan's fumble of a punt after the latter had signaled for a fair catch and muffed it. The ball rolled to the goal line, where Engle pounced on it. Wearshing failed to kick both goals.

Even Money Wagered at Penn On Result of Columbia Game

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 11.—When the Columbia and Pennsylvania elevens line up for the opening kick-off at Franklin Field Saturday, they are likely to be regarded equally in the betting. A number of even money wagers were made on the Quaker campus today, some Columbia money arriving early and being quickly covered by Penn students and followers.

SCRIMMAGE ENDS PENN'S HARD WORK

VARSITY BREAKS UP PASSES

Prepares for Expected Air Attack Tomorrow—Line Will Remain Unchanged for Game.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 11.—Pennsylvania's hard work for the Columbia game Saturday wound up today when the varsity scrimmaged against a combination of scrubs and second varsity men. All the regulars were on the field, including Paul Scull, star dropkicker, injured in the Penn-State game. It is still doubtful if he will be able to start against Coach Crowley's team, although the coaches are counting on him.

Scull was not allowed to indulge in any heavy work today, although he followed the varsity on every play. Paul Murphy, Charley Rogers and Al Wascolonis were at their customary places in the backfield and took their turns at carrying the ball.

That Penn anticipates a passing game when Columbia comes here was shown by the number of throws the scrubs were told to use. The passes only met with fair success, as the Penn regular backs either batted them down or intercepted them.

After the scrubs had tried their hand with the air game, the varsity went on the offense with the overhead attack and by using short and long passes marched straight down the field.

From end to end the Penn line was the same as it started in the last few games. Captain George Thayer and Don Singer being on the ends, Smith and Hake at tackle, Duncan and Parke as guards and Butler centre. That will doubtless be the starting line against Columbia.

Should Paul Scull not be in shape to start the game, Pastor Fields will take his place and Coach Lou Young also has Jesse Douglass available. Douglass has been running wild in practice all week and is keen to get a chance against the New Yorkers. This is his last year at the university.

Penn will only indulge in a light workout tomorrow, using Franklin Field after Columbia takes a warm-up drill early in the afternoon.

CARNEGIE TECH WINS, 52-0.

Beats Juniata With Second Team as McClelland Stars in Game.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 11.—The Carnegie Tech eleven had an easy time winning from Juniata College this afternoon. The final score was 52—0.

Coach Wally Steffen used his second and third string men, resting his regulars. The visitors were unable to hold the Tartan scrubs in check. McClelland distinguished himself, scoring three touchdowns.

COLBY ELEVEN TRIUMPHS.

MEEHAN TO START N. Y. U. REGULARS

Seeks to Eliminate Chance of Having Davis and Elkins Snap Winning Streak.

LOSA KEEPS PLACE AT END

Chick Meehan, coach of the New York University football team, is going to take no chances of having a winning streak of seven games broken tomorrow. The Violet coach indicated yesterday that he would start his first team against Davis and Elkins. Reports regarding the strength of the Southern aggregation have decided Meehan if he ever was in doubt. He had been working out the second-string men with the regular linemen and it was the belief that the stars would be idle until the Nebraska game.

The practice at Ohio Field yesterday, however, saw every first-string man in his place. Only a dummy scrimmage was held, but in it the varsity was driven through formations and plays to be used tomorrow. The end position was played by Losa and Riordan, setting at rest the belief that Losa might be replaced by Ashton or Sestari. Skudin, Miller, Dunn, Lassman and Bunyan made up the centre of the line.

In the backfield Briante, Roberts, Strong and Connor followed through each play in fine style and showed great precision. The ball was handled cleanly and accurately and Dunn's passing to the backs was smoothed down to a nicety.

The second-string players, who doubtless will see service if the varsity makes headway against Davis and Elkins, also received plenty of work. Wexler, Roselle and Fisher are likely to get into the game if all goes well at the outset.

Davis and Elkins scored on the Army, while Yale could do nothing with the Cadets. Moreover, the touchdown was scored on the first team and not against the seconds whom Biff Jones threw into the game later.

Al Nixon, Graduate Manager of Athletics at N. Y. Y., last night announced the officials for the game, which will start at 2 o'clock. They are: Referee, Ed Cochrane, Michigan. Umpire, Colonel Munna, Army. Head linesman, J. G. MacDonald, Holy Cross. Field Judge, Ira T. Carruthers.

DAVIS AND ELKINS LEAVES.

Football Squad of 17 Will Arrive in New York This Morning.

Special to The New York Times.

ELKINS, W. Va., Nov. 11.—The Davis and Elkins football squad of seventeen left here this afternoon over the Western Maryland Railroad for New York, where New York University will be played Saturday.

The squad will arrive in New York tomorrow morning and headquarters will be established at the Waldorf-Astoria. A practice session will be staged at Ohio Field in the afternoon. The roster of men includes Captain Lutz, Holsberry, Wagner, Mattison, Camilletti, Miller, Curtis, Powell, Warren, McKinney, Garrett, Bowles, Brown, Ellis, Close and Barofsky.

C. C. N. Y. DRILLS DEFENSE.

Varsity Scrimmages Against Fordham Plays Tried by Reserves.

A two-hour workout was held yesterday afternoon at the Lewisohn Stadium, Coach Parker sending his City College varsity through a dummy scrimmage against the reserves, who used Fordham plays and formations. The only offensive work engaged in by the first team was a short passing drill, Tubby Raskin, Joe Josephberg and Sam Donstein tossing the ball.

The Lavender hopes have been lowered because of the loss of Irving Packer, the 193-pound tackle, who was playing his third year as a regular. Packer showed up particularly well in the Haverford contest and was counted upon to hold Captain Tom Leary. Packer tore several of the muscles in his back and injured his ribs in the Haverford contest and will play no more for the Lavender.

Johnny Clark, who plays the other tackle position, may not be able to start against Fordham, which will greatly weaken the C. C. N. Y. forward wall. He has an infected leg and was not able to take part in yesterday's drill. Artie Rosenbinth was back in uniform and will sure start against the Maroon. Captain Tige Seidler has also recovered from his leg injury and will probably displace Joe Turbidy at left end.

MANHATTAN ENDS WORK.

Has Final Scrimmage Before the Game With Upsala.

The Manhattan College football team yesterday finished its scrimmage work for the Upsala game. Coach McCarthy has lost Vincent Draddy and he may lose Mike Hayes, a halfback, who hurt his ankle in the City College game.

In the duel between Teams A and B no scoring was allowed. The varsity lined up with Captain George Smith and John Cohalon, ends; Hawk Skidd and Morgan Burke, tackles; Ed Flanagan and Con Cronin, guards, and Ted O'Gorman at centre. The first-string backs were Neil Cohalan, quarter; Charlie Smith and Jack Sheridan, halfbacks; Louis Mancz, Matt Ryan, Joe Blasi, Phil Delehanty and Gene O'Gorman alternating at fullback. The reserve line had Curtin and Johnson, ends; Matthews and McManus, tackles; Mazurki and Devery, guards, and Phelan, centre.

ST. JOHN'S TEAM TO DRILL.

Will Hold Regular Practice Session After Day of Rest for Squad.

The St. John's College eleven was idle yesterday but will stage a practice session today for the final game of its season with Canisius, which will be played on the latter's gridiron on Nov. 20.

Coach Lynch expects to have all his men in fine shape for the Canisius contest. Al Falussy, giant right tackle, who injured his hand in the Villanova game, will be in the line-up for the last game.

Wesleyan Ball Player Hurt.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Nov. 11.—Orville C. Bescher of Milford, Conn., of Wesleyan University was seriously injured yesterday afternoon when he was struck on the head by a ball while engaging in baseball practice on Andrus Field. He was brought in a semi-conscious state to the Fayerweather Gymnasium and afterward removed to the Middlesex Hospital.

Lafayette-Pitt Not to Meet In 1927; Disagree Over Site

Special to The New York Times.

EASTON, Pa., Nov. 11.—Lafayette and Pittsburgh have discontinued football relations for a year at least after seven successive meetings on the gridiron. This was learned today when Graduate Manager Reeves of Lafayette announced that Pitt had refused to come to Easton for the game in 1927. Lafayette was unwilling to go to Pittsburgh again, as six of the seven games since 1919 had been played in the western end of the State. Five of the last seven meetings with Pitt resulted in victories for the Maroon.

FORDHAM RESERVES TESTED BY VARSITY

Regulars, in Role of Scrubs, Use C. C. N. Y. Plays Against the Second Team.

FINAL PRACTICE TODAY

Coach Gargan Expects to Have His Substitutes in Shape to Play Most of Game Tomorrow.

The Fordham varsity eleven acted in the role of scrubs in the drill yesterday afternoon at Fordham Field. Equipped with City College plays and formations, the Maroon regulars took the offense and tested the second team in more than an hour of dummy scrimmage, the main part of the day's work. In an attempt to get the second-string men into playing condition for the game with City College, tomorrow, Coach Gargan has been drilling them all week and, although he will start the varsity against the Lavender he intends to use the substitutes for a greater part of the game. Both teams will be sent through a light drill today, the last before tomorrow's contest.

The regulars who will start against C. C. N. Y. went through a signal drill after the dummy scrimmage. The team was composed of Leary and Politis, ends; Feaster and Simmonetti, tackles; Bruce and Beloin, guards; Scully, centre; Graham, quarterback; Grip and DeLany, halves and Zakszewski, fullback. Later the second eleven went through a similar workout with Roberts and Ferral, ends; Cannella and Pollet, tackles; Hutchins and Wenzel, guards; O'Connor, centre; McClennon, quarter; Geruso and Conboy, half-backs and Baut, fullback.

Gargan will use his regulars tomorrow with an eye toward the Georgetown game, the final contest of the season a week from tomorrow. If the varsity displays good form in the early part of the game the Maroon coach will send in the reserves in order to save his players for the Blue and Gray tilt.

KEEN RACES LOOM AT PRINCE GEORGE'S

$180,000 Will Be Distributed at the Autumn Meeting of Southern Maryland Body.

The Autumn meeting of the Southern Maryland Agricultural Association at Prince George's Park will run through the last fortnight of November following the racing at Pimlico. Last Autumn the resoiled course was not fully settled. This Fall the going will be faster than ever before, since there has been a great deal of rain in the county and the course is now thoroughly settled.

More than a thousand horses will be available for the closing meeting of the Eastern racing season and about $180,000 will be distributed among the horsemen. The Bryan Memorial this year will have $20,000 in added money, an increase of $5,000 over last year. Other stakes to be contested will be the $10,000 Endurance Handicap, the $10,000 Thanksgiving Handicap and the $7,500 Prince George's.

James Rowe, battling hard to beat the world's money earning record of $438,849 established by the Rancocas Stable in 1923, will have most of the cracks of Harry Payne Whitney's establishment—Valorous, Whiskery, Pandera, Pantella, Biondin, Macaw, Croydon, Maid of the Mist, Overture, Traffic and Bonnie Pennant. Samuel C. Hildreth will be there with the smart Rancocas two-year-olds Sankari, Cheops, Sweepster, Adjutant, Grange and Black Curl, the three-year-olds Nida, Sabine, Colldon, and the veteran mares Nodana and Superlette. Edward B. McLean will race his brilliant sprinter Prince of Wales, which has been cleaning up at Laurel, also Cupid's Curse and Jock, the last named another Laurel winner and, possibly, the smartest colt Colin has given racing so far.

Mrs. Payne Whitney will race Cherry Pie and the other horses Vincent Powers has had at Havre de Grace and Laurel since the middle of September; William Averill Harriman will have Chance Play, winner of the Potomac Handicap in the Bryan Memorial, Prince Georges and Thanksgiving Handicaps.

11 TEAMS IN RELAY RACE.

Will Compete in Atlantic City-Philadelphia Event Tomorrow.

A field of eleven teams composed of eleven men each, is scheduled to start tomorrow morning in the sixty-four-mile Atlantic City to Philadelphia relay race which is to be conducted under the auspices of the Penn A. C., Philadelphia. The race is to start at 9:30 o'clock at Atlantic City and will finish in front of the Philadelphia club's headquarters. In the field will be five metropolitan squads and one from the Connecticut A. A. U. The remaining five clubs are Philadelphia organizations.

Teams have been entered from the local district by the Millrose A. A., Finnish-American A. C., Mohawk A. C., Glencoe A. C. and Brooklyn Edison Company. The Cygnet A. C. is the lone Connecticut A. A. U. entry. The Philadelphia teams are entered from the Meadowbrook Club, Shanahan Catholic Club, Nativity A. C., Kensington A. C. and St. Bonaventure's A. C.

The event will witness a revival and reversal of the old Philadelphia to Atlantic City distance event. The individual members of each team will run five, six or seven miles, according to the position of the runner on the squad.

A Broken Field

NOT only on Saturdays, when the results of the games are given, but every day in The New York Sun you will find a large volume of live, interesting Football News, written by men who know Football.

Critical reviews of the teams, analyses of coaching methods, changes in the line-ups, development of new plays and players, the results of the scrimmages—in The New York Sun every day.

George Trevor, Lawrence Perry, Edward Cochems, John B. Foster—these are a few of the nationally known football authorities who write for The New York Sun every day.

The Sun Selected the All-America Team last year and created Football history by bringing the members together at a banquet which it gave in their honor. This year The Sun will again select the All-America Team and will again give an All-America Football Banquet.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Irregularly Higher—Money Easy, Franc Stationary, Sterling Highest in 3 Weeks.

The more interesting movements yesterday again occurred elsewhere than on the Stock Exchange; this time they were the continuing relaxation of the money market and the rise of sterling above $4.84¼, to the highest rate since Oct. 19. These two movements were probably not unrelated; for the gradual easing-off in New York discount rates, along with continued firmness at London, has now left the London market appreciably above our own. Exchange dealers were inclined to ascribe the rise in sterling—the price is now nearly ⅝ cent above the season's lowest—to expectation of a coal trade settlement. But that was superfluous. Recovery is usual at this time of year; at this date last November the rate had risen ⅞ cent above the Autumn lowest.

Changes for the day on the Stock Exchange were irregular and not all were advances, but the upward trend was pretty general and gains for the day of 2 to 4 points were fairly numerous. The strength was mostly ascribed to easy money. Announcement of the expected extra dividend on General Motors stock was not made until after the close; the stock itself changed little during the day. The easier money market naturally caused strength in bonds; the day's "average" for both domestic and foreign loans went above the year's previous high figure.

The franc moved little; possibly because the Paris market was closed for Armistice Day holiday. For the same reason, the French bank's report on the week's changes in outstanding paper currency and in the Treasury's debt to the bank was postponed until today. The Bank of England reported loss of £747,000 gold in the week ending Wednesday. The greater part of this outgo, however, represented not export but transfer on the books of gold held for the South African Bank. In the corresponding week of last November the Bank of England lost £996,000 gold, so that comparison with a year ago is the best of any week thus far in the present Autumn. Its total gold holdings are now £4,000,000 greater than at this date in 1925, and the decrease from the high point of the year has thus far been £16,400,000 less. The market's admiration at this achievement (and at the strength displayed by sterling) was certainly not diminished by yesterday's statement of England's October foreign trade, which showed such increase in importations that the surplus of imports was, with two exceptions, the largest of any month since 1920.

Yesterday's "railway car-loading report" shows that, for the first time since the compilation of these statistics began, some nine or ten years ago, the momentum of distribution has made the closing week of October exceed all previous achievement. In four of the preceding years the high mark has been reached earlier in that month; three of them touched it in September, one in August. Increase during the week ending Oct. 30 to a figure 6,269 cars beyond the highest previous record of this or any other year is not without significance. The fact that the now proverbial "hand-to-mouth" buying during 1926 has in the aggregate been so great as not only to reach the million-car weekly figure earlier than in any previous year, but to extend the maximum distribution to the latest date on record, throws interesting light on the actual trade activity.

That this should have happened with unsold stocks of wholesale merchandise reported by the Federal Reserve smaller on the average than a year ago, is striking evidence of the country's consuming power. Its bearing on railway earnings is obvious. The increase in September loadings over 1925 was 254,000 cars, or not quite 6 per cent., and the increase subsequently reported for the month's net operating income of all the railways was $10,883,000, the actual total being the largest of any month on record. But the increase over 1925 in October loadings has been 463,000 cars, or 8⅝ per cent., and the net operating income of the railways for October, 1925, was three millions greater than in the preceding month.

A List for all Investment Needs

STANDARD DECIDES STOCK PLAN TODAY

New Jersey Oil Company Holds Special Meeting to Act on Calling of Preferred.

$230,000,000 TRANSACTION

A special meeting of directors of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, premier petroleum enterprise of the United States, has been called for 11 o'clock this morning to set in motion one of the greatest financial operations in Wall Street; the retirement of $200,000,000 of 7 per cent. cumulative preferred stock. While the company has made no announcement of its plans, it became known yesterday that preliminary steps looking to the calling of the stock are scheduled for today.

A total of $230,000,000 in cash will be required to retire the stock, since it is callable at $115 a share. The directors are not expected to shape their plans for the financing at today's meeting. They have four weeks in which to complete arrangements for the financing, the present program being to call the stock in on Dec. 15 next.

Notice to Stockholders.

Discussions regarding the retirement of the preferred stock, which have been going on several months, reached a point only recently that made it certain that the plan would be adopted before the end of 1926. The next date upon which a dividend on the preferred stock is payable is Dec. 15, and since the stockholders are entitled to thirty days' notice before their stock is called, the directors have decided to take definite action, it was indicated yesterday.

This readjustment of the company's capital structure, long awaited in the financial district, is perhaps the greatest transaction of the kind in American industrial history. The capital stock affected by the plan has a market value of more than $1,000,000,000. Many thousands of stockholders are concerned. The operation is expected eventually to involve a rearrangement of the company's dividend rates.

While the exact plan for the retirement of the preferred stock has not been revealed and is not believed to have been decided by the Standard's management itself, it will assure an offering of stock "rights" of tremendous aggregate value and may involve a bond offering of huge size. The underwriting of the plan will be in the hands of J. P. Morgan & Co. and associated banking interests. Officials and influential stockholders, including representatives of the Rockefeller interests, are understood to have been working on the plan.

A report accepted in the financial district yesterday as authoritative was that the plan now favored by the controlling interests calls for an offering of debenture bonds and of additional common stock. The bonds will be offered publicly, it is expected, while the stock will be offered to stockholders. Not less than $125,000,000 and possibly $135,000,000 of twenty-year 5 per cent. bonds, perhaps with a convertible feature is expected, while new common stock calculated to produce the difference between that figure and $200,000,000 will be offered to stockholders, it is said. The remaining $30,000,000 will be provided out of the treasury, Wall Street understands.

It is expected that the number of shares of additional common stock will be between 3,000,000 and 4,000,000, the exact number to be determined by the plan as to the bond offering. The company is said to have been considering a price between $25 and $30 a share for the new stock, with the latter figure favored.

Wall Street expects, in connection with the issuance of additional stock, that a higher dividend rate may be established. The present rate is $1 a share. The stock closed yesterday at $42.50 a share.

BANK OF ENGLAND GOLD HOLDING DOWN £747,000

Still £4,002,000 Above Year Ago—Reserve Ratio 57/8% Higher Than 1925.

The statement of the Bank of England shows the following changes for the week ended Nov. 10 in pounds sterling:

	Decreased.
Gold coin and bullion	£747,000
Reserve in banking department, gold and notes	44,000
Notes in circulation	706,000
Notes in reserve	19,000
Loans on Government securities	*£75,000
Loans on other securities	2,100,000
Public deposits	520,000
Other deposits	905,000

*Increased.

Proportion of the bank's reserve to deposit liabilities this week is 27.30 per cent.; last week it was 27.01 per cent.; two weeks ago, 27.32 per cent. The percentage of 30.28, on Sept. 22, was the highest of the year to date. The lowest reached thus far in 1926 was 15.36, on Jan. 6. The highest percentage since the war was 31.67, on July 29, 1925; the lowest, 7.20, on Dec. 20, 1920.

The statement compares with the corresponding weeks one and two years ago, as follows:

Total gold holdings.	1926	1925	1924.
Reserve in bank dept., gold and notes.	32,975,000	26,288,904	25,373,933
Notes in circulation	138,833,000	141,519,165	122,870,320
Public deposits	15,834,000	13,168,592	15,863,522
Other deposits	102,163,000	109,199,348	105,493,522
Government securities	36,210,000	39,402,794	40,898,443
Other securities	69,366,000	74,422,075	72,821,466
Ratio of reserve	27.30	21.50	21.00

The £164,500,152 gold holdings of the Bank of England on Aug. 5, 1925, were the largest in the history of the institution. On April 29, 1925, the week in which gold payment was resumed, they stood at £155,742,064. The lowest holdings since then were £143,711,895, on Jan. 20 last; the highest of 1926 to date were £155,930,451, on Sept. 22. Before the war the largest amount ever held was £43,634,723, on Jan. 28, 1914.

The bank's official discount rate remains at 5 per cent., to which it was raised from 4 per cent., on Dec. 2, 1925.

Stewart Warner Stock to Workers.

During October 1, 335 employees of the Stewart Warner Speedometer Corporation purchased stock of the company under the employes' stock purchase plan, inaugurated in August. Since that time 2,872 employee have bought stock. About 10,000 employes are eligible to subscribe.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

News, Comment and Incident, On the Stock Exchange and In the Financial Markets.

The favorable character of the money market appeared to be the chief stimulus in the activity of various "pivotal issues" on the New York Stock Exchange yesterday. Trading was relatively light, a fact due mainly, Wall Street believed, to uncertainties which surrounded the dividend meeting of the General Motors Corporation, scheduled to take place after the close of the market. Since the declaration of an extra disbursement of $4 a share was a post-market development its effect will not be known until today. Among the active issues which showed gains of two points or better in yesterday's trading were Allied Chemical, American Smelting, American Sugar, Baldwin Locomotive, Continental Baking A, Federal Light and Traction, Pullman Company, South Porto Rico Sugar, United States Cast Iron Pipe, United States Steel and Woolworth.

A "Well-Rounded Market."

One development which always cheers Wall Street is a stock market in which all groups move forward simultaneously. That is because, as the ticker watchers see it, a well rounded market is one not "manufactured" by a few groups of professional traders. Yesterday almost all groups moved forward, this including the public utility shares, the oils, coppers and most of the steels. It was recalled that just before the break in the market of September a great many persons withdrew from speculative activities because the entire market was made up of a handful of stocks. Some of the wire houses reported noticeable increase in public participation in the stock market.

Armistice Day Reminiscence.

Armistice Day again turned Wall Street reminiscences to what happened on the Stock Exchange at the time of the Armistice in 1918. Every one recalled that the real response of the market to peace had come on Thursday, Nov. 7, when all the world for several hours accepted the false report that the Armistice had been signed, and when stocks rose seven points on the average before the Exchange adjourned at 2:30 P. M. On Monday, Nov. 11, news of the actual signing was received early in the morning and the Stock Exchange declared a holiday. The next day only a few slight advances occurred; then a decline began, clearly attributable to financial misgiving as to the influence of returning peace on company earnings. Practically all active shares reached the highest point of the month either on the seventh or the twelfth. From the prices then reached there were before the end of November declines of 9¾ points in Atchison and New York Central, 11 in Union Pacific, 10 in United States Steel, 9¼ in Bethlehem Steel and 14 in Baldwin Locomotive.

October Railway Earnings.

Railway men predicted yesterday that net operating income of the railroads in October will in all probability exceed $155,000,000, as against September's $145,100,000 and last year's $137,700,000. Indications are at this time that most of the carriers will report increases, with striking gains in the East and Southwest. The coal roads will continue to lead the list. In the soft coal group, the Chesapeake & Ohio, Norfolk & Western and Virginia have piled up large gross earnings as a result of the British strike, while the Lehigh Valley, Lackawanna, New York, Ontario & Western and probably the Erie will more than double their net operating incomes of last October, when the anthracite strike began to show its full effect.

Records for Treasury Bonds.

The establishment of three new high records in their history by prices of United States Treasury obligations yesterday was taken as reflection of a prevailing belief among large investors that continuance of the present ease in the money market is probable. Large institutions, which had reduced their purchases of Treasury bonds, were back in the market for substantial amounts. The money market also will be replenished on Monday by the payment of a total of $66,000,000 of interest on Liberty bonds, of which $22,000,000 will be payable at the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. The strength in the Treasury issues exerted a strengthening influence on the general list of domestic corporate bonds and foreign securities also displayed great firmness.

Signs of Ease in Money.

While the New York Federal Reserve Bank made no change in its rediscount rate yesterday, there was increased talk in the financial district of a possible reduction in the near future. This was based on conditions in the money market, the most significant feature of which was considered to be a drop of ⅛ of 1 per cent. in bankers' acceptance rates. The reduction applied to bills for sixty, ninety and 180 days. Ninety-day bills, which usually are closely connected with movements in the rediscount rate, were quoted yesterday at 3⅛-3⅜ per cent., which is lower than the Federal Reserve rate. The call money rate remained at 4½ per cent., with concessions in the outside market, while in the time money market an increased proportion of the bids was on a basis of 4½ per cent. The change in acceptance rates was the first alteration made since late in August, when a readjustment followed a change in the rediscount rate.

Japanese Buying Securities.

Large purchases by Japaness interests have been one of the factors responsible for the recent strength in Japanese external bonds traded in here, particularly the 6½s of 1954, which sold yesterday at their highest price of the year. Funds have been accumulating in Japan, and investors there have long been aware of the desirability of buying the bonds traded in in foreign markets, which yield in the neighborhood of 6½ per cent., as against Japanese internal bonds, which give a return of not more than 5½ per cent. Added to this is the fact that taxes apply on the domestic issues, from which the external bonds are exempt. In many cases, it has been learned, the bonds bought here are not sent back to Japan, but held here for Japanese account by the big banks and trust companies. Previously the difference in exchange tended to hold back such purchases, but with the yen now virtually at par, bond buying here by Japanese interests has increased largely.

Relaxing Credit Restrictions.

So easy has credit become, and so fully provided are the banks with surplus funds, that most of them are seeking to enlarge their loans on Stock Exchange collateral. It was admitted yesterday that, whereas the brokers were "chasing the bankers" a few months ago, the "shoe is on the other foot" now, and the bankers are going after brokerage house business with something of energy. This brings about some reasonable concessions, and it does not take an overly shrewd broker to get his particular stocks marked up to what he has thought all along was commensurate with their worth. A case was recounted yesterday by a broker who had difficulty in midsummer in getting 80 per cent. on some particular Stock Exchange collateral in which he was interested. Now the collateral slides into his envelope at 70 per cent. without any signs of protest from the loan clerk.

MONEY.

THURSDAY, NOV. 11, 1926.

Another sign of the gradually easing condition of the money market was revealed when 60-90 and 180 day bankers' acceptances dropped ⅛ of 1 per cent., with the 90-day bill, which is the approximate period used in the calculation of the rediscount rate, down to 3⅛@3⅜ per cent. On the Stock Exchange, demand loans continued at 4½ per cent., and in the street market at 4. All maturity money was quoted at 4⅛@4¼ per cent., with plenty of funds available at the asked price. Commercial paper remained unchanged.

$15,000,000

Berlin Electric Elevated and Underground Railways Company

(Gesellschaft für Elektrische Hoch- und Untergrundbahnen in Berlin)

Thirty-Year First Mortgage 6½% Sinking Fund Gold Bonds

$3,000,000 Bonds of this issue have been withdrawn for sale in Holland by Messrs. Hope & Co., Teixeira de Mattos Brothers and Deutsche Bank, Amsterdam.

The City of Berlin, as stated below, owns a majority of the Company's capital stock. The City has entered into an agreement with the Company providing that fares will be maintained adequate to ensure earnings which will cover operating expenses, interest and sinking fund on all loans and proper provision for depreciation and other necessary reserves and that if, for any reason, the fares should not be maintained at rates adequate to ensure sufficient earnings available for such purposes, the City will provide the funds necessary therefor.

Dated October 1, 1926, due October 1, 1956. Interest payable April 1st and October 1st. Principal and interest payable in New York City, in United States gold coin of, or equal to, the present standard of weight and fineness, without deduction for any present or future German taxes, at the office of Speyer & Co., Fiscal Agent for the Loan.

Such principal and interest shall also be collectible, at the option of the holders, in Holland at the offices of the above named Dutch banking houses, at the equivalent in Guilders, the rate of exchange being fixed from time to time by such houses.

Coupon Bonds in denominations of $1,000 and $500, registerable as to principal.

Cumulative Annual Sinking Fund sufficient to repay the entire issue at or before maturity, to be applied to the purchase of Bonds at or below par and interest, or, if not so obtainable, to redemption by lot at par and interest. The Company reserves the right to call for redemption on any interest date, upon not less than three months' notice, all or any part of the Bonds then outstanding, at 102½% and interest, up to and including October 1, 1931, and thereafter at par and interest.

Deutsche Treuhand-Gesellschaft, Trustee; The Equitable Trust Company of New York, Co-Trustee.

Dr. Karding, Treasurer of the City of Berlin, and Messrs. P. Wittig and H. Dettmar, Managing Directors of the Company, have summarized their letter of November 11, 1926 (copies of which may be obtained from the undersigned), as follows:

CAPITALIZATION
(Upon completion of present financing)

Thirty-Year First Mortgage 6½% Sinking Fund Gold Bonds, due October 1, 1956	$15,000,000
Unsecured Loan from City of Berlin, repayable with interest at 6½% through cumulative annual sinking fund by April 1, 1950, 15,000,000 Reichsmarks	$ 3,571,000
Mortgages on real estate not used for railway operation, about 420,000 Reichsmarks	$ 100,000
Capital Stock: authorized and issued 175,244,000 Reichsmarks, including 62,000,000 Reichsmarks ($14,761,905) par value, capital stock, 50% paid, the balance subject to call.	$41,724,762

There are also outstanding 1,250 profit sharing certificates (no par value), the holders of which are entitled to one-quarter of the net profits after payment of dividends at the rate of 8% on the stock of the Company.

The Berlin Electric Elevated and Underground Railways Company, now controlled by the City of Berlin, was organized in 1897 as a private corporation and began operation in 1902. The Company owns about 28.7 miles of elevated and underground lines and operates a total, including connecting lines, of about 33.1 miles. These lines constitute the entire electric rapid transit system now in operation in the City of Berlin, the third largest city of the world, with about 4,000,000 inhabitants.

SECURITY: The City of Berlin, directly or through a corporation wholly owned by the City, now owns more than a majority of the 175,244,000 Reichsmarks ($41,724,762) capital stock of the Company, viz., 97,000,000 Reichsmarks ($23,095,238) par value, including 62,000,000 Reichsmarks ($14,761,905) par value on which 50% has been paid, the balance being subject to call. The City has entered into an agreement with the Company providing that fares will be maintained adequate to ensure earnings which will cover operating expenses, interest and sinking fund on all loans and proper provision for depreciation and other necessary reserves and that if, for any reason, the fares should not be maintained at rates adequate to ensure sufficient earnings available for such purposes, the City will provide the funds necessary therefor.

The Bonds will be issued under an Indenture to the Deutsche Treuhand-Gesellschaft, Trustee, and The Equitable Trust Company of New York, Co-Trustee, and will be secured by a direct first mortgage on all the elevated and underground railway properties of the Company, including equipment and power plant, subject only to charges under the laws enacted to give effect to the Dawes Plan, payments in respect of which (on the basis of present assessments) are conservatively estimated as not exceeding $225,000 in any one year. It is estimated that the principal amount on which such charges are computed will not exceed $3,750,000. The Company covenants to extend the lien of this mortgage to all property hereafter acquired with the proceeds of Bonds issued thereunder.

The total authorized amount of Bonds is limited to $25,000,000 (or equivalent in Reichsmarks). There will be presently issued $15,000,000 Bonds. The remaining Bonds may be issued for additions, betterments, extensions, etc., under restrictions to be set forth in the Indenture.

The rapid transit system owned includes 6 miles of elevated and 22.7 miles of underground lines with a total of about 71.5 miles of track. The Company owns its power plant which generates most of the electric current required, the remainder being supplied chiefly by the Berlin City Electric Company, all the capital stock of which is owned by the City. The equipment of the Company includes about 800 cars. The cost of the existing properties was over $60,000,000 and the cost of reproduction is estimated at over $100,000,000.

PURPOSE: The proceeds of this issue will be used for betterments, additions and equipment, for the payment of floating debt incurred in the construction of lines acquired from the City and of extensions recently placed in operation, for the redemption of 13,463,700 Reichsmarks ($3,205,261) par value of the Company's outstanding Bonds and other obligations and for other corporate purposes.

EARNINGS: The gross revenues of the lines now owned by the Company were for the year 1925, $7,367,000 and the net earnings after operating expenses, maintenance and taxes, were $3,290,000, equal (after deducting the above Dawes Plan charges) to over three times the annual interest on these Bonds. For the year 1926, gross revenues are estimated at about $6,891,000, and net earnings at about $2,911,000, equal (after deducting the above Dawes Plan charges) to about two and three-quarter times such interest requirements. The decrease in earnings for 1926 is mainly due to diversion of traffic to the surface lines owned by the City, in consequence of the lower fares still maintained on these lines. There is, however, impending a general revision of fares on all the transit lines now controlled by the City (including also the bus lines), which, it is confidently expected, will result in increased traffic and earnings for the elevated and underground lines. Furthermore, earnings should be materially increased through the operation of over 4 miles of important extensions, service on which began during 1926.

Annual dividends have been paid since 1903 (the first complete year of operation), with the exception of 1923; the dividend rate was 5% for 1924 and 7% for 1925. The stock of the Company is quoted on the Berlin Stock Exchange at about par.

All conversions from German to United States currency have been made at 4.20 Reichsmarks to the Dollar.

Application will be made to list these Bonds on the New York Stock Exchange.

All proceedings in connection with the issuance of the above Bonds are subject to the approval of our counsel, Messrs. Sullivan & Cromwell, New York, and Messrs. Albert & Westrick, Berlin.

We offer the above Bonds for subscription, if, as and when issued and received by us, at 94½% and accrued interest, to yield about 6.95%.

We reserve the right to close the subscription at any time without notice, to reject any application and to allot a smaller amount than applied for. Amounts due on allotment will be payable at the office of Speyer & Co., 24 & 26 Pine Street, in New York funds on or about December 6, 1926, as called for, against delivery of Interim Receipts exchangeable for Definitive Bonds when ready.

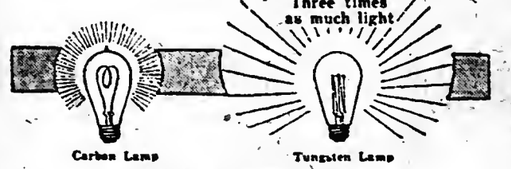
Associated Gas and Electric System

Founded in 1852



The First Tungsten Lamp

In 1902 two young chemists, Alexander Just and Franz Hanaman, in a high school in Vienna, tried to make a hard lamp filament which would give a brighter light.

After two years of experimenting they succeeded in making a paste out of tungsten powder. By forcing it under high pressure through a hole drilled in a diamond they made a slender wire of extreme hardness.

This was a great forward step. The new tungsten lamp, later improved to make the filament less breakable, gives nearly three times as much light from the same amount of electricity as the former carbon lamp.

Users of electricity everywhere now benefit from this improvement in lighting. One out of every 61 wired homes in the United States and its possessions is served by the Associated System.

THREE U. S. BONDS AT HIGHEST PRICES

Issues Paying 4¼, 4 and 3¾ Per Cent. Make New Records —Whole List Strong.

LOW MONEY RATE EXPECTED

Financial Institutions Buy Heavily —$66,000,000 in Liberty Loan Interest to Be Paid.

Three issues of United States Government bonds sold yesterday at the highest prices that they have ever commanded. In one case—that of the Treasury 4¼s of 1947-52—the present price represents an advance of more than $100 for each $1,000 bond in less than four years. At their high point yesterday, these bonds were quoted at 106[11/32], a net advance of 1/32 of a point for the day. The lowest at which they have sold was 96[1/32], in March, 1923.

The other records established yesterday were in the Treasury 4s of 1944-54, which sold at 104.26, a net gain of 1/32 for the day, and the Treasury 3¾s of 1946-56, at 102[1/32], a net gain of 1/32.

Strength was general through the general list of Treasury and Liberty bonds, but the other issues remained slightly below their records, established this year.

The advance was attributed to a resumption of large scale buying by big financial institutions, based on expectations of a continuance of the present low money rates. Bankers' acceptance rates, which are regarded as a guide to conditions, declined 1/8 of 1 per cent. for the important maturities yesterday. This placed 90-day bills on a basis of 3⅛-3¼ per cent., which indicated to many the possibility of an early reduction in the Federal Reserve Bank's rediscount rate. Call loans remained at 4½ per cent., but outside accommodation was available at 4 per cent. The Federal Reserve Bank directors at their meeting yesterday left the rediscount rate unchanged, but Wall Street heard that an early reduction was probable.

Under the influence of the low money rates and a broad general investment demand, the bond market moved to new high levels yesterday. THE NEW YORK TIMES average for forty bonds, at 88.77, touched its highest point of the year, and the same was the case with the average of forty bonds, 104.76. French and Belgian bonds, as has been the case for weeks, led in the upward movement of foreign bonds.

The money market will be further replenished on Monday by payment of approximately $66,000,000 in interest on Second Liberty Loan 4 per cent. bonds of 1927-42 and Second Liberty Loan convertible 4¼ per cent. bonds of 1927-42. Of this total, about $22,000,000 is payable at the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. Coupons due on Nov. 15 may now be sent to the Coupon Collection Division of the Federal Reserve Bank.

The Government on Monday will withdraw from deposit in this Federal Reserve district $12,572,000, representing 30 per cent. of the amount remaining on deposit of the 3½ per cent. certificates. For the entire country the withdrawals will be $44,990,000.

The advance in Liberty and other Government bonds has been facilitated by the large reductions in the outstanding supplies accomplished under the debt-retirement policies of Secretary Mellon and the progressively lower interest rates at which the Treasury has been able to borrow. Forecasts are made that the next long-term Government issue will bear only 3½ per cent. interest.

SEES HYDROELECTRIC CHAIN

Olin Lyman Expects New York to Connect With New England.

A chain of privately developed, interconnected waterpower plants linking systems of Northern and Western New York and the New England States was foreseen by Olin Lyman, in charge of public information for the Northeastern Power System in New York City and the north, in an address made yesterday before the Exchange Club at its weekly luncheon meeting in the Hotel McAlpin. The new era of hydroelectrification, he said, already had put to work 1,750,000 horse power of water power in this State.

The State's new system of impounding reservoirs to meet the water supply needs in the dry season is reclaiming swamp land in the northern tier of counties, he said. He also said there was in the Adirondacks a concerted movement on the part of industrial corporations for reforestation of denuded areas.

HUGE GENERATOR ORDERED.

CHICAGO, Nov. 11 (AP).—Signing of a contract today by the State Line Generating Company and the General Electric Company of Schenectady, N. Y., assures to the Chicago area the world's largest turbo-generator—one that will supply power equal to the best efforts of more than 8,000,000 men working eight hours a day. At 18,000 volts, the turbine will generate 208,000 kilowatts or about 270,000 horsepower. The highest pressure at which electricity now is generated commercially is 14,000 volts.

Ultimately, the station of which this turbine will be the first unit is to have a capacity of 1,000,000 kilowatts, or about 1,335,000 horsepower, to be wholesaled to other companies.

U.S. REALTY & IMPROVEMENT

Earnings of $3.18 a Share for Common Stock Reported for Half Year.

The United States Realty and Improvement Company reports for the six months ended on Oct. 31 a net profit of $2,125,595, after depreciation, interest, Federal taxes, &c., which is equal to $3.18 a share earned on 666,457 shares of no-par stock. This compares with $1,921,321, or $2.88 a share, in the like period of last year.

For the three months to Oct. 31 the company shows a net income of $1,121,307, or $1.68 a share, as compared with $1,004,288, or $1.50 a share, in the preceding quarter, and $1,032,152, or $1.54 a share, in the same quarter of last year. Total income for the six months to Oct. 31 was $2,382,029, as against $2,453,412 last year.

Air Reduction Company's Deal.

A controlling interest in the Commercial Acetylene Supply Company, Inc., has been acquired by the Air Reduction Company, which issued 9,232 shares of its capital stock without par value for 3,357 shares of the $100 par common stock of Commercial Acetylene Supply.

TO FUND ST. PAUL LOANS.

Mellon Tentatively Accepts Plan for Repayment of $58,000,000.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11 (AP).—Secretary Mellon has tentatively accepted a proposed funding settlement by the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad of its wartime Government loans, provided the proposal is promptly executed.

Two separate loans are involved, the first of which is a direct loan by the Government of $35,000,000. Another loan, for which the Treasury holds $20,000,000 collateral, which has depreciated to $17,000,000, would be settled by arrangement for the payment of $17,000,000, plus $2,200,000 in interest and the deposit of $3,000,000 in preferred stock of the new company.

A bill is pending sponsored by Senator Gooding of Idaho proposing a funding settlement over thirty years.

Jerome Hanauer, member of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., who is directing the reorganization of the St. Paul, said yesterday that Secretary Mellon had accepted his proposal for settling the Government loans to the road early last July.

"The loans amounted to $55,000,000," he said, "in settlement of which the Government agreed to take $52,000,000 in cash, plus the interest due at the date of payment, and $3,000,000 in preferred stock of the new company. These were the terms provided in the road's reorganization plan."

NATIONS' CREDIT GAINING.

Only 13½% of Foreign Government Bonds in Default, Winkler Says.

National Governments have improved their standing with creditors in recent years, it was said yesterday by Dr. Max Winkler, Vice President of Moody's Investment Service, at the international finance forum of New York University held in the New York Stock Exchange.

"Whereas in 1875, of the aggregate par value of foreign Government securities listed and traded in on the London Stock Exchange of more than $3,000,000,000," he said, "no less than $1,660,000,000 were either wholly or partly in default; the amount in default at the beginning of the current year aggregated $2,500,000,000 out of a total of foreign Government securities traded in of about $17,000,000,000. If we deduct Mexican Government securities, which are now receiving payment in accordance with the agreement between the Mexican Government and the International Bankers, we obtain a total of $2,300,000,000, or 13½ per cent. of the entire amount listed.

"Moreover, of this sum, approximately $2,000,000,000 is represented by Russian Government obligations."

VANADIUM TO BE ABSORBED.

Union Carbide to Exercise Option to Purchase Assets.

An option to purchase the entire assets of the United States Vanadium Company has been exercised by the Union Carbide and Carbon Corporation, effective as of Dec. 1, 1926. The latter concern has been negotiating for and developing the ore bodies and processes of the Vanadium Company for the last year, and this option indicates the satisfaction of Union Carbide executives that the properties will develop into one of the largest producers of vanadium.

The Vanadium Company's property is at Rifle, Garfield County, Colorado, about 300 miles west of Denver. The mine is twelve miles from Rifle and the ore is hauled to the town for treatment at the plant, which is reported to have trebled its capacity in the last year. The company also maintains a smelting plant at Columbus, Ohio. Sales of the vanadium products will be handled by the Electro-Metallurgical Sales Corporation, a subsidiary of Union Carbide.

WOOLWORTH CO. IN BERLIN.

Chain Stores to Be Opened in Germany After New Year.

Organization in Germany of 5 and 10 cent stores, similar to those in this country, was announced yesterday by the F. W. Woolworth Company. The work of launching the chain is in the hands of R. H. Strongman, a director of the Woolworth Company, who is now in Berlin selecting store locations.

Experienced men will go from the United States to Germany after the first of next year to lay the foundation for the active work in connection with the German head office and the stores. Corporate operations there will follow the lines of the Woolworth business in England.

JAMES ON MERGER RUMOR.

Discredits Report of Consolidation Involving Great Northern.

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 11 (AP).—Arthur Curtiss James of New York, largest stockholder in the Great Northern Railway, arrived here today with Ralph Budd of St. Paul, President of the company.

Mr. James said nothing had happened to justify any belief that a merger of the Great Northern with the Northern Pacific and the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railways would be concluded soon.

New York Central Earns $4.61.

The New York Central Railroad reports net income of $17,685,190 after taxes and charges for the quarter ended Sept. 30, equivalent to $4.61 a share on 3,832,544 shares of outstanding capital stock, compared with $15,639,723, or $4.08 a share, in the corresponding three months of 1925. Net income for the first nine months of the year was $42,821,501, equivalent to $11.17 a share on the stock, against $36,079,408, or $9.41 a share, in the same period of 1925.

Stock Exchange Seat $160,000, Membership in Curb $28,000

Following a report on Wednesday of tentative arrangements for the sale of a seat on the New York Stock Exchange at $160,000, a figure $18,000 in excess of the last previous sale, executives of the Exchange yesterday announced that the membership of Robert H. Simpson had been sold to Robert J. Goldman for that price. This marks a new high price for membership in the Exchange. It was reported yesterday that $162,000 had been offered and refused for another seat.

It also was made known yesterday that the seat of Edward W. Buckhout had been sold to George C. Schubert for $158,000, and that of Henry W. Evans to Charles C. Wright for $152,000. The membership of L. W. T. Coleman has been sold to Townsend P. Coleman for a nominal consideration. George L. Foreman has been elected a member.

The New York Curb Exchange membership of Thomas C. O'Keefe has been sold to Spencer H. Logan for $28,000, marking an increase of $5,000 over the last previous sale.

The first sale of a seat on the Consolidated Stock Exchange in several months was announced yesterday, but the price was not made known. The buyer was Jerome A. O'Leary.

The Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company

Twenty-Year 6% Debenture Gold Bonds

Dated July 1, 1923 Due July 1, 1943

Interest payable January 1 and July 1 without deduction for any Federal Income Tax not exceeding 2% per annum which the Company may be required or permitted to pay thereon or retain therefrom. Pennsylvania Four Mills Tax refundable upon timely and appropriate request. Principal and interest payable at the office of Bankers Trust Company, New York, Trustee. Redeemable at the option of the Company on any interest payment date upon thirty days' notice at 105 and accrued interest, as a whole only (except for Sinking Fund) up to and including July 1, 1933, thereafter also by lot at that price in amounts of $1,000,000 and multiples thereof. Coupon Debentures of $1,000 denomination, registerable as to principal only.

Bankers Trust Company, New York, Trustee

A Sinking Fund is provided sufficient to retire $750,000 Debentures annually on January 1 of each year through purchase at not exceeding 105 and accrued interest, or, if not so obtainable, by redemption by lot at that price.

Company: The Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company, organized in 1900, is today one of the largest manufacturers of steel pipe and sheets in the United States and with its total ingot capacity of over 3,000,000 tons annually ranks third among the steel companies of the country. It constitutes a completely integrated unit in the industry. The steady growth of its furnace and finishing mill capacity has been accompanied by the acquisition of adequate supplies of raw materials and by the construction of additional coke ovens and by-product plants. The principal products of the Company are pipe and sheets. It also manufactures many other types of finished steel products used in practically every important industry.

Business and Properties: The Company has complete facilities for the manufacture of steel products both in the Youngstown district and in the Chicago district. Approximately three-fourths of its ingot capacity is in the Youngstown district which is favorably located with respect to the large industrial sections in the eastern half of the United States. The other one-fourth of its ingot capacity is located in the Chicago district which is rapidly becoming the center of manufacturing distribution for the western and southwestern parts of the country. The Company also has manufacturing plants in Wisconsin and Michigan. This wide geographical distribution of manufacturing facilities is of great benefit to the Company as it offers productive capacity located near its principal markets, which lessens the cost of distributing its products. The recently completed program of expansion which the Company has carried on in the past several years has been entirely accomplished through the reinvestment of surplus earnings to the extent of more than $20,000,000. During this period the Company reduced its outstanding funded debt by nearly $9 0,000.

Purpose of Issue: The proceeds from the sale of these Debentures will be used for the retirement of the entire $8,334,000 outstanding issue of General Mortgage Sinking Fund 7% Gold Bonds, Series "C", of The Steel and Tube Company of America (now a lien upon the properties acquired from that company in 1923), and for other corporate purposes.

Capitalization: The capitalization of the Company, as of September 30, 1926, adjusted to give effect to the sale of these Debentures and to the retirement of $8,334,000 The Steel and Tube Company of America 7% Bonds, Series "C", is as follows:

FUNDED DEBT
Divisional Bonds (Closed Issues) and Purchase Money Obligations	$20,068,368
Twenty-Year 6% Debenture Gold Bonds, due 1943, (including this offering)	47,750,000*
CAPITAL STOCK
7% Cumulative Preferred Stock ($100 par value)	$14,241,100
Common Stock (no par value)	987,606 shs.

*Of the total $50,000,000 authorized, $2,250,000 have been heretofore retired through the operation of the Sinking Fund.

Earnings: Consolidated net earnings of The Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company available for interest after deductions for depreciation and depletion have averaged $20,898,047 annually for the ten years and nine months ended September 30, 1926, equivalent to 5.21 times annual interest requirements of $4,010,331 on the total funded debt to be outstanding. Such earnings for the year 1925 were $19,230,090 or 4.80 times these requirements, and for the nine months ended September 30, 1926 were $17,123,069 or at the annual rate of 5.69 times these requirements.

Security: The Twenty-Year 6% Debenture Gold Bonds are the direct obligation of the Company and are issued under an Indenture which provides that the Company shall not issue any additional secured obligations without securing ratably therewith the Debentures of this issue then outstanding, except purchase money mortgages on property hereafter acquired and indebtedness created in the ordinary course of business which matures not later than one year from its date.

The consolidated balance sheet of the Company, as of September 30, 1926, adjusted to give effect to the sale of these Debentures and to the retirement of $8,334,000 The Steel and Tube Company of America 7% Bonds, Series "C", shows net tangible assets of $195,163,190 as against total outstanding funded debt, including this offering, of $67,818,368. Net current assets alone amount to $64,698,921, current assets being 4.75 times current liabilities.

Equity: These Debentures are followed by $14,241,100 7% Cumulative Preferred Stock and by 987,606 shares no par value Common Stock which have a market value based upon current quotations aggregating approximately $100,000,000.

The Debentures of this issue now outstanding are listed on the New York Stock Exchange and application will be made to list this additional offering.

Price 103½ and accrued interest to yield over 5.67%

These Debentures are offered for delivery when, as, and if issued and received by us, and subject to approval of counsel. All legal matters in connection with this issue of Debentures are to be passed upon for the Bankers by Messrs. White & Case, and for the Company by Messrs. Kennedy, Manchester, Conroy and Ford. It is anticipated that interim certificates will be available for delivery on or about November 30, 1926.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

Rise in Sterling Follows Heavy Bank Purchases—Lire Weak, Franc Firm.

Strength in sterling and continued weakness in the lire were the developments of chief interest in yesterday's trading. The Paris market was closed in observance of Amistice Day, which limited the turnover in that and other Continentals.

The upward movement in the pound, which was carried to $4.84 11/16, a gain of 1/16 cent, was attributed to active buying by a number of prominent banks and to a relatively enlarged long position which has followed the rebound from the year's low touched a week ago. Another factor advanced was that the expectation of easy money here had caused a shifting of balances abroad where higher interest charges prevail. Lire sagged right from the start, closing at 4.06¼ cents, an overnight loss of 8 points. French francs were quiet and firm, yielding only slightly more than a point to 3.20¾ cents.

Danish and Norwegian exchanges were higher, but the Swiss, Spanish, Holland and German documents were firm. All the Eastern currencies rose with the improvement in silver here and in London. South Americans were dull.

More Electric Power Used.

The Electrical World reports that electrical consumption by more than 1,800 manufacturing plants throughout this country in October last, was 7.4 per cent. more than in October, 1925, and 15.3 per cent. more than the average monthly rate for the last three years.

ENGINEERS PUBLIC SERVICE.

The earnings of the Engineers Public Service Company after expenses, taxes, interest, &c., and preferred dividends, for September totaled $328,076. For the twelve months to Sept. 30 profits were $3,016,024. Gross earnings for September were $2,297,109; for twelve months, $25,735,008.

Operating expenses and taxes for September totaled $1,390,740, and interest, amortization, rentals, &c., $268,347. For the twelve-month period these figures were respectively $15,854,778 and $3,154,009.

Coincident with the release of its financial statement the company announced that an offer had been made by the Virginia Electric and Power Company, one of Engineers Public Service Company's large subsidiaries, for the purchase or exchange of stock of the Norfolk Railway and Light Company. Two alternatives are offered, one of them being $33 a share in cash, and the other being one share of 6 per cent. cumulative preferred stock of Virginia Electric and Power and $9 in cash for each three shares of stock of the Norfolk Company. Stockholders of the Virginia concern will meet in special session on Nov. 23 to reclassify the unissued 7 per cent. preferred stock into a 6 per cent. stock which will be available for issue under the above offer and for other corporate purposes.

APPROVES EXTENSION ON B. M. T. CULVER LINE

Board of Estimate Backs Delaney Plan Despite Opposition—Berry Votes Against It.

The Board of Estimate approved yesterday the plan of John H. Delaney, Chairman of the Board of Transportation, for the construction of a track connection between the city-owned, recapturable Culver elevated line and the Coney Island yards, despite the previously vigorously expressed opposition of officials of the B. M. T., which operates the Culver line, and will use the Coney Island yard and shops. Controller Charles W. Berry voted against the connection, which will cost $465,344, and which Gerhard H. Dahl, Chairman of the board of the B. M. T., characterized as "a sheer waste of money."

When the board discussed the proposal at previous meetings, Mr. Dahl and Mr. Delaney argued the matter, but neither appeared yesterday. Mr. Delaney contended the B. M. T. should not have a monopoly of the yard.

The Transit Commission obtained yesterday the consent of the Ocean Electric Company to continue its shuttle trolley service between Hammels and Far Rockaway for two months and adjourned its hearing on the company's application to discontinue this service until the end of that time. The consent was given at the request of Commissioner Leon G. Godley, who seeks to determine whether motor bus service will be able to take the place of the trolley line.

The Board of Transportation made public the amounts of the bids received for the construction of the fourth addition to the Lenox Avenue shops at Lenox Avenue and 147th Street, which are used by the Interborough Rapid Transit Company. The bids follow:

Eastern Construction Company, $473,394; Kenney Brothers, $466,166; Guidene & Bottino, $487,598; Slattery Engineering and Construction Company, $486,921; P. J. Carlin, $517,319; Norman A. Deiser, $529,974; Remo Realty Company, $539,058; Riverdale Construction Company, $604,967.

Consolidated Distributors' Report.

Net profits of the Consolidated Distributors, Inc., including the Times Square Auto Supply Co., Inc., for the third quarter of this year were $21,283, after expenses and other deductions, as compared with $28,167 in the preceding quarter and $3,915 in the first quarter of this year. For the first nine months of 1926 the profits were $53,365.

Schulte Stores' Sales Gain.

Sales of the Schulte Retail Stores Corporation for the three months ended on Oct. 31, aggregated $8,259,307, as against $7,498,480 in the like period of 1925, or an increase of $760,827.

JAPANESE PROPOSING LARGER SINKING FUND

Cabinet Prepares New Financial Acts Affecting Handling of National Loans.

Important financial measures have been decided on by the Japanese Cabinet for the next fiscal year, bankers in this city were informed yesterday. The measures will be included in legislation to be proposed at the coming session of the Imperial Diet, which will convene on Dec. 24 and will act on the budget for the year beginning in April, 1927.

The most important measure will be an increase of 44,500,000 yen in the sinking fund for the consolidation of naional loans. This will be applicable either to domestic or external loans. It was decided on for the purpose of decreasing the outstanding amount of national loans, improving the market price of the bonds and facilitating the functioning of the Bank of Japan. This measure is contained in a proposed amendment of the Special Account for National Loans Consolidation act. Article 2 of this act provides annually 1.16 per cent., but never less than 30,000,000 yen, of the total amount of national loans outstanding at the beginning of the preceding fiscal year as the minimum to be applied for the sinking fund. The amendment aims to supply, in addition to this, one-fourth of the net surplus of the budget for the fiscal year before last. It is calculated that sinking fund operations, if the amendment is adopted, will amount to 100,000,000 yen, or about $50,000,000, in the next fiscal year.

Other measures include limitations on national expenditures and a restriction on the amount of national loans to be floated in the year. Japanese exchange is now within a small fraction of par and the Japanese bonds have risen to new high levels in the New York market. These movements are taken as indications of early resumption of the gold standard by Japan.

Stocks Admitted to the Curb.

The New York Curb Exchange has admitted to listing and trading 1,756,750 shares of the no par common stock of the Anglo Chilean Consolidated Nitrate Corporation, and 138,740 shares of no par Class B stock of the National Food Products Corporation. The New York Stock Exchange has stricken from its list Brunswick Terminal & Railway Securities Company $100 par capital stock.

National Tea Sales Increase.

The National Tea Company reports October sales of $4,868,141, against a gain of 5.6 per cent. For ten months this year sales were $43,809,962 against $38,501,654, an increase of 13.8 per cent.

CITES HIGH EARNINGS OF THE LACKAWANNA

I. C. C. Shows Road Missed Dividend in Only Three Years Out of Seventy-five.

VALUE FIXED AT $95,217,200

Report Compares Earnings Under Federal Control With Those Under Private Ownership.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—In nearly three-quarters of a century, the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railway Company, around which is built the Lackawanna System, has missed only three years in paying cash dividends, and from 1908 to 1918 the dividends averaged 25 per cent. a year.

This record is referred to in the temporary valuation report made public today by the Interstate Commerce Commission. The final value of property owned as of June 30, 1918, for rate making purposes, is fixed at $95,217,200. The value of the property used but not owned was found to be $136,344,442.

The Roads Involved.

The following roads are embraced in the report:

The Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, the Cayuga and Susquehanna, the Morris and Essex, the Newark & Bloomfield, the Chester, the Oswego & Syracuse, the Valley, Utica, Chenango and Susquehanna Valley, the Greene, the New York, Lackawanna & Western, the Passaic & Delaware, the Morris & Essex Extension, the Passaic & Delaware Extension, the Lackawanna of New Jersey, Syracuse, Binghamton & New York, Erie & Central N. Y., the Warren, the Hopatcong, the Hoboken Ferry Company and the Syracuse & Baldwinsville.

The Lackawanna wholly owns and uses 806,035 miles of all tracks and wholly uses but does not own 1,858,127 miles of all tracks consisting of first, second and other main tracks, sidings and yard tracks.

The report compares the cost of operation by private hands with that during Government control. It says:

"For the period from Oct. 21, 1851, to Dec. 31, 1917, the aggregate railway operating expenses have been 58.6 per cent. of the railway operating revenues and for the period of ten and one-half years preceding Dec. 31, 1917, 61.3 per cent.

Comparison of Income.

"The ratios and the net railway operating income for the years ended on June 30, from 1908 to 1917, for the six months ended on Dec. 31, 1917, and for the six months ended on date of valuation are given in the table below:

Operations of the Lackawanna:

Year.	1908.	1909.	1910.	1911.
Ratio	58.9	55.0	53.5	60.1
Income—	$12,755,781	$13,927,976	$15,126,628	$12,693,111
Year.	1912.	1913.	1914.	1915.
Income—	$10,546,454	$13,591,068	$12,506,005	$13,821,143
Year.	1916.	1917.	1917 (6 mos.)
Ratio	59.8	63.9	67.0
Income..	$17,202,380	$16,541,814	$7,422,290

Operations of the United States Railroad Administration:

Year 1918 (six months)—Ratio 77.0. Income, $5,571,679.

The report continues:

"The investment of the Lackawanna in road and equipment, including land on date of valuation, is stated in its books as $75,297,494.83. With readjustments required by our accounting examination this amount would be reduced to $72,559,998.26, of which $8,322,314.41 less an undetermined portion thereof assignable to offsetting items included in amounts recorded at $16,288,415.30, represents considerations other than money, the cash value of which at the time of the transaction we are not able to report because it has been impossible to obtain the information. The amount stated above includes the undetermined cost of constructing twenty-six miles of road which has been abandoned. It may also include some of the cost of the non-carrier lands and other non-carrier property owned.

Outlays in Improvements.

"The investment of the Lackawanna in improvements on leased railway property on date of valuation is stated in its books as $11,434,210.27, all of which represents recorded money outlay by the Lackawanna or the United States Railroad Administration.

"The cost of reproduction new of the property wholly owned and used by the Lackawanna is placed at $104,046,281, and the cost less depreciation would be $77,674,184. Investments of the Lackawanna in miscellaneous physical property on the date of valuation is stated in its books at $109,431,447.58.

"With readjustments required by our accounting examination this report would be increased to $109,481,447.58. This amount comprises $2,383,626.46 for lands, buildings, docks, and wharves, and $1,324,303.08 for coal-mining property in Pennsylvania. The remaining $105,773,518.04 does not represent actual investment or cost, but represents the Lackawanna's estimate of the value of its unmined coal, the amount charged to the miscellaneous physical property account being offset by an equal amount credited to the balance sheet account additions to property through income and surplus. It has not been determined how far the property represented in the miscellaneous physical property account has been included in the preceding summaries of non-carrier property owned."

The Lackawanna also owns and holds for non carrier purposes $40,596,917.84 par value of securities, of and other investments, in other companies and governments which are recorded in its account of $41,362,101.83 book value.

George E. Marcy Retires.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—George E. Marcy, Chairman of the Armour Grain Company since July, 1925, and for more than twenty years President of the company, has sold his membership on the Chicago Board of Trade and will devote his time to his fruit ranch in California and to traveling. He is 62 years old.

Three More Utilities for Foshay.

The W. B. Foshay Company announced yesterday the purchase of the Greensburg Water Company, Greensburg, Ind.; the Pickaway Water Company of Circleville, Ohio, and the Washington Water Company of Washington Court House, Ohio. They will be operated by the Peoples Light and Power Corporation, a Foshay holding company.

MOTOR INDUSTRY SLACKENS

Majority of Plants on Part Time, Waiting for New Season.

The automobile industry is now marking time, with a majority of the plants on a four-day or five-day week basis, and with interest centered in approaching national shows and the opening of the next season, Automotive Industries reports. Production for at least two months will be almost entirely to meet current requirements.

"Sales are somewhat irregular," the publication states, "and are below the level of a year ago, but this condition is readily explained by the slowness of business in the South and the Middle West. Men in the industry are confident that locally adverse influences will be overcome in the early months of next year.

"With car and truck production in October estimated at 368,000 units, the total for the year to date has been brought to over 4,000,000 vehicles, against 4,336,000 for the entire year 1925, which marked a new record for the industry. There is now little doubt that the 1926 total will be over 4,500,000 cars and trucks. This major gain has been almost entirely in the domestic market.

"The conviction is growing that motor car prices will remain on substantially the present level for some time to come."

NON-FERROUS METALS FIRM.

Sales of Copper Improving—Price Concessions Reported.

The non-ferrous metals market had a firmer appearance during the past week, and after three weeks of dullness copper sales have improved materially, says The Engineering and Mining Journal. Zinc had another active week, and lead has been selling in moderate volume at steady prices. Tin was inactive, with higher prices for spot. Silver was dull, but steady, and quicksilver and antimony were firm.

"The volume of copper business has been good," the periodical reports. "Since Monday concessions for 13.875 cents a pound have been made by two sellers. No further reductions have been made in the contract price for lead, the market holding at 8 cents a pound, New York. Zinc buyers have been active all week, with prices ranging from 7.15 cents to 7.22½ cents a pound for prime Western. Tin for early delivery continues scarce and the market is difficult to quote."

MONTAGU NORMAN'S RECORD

Governor of Bank of England Re-elected for Seventh Time.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—Montagu Norman, Governor of the Bank of England, was re-elected today to that office for the seventh time.

This constitutes a record in the period of bank governorships. It is customary for a new governor to be elected every two years, but the late Lord Cunliffe occupied the position five years. Central banking has developed so greatly during the last seven years that it is doubted that the custom of two-year governorships will be revived.

EXTRA DIVIDENDS BY THREE COMPANIES

Owens Bottle, Taunton Copper and Libby Glass Pay Specials —Bank Increases Rate.

The Standard Bank, in announcing yesterday a quarterly dividend of $3, placed its stock on a $12 annual basis, instead of $10 as formerly. The Standard National Corporation took similar action in increasing the disbursement to $3, thus making the return to stockholders of the bank $24 a year.

The Imperial Oil Company, Ltd., of Toronto, Canada, announced a special dividend of 25 cents in addition to the regular quarterly distribution of the same amount.

Directors of the Owens Bottle Company declared a dividend of 5 per cent. in common stock on the common and an extra cash payment of $2, in addition to the regular quarterly distributions of 75 cents on the common and $1.75 on the preferred.

The Taunton New Bedford Copper Company announced an extra payment of $6.50, together with the regular quarterly of $1.50. The Libby Owens Sheet Glass Company declared an extra dividend of $1 on the common, in addition to the regular quarterly disbursements of 50 cents on the common and $1.75 on the preferred stocks.

LOREE'S MERGER PLAN ATTACKED BY DIRECTOR

Mayer of St. Louis Southwestern Charges Minority Interests Are Mishandled.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11 (AP).—Walter E. Mayer, a director of the St. Louis Southwestern Railroad, who said he represented 14,000 shares of minority stock in the company, appeared before the Interstate Commerce Commission and attacked the plan of the Kansas City Southern to take over the Missouri-Kansas-Texas while that road in turn would take over the St. Louis Southwestern. He said the project, proposed by Leonor F. Loree, was in the interests of neither the public nor the owners of stock.

Attacking the present control, Mr. Meyer said it was an utter disregard of the interests of the minority stockholders of the St. Louis Southwestern. "The purchase of 100,000 shares of Katy stock at an average price of $44.83 a share is an example of the exercise of majority control to the detriment of the minority," he said. "The price paid by the St. Louis Southwestern was close to the highest price that stock had reached during the past two years and ten months. The fact that the St. Louis Southwestern was the owner of 100,000 shares of Katy stock was not disclosed to me until Sept. 20, 1926. No record of the transaction appeared in the monthly balance sheet furnished the directors other than an entry of funds in suspense accounts."

Cuneo Press's Earnings Grow.

The Cuneo Press, Inc., reports net earnings for seven months this year of $527,023, after depreciation, which compares with $598,891, after depreciation, for the full year of 1925. Based on operations for the seven-months the company shows consolidated net earnings at the annual rate of $903,468, equal, after annual dividends on the Class A stock, to $7.50 a share on the common.

OPTIONS FOR MURRAY BODY

Holders of Certificates of Deposit to Make Payments Dec. 15.

Notice has been sent to the holders of certificates of deposit for preferred and common stocks of the Murray Body Corporation, issued under the reorganization plan of last June, that the optional payments are payable on or before Dec. 10, at the Guaranty Trust Company of New York or the Security Trust Company of Detroit.

Holders of certificates for preferred stock have the option of paying $35 a share for each share of their old preferred and receiving after reorganization two shares of new common stock for each share now held, or making no cash payment and receiving three-fourths of a share of the new common. The option open to common stock certificate holders is to pay $10 a share and receive one-half share of new common, or to make no cash payment and receive one-fifteenth of a share of the new common.

Panhandle's Quarterly Net $11,937.

For the third quarter the Panhandle Producing and Refining Company reports net profit of $11,937, after taxes, depreciation, depletion, &c., equal to 42c. a share on 28,087 shares of 8 per cent. preferred stock. This compares with $66,488, or 5c. a share on 198,770 shares of no par common stock in the preceding quarter. For nine months profit was $45,555, or $1.62 a share on the preferred.

Pittsburgh Terminal Coal.

The Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation and subsidiaries report a net profit for the first nine months of this year of $81,345, after depreciation and depletion but before Federal taxes. For the third quarter of 1926 the profit was $33,472, after the same charges, as contrasted with a lose of $66,791 in the preceding quarter and compared with a profit of $173,177 in the September quarter of last year.

$13,156,000
Missouri Pacific Railroad Company
5¼% Secured Serial Gold Bonds.

Maturing in equal annual instalments of $506,000 each from December 1, 1931 to December 1, 1956, both inclusive.

Coupon bonds in $1,000 denomination, registerable as to principal. Interest payable June 1 and December 1.

The Bonds will be redeemable as a whole, but not in part, on any interest date upon sixty days' previous notice, at their principal amount and accrued interest, plus a premium equal to ½% for each six months between the redemption date and the date of maturity, but not exceeding 5%.

The issuance and sale of these Bonds are subject to the approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

William H. Williams, Esq., Chairman of the Board of the Missouri Pacific Railroad Company, in a letter dated November 11, 1926, copies of which may be obtained from the undersigned, writes in part as follows:

"The Bonds will be the direct obligation of the Missouri Pacific Railroad Company and will be secured by the deposit and pledge with a trust company, as trustee under a trust indenture, of $1,000 par value of New Orleans, Texas & Mexico Railway Company stock for each $1,000 principal amount of Bonds outstanding, as provided in the trust indenture.

Missouri Pacific Railroad Company owns $13,160,500 par value of New Orleans, Texas & Mexico Railway Company stock, being approximately 87¾% of the outstanding stock. This stock was acquired by the Missouri Pacific Railroad Company at a cost of $120 per share. Dividends are being paid at the rate of 7% per annum. For the fiscal year ended December 31, 1925, the earnings of New Orleans, Texas & Mexico Railway Company applicable to dividends were equivalent to 16¾% on its stock, and for the last three fiscal years such earnings averaged about 17⅛%.

The proceeds of the sale of the bonds will be applied to the retirement of $13,391,500 of this Company's Fifteen-Year 7% Sinking Fund Notes which are to be called for redemption on January 17, 1927. This new issue will, therefore, result in a substantial reduction of the annual fixed charges of the Company.

The gross income of the Missouri Pacific Railroad Company for the year ended December 31, 1925, applicable to the payment of interest on funded debt and other fixed charges, amounted to $23,167,799, while such charges amounted to only $14,823,943. Such income for the nine months ended September 30, 1926, increased $1,749,020 over the same period of last year.

The total authorized amount of the 5¼% Secured Serial Gold Bonds is limited to $15,000,000 principal amount."

THE UNDERSIGNED OFFER THE ABOVE BONDS, SUBJECT TO PRIOR SALE, IN EQUAL AMOUNTS OF ALL MATURITIES, AT 99½% AND ACCRUED INTEREST, BEING THE AVERAGE OF THE FOLLOWING PRICES:

Maturity December 1	Price and Accrued Interest	Maturity December 1	Price and Accrued Interest	Maturity December 1	Price and Accrued Interest

The above bonds are offered if, when and as issued and received by the undersigned and subject to the approval by the Interstate Commerce Commission of the issuance of the bonds and their sale to the undersigned and to the approval by their counsel of all legal proceedings in connection with the creation and issuance thereof. Temporary bonds or interim certificates will be delivered against payment in New York funds for bonds allotted, which temporary bonds or interim certificates will be exchangeable for definitive bonds when prepared.

KUHN, LOEB & CO.

New York, November 12, 1926.

ADDITIONAL OFFERING

$11,500,000
Northern Indiana Public Service Company
First and Refunding Mortgage 5% Gold Bonds, Series C

Due November 1, 1966

Price 98½ and Interest

Dated November 1, 1926. Interest will be payable semi-annually May 1 and November 1 at the offices of Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc., in Chicago and New York without deduction for Federal Income Taxes now or hereafter deductible at the source, not in excess of 2%. Coupon bonds in denominations of $1,000, $500 and $100.

The following information relative to these bonds is summarized from a letter of Mr. Samuel Insull, Chairman

Territory: Northern Indiana Public Service Company—formerly Calumet Gas and Electric Company—has acquired by merger all the properties of Northern Indiana Gas and Electric Company. Its properties are employed almost entirely in the production and sale of electricity and gas. The principal territory served by the Company is the great manufacturing center immediately south of Lake Michigan. The communities directly served total 119 and the estimated population served is 560,000. Its own generating facilities and its 132,000-volt electric transmission line, connecting with the great Chicago district power pool, together with the interconnection of its gas mains with those of the Chicago district, place the Company in an enviable position to supply the requirements of the excellent market which it serves.

Security: The Mortgage under which these Bonds will be issued will cover all fixed property now owned or hereafter acquired, subject to the outstanding divisional bonds, if any, on properties at the time of their acquisition and those thereafter issued for pledge under the Mortgage. The Mortgage will be a direct first mortgage on all fixed property owned by the Company previous to its acquisition of the Northern Indiana Gas and Electric Company; in addition it will share, to the extent pledged, in the lien of underlying divisional bonds on other important fixed property.

Purpose: The proceeds of these Bonds will be used to retire and cancel $2,500,000 6% Series A Bonds outstanding under the First and Refunding Mortgage and $4,500,000 Three-Year 5½% Secured Gold Notes, Series A, issued by the Northern Indiana Gas and Electric Company; towards reimbursing the Company for capital expenditures heretofore made; and for the expansion of its general gas and electric service to provide for the rapid growth of its territory.

Earnings: For the twelve months ended June 30, 1926, gross and net earnings before depreciation, of the properties now owned by the Company, were $10,883,635 and $3,927,983, respectively. Annual interest on the Company's funded debt to be outstanding in the hands of the public upon completion of this financing will require $1,405,620.

Management: The Company's outstanding Common Stock is owned or controlled by the Midland Utilities Company, thereby placing its management in the hands of men long experienced in the public utility field.

A circular more fully descriptive of these bonds will be sent upon request

HALSEY, STUART & CO.
INCORPORATED

These Bonds are offered for delivery when, as and if issued and accepted by us, and subject to approval of counsel. It is expected that temporary bonds or Interim Receipts of Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc., later exchangeable for definitive bonds, will be ready for delivery on or about November 22, 1926. All statements herein are official or based on information which we regard as reliable, and while we do not guarantee them, we, ourselves, have relied upon them in the purchase of this security.

SAY CHICAGO CANAL RAISED SHIP RATES

States Contend Lake Diversion Lessened Channel Depths and So Forced Cut in Cargoes.

6-INCH DROP IS ALLEGED

Claim That Canal Is Link in Lake-to-Gulf Route Is Attacked in Washington Before Hughes.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11 (AP).—Adverse influences on basic economic factors in American industrial organization, ascribed to Chicago's drainage system, were detailed today in the Supreme Court lake level hearing before Special Master Charles E. Hughes.

In support of the contention that diversion of Lake Michigan waters through the Chicago sanitary canal is a vital factor, Newton D. Baker, chief counsel for the six complainant States, submitted testimony that Chicago's withdrawals have so reduced channel depths in Great Lakes harbors as to increase appreciably carrying charges on the bulk of the inter-lake traffic.

Colonel Edward M. Markham, army engineer, formerly in charge of the Sault Ste. Marie Locks, estimated that the lower level had reduced by about 4,000,000 tons the carrying capacity of the Great Lakes fleet in 1923.

Vessels employed in that year, he explained, might have carried 4,000,000 tons more freight in the same number of trips had they enjoyed six inches more draft.

The complainants charge that the Chicago diversion has lowered the lake level about six inches and seek to curb future withdrawals.

George A. Marr, Secretary of the Lake Carriers' Association, submitted comparative rail and water rates on iron ore, coal and grain between the principal lake ports.

In arguments upon the competency of his exhibit it was held that fluctuations in the water rates rendered the problem of computing losses in money rather than tonnage so complicated that it is almost beyond solution without an agreement upon some arbitrarily determined base.

Defense objections to Mr. Marr's compilations were sustained, but his exhibits went into the record.

The complainants attacked the contention of the defense that individual States are without constitutional authority to maintain their actions against the diversion.

They also sought to refute the claim that the Chicago sanitary canal forms a vital link in the Great Lakes to Gulf waterway.

In this connection they brought from Colonel Edward H. Schulz, in charge of the Chicago district, the testimony that about twenty swinging bridges over the canal afforded less than eighteen feet clearance for vessels, less than is required by the Mississippi barges. Several bridges were not equipped with motive power for operation, he said.

To Build Branch Virginia Line.

The Brunswick Terminal & Railway Securities Company has acquired 8,000 acres of semi-anthracite, iron ore, limestone and timber land along the Norfolk & Western Railroad system near Roanoke, Va. It has also acquired a railroad charter with a twelve-mile right of way graded and ready for laying rails. This road will connect the Brunswick Company property with the main line of the Norfolk & Western Railroad.

INDUSTRIALS ADVANCE IN COUNTER TRADING

Bank Shares Buoyant in Firm Market—Utilities Steady and in Good Demand.

The general list on the over-the-counter market continued firm yesterday and some recent features in the industrial group reached new highs on the current upturn. Utility shares were little changed but were in good demand. In the bank section rumors of increased dividends and stock distributions were revived as these shares continued buoyant.

Phelps-Dodge went to a new high on the movement with an advance of 3 points on the day, as also did Industrial Finance preferred, up 2 points, and Johns-Manville, up 5 points. Improvement was shown in Columbia Phonograph, Gorham Manufacturing preferred, Douglas Shoe preferred, American Meter, Eastern Dairy, American Book and U. S. Trucking preferred.

Chase National and Guaranty Trust were the active features of the bank stocks group, moving up several points, and Public National also maintained a strong front.

Of the utility shares, Nebraska Power preferred, Arizona Power preferred and Associated Gas and Electric 6½ per cent. preferred were the outstanding performers.

J. J. Newberry common and preferred and New York Merchandise featured the chain stores groups. The rest of the market was quiet.

AUCHINCLOSS HEADS BUREAU

Fight on Business Frauds Will Be Pressed Vigorously, He Says.

James C. Auchincloss, a Governor of the New York Stock Exchange and Vice President and Treasurer of the Better Business Bureau of New York City, was elected yesterday President of the National Better Business Bureau to succeed Lou Holland.

"The better business movement has proved itself a tremendous force in the fight on fraud and misrepresentation in business and the effectiveness of its methods has long since been demonstrated conclusively," Mr. Auchincloss said. "We must expand the work still further along broad national lines, so that it will reach into many sections now unprotected in this way."

$51,506,000 BONDS ON MARKET TODAY

Chief Item One of $15,000,000 for Berlin's Elevated and Subway System.

MISSOURI PACIFIC FINANCING

Railroad to Retire 7 Per Cent. Notes With Proceeds of 5¼ Per Cent. Issue—Other Offerings.

Foreign, railroad, public utility and municipal bonds to a total of $51,506,000 will be offered to investors today, marking a sharp increase over the volume of new financing that has been general most of this week. Four issues account for almost $50,000,000 of the offerings.

The largest financing of the day is $15,000,000 Berlin Electric Elevated and Underground Railways Company 30-year first mortgage 6½ per cent. sinking fund gold bonds, offered by Speyer & Co., the Equitable Trust Company and Blyth, Witter & Co. Of this issue, $3,000,000 has been withdrawn for sale in Holland by Hope & Co., Teixeira de Mattos Brothers and the Deutsche Bank of Amsterdam. The city of Berlin owns a majority of the common stock of the company. An agreement provides that fares shall be adequate to insure earnings which will cover operating expenses, interest and sinking fund on all loans and proper provision for depreciation and reserves. The bonds are priced at 94½ and interest to yield 6.95 per cent. to maturity. The bonds are part of a total authorized issue limited to $25,000,000, or its equivalent in reichsmarks. The corporation was organized in 1897, and its lines constitute the entire electric rapid transit system now in operation in Berlin.

Kuhn, Loeb & Co. will offer, subject to approval by the Interstate Commerce Commission, $13,156,000 Missouri Pacific Railroad Company 5¼ per cent. secured serial gold bonds, due annually from 1931 to 1956 and priced, in equal amounts of all maturities, at 99½ and accrued interest, to yield about 5.30 per cent. The proceeds will be applied to the retirement of $13,391,500 of Missouri Pacific 7 per cent. sinking fund notes which are to be called for redemption. The new issue, therefore, will result in a reduction of about $38,000 in the annual fixed charges of the company. The bonds, in addition to being a direct obligation of the Missouri Pacific, will be secured by deposit and pledge with the trustee of $1,400 par value of New Orleans, Texas & Mexico Railway stock for each $1,000 principal amount of bonds outstanding.

Offering is being made of $11,500,000 Northern Indiana Public Service Company first and refunding mortgage 5 per cent. bonds, series C, by a banking group headed by Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc. The issue is priced at 96½ and interest, yielding more than 5.08 per cent. One hundred and nineteen communities in Northern Indiana are served by the company, which for the twelve months ended on June 30 reported net earnings, before depreciation, of the properties now owned, of $3,807,263.

A syndicate composed of George H. Burr & Co., H. L. Allen & Co., B. J. Van Ingen & Co., A. B. Leach & Co., Inc., and Eastman, Dillon & Co. is offering an issue of $1,250,000 City of Beaumont, Texas, 5 per cent. bonds, due from 1927 to 1960, at prices to yield 4.70 per cent.

Taylor, Ewart & Co., Inc., and the Detroit Company, Inc., are offering $900,000 of Harris County, Texas, 4¾ per cent. direct obligation bonds, due from 1927 to 1956, at prices to yield from 4.25 to 4.50 per cent.

The Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company, third in size among the steel companies of this country, announced a plan for the retirement of $8,334,000 outstanding general mortgage sinking fund 7 per cent. bonds, series C, of the Steel and Tube Company of America. In carrying out the plan, $10,000,000 of the Youngstown company's 20-year 5 per cent. debenture gold bonds have been sold to a syndicate headed by the Bankers Trust Company and the Guaranty Company and including the Union Trust Company of Pittsburgh, the National City Company, the Cleveland Trust Company and the Guardian Trust Company of Cleveland, and the Continental and Commercial Company. Public offering of the bonds is being made today at 103½, to yield more than 4.87 per cent.

FOR LOWER FREIGHT RATES.

Publishers at Meeting Discuss Modern Production Methods.

FRENCH LICK SPRINGS, Ind., Nov. 11 (AP).—Readjustment of freight rates on newsprint paper that will save millions of dollars annually, and the establishment of twentieth century methods of operation, will be sought by two new departments of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, it was disclosed at the Autumn convention here today.

W. J. Mathey, manager of the new traffic department, which has been operating since Sept. 1, said publishers have been indifferent to freight rates, with the result that in several territories they are paying too much for the shipment of their paper. The problem may be carried to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Mathey declared that in the Mississippi Valley alone publishers have lost more than $2,000,000 in the last ten years on paper shipped to them from the East.

The traffic department is working on the rate problems existing in the Hudson Valley that, if corrected, will mean great savings to publishers in New York City and other Eastern points, Mathey said.

He warned that Canadian shippers soon will propose a revision of all rates into the United States. Wisconsin, Minnesota and Michigan rates are bad in spots, Mathey declared, and promised that the traffic department would try to find a remedy.

George M. Rogers, of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, chairman of the committee on mechanical departments, told the publishers that his unit must be created from the ground up. W. E. Wines, the new mechanical manager, formerly a professor at the University of Wisconsin, said considerable saving could be made in the production of the completed newspaper.

O. W. Nax of the St. Louis Globe Democrat discussed the great value of classified advertising.

At 11 o'clock the convention stood for a minute in silent tribute to Armistice Day.

ROSSIA INSURANCE CO. SOUND

State Insurance Department Warns It Against Lawsuit.

Special to The New York Times.

HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 11.—According to a report made public today by the State Insurance Department, the Rossia Insurance Company of this city is in excellent condition, but the company is warned against the possibility of an adverse decision in the $153,000 suit brought against the former Rossia Company of Petrograd by the Eagle, Star and British Dominions Insurance Company, which concern assigned its claims to Fred S. James & Co. of New York.

"We are convinced that the loss reserve set up by the company at $1,826,131 will be sufficient to settle all unpaid losses and to care for the expenses of investigation and adjustment," the report states.

The report further declares that the company's statement as of Dec. 31, 1925, is correct, with the exception of the item referring to the surplus. The examiners found that there was a difference of about $30,000 in the surplus report, due to the fact that the fire companies' estimates of their liabilities are not always exact, because often bills do not come until months after the liabilities are announced.

RAW SUGAR MARKET FIRM.

200,000 Bags of Cubas Sold in the Week at 2.81 Cents a Pound.

The raw sugar market was moderately active and firm this week, sales approximating 200,000 bags of Cubas at 2.81 cents a pound cost and freight Cuban basis (4.58 cents a pound duty paid).

Emergency requirements of refiners have sustained the market. Erratic fluctuations on the Exchange have been the only disturbing factors. Apprehension over the extent of December liquidation, which will be manifested on first notice day, Nov. 24, has caused weakness, but has not so far affected actual sales. Exports from Cuba were 60,000 tons, reducing stocks in Cuba to 594,000 tons. Receipts at Atlantic ports were 70,000; meltings, 53,000, and refiners' stocks have been reduced to 47,000 tons.

Refined sugar is quoted at 5.65 cents a pound, f. o. b. refinery, by Federal for prompt; at 5.75 cents a pound by Arbuckle, and at 5.90 cents a pound by all other refiners, for both prompt and thirty-day contracts. New business at these quotations has been negligible, but withdrawals continue satisfactory in volume.

HOLDING COMPANY TO QUIT.

United Railways Investment Stock Up 25 Points on News.

A sharp advance of twenty-five points in the usually inactive shares of the United Railways Investment Company on the Stock Exchange yesterday was followed by an announcement that the directors had recommended the dissolution of the company and that a special meeting of stockholders had been called for Nov. 23 to vote on the proposal. Yesterday's sales of stock were the first since Oct. 1.

An unusually wide spread developed between the bid and asked after the close, reflecting indecision as to just what stockholders would get in the distribution of the assets. The bid price was $75, the asked price $165.

The United Railways Investment Company has outstanding 158,300 shares of 5 per cent. preferred stock and 204,000 shares of common stock. It owns minority holdings of the company controlling electric, gas and street railway properties in Pittsburgh, and also owns indirectly a substantial minority investment in the Market Street Railway System of San Francisco.

$60,000,000 CUBAN PROJECT.

Four American Companies to Bid on Construction Work.

Four large American organizations are expected soon to make bids on highway and other improvements in Cuba totaling $60,000,000.

The organizations expected to make bids are the National City Company interests, James Stewart & Co., Cleveland Engineering Company and Ulen & Co.

Chief among the projects involved is the construction of a highway system extending the length of Cuba. Other improvements proposed would include schools, aqueducts, paving, harbor works and Government buildings.

Live Stock Markets at Chicago.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—Hog receipts were 37,000. Packers pounded prices down 40 to 50 cents, to the lowest of the season. Early top was $12.10 and the close $11.90, the lowest of the season. The average for the day $11.60, against $12.70 two weeks ago. Cattle were weak with choice yearlings $12.25 and heavy beef steers $10.25. Lambs were 25 to 50 cents lower for the day and 75 cents to $1 for the week. Receipts were cattle 13,000, sheep 15,000.

Grain Market Here Busy on Holiday

For the first time since it began operations, the Grain Futures Market of the New York Produce Exchange had an opportunity yesterday to demonstrate its independence of other markets. Chicago, Minneapolis and other American grain futures markets were closed for Armistice Day. A good volume of business passed through it in December and May domestic wheat and Canadian May wheat.

Heads Excelsior Savings Bank.

Reginald Roome was elected President of the Excelsior Savings Bank yesterday to succeed Joseph H. Ward, who resigned as a result of illness. Arthur Plage will succeed him as Second Vice President and continue to act as Controller.

Mr. Roome became attorney for the bank in 1913. He lives at Greenwich, Conn. His father, William J. Roome, was President of the bank from 1900 to 1924.

Crude Oil Prices Advanced.

The Humble Oil & Refining Company announced yesterday a reclassification of Spindletop crude oil. Similar action followed by the Gulf Oil Corporation, the Texas Company, and others in that field. Prices were advanced 15 cents a barrel on both A and B grades. The advance was not easily explained here in view of the recent weakening of the crude oil market.

Off Middle States Committee.

Henry S. Fleming, Chairman of the Stockholders' Protective Committee of the Middle States Oil Corporation, announced yesterday that the committee had dropped Robert Wilson Jackson because he had sent a letter to stockholders saying a reorganization committee was being formed and asking for proxies running to him personally.

MERCHANT MARINE IN DANGER, HE SAYS

Rear Admiral Taylor Calls for Building of More Ships to Replace Old Ones.

WOULD DOUBLE PRODUCTION

Speaks as President of Society of Naval Architects and Marine Engineers.

Rear Admiral David W. Taylor, retired, President of the Society of Naval Architects and Marine Engineers, in an address at the annual meeting of the society yesterday in the Engineering Societies Building, 29 West Thirty-ninth Street, urged that provision be made by Congress immediately for the construction of new ships to replace those in the merchant fleet rapidly becoming obsolete.

Admiral Taylor stressed the importance of the problem now facing this country in maintaining the United States merchant marine in the commerce of the world and declared that if a start was not made now to replace the old ships by new ones, the problem would solve itself by the natural elimination of the ships as they wore out "and the American flag will once more disappear from the trade routes of the world."

Although there had been an improvement in shipbuilding in the last year, said Admiral Taylor, the gain had been figured on the abnormally small tonnage building a year ago. Compared with the pre-war figure, the standard was far below replacement requirements, he declared.

"In 1913 at this time we were credited by Lloyds with 131,800 tons under construction as against 119,723 this year," he said. "When we consider the size of our merchant marine in 1913 as compared with what it is now and the normal replacement building appropriate to our present marine, we may reasonably conclude that a further gain of at least 100 per cent. upon our present building would be needed to place us upon an average building basis.

"However, the present world-wide situation is about the same as in the United States. With a world building capacity of nearly 10,000,000 tons per annum, the total tonnage now building is less than 2,000,000 gross, as against 3,333,000 in 1913, when shipbuilding was flourishing but world tonnage was only some three-quarters of its present total. Again I must call attention to the fact that as regards tonnage, the world is overbuilt and underbuilding."

Referring to the fuel-oil problem in this country, Admiral Taylor said:

"For my part, accepting the statements as to the oil in our known Western whale fields, I have complete confidence that even if it becomes necessary to fall back on them the engineer with the aid of the chemist will find a way, as he has always done, to supply us with oil and its products. Of course, oil may be supplanted. The inventor's dream of an internal combustion engine using powdered coal may come true."

Other papers were read by W. J. Lovett, Commander H. C. Richardson, Captain William McEntee, Commander E. L. Gayhart, U. S. N., W. Bennett and Lieutenant W. R. Roop.

The meeting will continue today and there will be a dinner at the Waldorf this evening.

RESERVE BANK POSITION.

Comparison of the Week's Items With Those of Preceding Periods.

Yesterday's statement for the twelve Reserve Banks showed no new high or low points for the year to date in the important items of the system. The following table shows the highest and lowest point reached thus far in 1926, in a series of years past, by the important items in the Reserve Bank statements. Figures are in thousands of dollars:

Week Shows a Decline of $88,700,000 In Federal Reserves Earning Assets

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—The consolidated statement of condition of the Federal Reserve banks on Nov. 10, made public by the Federal Reserve Board, shows a decline for the week of $88,700,000 in bill and security holdings, as compared with an increase of $70,700,000 reported the week before, together with increases of $35,200,000 in cash reserves and $6,800,000 in non-Reserve cash and a reduction of $4,600,000 in Federal Reserve note circulation.

Holdings of discounted bills declined $94,500,000 and of Government securities $2,000,000, while open-market acceptance holdings increased $7,800,000.

The New York Reserve Bank reports a decline of $56,400,000 in discount holdings, Chicago of $27,600,000, San Francisco, $7,600,000, St. Louis $7,400,000, Atlanta $4,500,000 and Dallas $3,700,000. Discount holdings of the Cleveland bank increased $12,800,000 during the week.

A reduction of $7,200,000 in the New York Reserve Bank's holdings of acceptances purchased in the open market was more than offset by increases at the other Reserve banks, aggregating $15,100,000.

The system's holdings of Treasury certificates were $22,100,000 above the preceding week's total, while holdings of Treasury notes declined $23,400,000 and of United States bonds $700,000.

The principal changes in Federal Reserve note circulation during the week include a decrease of $6,500,000 at the New York bank and increases of $4,600,000 and $3,300,000, respectively, at Philadelphia and Cleveland.

PERMANENT TAX CUTS OPPOSED BY MELLON

Secretary Limits Any Reduction to a Possible Credit on 1926 Taxes.

CHAIRMAN GREEN DUBIOUS

Ways and Means Head Will Let Tax Cut Proposal Take Its Regular Turn in Legislation.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Secretary Mellon declared today that the Treasury could not stand a permanent reduction in taxes at the short session of Congress, beginning Dec. 6. The only hope for relief held out by the Secretary was the acceptance of the proposed credit of 12½ per cent. on individual and corporation incomes when the first two payments were made in 1927 on the taxes due upon 1926 incomes.

The Secretary's reason for stating that permanent tax reduction is impossible at this time was based upon the possible loss of $200,000,000 from sources which have been productive for several years. One of these is $100,000,000 from back taxes.

The Treasury is said to have made good progress in collecting back taxes, with the result that future prospects for large amounts therefrom are constantly decreasing.

About $60,000,000 is received from farm loan bonds and $40,000,000 from railroad notes, which will not mature hereafter in the same quantity as formerly. Railroad securities may yield some additional sums if negotiations with the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad are completed.

In view of these circumstances Mr. Mellon took the position, as indicated when he first commented on the President's proposal for a refund, that the only relief the Treasury will approve is the extension of a credit when the March and June payments become due next year.

Would Let Tax Plan Take Its Turn.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11 (AP).—The income tax credit proposal of President Coolidge will have to await its place on the Congressional calendar.

Chairman Green of the House Ways and Means Committee, which must first consider such legislation, came to town today and announced that his committee would give the Alien Property bill right of way. The committee has been called to meet here next Monday to consider this measure.

Like the Treasury, Mr. Green believes it is not feasible to go ahead now on a program for permanent downward revision of the tax rates, and he will insist that this go over until next session.

Although he has repeatedly said he would not give any thought at the approaching short session to the question of tax reduction, he had little comment to make on the tax credit idea after a conference late today with Secretary Mellon. During this visit he obtained some new information on the condition of the Treasury which led the President to favor a return of the prospective surplus for this fiscal year to the taxpayers.

RUBBER MARKET QUIET.

Price Changes Narrow as Sellers Hold Off—48 Contracts Handled.

Minor fluctuations were registered in crude rubber prices yesterday as sellers showed no disposition to meet buyers' prices. Only 48 contracts were dealt in, spread over six positions.

February and November closed unchanged, while all other options showed a net loss of 10 points from Wednesday's finals. Traders attributed the slowness to the fact that Singapore was closed and will remain so until Monday, this inactivity carrying over into the London market, which was correspondingly dull.

	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. Close.
November	41.20	41.20	41.40	41.40
December	41.70	41.70	41.70	41.80

Other months closed: April 42.60, June 42.90, July 43.10, August 43.30, September 43.50, October 43.70. Spots were quoted at 42.000, nominal.

Dominion Stores' Sales.

Sales of the Dominion Stores, Ltd., for the three months ended Sept. 30 totaled $3,781,018. Those for the first nine months of 1926 aggregated $10,843,707, as compared with sales of $12,616,588 for the entire year of 1925.

SAYS OUR HUSTLE IS CHIEFLY NOISE

British Labor Delegates Skeptical—One Thinks High Living Standard Mythical.

LONDON, Nov. 10.—American hustle is more advertised than real, more noise than performance, according to George Hicks, who recently went to America as a fraternal delegate from the Trade Union Congress to the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor and who, with J. Bromley, his fellow delegate returned here today.

Hicks, who is General Secretary of the Amalgamated Union of Building Trade Workers, commented on the much higher rate of wages paid in America as compared with England, but added that unemployment by no means was unknown in America, where he saw long lines of hundreds of men waiting for work outside factories. American prosperity was only on the surface in some cases, he declared, and high American wages were largely offset by the high cost of living.

His colleague, Bromley, said:

"I am convinced that the stories of the standard of living enjoyed by American workmen are largely mythical. The spending power of their money is very much lower than ours, and, in fact, the dollar is valued at just about the equivalent of our shilling here. It cost me $1 to have a shave and a hair cut and twenty cents to have my boots cleaned.

"While it is true that some highly skilled and well organized men are quite well paid, I found there were tremendous numbers of workers in America, unskilled and unorganized, whose wages as regards spending power are not, in my opinion, up to the average British standard. Outside the bigger cities, I do not think they are as well off as many of our people."

Bromley said he was impressed by the uncompromising attitude of the American unions toward communism which, as he put it, "unfortunately dominates their attitude toward Russia as a new country."

ARMORED PAY CARS TO HAUL CITY CASH

"Traveling Banks" Will Carry Policeman, Driver and Two Clerks, All Armed.

THREE ARE DELIVERED

They Are Flaming Red and Will Bear Millions to Workers Annually.

Controller Berry completed plans yesterday for insuring the safe transportation of the millions of dollars used annually for cash payroll purposes by placing in commission three armored cars of the most approved bullet-proof pattern for the use of the Department of Finance. The cars are in reality "traveling banks" and were built by the International Harvester Company at a total cost of about $15,000.

With a policeman and a chauffeur on the seat and a paymaster and clerk inside, all four armed, the cars began yesterday the work of carrying the cash payrolls to the five boroughs. These payrolls, in a single instance averaging as high as $35,000 and totaling for a week more than $125,000, are used for paying city workers who receive their pay weekly.

The cars will run on schedule prepared by the Pay Division of the Department of Finance, making anywhere from twenty-five to fifty stops in the course of a day. At each of these stops a number of city employes are paid from the window of the car.

"With the installation of these cars," said Controller Berry, "and the cooperation of the Police Department in providing us with uniformed officers, we feel that we are providing, as far as humanly possible, for the safe transportation of city moneys used for weekly cash payroll purposes. For some years past it has been the custom of the Department of Finance to transport these moneys through the five boroughs in ordinary passenger automobiles, under heavy guard. This method, while satisfactory up to the present time, involved a hazard which I was unwilling to take, and for that reason I have provided this modern equipment."

The three cars are painted a flaming red, and attracted considerable attention when they were delivered at the Municipal Building yesterday.

Bank to Use Armored Cars.

Armored cars for the transportation of money and securities through the streets of this city will be used by the Hamilton National Bank of New York, according to a statement yesterday of Archibald C. Emery, President of the bank. A separate corporation known as the Hamilton Armored Car Corporation, said Mr. Emery, will have a fleet of armored cars manned by sharpshooters for the proper handling of money, securities and payrolls.

UTILITY AND OIL SHARES GAIN IN CURB MARKET

Several Issues at High Points for Present November—Activity in Bond Section.

Public utility securities and shares of leading oil companies made the best showing in the Curb Market yesterday. Both groups exhibited uniformity of price trend on the upgrade and an array of issues entered new high levels for the movement with gains of large fractions to more than a point.

Standard Oil of Indiana sold at 65 for the first time in weeks, and great activity developed in Standard Oil of New York at firm prices. Pipe-line stocks experienced a fresh demand at mounting values, and Continental Oil and Anglo-American Oil showed strength on sizable turnovers. South American Oil shares ruled noticeably strong. There also was continued demand for Cities Service issues with the preferred registering a new high for the year. The preferred "B" and common shares equaled their recently-made top figures.

Utilities kept pace with the oils, and in several instances surpassed them in gains. Electric Bond and Share, United Light and Power "A," Lehigh Power Securities, American Gas, Commonwealth Power and Northeast Power were in special favor and scored the best advances.

Industrials simply floundered about. In the domestic bond section it was the utilities again that showed to best advantage, although gains were confined. German bonds continued to set merry pace in the foreign section, and under the leadership of United Steel of Burbach 7s, which made a new high, ruled strong.

* * I have been a reader of The New York Times for many years and enjoy the timely and thoughtful editorials. We take the paper for our library, and our students as well are benefiting by the high type of journalism reflected both in the news and editorial columns.—H. C. I have upwards of to invest, together with my 20 years' business experience, my personal time, and my services, available Jan. 1, in return for a general partnership in an established brokerage firm who are members of the New York Stock Exchange.

Can only be interested by a firm desiring to enlarge its scope by the use of additional capital and increase its business through my contacts and personal association with banking and mercantile firms of the highest standing.

Would also be interested in dealing with an individual member of the New York Stock Exchange in the organization of a new brokerage firm.

Only those who can produce unquestionable evidence of their financial stability will be considered. All information will be held in strictest confidence. Address Box P 350 Times.

It is the intention of the Board of Directors to declare dividends on the common stock quarterly instead of semi-annually, as heretofore.

ABE COHN, Secretary.

HOLIDAYS RESTRICT TRADING IN COTTON

Steadiness at Liverpool and Closing of Southern Markets Reduces Total of Sales.

RECEIPTS SHOW A DECREASE

Port Stocks Accumulate as a Result of High Freight Rates and Tonnage Scarcity.

With a holiday in New Orleans and other Southern markets and unchanged quotations in Liverpool, trading in cotton dwindled to small proportions yesterday. Prices moved within limits of five points, and most of the cotton changed hands slightly above previous closing levels. Quotations ended at an advance of one to four points on the day. The demand for December contracts absorbed all cotton for sale as mills fixed prices for spot interests and shifted hedges from immediate to distant positions.

Combined port and interior receipts for the first five days of the week showed a falling off of about 40,000 bales from the previous week, but the movement is still running considerably ahead of last year. Heavy receipts at the ports have increased port stocks to over 2,600,000 bales and cotton is still piling up owing to scarcity of ocean tonnage. Freight rates remain abnormally high and large coal exports continue to delay the transfer of cotton from the South to European points.

Penalties on lower grades were revised, bringing low middling to 233 points off middling. This compared with 250 points on Sept. 1, and at the same time premiums on higher grades have been raised. Southern advices reflect less good grade cotton offered, a condition which has curtailed hedging operations by spot interests. The volume of this business began to fall off three weeks ago when prices first touched 12½ cents for near months in New York. Though official crop figures have been increased 1,250,000 bales in the interval, pressure on the three contract markets has not been resumed.

British Board of Trade figures showed October exports of 13,000,000 pounds of yarn, against 18,000,000 last year, and 308,000,000 yards of cloth, compared with 367,000,000 a year ago.

Yesterday's quotations follow:

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Previous Day.
Dec.	12.28	12.33	12.27	12.31-12.33	12.28-12.29

Oct.	13.30	13.30	13.27	13.29-13.30	13.28

The local market for spot cotton was quiet, unchanged, 12.70c for middling upland; sales 900.

Southern spot markets were: Galveston, holiday; New Orleans, holiday; Savannah, holiday; Augusta, 12.13c, unchanged; sales 446; Memphis, 12c, 30 points decline, sales 7,800; Houston, holiday; Little Rock, 12c, unchanged, sales 3,055; Dallas, holiday.

Yesterday's cotton statistics were:

	Yesterday.	Last Week.	Last Year.

Liverpool cables: Spot cotton, a fair business, 4 points advance, at 6.91d for middling. Sales 8,000, American 4,000. Imports 3,000, American 100. Futures opened quiet, 2 points advance to 1 point decline. Closed quiet, unchanged. Prices: Dec. 6.68d, Jan. 6.74d, March 6.82d, May 6.91d, July 7d, Oct. 7.06d.

CITY MOVES AGAINST BAD RAIL CROSSINGS

Mayor Names Godley to Form Committee to Study Atlantic Avenue Problem.

Mayor Walker made a start yesterday toward the elimination of the dangerous grade crossings in Atlantic Avenue, Brooklyn, by arranging at a conference at the City Hall for the appointment of a committee of engineers to study the problem and present a plan to the Board of Estimate, Transit Commission and other public bodies interested.

The committee, which will be similar to the one now studying the Manhattan west side grade crossing elimination matter, will consist of representatives of the various public bodies and the Long Island Railroad. Transit Commissioner Leon G. Godley, at the request of the Mayor, will form the committee.

Elimination of these grade crossings, at one of which five persons were killed recently, has been blocked because of the insistence of residents of the neighborhood that the elimination shall be accomplished by putting the tracks in a subway instead of by the construction of an elevated structure. Elimination of the grade crossings by elevating the tracks would cost from $8,000,000 to $12,000,000, according to the Transit Commission engineers' estimates, while the subway method would cost at least $50,000,000. The railroad company is understood to be willing to pay its share of the cost of an elevated structure. It also is proposed to construct a boulevard above the subway, if the subway method is chosen.

Mayor Walker explained at the conference that it was necessary for the committee to determine whether the city should undertake merely grade crossing elimination or add a public improvement, such as the boulevard would be. He said that any plan devised would have to take into account plans of the Board of Transportation for subway construction and meet the wishes of the Borough Presidents of Brooklyn and Queens. He also said that the condition of the city's finances would have to receive consideration and that Controller Berry should have a representative on the committee.

Mr. Godley said he would form the committee at once.

WHEAT AT WINNIPEG DROPS A FRACTION

Liverpool Higher—Official Estimate for Canada Is 385,000,000 Bushels.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—Winnipeg and Liverpool wheat markets were open, with Chicago closed. Winnipeg closed ⅛ to ¼ cent lower. Oats were unchanged to ⅛ cent lower, rye ¼ to ½ cent higher, barley unchanged to ⅛ cent higher and flax ⅜ cent lower.

Liverpool wheat closed unchanged to ⅜d. higher and corn ⅛d. higher. November wheat in Winnipeg closed at $1.43⅜, December $1.39⅜, May $1.43⅛. December oats 56⅛c, May 57⅛c.

Exporters were good buyers of wheat in Winnipeg for Continental account. The marketing in the country Wednesday was 3,925,000 bushels, against 4,124,000 last year.

OTTAWA, Ontario, Nov. 11 (AP).—The Canadian Bureau of Statistics today estimated the total yield of Spring wheat at 385,015,000 bushels, and of Fall wheat at 19,592,000 bushels for this year. This is a total for all wheat of 404,607,000 bushels, as compared with 411,375,700 a year ago.

The total yield of oats is estimated provisionally at 364,777,000 bushels, as against 513,384,000 last year.

Barley, 105,086,000 (112,668,300).
Spring rye, 2,426,400 (2,406,900).
Peas, 3,548,300 (3,410,700).
Beans, 1,108,500 (1,500,700).
Buckwheat, 9,871,000 (10,448,800).
Mixed grains, 32,448,000 (34,301,000).
Flaxseed, 6,715,400 (9,297,100).
Corn for husking, 6,744,000 (10,564,300).

WHEAT FUTURES DECLINE.

Despite the holiday in Western grain markets fair activity ruled on the wheat futures markets of the New York Produce Exchange yesterday. Prices advanced in the early trading ⅜ cent to ⅝ cent on scattered buying and covering, firm cables, unfavorable Argentine weather news and limited offerings. Weakness at Winnipeg, however, brought about a reaction of ½ cent to ⅝ cent from the highs of the day.

The Western holiday tended to limit interest somewhat, but on the whole the markets were fairly steady. In the domestic wheat division December opened at 1.45½ and closed at 1.45⅛, and May opened at 1.50⅝ and closed at 1.50⅛. In the bonded, Canadian, division, May opened at 1.49½ and closed at 1.49½.

NEW YORK SHIPBUILDING CORPORATION

First Mortgage Thirty-Year Five Per Cent. Sinking Fund Gold Bonds.
Dated November 1, 1916—Due November 1, 1946.

Pursuant to Section 1 of Article Four of the Mortgage of the New York Shipbuilding Corporation to The Union Trust Company of Pittsburgh, Trustee, dated November 1, 1916, securing its First Mortgage Thirty-Year Five Per Cent. Sinking Fund Gold Bonds, the undersigned Trustee hereby gives notice that the bonds of such issue will be purchased by the Trustee for the Sinking Fund provided in said mortgage, to an amount sufficient to exhaust One Hundred Eighty-seven Thousand Seven Hundred Fifty and Two Hundredths ($187,750.02) Dollars, being the moneys now held by it in such Sinking Fund. The Trustee hereby invites from the bondholders offers for the sale to it on November 22, 1926, of such bonds. As provided in said mortgage, such offers shall in each case be for all or any part of the bonds so offered. The lowest offers to the aggregate amount not exceeding an amount sufficient as nearly as may be to exhaust such moneys now held in the Sinking Fund will be accepted, provided that the price or prices accepted will in no event exceed, in addition to accrued interest, one hundred two and one-half per centum (102½%).

As soon as may be, on or after November 16, 1926, the undersigned Trustee will notify bondholders whose offers are accepted, so that delivery of the bonds covered by such acceptances may be made to the Trustee at its office in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, on November 22, 1926.

All offers must be in writing, be enclosed in sealed envelopes, state the number or numbers of the bonds offered, and name the price or prices at which the same are offered.

All offers must be received at the office of the Trustee on or before noon of November 16, 1926.

THE UNION TRUST COMPANY OF PITTSBURGH, Trustee.

REDEMPTION NOTICE.

ELECTRICAL SECURITIES CORPORATION

Collateral Trust Sinking Fund.
Five Per Cent. Bonds due December 1, 1937.
FIFTH SERIES.

Notice is hereby given pursuant to Article IV of Trust Indenture, dated December 1, 1907, made by Electrical Securities Corporation to The Standard Trust Company of New York, Trustee (Guaranty Trust Company of New York, Successor, Trustee), that all outstanding Fifth Series Collateral Trust Sinking Fund Five Per Cent. Bonds due December 1, 1937, issued under said Trust Indenture, are hereby called for redemption on December 1, 1926, at the price of one thousand and thirty dollars ($1,030) and accrued interest per bond.

Holders of said bonds are requested to present them with the June 1, 1927, and all subsequent coupons attached, for redemption and payment as aforesaid, on or after December 1, 1926, at the Trust Department of the undersigned, No. 140 Broadway, New York, N. Y. Coupons from said bonds due December 1, 1926, should be detached and presented for payment in the usual manner. On December 1, 1926, interest on the above bonds will cease and the coupons maturing after that date will become null and void.

GUARANTY TRUST COMPANY OF NEW YORK, Successor, Trustee.
By WILLIAM C. POTTER, President.
Dated November 1, 1926.

Referring to the above notice, the undersigned has been authorized by Electrical Securities Corporation to purchase any of the above-mentioned bonds on any date prior to December 1, 1926. Accordingly, upon the surrender of any of such bonds to the undersigned at its Trust Department with December 1, 1926, and all subsequent coupons attached, the undersigned will pay the redemption price above mentioned for bonds so surrendered, plus unpaid interest accrued thereon to the date of such surrender thereof.

Reorganization of

Murray Body Corporation

To Holders of Certificates of Deposit of Guaranty Trust Company of New York, Depositary, and/or Security Trust Company (Detroit), Sub-Depositary, issued under Plan and Agreement of Reorganization dated June 15, 1926.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the optional payments to be made by holders of Deposit Certificates for preferred and/or common stock of Murray Body Corporation as provided in the aforesaid Plan and Agreement (heretofore declared operative) are payable on or before December 10, 1926, at the office of Guaranty Trust Company of New York, the Depositary, 140 Broadway, New York City, or of Security Trust Company, the Sub-Depositary, Griswold Street, Detroit, in cash or by certified check to the order of the Depositary or Sub-Depositary to which payment is made. Deposit Certificates should at the same time be presented for notation of the payment.

Holders of Deposit Certificates for preferred stock have the option of

(1) paying on or before December 10, 1926, $35 per share for each share of their old preferred stock and receiving, upon consummation of the Plan, two shares of common stock of the New Company for each share of their old preferred stock;

or

(2) making no cash payment and receiving three-fourths share of common stock of the New Company for each share of their old preferred stock.

Holders of Deposit Certificates for common stock have the option of

(1) paying on or before December 10, 1926, $10 per share for each share of their old common stock and receiving, upon consummation of the Plan, one-half share of common stock of the New Company for each share of their old common stock;

or

(2) making no cash payment and receiving one-fifteenth share of common stock of the New Company for each share of their old common stock.

All holders of Deposit Certificates who shall fail to make the optional payment on or before December 10, 1926, in respect of either class of old stock, as provided in the Plan and this notice, shall have no rights to or in any common stock of the New Company in excess of three-fourths share thereof for each share of old preferred stock as to which payment is not made and one-fifteenth share thereof for each share of old common stock as to which payment is not made.

Holders of Deposit Certificates for merchandise or other current indebtedness in amounts of less than $1,000 electing to receive in cash, in full, on consummation of the Plan, 80% of the face value of their claims, as finally allowed, are required to present their Deposit Certificates to the Depositary or Sub-Depositary on or before December 10, 1926, for notation of such election, and unless so presented for such notation on or before December 10, 1926, the right to elect to receive 80% in cash will terminate.

The Reorganization Committee is desirous of proceeding expeditiously with the reorganization in the interest of all Depositors and prompt action by holders of Deposit Certificates is required in order to secure the early effectuation of the Plan.

Jobbers Holding Down Purchases.

While the steady drop in temperature is forcing knit goods jobbers into this market for additional stocks of seasonable underwear with which to meet the demands made on them by their retail customers, they are making every effort to supply the latter's needs with a minimum of stock on their own shelves. Most of the orders now being received by first hands for these goods call for two and three case lots, and some for single cases. All want the goods shipped promptly, although in many instances the earliest shipment that can be made is Dec. 15, and the result is that more express deliveries are being asked for than ever before. Instances were cited yesterday of an express shipment of a case of heavy ribbed goods to a wholesaler on the Pacific Coast, and of another shipment of two cases by express to Oklahoma. The estimated weight of a case of these goods is 300 pounds, which means that a tidy delivery charge was piled up on the shipments mentioned.

December Openings Are Probable.

Although definite announcements to that effect are still lacking, indications are growing here that 1927 lines of ribbed heavyweight underwear will be opened by certain manufacturers some time between Dec. 1 and Dec. 15. In line with this possibility it was said yesterday that leading jobbers probably would not object to this action, despite the letter recently sent out by the Wholesalers Association of Knit Goods Buyers asking that it be deferred until after the turn of the year. The assertion was based on the fact that jobbers' stocks of 1926 heavyweight goods are so well cleaned up that early pricing of the new season's lines would have little or no detrimental effect on them.

Linens Now Moving Well.

As gift merchandise linen items are by no means neglected. Wholesalers here remark on the activity in table cloths and napkins. It is difficult to get immediate delivery of the cheaper grades of this merchandise, which is imported. A nice business is also being done in guest towels in a wide range of prices. Linen bridge sets are selling well among the novelty items. Drawn and cut work of various kinds are likewise having a good call.

Gray Goods Demand Shrinks.

Not much transpired in the local gray goods market yesterday. "Quick" lots of 28½-inch 64-60 printcloths were sold at 6⅛ cents, and there was also trading in that construction at an eighth less for January-March shipment. Trading was also done in 38½-inch 60-48s and 44-40s at 5¼ and 4¾ cents, respectively, but that was about all. Some business was put through in lightweight sheetings, among which were sales of 36-inch 6.15s at 5 cents. Coarse yarn business included some 37-inch 3.95-yard drills at 7⅜ cents. In the limited business done in fine yarn cloths were some sales of 100-60 broadcloth at 10⅛ cents for shipment in the first two months of next year.

Suggests Manager for Imports.

Speaking at a meeting yesterday of the import managers' group of the National Retail Dry Goods Association at the latter organization's offices here, H. F. Ewald of Abraham & Straus made the suggestion that it would be a desirable step for the department stores to have an import merchandise manager. The importance of the work justifies the creation of this new position, he said, the occupant of which would supplement the work of the divisional merchandise manager. Mr. Ewald also stressed the importance of divorcing detail work from the actual merchandising of imported goods so that the latter could be carried on to best advantage. Robert W. McConnochie of Bonwit Teller & Co. talked on the pitfalls in the customs entry of merchandise and counseled close contact with the customs authorities at all times. A committee will shortly arrange a program for the group at the association's annual convention next February.

Fur Season on the Wane.

Definite indications of the waning of the 1926 wholesale fur season not only include a noticeably lighter demand for raw and finished skins in this market but earnest attempts by the fur trimming makers to "clean house." In trimmings a wide assortment of goods is now being offered here at special prices, prominent among them being wolf collars and sets in platinum and other favored shades. Beaver collars, dogskin sets, "mandel" sets and vicunas are also numerous in the offerings. Despite the extent of the use of trimmings on fur coats this year the season for the trimming makers was not altogether satisfactory. The slump in fur trimmings for cloth coats, due principally to the prolonged strike in the coat and suit industry, was the chief detrimental factor.

Millinery Retailers Are Buying.

In millinery an active call continues for small hats. Those of metal cloth, or lace with touches of color, to retail from $5 up, are moving particularly well. Small shapes in failles in high shades are likewise meeting with a good immediate delivery demand. In the merchandise being bought for the Southern resort season, however, the large hat is assuming greater importance. The materials in these hats run to failles and georgettes in combination with varied types of straw.

Compose Effects for Spring.

One of the outstanding features of the Spring season in fabrics and ready-to-wear will be the use of color in composé. This means the combining of colors, either several tones of the same color or harmoniously contrasting colors. Usually, two shades of the same color and one contrasting shade are employed, for example, in a dress. The composé treatment, it is pointed out, offers increased opportunities to designers in obtaining design character and variety without the use of elaboration. Grays, rose tones and blues are stressed in the composé effect, although many other colors will also be used. Cheney Brothers yesterday held a showing of the treatment in both draped fabrics and in actual garment models.

Sees No Lower Hosiery Prices.

The reported action of both wholesale and retail buyers in holding off on Spring, 1927, lines of full-fashioned silk hosiery, in anticipation of lower prices following the drop in raw silk, was said yesterday by the head of one of the biggest concerns in the industry to be without justification. "Even if the drop in silk becomes marked enough seemingly to warrant reductions, which is less likely in the finer grades of the fiber than in the cheaper ones," he explained, "there is another factor that will have to be considered. This is that retailers will have to bear at least a part of the burden they have put on the mills by their unwillingness to carry stock. In the days when the retail stores carried good-sized reserve stocks there was a definite cost of carrying the goods that manufacturers took into consideration when they priced their lines. Retailers and, to some extent, wholesalers have shifted most of this cost onto the mills, with the result that it will now have to be figured into the prices they are charged for their goods if the manufacturers are to get a legitimate profit."

STAR IN CRESCENT TONIGHT.

Jupiter and Quarter Moon Will Appear Together—Meteors Due.

Islam's emblem, the star and the crescent, will glow in the western sky when the sun goes down tonight, for Jupiter and the moon, in her first quarter, are in conjunction today with hardly two degrees of space, as the heavens are measured, between them.

The spectacle may be enhanced by flights of celestial rockets, for the world is now starting her three-day rush across the Leonid meteor stream, the broadest and most prolific of the nine recognized by astronomers, which brought the historic star shower of 1833 when all Canada went out in the snow in the early morning to watch the steady rain of stars which fell in all directions from a radiant vortex the size of the full moon in the Lion constellation, until the phenomenon vanished in the sunrise.

Mars, only a few days past his nearest point to the earth, now rivals Jupiter in brilliancy, though five hours behind him as the heavens move, while Orion, dominant constellation of the Winter, is making his first appearances in the early evening hours.

Movement in Silks.

In the immediate delivery business in the silk trade, fabrics for "sales purposes" are moving in fair quantity. Satin crêpes and flat crêpes within certain price ranges are wanted mostly, the strongest call being for the high shades. Chiffon velvet in black and tobacco brown is also in active call, with some reordering being done of novelty brocades in metallic effects. The demand for silks for Spring delivery is broadening, with an active interest in both prints and the new "plain" fabrics which are, nevertheless, capable of novelty treatment.

BUSINESS NOTES.

R. O. Hudson, manager of the drapery and rug department of the American Dry Goods Company, in the interests of that concern on Wednesday purchased from Clafila's, Inc., its entire stock of domestic rugs and linoleums.

A general meeting of the United Infants', Children's and Junior Wear League will be held at noon today in the headquarters of that organization to discuss plans for the forthcoming annual style show. The show will be held at the Hotel Astor on Tuesday, Jan. 25, and the committee in charge is at present headed by Jesse Herff. M. Mosesohn, Executive Director of the league, will preside at the meeting.

A change has been made in the selling of the men's wear fabrics of Saxonia Worsted Mills. Effective immediately, the goods will be sold through Howard M. Smith, selling agent, at the Saxonia offices at 260 Fourth Avenue. Mr. Smith is also selling agent of the company's women's wear lines. Kenneth H. Kendal has been appointed stylist of the men's wear department.

TWO CHURCHES ARE SUED.

Park Av. Owner Says Their Excavations Damaged His Building.

Both the Park Avenue Baptist Church and the Third Church of Christ, Scientist, were made defendants yesterday in a suit for $35,000 damages brought by Edward S. Cowles, owner of a building between the two churches on the east side of Park Avenue near Sixty-fourth Street. Mr. Cowles contends that some time soon after May 29, 1923, his building was damaged by excavations for work in the two adjoining plots. He was not able to say which excavation caused the trouble.

Yesterday John T. Woodruff & Son, contractors, who had already been brought in by the Christ, Scientist, Church as codefendants, filed an application to bring in the Friestedt Underpinning Company as another defendant, since it had agreed to be responsible for damages in doing the excavation work for the Woodruff concern.

RICHMOND PARK SITE FROWNED ON BY CITY

PROFITEERING IS HINTED

Land Bought for $3,800 an Acre a Few Months Ago Now Held for $8,000 an Acre.

Charges of "crude and crass profiteering," a description employed by Leonard M. Wallstein, counsel to the Citizens Union, convinced the Board of Estimate yesterday of the unwisdom of taking steps toward the purchase for park purposes of about two hundred acres of Staten Island land for which the owner paid about $3,800 an acre and which was offered to the city at $8,000 an acre.

Within a comparatively short time, only a few months having elapsed, the tract, according to Mr. Wallstein, jumped to its enhanced value. It was included in the recent enumeration made by Mayor Walker's Special Park Committee of the Board of Estimate in its report on available lands in Richmond and Queens Boroughs suitable for parks. Residents of Richmond Borough were eager to have a park and they had conceded that the Wolfe's Pond tract would make an ideal one, but they came to the meeting yesterday filled with indignation over the proposed purchase at $8,000 an acre, which, they calculated, would profit the present owner more than $750,000.

Philip Maslansky was mentioned as the owner. His attitude was explained by Borough President Lynch of Richmond as being one of "take it or leave it" at his price.

It was insinuated by Mr. Wallstein and others who protested against the purchase that Mr. Maslansky had anticipated the desires of the city when he acquired the property. It appeared that last March 119 acres of the tract had been bought by Maslansky from the Jencks estate, the price to him being $3,800 an acre.

Often Changed Hands.

Title was not conveyed until May 25, and then it was assigned to the Tours Realty Company. On June 8, two weeks later, the Board of Estimate was petitioned to make map changes establishing the tract as a park, so that the city could later acquire it. The board's Committee on Parks, making its survey of sites available for parks, was advised that the Wolfe's tract was held at $3,000 an acre.

"There was an investigation," said Mr. Wallstein, "which revealed that the property had apparently changed hands often since May last, but on Oct. 27, when a conference was asked with the owners, the same Maslansky appeared and said, 'My price is $8,000 an acre.'

"Now $3,800 an acre is a fair price, but $8,000 is an outrageous one. The city should not commit itself to being held up, and although we are eager to have the chain of metropolitan parks extended, we don't want this to happen at a prohibitive expense to the taxpayers."

The disclosures yesterday came out on a proposal to authorize a map change. There were no speakers in favor of the proposition. The Board of Estimate, on motion of Borough President Lynch, denied the application for the map change.

165,000 KILLED BY AUTOS IN 20 YEARS

Total Is Greater Than American Fatalities From All Causes in the World War.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—In the last twenty years 165,000 persons were killed as a result of automobile accidents, the Committee on Traffic Accident Statistics of the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety reported through the Department of Commerce today. These fatalities represent a numebr greater than the losses of the United States armed forces during the great war from wounds, disease and other causes.

The figures show that deaths from automobile accidents have increased from 412 in 1906 to 21,627 in 1925. An official table shows automobile fatalities annually, of all kinds, in the twenty years from 1906 to 1925, as follows:

Year.	No.	Year.	No.
1907	658	1918	10,548
1908	824	1919	10,811
1909	1,240	1920	12,186
1910	1,850	1921	13,612
1911	2,248	1922	[illegible]
1912	3,047	1923	18,103
1913	4,179	1924	19,307
1914	4,627	1925	21,627
1915	6,485
1916	8,071	Total	164,963

"If adequate steps are not taken to curb the growing menace of automobile accidents the result will be an increasing number of deaths from this cause year after year," says the Department of Commerce in commenting on the figures. "The committee estimates that if the death rate from automobile accidents in 1925 should continue unchanged for the next twenty years, and if the population of the United States at the same time should remain stationary, the total number of fatalities due to automobile accidents in that period will be approximately 440,000 persons. This number would be equivalent to the entire present population of such large cities as Minneapolis, New Orleans or Cincinnati."

NEW YORK SAILOR PRAISED.

Charles Abraham Is Commended by Navy for Florida Relief Work.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Charles Abraham, a Chief Commissary Steward in the navy, has been commended for the assistance he gave in relief work in Miami after the recent hurricane. He is the son of Mrs. Johanna Abraham of 333 East Eighty-ninth Street, New York.

Abraham was on duty at the recruiting station in Atlanta, Ga., on Sept. 18. He was ordered to Miami to assist at the emergency hospital in the McAllister Hotel. Besides that work, he established an emergency mess at the Biscayne Yacht Club, with hot food ready at all hours for emergency workers.

His work was reported to the Navy Department by the Commander of the Seventh Naval District at Key West, and a letter of commendation has been sent to him by the Chief of the Bureau of Navigation.

EAST SIDE SITE SOLD FOR A COOPERATIVE

WEST 171ST ST. INVESTMENT

Kay Construction Corporation Sells Elevator Flat—Sixth Street Lofts Sold.

The demand for tall apartment houses on the east side continues to claim private residences. Announcement was made yesterday of the purchase of another site east of Fifth Avenue for a tall cooperative, which will replace seven three-story dwellings at 3-11 Mitchell Place, at the foot of East Forty-ninth Street.

The property was purchased by the Cooperators' Construction Company, organized recently by Joseph Day Lee. Miss B. S. Geary, Julia Bingham and Solomon Magelaner are the directors.

Fronting 126 feet, with a depth of 110 feet, the site will be improved with a thirteen-story building. Turner & Bowden are the architects. Suites are being sold from the plans, and the project will represent an investment of $1,500,000.

Miss B. S. Geary, as broker, sold the site for Maurice Weinstein, Lena Polk, Fanny Geringer, Sadie Baral, Israel Fradkin and others.

On Washington Heights Arthur L. Shaw, Inc., sold for the Kay Construction Corporation to an investor the new six-story elevator apartment 75 by 95 feet at 563-5-7 West 171st Street. The apartments rent for $35,000 and were held at $260,000.

The two five-story flats at 231-234 East Seventy-seventh Street, 25 by 100 feet, were sold by Irving I. Kempner to Jules Levy. Jacob Kastner was the broker.

Operators Sell Flat.

Chasmore Construction Company sold to Alex Summers 430 East Seventy-fourth Street, a five-story tenement on a lot 25 by 100 feet, situated between First Avenue and Avenue A. J. Lemle & Sons were the brokers in the transaction.

John P. Finneran sold for the 48 and 56th Street Realty Corporation 517 West Forty-eighth Street, a twenty-family tenement, 25 by 100 feet, to Theodore Koufas. The property was held at $35,000.

Mary L. Edwards sold the four-story and basement twenty-foot dwelling at 26 West Seventy-fifth Street to the Authors' Club, who after extensive alterations will occupy the premises. Robert Holcombe Jones was the associate broker with Wood, Dolson Company, Inc.

Pease & Elliman, Inc., sold for the estate of Joseph K. Butler the three-story property on a lot 23 by 100 feet at 130 Eighth Avenue, between Sixteenth and Seventeenth Streets, to a client. This is the first transfer of the property since 1859.

The twelve-story loft with stores on the triangular plot at the south junction of Sixth Avenue, Fourth and Cornelia Streets, and known as 31-39 Sixth Avenue, has been sold by the Tuscany Realty Company, representing Ottilo Furio and Getulio Piccirilli, to the recently formed Vincenzi-Rossi Realty Company. Part of the site is vacant and has a frontage of 120 feet on Sixth Avenue, 9.3 feet on Fourth Street and 142.11 feet on Cornelia Street. The property was conveyed subject to a mortgage of $245,000.

RESULTS AT AUCTION.

Broad Street Offices Sold in Foreclosure.

Lillian Stimmel, plaintiff in a foreclosure action against the One Fifteen Broad Street Corporation and others, bought the twelve-story office and store building, on a plot 62 by 74 feet, at 113 and 115 Broad Street, southeast corner of Front Street. The auction was held yesterday by James R. Murphy in the Vesey Street Exchange.

The knockdown price was $1,000 above the two prior mortgages, aggregating $428,833. The plaintiff sued to recover on a judgment of $47,117.16. There was $12,566 in back taxes due.

Other sales were:

By Thomas F. Burchill.

West Twentieth Street, 21-25, north side, 420 feet west of Fifth Avenue, two four and one five-story loft and store buildings; Cedar-Brook Corporation against Gylmann Realty Company and others; due, $80,155.00; taxes, &c., $4,600; adjourned to Nov. 22.

In the Bronx Exchange.

By James R. Murphy.

East 172d Street, 273, north side, 28 feet east of Morris Avenue, 53.8x94.7x81.6; gore; two-story dwelling; City Real Estate Company against Milton H. Ivirson and others; due, $14,100; taxes, &c., $591.34; to the plaintiff for $5,000.

By Leonard J. Giegerich Jr.

East 144th Street, 445, north side, 425 feet east of Willis Avenue, 25x100; two-story dwelling; Samuel Leibowitz against Paul Sahadin and others; due, $1,342.92; taxes, &c., $162; to Andrew J. Keegan, for $3,700.

MRS. VANDERBILT SELLS.

Prominent New Yorker Buys Her 17-Room Cooperative Apartment.

Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt of 1 Sutton Place has resold to a prominent New Yorker her apartment in the cooperative building recently completed on the block front between Fifty-sixth and Fifty-seventh Streets by the Henry Phipps Estates, from plans by Cross & Cross.

Coughlan to Hold Brooklyn Sale.

Tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the Brooklyn Real Estate Exchange, 189 Montague Street, Coughlan & Co., Inc., auctioneers, will conduct an auction sale of Brooklyn properties. Included in this sale are several parcels in the South Marlboro section close to Ocean Parkway and Gravesend Avenue.

$250,000 Flat for 204th Street.

A six-story tenement is to be erected at 570 to 586 West 204th Street, on a lot 87 by 200 feet, according to plans filed yesterday. Gerchon Realty Company is the owner of record. J. M. Felson, the architect, estimates the cost at $250,000.

$5,000,000 in Loans Provide Housing for 596 Families

Loans on bond and mortgage, authorized by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company yesterday, amounted to $5,016,600. Of this amount $4,355,550 were city loans and $661,050 were farm loans.

The city loans included 481 dwellings to accommodate 492 families and 9 apartment houses to accommodate 104 families, altogether to accommodate 596 families. The principal housing loans were, in Pennsylvania, $204,500; District of Columbia, $141,950; North Carolina, $128,250; Alabama, $144,750; Michigan, $262,800; Ohio, $166,700; Illinois, $220,400; Minnesota, $239,350; Missouri, $219,300, and Kansas, $156,100. There were eleven loans on business buildings amounting to $1,851,750.

The farm loans were scattered in nineteen States, the principal amounts being, in Iowa, $103,750; Missouri, $97,000; Tennessee, $93,000, and Illinois, $80,900.

The company is now lending $800,000 every working day on bond and mortgage.

NESTLE COMPANY GETS LAFAYETTE ST. SPACE

Food Manufacturers to Have Offices in the Court Square Building—4th Av. Lease.

Loring M. Hewen leased large offices to the Nestle Food Company in the Court Square Building, now nearing completion at 2 Lafayette Street, erected by H. H. Uris and associates opposite the Municipal Building. The Nestle Food Company, which is a large manufacturer of canned milk products, milk and malted milk, will move its entire executive offices from the various floors it now occupies in its own building, at 130 William Street.

This is the eighty-fourth lease made in the Court Square Building for possession Jan. 1, 1927. Total rentals contracted for to date are in excess of $3,000,000, this contract calling for the payment of rental exceeding $300,000.

Carstein & Linnekin, Inc., have leased the ninth floor in the building 448 Fourth Avenue to Goessling & Ferre, Inc.

Bastine & Co., Inc., leased the ninth floor at 15 West Twenty-sixth Street to the L. Dentch Company, Inc., for two years.

Spear & Co., Inc., leased 16,000 square feet on the ninth floor at 19-23 West Eighteenth Street, running through to 22-28 West Nineteenth Street, to the Quality Leather Goods Company, Inc.; the sixth floor at 116 and 118 West Twenty-ninth Street, to F. Smilowitz & Co., fur trimmings; the seventh floor at 30-34 West Twenty-sixth Street to the Markowitz-Rose Company, Inc., manufacturers of bathrobes, and showrooms at 456 Seventh Avenue to Kastle & Scharfman, Inc., silks.

OPERATORS ACQUIRE BROOKLYN PROPERTY

Kings County Real Estate Corporation Assembles Fulton Street Block Front.

Final details in the assembling of a block front facing 200 feet on Fulton Street and 173 feet on Ashland Place, Brooklyn, were announced yesterday by the Kings County Real Estate Corporation. The property is valued at $650,000.

Four separate purchases of adjacent property were necessary before the entire plot was completed. The first property secured by the corporation consisted of a 135-foot frontage on Fulton Street and a 133-foot frontage on Ashland Place, followed by the purchase of two adjacent plottages of 20 feet each on Ashland Place. The corporation then secured the remaining 64-foot frontage on Fulton Street in the recent sale of city-owned property.

Green Brothers, in conjunction with Louis M. Rogovin, sold the block front on the north side of Newkirk Avenue between East Twenty-second and East Twenty-third Streets, measuring 219 by 131 feet, for Eleanor Chanin to the Manufacturers' Construction Company. The property was held at $175,000.

The Bulkley & Horton Company sold the three-story and basement two-family stone dwelling, on a plot 21 by 120 feet, located at 1,002 Park Place, between Brooklyn and Kingston Avenues, for Rose McHugh to a buyer for occupancy.

In the Park Slope section the John Pullman Real Estate Company, Inc., sold 910 President Street, near Prospect Park West, a four-story and basement brownstone dwelling, on a plot 25 by 100 feet, for Mrs. Ellen Anderson to a buyer for occupancy.

NEW JERSEY ESTATE GOES TO SYNDICATE

Developers Plan Hotel Improvement for 100-Acre Tower Hill Property.

SEVERAL ACREAGE SALES

Tracts in Westchester and Long Island in Ownership Changes—Home Sites Sold.

Tower Hill, the Morristown estate of Louis G. Gillespie, has been sold to a syndicate for development as a country club hotel.

The property, which is one of the more noted estates in Morristown, comprises a tract of about 100 acres, improved with a large stone mansion. There is also a seven-story tower on the tract which gives the property its name.

The estate has a large frontage on Western Avenue and has an average elevation of about 750 feet above sea level. The buying syndicate is organizing under the name of the Tower Hill Inn Corporation and is having plans prepared for the development of the mansion into a modern hotel with facilities for all Winter sports. The Mount Morris Realty Company were the brokers in the sale.

The American Community Corporation sold to the Condes Realty Company a forty-acre tract near Syosset. The property has a frontage of more than 700 feet on the north side of Jericho Turnpike.

The tract comprises the north half of the Poole farm, which was purchased last Summer from the original owners by the American Community Corporation. The sellers are identified with the Realty Associates, which recently sold a ninety-three-acre tract at Sands Point.

Caroline Woolsack has purchased for improvement with a private home a plot of lots on the south side of Northfield Road, Woodmere, from the Meadow Crest Realty Company, Inc. H. Frankfort & Sons, Inc., were the brokers.

Real estate transactions in Westchester County were featured yesterday by the sale of a thirty-acre tract in the town of East Chester to Sam Citerella. James R. Murphy was the broker in the sale.

The property is at the intersection of California Road and Highland Avenue and has a frontage of 2,000 feet on the former thoroughfare. It is opposite the Siwanoy Golf Club and overlooks the New Rochelle Water Company reservoir.

W. B. Downey has sold his Colonial dwelling in Halcyon Park, New Rochelle, to Mrs. Elizabeth M. Dornan. Fish & Marvin were the brokers. The same firm also leased the Bonniecrest residence of Frank H. Truax to F. W. Brice.

Developers also reported considerable activity in home sites. The Homeland Company sold two plots facing on Minerva Drive, Colonial Heights, Yonkers, to Mary E. Smedley, who plans to improve with a residence. The same company also sold a plot of lots facing St. Andrews Drive in Homefield at the Grey Oaks Station, Yonkers, to Madelen Gass and Robert Itschener.

H. A. Lockwood & Co. sold the following plots in their Scarsdale property at Heath Ridge: A 90-foot plot on Carthage Road to Edith Ives Smith and Mabel Vermilya, who plan to build a Pennsylvania Dutch Colonial home; a 120-foot plot at the corner of McDonald Place and Wakefield Road to Ethel Schulman, which will be immediately improved with an English Tudor home of stucco and brick, and a 60-foot plot at the corner of Carthage and Fayette Roads to Ethel C. Caine, who will build a brick house of Georgian design.

Real Estate Notes.

Announcement was made yesterday of the association with the A. E. Lefcourt Realty Holdings of Philip E. Newmark, who heads the building management department of the Lefcourt organization. For more than five years Mr. Newmark managed the Garment Centre Capitol Buildings on Seventh Avenue.

The Max Brav Company is the lessee for sixty-three years of the fourteen-story hotel to be erected on Forty-eighth Street, west of Broadway, adjoining the Longacre Theatre. The site contains about 10,000 square feet, and is to be improved by the D. & M. Construction Corporation, Nathan Minskoff, President.

SALESMAN.

My present employers, for whom I sell several hundred thousand dollars annually by mail, take only part of my time; I can therefore take on mail sales work of another manufacturer on part-time basis at $50 per week, less than one-third of what I now earn.

I write the kind of sales letters that sells merchandise to dealers at less than salesman's cost; have successful record selling by mail in men's and women's apparel, floor coverings, jewelry, textiles; can apply this successful experience to any line that can be sold by salesmen.

Will take over or organize complete mail-sales and advertising department, build up well-rated mailing list, secure new accounts by mail, revive inactive accounts, get present accounts to buy more frequently; in short, I will considerably increase your business at less than salesmen's commission.

Can open new virgin territory and at same time cover salesmen's territory, increasing their business and yours; I am a mail salesman and at $50 a week I will prove the lowest priced salesman you have.

In responding, give definite appointment day or evening, weekday or Sunday; I will confirm by telephone. E 193 Times.

Evans, as Special Masters in Foreclosure, named and appointed by the District Court of the United States for the District of Delaware, in the above suit entitled No. 524, In Equity, will offer for sale, at public vendue, the property hereinafter described and referred to, in its entirety, as a going concern, at the office of The Pusey and Jones Company, at Front and Poplar Streets, in the City of Wilmington, State of Delaware, on Wednesday, the Fifth day of January, A. D., 1927, at twelve o'clock, noon, Eastern Standard Time, under all of the terms and conditions provided and prescribed in the Decrees of the District Court of the United States for the District of Delaware, in the causes hereinabove referred to, and all other terms and conditions announced and prescribed by the Receivers and by the Special Masters at and before said vendue:

ALL OF THE ASSETS OF THE PUSEY AND JONES COMPANY, A CORPORATION OF THE STATE OF DELAWARE, AND ALL OF THE ASSETS ACQUIRED AND/OR HELD BY SAID RECEIVERS AND BY SAID SPECIAL MASTERS IN THE ABOVE CAUSES, IN ITS ENTIRETY, AS A GOING CONCERN, INCLUDING BUT NOT INTENDED TO BE LIMITED BY THE FOLLOWING:

(a) All of the lot, piece or parcel of land, situate, lying and being in the City of Wilmington, County of New Castle, and State of Delaware, bounded by Front Street, Water Street, Spruce Street, the Pennsylvania Railroad and the Christiana River, CONTAINING fifteen acres of land, more or less, together with

(b) All of the buildings, shipways, structures, erections and constructions placed thereon, with their fixtures.

(c) All engines, furnaces, machinery, shafting, belting, pulleys, dynamos, dies, patterns, drawings, tools, furniture, fixtures, appliances, implements and appurtenances of every kind or character, situate, lying or being in or about said plant, premises and property, and used or provided for use in and about the operation of said plant and property, and carrying on the business heretofore conducted in the same.

(d) All right, title and interest, claim and demand of every kind or nature, legal or equitable, of The Pusey and Jones Company, in and to all Letters Patent of any kind, and any interest therein, and any licenses or contracts in respect thereto (except such as are not assignable), which are now held by the said Company, covering devices or inventions contained in any article or thing which it may manufacture, sell or use in the conduct of its business.

(e) All raw materials, steel, iron, lumber, fuel, oil, supplies, goods, wares and merchandise, and the products of the Company's business, whether manufactured or in process of manufacture, which the said Company may have in its possession, or which may have been acquired by it.

(f) All of the good will of the business conducted and carried on by said Company, and by the Receivers, as well as any and all trade-marks or trade-names now owned or used by the Company. All rights, privileges, franchises, immunities of the said Company, including its right to be a corporation, in so far as they can be legally transferred and conveyed.

(g) All books of accounts and other books of any and every kind, name and nature now owned or which may be acquired or kept by the said Company, in the conduct of its business.

(h) All bills and accounts receivable outstanding, purchase or sale contracts or other contracts, promissory notes, checks, drafts, money, claims, demands and choses in action, and all property or things of value of any kind, name or nature, tangible or intangible, legal or equitable, of which the said Company may be possessed, or to which it may become entitled by reason of any sale, transfer or conveyance.

(i) All accretions of every character to the lands and premises authorized to be sold, and all riparian rights appurtenant thereto. All ways, waters, water courses, rights, privileges, hereditaments and appurtenances to the real estate belonging, or in any wise appertaining, the reversions and remainders, rents, issues and profits thereof, and all of the estate, right, title and interest, property claim and demand whatsoever of the said The Pusey and Jones Company, or the Receivers and Special Masters, in and to every part and parcel of the property, real and personal.

(j) The Receivers and Special Masters will not receive any bid for the property, Real and Personal, described and offered for sale, from any person or corporation who shall not have, before 12 o'clock, noon, Eastern Standard Time, January 5, 1927, deposited with them as a pledge that he or it will make good his or its bid, in case of its acceptance, the sum of One Hundred Thousand Dollars in United States money, or by certified check upon any National Bank or Trust Company, to the order of the Receivers and Special Masters.

(k) The Receivers and Special Masters will not receive any bid for the property, Real and Personal, described and offered for sale, unless the sum bid shall be equal at least to the sum of Two Million Dollars.

(l) The Receivers and Special Masters reserve the right to reject any and all bids, and all bids are subject to approval or rejection by the United States District Court for the District of Delaware. The date of application for the confirmation will be announced at the sale.

Copies of the Decrees of the United States District Court for the District of Delaware, under the provisions of which this property is offered for sale, and a catalogue setting forth in full the property to be sold, and all other the terms and conditions of sale, can be obtained upon application to Henry C. COOKING TEACHER EXAMINATIONS—The Board of Examiners of the Board of Education announces an examination of applicants for license as teacher of cooking in the public elementary schools in the City of New York, according to the following program:

Nov. 29. Final date for the receipt of applications. Application forms may be had at the office of the Board of Examiners or will be sent upon receipt of request accompanied by a self-addressed stamped envelope. No application received or mailed later than Nov. 29 will be considered for this examination. Candidates should supplement the formal application with a statement of the special courses in the subject, including the pedagogy of the subject, offered to meet clause (a), (b), or (c) hereunder. Such statement should be in tabular form with vertical columns headed as follows: "Institution," "Title of Course," "Dates," "Number of hours," "Number of sessions." Such statement should be signed.

Dec. 13. Written examination will be conducted beginning at 9 A. M. This examination will be offered in New York City only.

The oral examination will include (a) a personal interview for the rating of the candidate's personality including use of oral English; (b) a practical test in cookery; (c) a class test in teaching cooking. These tests will be given, upon summons, several weeks after the written examination; except that, in the case of candidates coming from a distance of 100 miles or more, an endeavor will be made to arrange such tests, and also the medical examination, on the day following the written examination. The written examination will be on the principles and practice of domestic science and on methods of instruction and class management.

The salary schedule for teacher of cooking in elementary schools runs from $1,900 to $3,250 by annual increments of $150 for satisfactory service. Partial credit on this schedule may be given for previous experience in excess of the eligibility requirements.

A teacher of the grades of the first six years of the New York elementary schools, upon advancement to rank as a teacher of cooking, is placed upon the upper salary schedule at the salary next above that to which she would be entitled in the lower schedule. The date of the annual increase continues in the higher schedule to be the same as that fixed for the annual increase in the lower schedule.

LEAPS FROM ROOF; DYING.

Atlantic City Woman Took Poison Before Jumping.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 11.—Sending Sarah Duffy, her maid, out with her 4-year-old son, Mrs. Harry Martin, 23 years old, this afternoon climbed to the roof of the apartment house in which she lived at 236 South Connecticut Avenue, drank poison and then leaped to the pavement.

She was found by neighbors in an alley in the rear of the apartment. Mrs. Martin is not expected to live. She is still unconscious at the City Hospital. Her motive is not known.

Sarah Duffy told city detectives that Mrs. Martin had returned home from a visit to Philadelphia yesterday and appeared to be in the best of spirits. Neighbors, however, said that the Martins had had many arguments lately and were not on the best of terms. They had been living in the apartment since last Spring.

Transcontinental Air Mail

The transcontinental air mail service is operated in both directions daily, leaving Hadley Field (New Brunswick, N. J.) at 11 A. M., Eastern Standard Time, and San Francisco at 8:45 A. M., Pacific Time. The planes carry mail for intermediate points as well. Connections are made at Cleveland for Detroit, arriving Detroit 5:15 P. M., and at Salt Lake City for Los Angeles, arriving Los Angeles 5:25 P. M. At Elko, Nev., connections are made for Pasco, Wash., and by rail from that point to cities in Washington and Oregon, arriving the morning of the second day after leaving New York City; and at Cheyenne, Wyo., for Denver, Colorado Springs and Pueblo, arriving the morning of the next day after leaving New York. Mail for points not on the air route is forwarded by mail trains from the nearest air mail station.

The New York daily closing time for the mail is 8 A. M., Eastern Standard Time, from the General Postoffice and 6 A. M. to 7:55 A. M. at the air mail letter boxes, painted red, white and blue, which are located in various parts of the city, depending on location.

Wednesday's air mail from San Francisco arrived at Hadley Field at 3:35 P. M. yesterday and was forwarded by rail to New York City.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 11.—Wednesday's New York to San Francisco transcontinental air mail arrived here on time.

Thursday's transcontinental air mail running from San Francisco to New York reported running on time into Salt Lake City, Utah.

Chicago and Southwest Air Mail

The New York-Chicago air mail is operated in both directions nightly, leaving Hadley Field (New Brunswick, N. J.) at 9:55 P. M., Eastern Standard Time, and Chicago at 6 P. M., Central Time. The planes carry mail for intermediate points. Direct connections are made at Chicago for Detroit, arriving Detroit 11:40 A. M.; for St. Louis, arriving St. Louis 9:15 A. M.; for St. Paul-Minneapolis, arriving Minneapolis 10:40 A. M., to connect by rail with points in North and South Dakota and Montana, and for Dallas, Texas, via Moline, Rock Island, Davenport, St. Joseph, Kansas City, Wichita, Oklahoma City and Fort Worth, arriving Dallas 5:35 P. M. Direct rail connections are made at Dallas and Fort Worth for points further south and west.

The New York daily closing time is 5:45 P. M., Eastern Standard Time, at the General Postoffice, and 5:10 P. M., or a little later, at the air mail letter boxes, painted red, white and blue, which are located in various parts of the city.

Wednesday's air mail from Chicago arrived at Hadley Field at 8:18 A. M. yesterday and was forwarded by rail to New York.

MRS. HALL HOME, MAID SAYS, JUST BEFORE HOUR OF CRIME; BLOW AT JEALOUSY THEORY

SAW HER PLAY SOLITAIRE

Mrs. Riehl Swears at the Trial Mrs. Hall Was Not Out From 9:30 to 10.

DENIES TRYST WAS HEARD

She Insists Defendant Hung Up Phone Without Hearing the Rector and Mrs. Mills Talk.

BROTHER'S FEAR IS TOLD

Neighbor Reveals Gossip About Pastor—Mrs. Gibson Gains After Blood Transfusion.

The State's effort to show a motive failed yesterday and an alibi was set up in the Hall-Mills trial at Somerville, N. J. Both results were accomplished by the testimony of Mrs. Louise Geist Riehl, a former servant in the Hall household. The beneficiary in each instance was Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall. She smiled.

While the defense was scoring heavily, the State remained uncertain whether its eyewitness, Mrs. Jane Gibson, who is ill, could take the stand. Blood transfusion was resorted to yesterday morning, but several days must pass before its effect can be determined. Mrs. Gibson continued to gain, however, and Assistant Attorney-General Alexander Simpson reiterated that she would testify on Wednesday. It was her story that indicted Mrs. Hall and her brothers, Willis Stevens and Henry Stevens, as well as Henry Carpender, who is not yet on trial.

Mrs. Riehl flounced into the witness chair yesterday, a slender, black-eyed young woman, plainly showing her hostility to Senator Simpson and his investigators in general. She settled herself defiantly and tilted her head questioningly toward her questioner. Obviously, Louise, as she is invariably called, was conscious that she was chic—in her boyish blue coat, with its square shoulders, and her cloche hat. And she permitted her face to suggest that she was not enjoying the prospect from the stand, which consisted chiefly of a close-up of Senator Simpson.

Her Replies Are Emphatic.

The Senator did not allow any unfriendliness to register on his part, however. He was suave, one might say, in putting the usual introductory questions. The replies came in emphatic fashion, as though the ex-maid were mentally saying "and what of it?" after each answer.

Gradually the special prosecutor led the witness up to the all-important telephone call which Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills made to the Rev. Edward W. Hall on the evening of Sept. 14, 1922. This call arranged a tryst for the rector and the choir leader, and at 10:18 or 10:22 P. M. that night they were shot to death in the darkness beneath a crabapple tree, approximately two miles from the Hall home in New Brunswick, N. J.

The State contends that Mrs. Hall listened in while the rector talked over an extension on the second floor. Senator Simpson charges that the minister and Mrs. Mills named the time and place of their rendezvous, and that Mrs. Hall overheard it. Thus, he charges, jealousy provided the motive for the crime. On two other occasions Mrs. Riehl has told of the telephone episode, but has said that she turned away, leaving Mrs. Hall standing in the lower hall with the telephone receiver in her hand. The maid thought Mrs. Hall replaced the receiver, because she heard the "porch door slam" a second later.

In cool tones and in a manner that smacked of mockery at Mr. Simpson, she added this sentence yesterday:

"She placed back the receiver and turned aroond and walked out."

Backs Mrs. Hall's Story.

Mrs. Hall had been steadfast in saying that she knew nothing of the intrigue between her husband and the minister, and the former maid's remark seemed to many in the courtroom to have snapped at least for the time being the thread of motive in the State's case.

Senator Simpson, a veteran at the bar, knew this. He wheeled to his counsel table. "Let me have the 1922 Grand Jury minutes," he snapped to Inspector John J. Underwood. The officer fumbled in the high heap of exhibits and documents and the Senator turned impatiently to the witness, advising Underwood to "keep after it; I'll come back to it."

The examination proceeded. The defense attorneys were delighted at their adversary's discomfiture. Robert H. McCarter, senior of the Hall-Stevens staff, beamed expansively. Timothy N. Pfeiffer, another of the seven lawyers, was a study in smilee. State Senator Clarence E. Case, a colleague of the prosecutor at Trenton, covered his mouth with a hand.

Louise indulged in a grin of self-satisfaction. The questions and the replies were uttered sharply. Senator Simpson had stepped up out of the pit before the bench and the witness box and was leaning against the wall back of the jury. Occasionally the witness

Both Sides Score Points In Trial of Hall-Mills Case

The eighth day of the Hall-Mills trial brought these developments:

1. An alibi for Mrs. Hall was offered by a former maid in the Hall home. She swore that Mrs. Hall was playing solitaire about twenty minutes before the murder was committed at a point about two miles distant. The witness also attacked the State's theory that the crime came out of jealousy. She testified that Mrs. Hall had not eavesdropped on the telephone call that arranged the last tryst.
2. Against this, the same witness said that Willie Stevens early the next morning advised her that "something terrible happened last night," cautioning the maid not to tell his sister of his disclosure.
3. The condition of Mrs. Jane Gibson, principal witness against the accused, was improved. She underwent a blood transfusion yesterday morning. The State still plans to call her to the stand on Wednesday.

HAIL MAYOR WALKER AS 'NEXT PRESIDENT'

Philadelphians Line Streets as He Leads New Yorkers' March to Fair Grounds.

SMITH OBSCURED IN AUTO

Governor Is Greeted Enthusiastically When Visible—Many Functions for the Visitors.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 12.—Mayor James J. Walker of New York City was cheered as "our next President" by throngs which lined Philadelphia's downtown streets this afternoon. With his derby hat at a rakish angle and swinging a malacca walking stick, the Mayor marched at the head of two special trainloads of New Yorkers who came here to assist in celebrating New York Day at the Sesquicentennial Exposition.

There were 400 policemen and an equal number of firemen from New York in line, together with 250 other guests, including nearly every one of importance at Tammany Hall. Governor Smith unexpectedly appeared, coming from Absecon, N. J., where he is spending a vacation, together with George W. Olvany, leader of Tammany; Robert F. Wagner, United States Senator-elect; John F. Gilchrist of the Board of Transportation and Colonel John G. Phelan of the old Sixty-ninth New York Infantry.

Mayor Walker received more applause from the crowds of Philadelphians than all the rest of the visitors together. Perhaps this was because he led the parade on foot, while Governor Smith was all but obscured from view in the depths of a closed motor car. Whenever the latter was visible his greeting did not lack enthusiasm.

Mayor Restores Woman's Purse.

One of the feminine admirers of the Mayor clapped her hands so enthusiastically as he approached that she dropped her pocketbook. Mayor Walker left the head of the column with a few agile bounds, picked it up and handed it to her with a courtly bow. There was applause and delighted laughter from the crowd. Mayor Walker raised his hand for silence.

"See, I gave it back to her," he said, and the cheering was renewed.

"Jimmy Walker, our next President," a pretty girl called out. The cry was taken up and repeated again and again during the afternoon. But if the Mayor heard it he gave no sign.

The New York policemen and firemen, with their respective bands, and the Municipal Band, marched to the John Wanamaker store upon their arrival, where they were luncheon guests of Rodman Wanamaker. Mayor Walker, with Mrs. Walker and the remainder of his party, reached the Broad Street Station an hour later on a second special, and were taken in buses to the Bellevue-Stratford, where a luncheon was given them by Mayor Kendrick and the City Council.

There was no speaking, save that Mayor Kendrick announced that a

'JOE' CANNON DIES IN DANVILLE AT 90; 46 YEARS IN HOUSE

Ex-Speaker's Long and Colorful Career Ends in a Peaceful Sleep.

RULED WITH AN IRON HAND

FOE OF GOVERNMENT WASTE

Coolidge and Others Laud His Public Services—Funeral Probably on Tuesday.

DANVILLE, Ill., Nov. 12 (AP).—The fiery spirit of Joseph Gurney Cannon, former Speaker of the House of Representatives, dimmed to an ember by the weight of 90 years, was quenched today by death.

In the home from which he went to Congress fifty-three years ago and amid walls laden with the trophies of his public life, the patriarch died at high noon, in the midst of a deep sleep.

Weakening of the heart muscles caused his death, but the general depredations of old age had warned his family several months ago that the end was near. He told comrades in the national House, when he quit its halls in 1922, that he was going home to die, home to the rambling brown brick mansion which he built sixty-five years ago for his bride, who preceded him to the grave.

After his retirement from Congress, he continued his daily walks downtown beneath the elms of Vermilion Street, and the most cartooned face in America was daily visible behind the brown curtains of the Second National Bank, of which he was one of the founders. Several months ago he was forced to forego his walks, and he turned to a daily motor outing, which he continued until a few weeks ago.

His mind faded with his body, and he could recall but dimly, after his ninetieth birthday last May, the scenes with which his long Congressional service was vivid. Waning memory, however, could not keep him inactive, and his last public act four months ago was to turn the sod for a new church for the St. James Methodist Episcopal congregation.

Joined Church on Leaving Congress.

Born a Quaker, Mr. Cannon joined the Methodist Church after leaving Congress and each Sunday until recent weeks found him in the pew his wife had occupied throughout her lifetime in Danville.

An air of sadness settled over the city as news of his death spread. Danville had known for months that its foremost citizen had not long to live and it had filled with honor his declining days.

His ninetieth birthday was made a civic holiday, and he was a guest of the Kiwanis Club, of which he was a member, at a birthday party. He did not speak, but he stood behind the mammoth birthday cake, tilted his picturesque hat at the accustomed angle, and smiled genially above his chin whiskers while photographers made a record of the occasion.

He even inserted a cigar between his teeth to make complete the resemblance to the Cannon of old, although he had abandoned smoking to a large extent in his later years and had substitnted mild cigars for the stogies which were recognized throughout the land as part of the Cannon picture.

On the stroke of twelve noon "Uncle Joe" peacefully breathed his last. He simply slept away.

Unconscious for Ten Hours.

Since about 2 A. M. it had been apparent that the end was near. Dr. C. E. Wilkinson, his personal physician, was called at that hour because Mr. Cannon was having difficulty in swallowing. This condition was relieved temporarily.

Later in the morning the physician spent a half hour at the patient's bedside. At that time he was sleeping peacefully. Between 10 and 11 o'clock he became restless, then settled again into a calm sleep. He had been in a state of coma for about ten hours before the end.

Death was due, Dr. Wilkinson said, to myocardial degeneration, or weakening of the heart muscles.

A cold contracted in July gave Mr. Cannon much worry, and it was then that he took to motoring instead of walking. The first indication that his condition was grave was when his daughter, Helen, was summoned home from Europe hurriedly in September.

He declined several invitations to

Big Loan to Berlin Follows Armistice Day; America and Europe Readily Lend Millions

Heavy oversubscription, particularly in allied countries, of a German loan that was almost concident with Armistice Day gave Wall Street something to talk about yesterday. The loan consisted of $15,000,000 of 30-year 6½ per cent. first mortgage bonds of the Berlin Electric Elevated and Underground Railways Company. Although the formal offering was not made until yesterday, the details were known in the world markets on Thursday, just eight years after the ending of the World War, when such a thing as allied investments in Germany would have been considered unthinkable. The ease with which the issue was absorbed was regarded by bankers as proof that the investing world has confidence in the future of German finance and business.

Of the $15,000,000 issue, $3,000,000 had been withdrawn by the underwriters, Speyer & Co., for offering in Holland. This allotment was sold quickly, and orders for large additional amounts were received from England, from several countries on the Continent and from Canadian investors. The entire issue was sold within a short time after the subscription books were opened. The corporation issuing the bonds is owned by the City of Berlin and the proceeds will be used for extension of the city's rapid transit system.

German bonds have moved up steadily in price in the New York market in the last year. Owing to the accumulation of funds in competitive markets in Europe and to the industrial improvement that has increased the prices of German stocks, German loans are being placed here at progressively lower rates of interest.

FISTS FLY AS COURT ACTS IN TOMBS PLOT

Fracas Between Prosecutor and Lawyer for Suspects Comes When Bail Is Denied.

COUNSEL FOR PAIR OUSTED

An altercation developed yesterday forenoon in the Homicide Court between an Assistant District Attorney and a lawyer for two men accused of being accomplices of the three gunmen who shot and killed the warden and a keeper in the Tombs Nov. 3. In the afternoon an actual Grand Jury investigation into the murders was begun.

Harry Gittleson, counsel for Oscar Amberg and Robert Weiner, who are accused of having furnished the pistols used in the killing of the warden and the keeper by Michael (Red) McKenna, Hyman Amberg and Richard Berg, all of whom later committed suicide in the prison yard, demanded that Magistrate Andrew Macrery release his clients. The lawyer declared their detention without bail or trial "was a disgraceful miscarriage of justice," when Assistant District Attorney Joseph Pascocello shonted a protest.

Twenty-five policemen and court attendants were gronped about the lawyers and the prisoners in front of the Magistrate. Amberg's wife, his two children and his mother-in-law eagerly followed the proceedings from among the spectators who crowded the court room. Just what happened when the prosecutor uttered his protest could not be learned in the excitement which followed.

Struggle in Police Group.

Gittleson and the Assistant District Attorney, however, were seen struggling among the policemen and attendants. After a few minutes, in which fists described many circles in the air, the disturbance was ended when several policemen hustled the lawyer, his shirt and sleeves torn, toward the main entrance.

"Here, officers," shouted Magistrate Macrery amid the din of the court as he vigorously rapped his gavel. "Don't put that lawyer out of this court. Bring him back here."

A lane was formed through the policemen, and the lawyer strode back. When quiet had been restored, the Magistrate expressed indignation that the dignity of the court had been so disturbed by fisticuffs, and declared that the police had conducted themselves in an "outrageous and uncalled for" manner.

Gittleson then persisted that his clients, one of whom is a brother of one of the three gunmen who killed themselves in the Tombs outbreak, be released at least on bail, because no evidence of their connection with the murders had been presented by the police. Mr. Pascocello told the Court that a Grand Jury investigation was about to get under way, and it was felt that the presentation of evidence against the two prisoners would be a duplication. The Magistrate then acquiesced to the prosecutor's request that the hearing be adjourned until Nov. 17.

Get Evidence in Killings.

Mr. Ryan of the District Attorney's office appeared before the Additional Grand Jury. Chief Assistant District Attorney Pecora, who had been conducting the investigation in the Tombs escape conspiracy, was not present, having been slightly ill for several days. It was understood, however, that Mr. Ryan confined his evidence to the killing of Warden Peter Mallon and Keeper Jeremiah Murphy. The conspiracy feature of the investigation would deal primarily, it was said, with the manner in which the three gunmen got three pistol and narcotics. How long the first Grand Jury proceeding will take could not be learned.

The lawyer for Amberg and Weiner experienced another failure to obtain the release of his clients yesterday when Justice Humphreys in the Queens Supreme Court adjourned until next Wednesday the hearing on their application for a writ of habeas corpus. Assistant District Attorney Loughlin, in urging a third postponement in the habeas corpus proceeding, explained that it would require three days for the authorities to present evidence to the New York County Grand Jury.

GANG USES PLANE TO BOMB ITS RIVAL

Three Dynamite Missiles Fail to Explode at Birger Farm in Illinois Feud.

SHELTONS ARE ARRESTED

Two Brothers, Leaders of Band, Accused of Robbing Mails—Bail Fixed at $100,000.

Special to The New York Times.

MARION, Ill., Nov. 12.—Gang warfare in Williamson County, which has been carried on for weeks with machine guns, armored cars, rifles, shotguns and pistols, took to the air today when an airplane dropped three bombs near the farmhouse of Charles Birger.

Each bomb contained twenty sticks of dynamite. Two men, claiming to be "Jardown" Arms and Ray Walker, members of the Shelton brothers' gang, telephoned Birger that they had dropped them.

An airplane, flying very low, passed over the Birger cabin about 9:30 this morning, quickly turned around and came back. Birger adherents, armed with machine guns and high-powered rifles, waited in ambush for the plane, but feared to fire, believing that it was a Government plane. On the return trip a man walked out on the edge of the plane and dropped three bombs.

Birger Finds Them Unexploded.

Birger has been sick in his home at Harrisburg for four days, but when told of the bombing went to his cabin in the afternoon and, accompanied by newspaper men, found the three bombs.

One bomb fell within fifty yards of his cabin, a second bomb had evidently fallen ten yeards away, but struck a tree and was broken to pieces. The third bomb fell about about forty yards from Birger's cabin, near a sheetmetal house used as a cock-fighting arena.

The bombs were crude affairs and all failed to explode. They were made by tying twenty sticks of nitroglycerine together with electric wires and attaching a fuse. A broken bottle of liquid was found on each bomb, but it had failed to function. It is believed that the fuses were lighted, but blew out in dropping. The bombs were all moist.

In the telephone call to Birger, the man who said he was Arms declared that the bombs contained a message for Birger. One of the bombs that failed to explode seemed to contain a note on the inside, but Birger said he didn't care what it said and would send it back to the Shelton gang and let the members read it.

Birger Scents Seek Plane.

Immediately after the bombing scouts were sent out from the Birger cabin in an effort to find the plans.

"If we find it," said Birger, "we will bring it back here for a souvenir."

Thus far no trace has been found of the plane, which after the attack headed north.

About 2 o'clock last Wednesday morning a Hudson brougham passed the Birger cabin four times. The fourth time it sped past as a bomb exploded within one foot of the State highway in front of the Sam Downs home, about a quarter of a mile from Birger's. The explosion was so severe that it broke all the glass on the east side of the Downs house and on the west side of the Norman Turner house, a quarter of a mile further east. It is believed that the bomb was intended for the Birger cabin, but that the fuse burned too rapidly and it had to be thrown from the speeding car sooner than expected.

Arrest by Federal authorities of the Sheltons, Carl and Bernie, at Denton this morning for alleged complicity in the Collinsville mail robbery in January, 1925, pleased Birger. He sent out a call for his men to meet tonight, but refused to say whether he would do anything in retaliation for the air attack.

Birger said that he believed members of the Shelton faction fired into homes at West City, near Benton, Friday morning and then attributed the attack to him. He said that none of his men was there, as far as he knew, and he was sick and his wife was in the hospital.

Dispatches from Springfield state that Governor Small held a conference today with officials of Herrin and military men, who have made an investigation of conditions in Williamson County, but when it was over there was nothing that would indicate that troops would be sent to end the warfare between the Birger and Shelton factions.

Carl and Bernie Shelton were taken to Danville and are expected to be taken to Springfield, where their bonds have already been fixed at $50,000 each.

MARLBOROUGH GETS MARRIAGE ANNULLED BY CATHOLIC COURT

Vatican Announces Tribunal at Southwick, England, Has Declared Vanderbilt Union Invalid.

CONFIRMED BY ROMAN ROTA

Grounds of Decree Withheld and Churchmen Here Explain the Probable Procedure.

BISHOP MANNING PUZZLED

He Finds It "Hard to Credit That Roman Catholic Church Would Interfere."

ROME, Nov. 12 (AP).—The marriage of the Duke of Marlborough and the former Consuelo Vanderbilt of New York, in 1895, has been annulled by the Roman Catholic Diocesan Court of Southwick, according to a semi-official statement given out today at the Vatican.

The semi-official statement says the annulment was granted first by the Southwick Court and was then confirmed by the Holy Rota Tribunal in July of this year, and that the interested parties were notified at the beginning of August.

This statement came somewhat as a surprise, as, according to one Vatican authority yesterday, nothing had been received there regarding the case.

Church Antherities Here Interested.

The question of the anthority of a Roman Catholic Ecclesiastical Court to annul a marriage where both contracting parties were members of another faith has been the onbject of considerable debate in religious circles in this city since the publication of a London dispatch two days ago stating that the Duke of Marlborough had appealed for an annulment of his marriage to the former Consuelo Vanderbilt.

The couple were married in St. Thomas's Episcopal Church in this city on Nov. 6, 1895. Both had been baptised and confirmed in the Episcopal faith. They lived together for twenty-five years and two children were born. The Duchess obtained a divorce in the English civil courts on Nov. 9, 1920, and both afterward remarried, the Duke marrying Miss Gladys Deacon of Boston, and the Duchess marrying M. Jacques Balsan of Paris.

Following his divorce and remarriage, the Duke of Marlborough was not permitted to attend the Oxford Diocesan Conference in England by the order of the Bishop of Oxford, and latterly he has been attending St. Aloysius Roman Catholic Church at Oxford, though it is not known if he has actually embraced the Roman Catholic faith and been accepted as a communicant.

Possible Grounds Cited.

Leading Catholic and Episcopal dignitaries were loath yesterday to comment on the action of the Southwick Diocesan Court, as the grounds for the court's action were not stated in the dispatch.

The Rev. Wilfrid Parsons, editor of the Catholic weekly magazine "America," pointed out that as the Duke had been divorced and had afterward remarried he could not become a Roman Catholic until his status had been regularized.

Father Parsons said:

"The Duke of Marlborough could not become a Roman Catholic in his present situation unless one of two things happened—renouncing his present wife, if his first marriage should prove to be valid, or proving that his first marriage was invalid. The Catholic Church does not claim jurisdiction over the validity of the form of marriages as contracted by non-Catholics. However, such a marriage, valid in other respects, might be invalid because of some inherent defect in the contract itself. Such, for instance, would be lack of the proper consent.

"If the Church granted a decree of nullity on these grounds, this act would not be an annulment, but a declaration of nuility; that is to say, a declaration that, because of this defect, the contract had been of itself null and void from the beginning.

"In the lack, however, of authentic

'Everlasting' Pillar of Cloud Lapses at Kansas City Shaft

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 12 (AP).—The pillar of cloud at Kansas City's Liberty Memorial, turned on yesterday "for all time," was missing this morning.

Its absence was due to the neglect of some one to tell the Memorial Superintendent of the "forever" part. He was notified and the cloud again issued from the top of the memorial shaft.

WORLD COURT REPLY BY EUROPE EXPECTED

President's Friends Believe Speech Will Cause Definite Action on Our Reservations.

LOOK FOR END OF DELAY

Crowds Give Plaudits for Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge on Train—They Reach Washington.

Special to The New York Times.

ON BOARD THE PRESIDENTIAL TRAIN, HARRISBURG, Pa., Nov. 12.—President Coolidge, in his speech at Kansas City yesterday, delivered an ultimatum to Europe on America's position on the World Court, which, in the opinion of those accompanying him on his special train, will hasten action by the Court members who have delayed a decision upon the reservations made by the United States and embodied their objections to them in the counter-proposals of the Geneva Conference, while ignoring official communications sent by the State Department.

President Coolidge, according to some of those traveling with him, desires the World Court eliminated as a source of political controversy in the United States, and therefore made his utterance at Kansas City in the hope of spurring Europe to prompt action before the Senate convenes in December. The Government has regarded the delay of the Court members in taking decisive action on the American reservations as entirely too long, according the understanding of persons in the President's party, and the Administration is regarded as feeling that the counter-proposals of the Geneva Conference are not justified, since well-informed European Ministers know full well that American opinion would not sanction further concessions.

Expect European Decision.

Now that the Court members know that the Administration stands behind the Senate reservations it is up to the European powers to accept them or renounce any hope that the United States will become a member of the Court of International Justice, in the view of those of Mr. Coolidge's traveling companions who naturally have been discussing, as they speed toward Washington, the reaction to the President's speech likely to follow in Europe.

They regard the President's determination to refuse to submit any counter-proposal to the Senate as the Government's final poeition.

Up to date only a few of the smaller nations, mostly South American republics, have accepted the Senate reservations. Not one of the important European countries has accepted or even replied to the official communications sent them by the Secretary of State immediately following the adoption of the modified protocol by the Senate at its last session.

Telegrams Congratulate President.

The President received a number of telegrams today congratulating him on his stand on the World Court. Already PARIS, Nov. 12.—President Coolidge's Kansas City speech has been read in France with amasement and an effort at comprehension which has failed. That it should not be appreciated in a dehtor country when it sets forth clearly the President's conception of the importance in international relations of keeping financial obligations, is perhaps not incomprehensible.

But where it does pass beyond the understanding of Frenchmen is that financial obligations should be so highly considered beyond other obligations, which Europe holds are binding—moral obligations and the obligation to take a common part and no isolated interest, in helping to rebuild the foundations of a new Europe, which were largely modeled by another President of the United States.

So far is the President's conception removed from the European conception on all matters on which he touched that tonight's Temps says:

"We are forced to wonder whether permanent and active cooperation between Europe and America, in the same work of international solidarity is feasible in the present situation of affairs."

Some Comments in Sneering Vein.

For the first time there is found in the French press an admission that, perhaps, after all the two republics (if President Coolidge is a faithful interpreter of his own) do not think alike, have not the same reactions and are, perhaps, further apart in every way than are even the most criticised nations of Europe.

There are some sneers at the President's speech, at his contrast of the wealth of the United States, with emphasis on the burden that the war left, at his attitude toward the World Court, which, if adopted by any other country toward an American proposed tribunal of arbitration, would provoke suspicions and accusations at his seeming representation of the United States as a banker and not as a Government.

The Temps remarks about this:

"It is a view of the situation devoid of all idealism, which subordinates the whole of American politics to the question of money."

Deeper, however, than the press criticisms is the reaction in French minds to the President's presentation of the American doctrine of abstention and difference. There has been, as President Coolidge said, too much exaggeration of the idea that there was hatred of America on this side of the Atlantic. Every commentator hastens to emphasize that there is not only no hate, but that there is still a very active liking between the peoples of France and America, and still a great appreciation of the tremendous aid of America in the war.

Unable to Understand His Attitude.

The Temps says on this point:

"What is true is that the European nations with whom the Republic of the United States were associated in the war cannot understand America's action in separating from them at the moment when the work of really making peace was about to begin, after its signature; and what is true, also, is that a want of comprehension by Americans of the situation created by this deceptive peace, notably in the matter of the debt settlements, has produced a profound uneasiness of spirit which the attitude adopted by the Government at Washington during recent years on most international questions has still further aggravated. Toward the dissipation of that uneasiness, the speech of President Coolidge will certainly contribute nothing."

Nothing was expected from the speech on the debt issue, but until now Europe, and especially France, had clung hopefully to the belief that, sooner or later, the United States would begin, little by little, to "cooperate" where cooperation was safe. Now the door, according to the French view, has been all but slammed against even that tiny piece of cooperation which would be provided by the World Court.

"If any other country treated the proposal for arbitration and peace so summarily," says Jacques Bainville, "would not there be a lot of criticism?"

What is regarded here as the most interesting part of the President's speech in many ways is his adoption of Bernard Baruch's idea of the conscription of wealth as well as of man power in the event of another war.

That idea has made fairly rapid

Wave of Queen Marie's Hand at West Point Brings Order Remitting All Minor Penalties

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 12 (AP).—Queen Marie of Rumania on her recent visit to the United States Military Academy exercised a royal privilege, it became known today, when with a wave of her hand she wiped out all punishment for minor offenses.

An ancient custom at the academy calls for a general remitting of punishments whenever a royal visitor makes the request, a similar request having been made and granted last Summer when the Crown Prince of Sweden visited the academy.

The order of Brig. Gen. Stewart, Commandant of the academy, remitting the unexecuted portions of all ordinary and special punishments awarded up to and including Oct. 26, states that "this action is taken as a compliment to the distinguished visitors themselves and as a mark of regard for the great nation which they represent and to which our country is bound by ties of gratitude and disinterested support at a crisis in our history which it is a pleasure to acknowledge in this manner."

The custom of remitting punishments at the request of royalty is very old, originating in European military organizations. It was instituted at West Point soon after the academy was founded.

Fortune Given to A. C. Benson, British Writer, By an American Woman Friend He Never Met

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 12—The gift of a fortune by an American woman whom he never saw to A. C. Benson, the famous writer, was revealed today by the editor of Benson's Diary, just published here.

Attracted by his writing, the American woman, whose name is not disclosed, entered into correspondence with Mr. Benson and a long distance friendship sprang up between the two. In 1915, says Mr. Benson's editor, the woman offered to the writer the fortune, the amount of which also is not told, but he refused. The offer was repeated various times and finally Mr. Benson accepted it as a birthday present.

"His unseen friend," writes the editor, "during his later years held a place in the intimacy of his daily life which none else approached, for none else was so uninterruptedly his companion in everything he thought, did and planned to do."

But to the end the two never met. Their platonic relationship was all the more remarkable because the space separating them not only kept the friendship purely platonic but is also believed to have been the chief reason for keeping it alive, since Mr. Benson quarreled with most of his women friends and admitted himself to be something of a woman-hater.

Arthur Christopher Benson, the English essayist, biographer and literary critic, was born in 1862 and died on June 16, 1925. The son of Edward White Benson, Archbishop of Canterbury, he was a Fellow of Magdalene College, Cambridge, and a Master at Eton College for many years. In 1915 he was appointed Master of Magdalene College.

His literary ability was shown in his "Memoirs of Arthur Hamilton," published in 1886, and in his "Poems," collected in 1909. In 1907 with Viscount Esher he edited selections from the correspondence of Queen Victoria and was decorated by King Edward VII.

One of his brothers, Father Robert Hugh Benson, a convert to the Catholic Church, who was appointed Private Chamberlain to Pope Pius X in 1911, also had a career of letters. His other brother was the novelist Edward Frederick Benson. Their father was a writer of scholarly and ecclesiastical works.

BRITISH REPLY WITH HEAT.

Standard Declares America, Making Peace, Put Europe in a Bag.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—The English editorial writers continue to reply more or less heatedly to President Coolidge's Armistice Day address.

"Mr. Coolidge seems unable clearly to apprehend the nature of feeling in Europe," says today's Evening Standard. "It is not mere envy that poor peoples feel for a rich nation or that oppressed debtors entertain for a plethorically wealthy creditor.

"If European obligations to the United States had been incurred on a simple business basis, there would be no more to be said. But it must always be remembered that America, whatever the proportion of the part she played in waging the war, played an enormous part in making the peace.

"The peace was very largely an American affair. It was on American inspiration that the European powers were tied up—if we may be allowed the figure—like a bag of snakes. That was done on the assumption that America would play the part of the snake charmer in chief. That part she has refused."

LONDON, Nov. 12 (AP).—Commenting on President Coolidge's Kansas City speech, The Daily News says it is convinced that the United States "will be impelled before many years have passed not only to join directly in the work of the League of Nations, but to concern herself actively in the affairs of Europe, for the American people are building up great economic interests here which will make permanent isolation an impossibility."

The Daily Chronicle says:

"President Coolidge has a perfect right to be firm about payment of debts, but nothing is to be gained by debating the ethics of the matter. * * * The sooner the debt business can be settled and talk of it dropped, the sooner will mutual respect between the nations be restored."

LEAGUE OFFICIALS REGRET.

Some Think America Seeks to Dictate to Court Signatories.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company. Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Nov. 12.—The announcement by President Coolidge that he does not believe the United States will accept entrance to the World Court on the conditions laid down by the Court signatories at Geneva in September was received here today with regret, but not surprise. The American comment which had followed publication of the conditions had prepared Geneva for the worst.

But while there is general regret that the Court is thus robbed of the opportunity to realize the fullness of its possibilities, it is generally agreed that the time has not come for American participation as long as Washington expects to dictate to the agency which stands for international equity.

It is possible, but not probable, in view of the American declaration, that the question will be brought up before the December meeting of the Council by Lord Cecil, who originally proposed the September meeting of the signatories. It seems more likely that the suggestions of the conference will be executed and the formal reply of the American Government awaited as the basis of future action.

The suggestion was made by the Italian delegate, Signor Pelotti, and seconded by a number of delegates, that the United States should be asked if she would come in on an equal footing with other members before any definite efforts were made to find a formula to satisfy the Senate reservations. Regret was expressed by the delegates that Washington had not seen fit to send a representative to explain the fifth reservation. In view of these facts, it appears that the interested Governments will demand something definite to build on before they reconsider the problem.

Necessarily there is considerable resentment here over the American rejection of the conditions laid down by the signatories to the World Court. It is universally considered, outside the United States, that if the Senate is seeking a square deal in the fifth reservation she received satisfaction. The fact that she is not satisfied indicates, in opinion here, that she is seeking a superiority, which Sir George Foster of Canada from the first day strongly opposed giving her.

STATUS OF OUR RESERVATIONS

Only Seven Who Were at Geneva Conference Have Answered Us.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Five nations have communicated in writing to the State Department their outright acceptance of the American reservations to the World Court protocol of the League of Nations, while two others have signified to the Government their intention of adhering to these reservations, according to information obtained at the State Department here today.

The five nations which have accepted outright the reservations of the American Senate are, in the order of their acceptance: Cuba, Greece, Liberia, Albania and Luxemburg.

In addition Santo Domingo notified the Government in a note that it had instructed its representative at Geneva to "vote for" the American reservations, while Uruguay advised the State Department orally through its diplomatic representative at Washington that it favored acceptance of the American reservations, but that it would be necessary to obtain the ratification of the Legislature before formal acceptance could be made.

With the exception of Cuba, however, all of these nations attended the meeting of the Court members called at Geneva in September to consider the American reservations and the representatives of Albania, Luxemburg and Greece, which had previously accepted the American reservations in writing, then adhered to the Geneva resolution objecting to them.

Nine nations have neither attended the Geneva meeting nor replied to the American communication advising them of the American reservations. They are Abyssinia, Bolivia, Brazil, Chile, Colombia, Costa Rica, Haiti, Paraguay and Salvador.

MOSES APPROVES SPEECH.

"President Remains a Sterling American," Says Senator.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP).—Mixed feelings in which approval seemed to predominate were expressed today in Senatorial comment upon President Coolidge's declaration yesterday at Kansas City that American adherence to the World Court depended on acceptance of the Senate reservations.

"Fortunately for the country, the President remains a sterling American," said Senator Moses, Republican, of New Hampshire, a member of the Foreign Relations Committee.

"And no better occasion could have been found for the concluding declaration of the President's address than Armistice Day, which marked the culmination of American participation in foreign affairs," he added.

"The President's speech sets the index for the American attitude toward world events and I go with him in declaring that the deliberate action of the Senate in ratifying the protocol of the so-called World Court marks the limit of American entanglements in Old World politics."

Senator Walsh, Democrat, of Montana, who helped phrase the reservations and was a leader in the Senate fight for ratification, said: "The President's speech accurately expresses the attitude of the Senate."

Senator Swanson, Democrat, of Virginia, whose name is borne by the reservations, took virtually the same attitude as Senator Walsh.

DECLARES COOLIDGE PREACHES WAR GOSPEL

Dr. Moon of Columbia Tells New Jersey Teachers the President Undermines Cause of Peace.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 12.—Calling President Coolidge's Armistice Day speech inconsistent in its pretense of America's desire for peace, yet emphasizing her preparedness for war, Dr. Parker T. Moon, of the History Department of Columbia University, addressed the Social Science Department of the New Jersey State Teachers' Association at the Ambassador this afternoon.

"When a President, a Premier or a Dictator makes statements like those of our Chief Magistrate yesterday, he is undermining the cause of peace and preaching the gospel of war," said Dr. Moon. "With evident pride he said, 'Taken as a whole there is no better navy than our own in the world—that our army is not outmatched by any other like number of troops' and later, 'every time a liberty bond is retired, preparedness is advanced.' Also that we have two of the three necessities for the conduct of military operations, personnel and agricultural and industrial supplies, lacking only enough money to fight another war. When France reads that I wonder how she will feel about paying her debt to America? Pay it so that we could easily declare war on her. I can imagine her diplomats whispering. Yet, in face of this war talk, President Coolidge claims that we look to the arts of peace rather than war."

Dr. Moon characterized the so-called adjustment of Europe's debts to us, which was supposed to have been on the basis of relative paying power, as merely debt bargaining. He scouted the attitude that we had no part in European politics. "So long as our dollars are invested in Europe, we have a very real interest in Europe and are vitally affected by conditions as they exist from day to day over there," he said.

Dr. Herman H. Horne of New York University declared Mussolini's plan of education was undemocratic in that he intended to tell the Italian children what and how to think before the Department of Secondary Education. Dr. Horne outlined twenty-five points necessary in democratic teaching and laid special emphasis on training in how to think rather than what to think.

Dr. Charles Washburne, Superintendent of Schools of Winnetka, Ill., told the seventy-second annual convention of the Teachers' Association that "repeat" pupils were costing the public schools of the country a billion dollars.

The cost of having pupils cover work in eight years that they could do in seven is another billion dollars, and the two practices equal the total annual cost of education in the United States, Dr. Washburne declared. He said the figures were obtained by considering the value of elementary education at $1,500. The way to overcome this loss would be to care for the individual differences of the pupils, he said.

ETCHING OF HIMSELF A GIFT TO COOLIDGE

Painting of Battleship Fleet at Sydney and Indian Blanket Also Presents.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 12 (AP).—Federal Court machinery was employed today to enable President Coolidge to receive a copper etching of himself which hangs above the mantle in the Presidential suite at the Hotel President here.

President Coolidge admired the etching yesterday. Frank Dean, receiver for the hotel, regretted that legally he could not make the President a gift of the etching.

Today, Judge Albert S. Reeves, in whose court the receivership is pending, authorized the gift to the President and it will be forwarded immediately by E. A. Cleary, manager of the hotel. The etching is 11 by 24 inches.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 12 (AP).—An oil painting depicting the American battleship fleet at anchor in Sydney Harbor, Australia, during July, 1925, will be presented to President Coolidge at the White House Monday on behalf of the City of Sydney, N. S. W.

The presentation will be made by J. J. Rouse, managing director of the Eastman Kodak Company of Australia, a member of the Citizens' Committee appointed to entertain the American bluejackets.

The painting, some 6 by 8 feet in size, is the work of Chester Bryant, an Australian marine painter, and is intended to demonstrate the kindly feeling of Australia for this country.

Members of the British Embassy are to escort Mr. Rouse to the White House.

ON BOARD PRESIDENT COOLIDGE'S SPECIAL TRAIN, Nov. 12 (AP).—President Coolidge awoke today to find himself the possessor of a beautiful Indian blanket. The discovery puzzled him for a while. He recognized the robe as one of several that he and members of his party had used to keep themselves warm yesterday during the dedication exercises at the Liberty Memorial in Kansas City.

The question in the President's mind was whether the robe had been a gift or a loan. It proved to be the former, a present from an Osage Indian from Oklahoma, who made his way to the speakers' platform at the memorial, using his feathered war bonnet, in the absence of a ticket, as his credential.

WROTE COOLIDGE, HUNTED.

Eccentric Correspondent Calls On Prosecutor, Then Vanishes.

Saul J. Levi, who was a wholesale grocer in Schenectady, N. Y., until he retired a few years ago with a comfortable fortune, called on Assistant United States Attorney Isaac Gutman, yesterday at the latter's request. Levi, while under parole from a sanitarium, wrote friendly but incoherent letters to President Coolidge, Governor Smith and other prominent men, and was held in $1,000 bail.

It was decided to send him back to the sanitarium for further observation. When Levi arrived at Mr. Gutman's office he found the latter conferring with representatives of the postal and police departments and of the Schenectady Trust Company, the custodian of his property. He listened for a few minutes to the talk and then walked out. Later yesterday city and Federal officials were still looking for him. When he was arrested on the postal charge he lived in a furnished room in West Sixty-seventh Street.

FOREIGNERS SEE A CIRCUS.

Students from fifty-two foreign countries saw, many of them for the first time, the elements of an American circus last night in the International House, 124th Street and Riverside Drive. While the three rings, brass band and aerial trapezes were lacking, the atmosphere of "the big top" was unmistakable. Peanuts and pink lemonade were bought by the students and their wondering attention was further allured by side-shows, assorted "freaks" and "wild animals."

The circus, which will be repeated again tonight, is the first of the series of national nights presented monthly at International House by representatives of the different national groups living there. Besides refreshments, "freaks" and other features, last night's performance included tightrope walking, "bareback riding," a Wild West show and a "mellerdrammer," all given on the Assembly Hall stage. The "mellerdrammer" was written by a resident of the house and was advertised as having the "world's simplest plot—the hero loves the girl and the villain pursues them both." Fifteen clowns and a chorus of dancers performed.

Featured among the "freaks," which included a "human skeleton," a "wild man," a "midget," a "giant," a "bearded lady" and a "tattooed man" were two exhibits, called "a native of Esperanto" and "the latest Channel swimmer."

TAX REFUND PLAN OPPOSED IN HOUSE

Chairman Green Has Support in Ways and Means Committee Against Action Now.

UNIFORM CUT CRITICIZED

Representative Bacharach, However, Sees No Obstacle to Passage of Coolidge's Proposition.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Representative W. R. Green of Iowa, Chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means, who has wired members of the committee to be in Washington Monday, when the committee will take up various pending bills, indicated today that he was doubtful if any tax refund legislation such as proposed by the President and Secretary Mellon could be worked out satisfactorily.

On the other hand, Representative Isaac Bacharach of New Jersey, also a member of the committee, declared that he could see no obstacle to the passage of legislation such as had been suggested by President Coolidge.

Mr. Green's statement was generally interpreted as indicative of strong opposition to the refund plan not only by Democrats but by a considerable faction in the Administration line-up in the Senate as well as House. At least two Republican members of the Senate Finance Committee are known to look with disfavor on the propositions and it is understood that Mr. Green also has the support in committee of a considerable number of his Republican colleagues.

"My attention has been called to numerous propositions for the reduction of taxation," said Chairman Green. "Most of these propositions would be easy to adopt and would present little difficulty in execution. Their advisability is a different matter.

Suggests Payment of Public Debt.

"I have always considered that the time to pay off the public debt was when we were prosperous, and that some opportunity should be given for the reduction of taxes when business is depressed. Secretary Mellon has already made clear that the present surplus is largely caused by receipts from sources that will cease in whole or in a large part with the present fiscal year. It is evident, therefore, that this is no time for changes that are intended to be permanent.

"Such changes must wait until we have more definite information as to the receipts from the present law when it has reached a normal basis. Changes of this nature, however, would make it necessary to completely revise our revenue laws and the coming session is altogether too short for the purpose.

"A reduction of the tax payments of this calendar year by means of a refund could not, in my judgment, be made to work with any degree of either fairness or practicability and is not likely to be pressed. The plan of making a reduction in the payments of next year either on the personal income tax or that of corporations is workable, but if adopted there will be much conflict as to how such a reduction is to be applied.

"I have myself thought that the small corporations, the stockholders of which now are, in effect, paying more taxes than they would if doing business as copartnerships, ought to be the first to receive the benefit of any reduction that may be made. It has been persistently claimed during the hearings of the Ways and Means Committee that the corporation tax was 'passed on,' or shifted, to the ultimate consumer or user. If this be correct, the reduction of the tax would not benefit the corporations.

"However this may be as to the large corporations, it is not true as to the small ones, who have been suffering from the corporation tax, while the larger corporations have been enjoying unusual prosperity.

Opposes Uniform Percentage.

"I do not believe that a reduction of personal income taxes by a uniform percentage for all taxpayers can be made satisfactory. While it has been done before, and the original proposal was my own, the circumstances now are very different both as to the small taxpayer and those having the largest incomes.

"Necessarily, the disposition of the matters involving alien property, the claims of our citizens against Germany, and of German citizens for property appropriated directly by our Government will first engage the attention of the Ways and Means Committee. These matters present exceedingly difficult questions, as to which there is much diversity of opinion, and will in all probability occupy the attention of the committee up to the time Congress convenes."

In endorsing the refund suggestion of the Administration, Representative Bacharach said:

"Of course it is very gratifying to know that the country has been so prosperous during the year that, even with the very substantial reduction in taxes carried in the Revenue act of 1926, our revenue collections have been so large as to warrant the consideration of some further relief to the taxpayers at this time.

"However, as I understand it, the estimated surplus for the fiscal year will amount to approximately $250,000,000, of which amount about $100,000,000 is derived from the collection of back taxes, and it is expected that this source will not be so productive in future years. While the indications point to continued prosperity, no one can foretell what might happen in the next year, as approaching Presidential elections always have more or less effect upon industrial conditions. Therefore I do not believe it to be wise to attempt to write a new revenue law in the short session of Congress, or until we have given the present law a further test as to its productive powers.

"When the present revenue law was under discussion on the floor of the House I expressed the opinion that we could make a greater reduction than that contemplated in the bill without jeopardizing the Treasury with a deficit. I further stated that I was not in sympathy with the increase in the corporation tax, but, on the contrary, felt that the corporations should be given some relief, since the theory of corporation income tax was that its rate should correspond to the rate of normal tax on individual income.

Would Relieve Corporations First.

"There was also some criticism of the surtax rates on incomes falling in the brackets between $25,000 and $60,000 on the ground that those brackets did not receive their proportionate share of the reduction in the surtax. This was through no desire on the part of the committee to penalize those taxpayers who came within those brackets, but because it could not very well be worked out otherwise in the interest of simplicity in making the graduations applying to incomes running from above $10,000 at the lowest rate and reaching $100,000 at the 20 per cent rate.

"In fact, these two items were the only portions of the bill which drew forth real criticism, and if there is to be any tax reduction at this time I believe that it should apply to the calendar year 1926, and that it should be applied first to the relief of corporations by giving them the benefit of the 1 per cent. tax which was added to the corporation tax in the act of 1926.

"I see no reason why such relief could not be worked out along the lines suggested by the President. It is ridiculous to talk about a remission of the excise taxes that have been paid on tobacco, theatre admissions, &c. The consumer has already paid these taxes, and he would not benefit by any remission or credit that might be given at the source.

"Of course it is always well to bear in mind that the reduction of our public debt means an indirect reduction in taxes, it being estimated that every hundred million dollars applied to the public debt results in a saving of $3,750,000 in interest charges. Interest being paid out of revenues received from taxes, it naturally follows that the less interest we have to pay the less taxes we will have to pay."

ASK CITY AID TO RAZE KIOSK.

Merchants Fight Obstruction at Madison Avenue and 42d Street.

The Fifth Avenue Association sent a letter to Borough President Julius Miller of Manhattan, yesterday, urging him to bring about direct action by the city to remove the subway kiosk at the northeast corner of Forty-second Street and Madison Avenue. The association declared its presence required a ten-foot extension of the sidewalk, blocking trolley and vehicular traffic at one of the most congested corners in the city.

The association said that continued attempts to bring about the removal of the kiosk by negotiation had failed, and that the negotiations had been broken off when the Interborough Rapid Transit Company demanded a lump sum of $35,000 or a yearly credit of $2,000 on its lease agreement for space over its shuttle tracks, which it proposed to give a restaurant in the Liggett Building in return for space for a subway entrance within the building.

"We think it most unfair that a demand of this sort should be permitted to obstruct an important and vitally necessary public improvement," the association wrote.

PHILLIPS PLEA AGAIN DENIED

Appellate Division Refuses to Open Bank of United States Books.

Max and Abraham S. Phillips suffered another reverse in their fight to examine the books of the Bank of United States when the Appellate Division yesterday, without opinion, affirmed the order of Supreme Court Justice Joseph M. Proskauer denying their application.

The Phillips brothers had sought a mandamus compelling the bank to exhibit account books and records from 1919 to date. They charged that there had been misconduct and mismanagement of the affairs of the institution. Their suit, however, was characterized by counsel for the bank as part of a family quarrel.

Supporting the bank and contesting the application, a committee of stockholders representing 32,000 out of 40,000 shares, asked leave to intervene in the suit, attesting their confidence in the bank's management. Their motion to intervene, rejected by Justice Proskauer because he had already denied the Phillips's application, was also denied by the Appellate Division.

MEETS SISTER LONG LOST.

Canandaigua Woman Also Finds Mother After 37 Years' Separation.

CANANDAIGUA, N. Y., Nov. 12 (AP).—Sisters separated for thirty-seven years were united here today after discovering they had lived within six miles of each other for four years. One of them has found a mother whose name or identity she never knew, and also has located her father.

Mrs. Hugh Glazier of Canandaigua, who was left in an Auburn orphan asylum nearly forty years ago and later was adopted by a Marathon family, has found that Mrs. Charles Neal of Wolcott is her sister, and that their mother is Mrs. George Sheldon of Fulton. Their father is the Rev. Wallace Lee, who left his wife and children in Fairhaven, N. Y., to seek gold in the Klondike and who, informed that his wife was dead, had married again.

A few days ago Mrs. Glazier decided to try to locate her family. She obtained some information at the Auburn institution and went to Walcott, where she found her sister. The two then went to Fulton to visit their mother, and there Mrs. Glazier learned that her father was living in Los Angeles.

LANGLEY PAROLE HITS SNAG

Opposition on Ground of Vindication Complicates Situation.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP).—Opposition has developed to the granting of a parole for John Langley, former Representative from Kentucky, who is serving a term in Atlanta Penitentiary for violation of the liquor laws, and it is causing Attorney General Sargent some trouble in making a decision.

Langley, who was eligible for a parole in September, was recommended for release then by the Parole Board, but the proposal struck a snag. Some of those who must approve the parole recommendation are unfavorable toward it because Langley has maintained that he is innocent. Under these circumstances they feel a parole would give him vindication.

Mrs. Langley recently was elected to the seat in the House formerly held by her husband.

UPSHAW CRACKS A JOKE.

And Answers Report That He Will Be a Dry Official.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP).—Representative Upshaw, dry crusader of Georgia, who failed of renomination in the recent primaries, called today on Assistant Secretary Andrews, chief of the prohibition force.

When asked if he was going to be named a dry administrator, Mr. Upshaw replied:

"That reminds me of the old maid who declared, when she was asked if she was going to be married, that 'there is no truth in it, but thank God for the rumor.'"

Sentenced for $9,000 Hold-Up.

Special to The New York Times.

HACKENSACK, N. J., Nov. 12.—Leroy Simpson, a member of the robber gang that held up the paymaster of the Spencer Kellogg factory at Edgewater and stole $9,000 on March 15, 1922, was sentenced today by Justice W. M. Seufert in Hackensack to from eight to fifteen years in State Prison. Albert Corbett and Patrick Cannon, the other robbers, received ten to fifteen years shortly after the crime. Simpson was captured recently.

RUM RING ON LINERS SOUGHT BY ANDREWS

50 Agents Reported Sent Here—Whisky Seized on Orizaba; Four Stevedores Held.

LINK TO CREWS SUSPECTED

Ships of Two Lines Bring 10 to 100 Cases in Every Trip, It Is Said—Inquiry Pushed.

Fifty Federal prohibition agents, it was reported here yesterday, have been sent to New York from Washington to investigate complaints of the landing in New York of large quantities of whisky from the vessels of two well-known lines by stevedores working in a conspiracy with members of the lines' crews for a whisky syndicate.

The report became current shortly after the arrest of four stevedores and the seizure of whisky on the steamship Orizaba of the Ward Line while she was lying at Pier 14, off Maiden Lane, in the East River. The names of the stevedores and the amount of whisky seized were not made public, but Federal agents said the men were taken to the headquarters of their union at 164 Maiden Lane and that whisky was seized there also.

United States District Attorney Emory R. Buckner's office would not discuss the arrests and their reported connection with the activities of a syndicate which might be landing liquor in the city, but it was learned that James A. Farmer, an Assistant District Attorney, had been placed in charge of the investigation with the fifty prohibition agents from Washington.

Mr. Farmer would not discuss the investigation either. Another Federal official alleged that employes of two ship lines "never come into port without unloading from 10 to 100 cases of liquor" and that an organization of stevedores has been used to get them ashore. The stevedores, it was said, carried the whisky off the boats a few bottles at a time in their clothing, and, according to the complaint made to the Government, so many men were employed in the task that a large number of prohibition agents would be needed to apprehend them.

The investigation, it was said, has not indicated that any official or any master of the two lines has been aware of liquor smuggling on their vessels. The inquiry has been made quietly and so far, it was also said, has not led to the person who might be the director of the so-called syndicate. None of the four men arrested was arraigned. They were only questioned and then paroled in the custody of the prohibition agents.

One Federal official said that the prohibition enforcement officers had known for some time that the prohibition law was violated by members of the crews of the Ward and other lines, and that recently they received a tip which led to the Orizaba.

"As a matter of fact," he said, "lacking the concrete information we now have, we did not consider that we had the time, with so many other pressing cases, to go into these violations. But we are investigating thoroughly and expect to show that a rum syndicate of real proportions has been operating in this way in comparative safety for a long time."

RESTRAINS DRY OFFICERS.

Brooklyn Warehouse Where Liquor Is Kept Gets Temporary Stay.

Harris Mires, Deputy Commissioner of Accounts and Collection in the Internal Revenue Department, and agents of the Department of Justice conferred yesterday with United States Attorney De Groot in Brooklyn regarding the Keap Warehouses, Inc., 181-207 Melrose Street, Brooklyn. The warehouses, where $6,000,000 in whisky was stored, recently were taken over by Federal agents. Later counsel for the warehouses obtained a temporary injunction restraining the Government from interfering with their business.

Although Mr. De Groot and Mr. Mires were reticent about the conference, it was learned that it is probable that the names of prominent persons in Brooklyn will be involved during the Government's investigation. The officials allege that there are 5,500 barrels and 50,000 cases of whisky in the warehouses upon which no tax has been paid.

When the Federal agents took over the warehouses it was announced that the action was the result of "mishandling" of the liquor, which is owned by numerous corporations and individuals. Following the seizure, the injunction restraining the Government was obtained from Judge Inch on the ground that the Federal agents had entered the place without due warrant, and also had seized the books of the corporation.

The warehouses named as defendants in their action for an injunction David H. Blair, Commissioner of Internal Revenue; Warren G. Price, Collector of Internal Revenue, and Major Chester P. Mills, Prohibition Administrator for this district. Major Mills said the seizure was the biggest on record and that the investigation had by no means ended.

It was said at the Federal Building in Brooklyn yesterday that Government representatives had discovered that many barrels listed on the records as having been filled with whisky were actually full of other liquids. This condition is alleged to have existed for some time. Officials of the warehouses corporation said they knew nothing of the contents of the barrels being other than as listed, as they had no interest in them except to store them for their owners.

ANDREWS ANGERS WILLIS.

"Unseemly Haste" of a Dry Appointment Annoys Senator.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 12.—Senator Frank B. Willis has written a letter, highly critical in tone, to Lincoln C. Andrews, Federal Prohibition Administrator, concerning the appointment of William H. Walker of Hillsboro, Ohio, as administrator for the Ohio-Michigan district. Walker succeeded Judge E. L. Porterfield of Delaware on the day of Porterfield's death this week.

Senator Willis does not question the character of the appointment, but only the manner in which it was made. He admitted that the letter protests against the "unseemly and undue haste" of the appointment.

Neither Senator Willis nor Senator S. D. Fess was consulted.

A decree of friction seems to be developing between Willis and the Coolidge Administration. The President is understood to have directed that he did not wish to be made the issue in Ohio when Willis opened his campaign for re-election.

Ukraine Labor Chief, 110, On the Job for 97 Years

KREMENCHUG, Ukraine, Nov. 12 (AP).—Ivan Shtcherbin, who is 110 years old and has served under five Czars, today was appointed Chairman of the Permanent Congress of Building Workers.

Shtcherbin has been on the job for the past ninety-seven years and is declared never to have missed a single day. The Czars he served under were Alexander I, Nicholas I, Alexander II, Alexander III and Nicholas II. He took part in one capacity or another in every war engaged in by Russia for the last ninety years.

The aged Russian has been married four times and has twenty-six living children.

MARK RAFALSKY SUED ON FLORIDA LAND DEALS

Chicago Realtor Asks $5,000,000 and Damages—Says Parcels Did Not Carry Clear Titles.

A suit to recover $5,000,000 alleged to have been paid by him in a fraudulent land speculation in Florida and for damages caused by the venture, will be begun in the Federal Court today by G. Frank Croissant, a real estate operator of Chicago, against Mark Rafalsky, who operates in realty in Florida. The summons was served yesterday.

The plaintiff is the trustee of a trust called the Croissantania Boca Raton Syndicate. He says in the complaint that about Sept. 1, 1925, the defendant along with Robert Boyland, his chauffeur, and others, conspired to make "pretended and fictitious" purchases of land.

It was during the period when all Florida land was thought capable of being marketed at high prices. The complaint says that the plaintiff paid about $700,000 for 2,700 acres of land, and spent in the neighborhood of $2,000,000 in improvements. It is alleged that after parcels of this land had been placed on the market and sold to many persons for a total of about $1,500,000 it was learned that clear titles could not be given.

The plaintiff says he was told that if he would pay another $400,000 the titles would be cleared and other agreements in the contract would be granted. The plaintiff says that the failure of the defendant to keep his pledges caused the failure of all of his plans and the loss of the money spent in carrying them out.

Mr. Croissant is represented by James P. Timoney, a lawyer of 256 Broadway; Darrow and Darrow, Smith, Cronson and Smith and Joseph I. Roach of Chicago.

JUDGE PLATT'S ESTATE VALUED AT $750,000

Westchester Jurist's Will Names Widow and Son as His Sole Heirs.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Nov. 12.—Under the terms of the will of the late William Popham Platt, Supreme Court Justice in the Ninth Judicial District, who died in White Plains on Nov. 2, his entire estate goes to his wife, Sara Dean Platt, and Stuart Dean Platt, a son, in equal shares.

They are also made executrix and executor, respectively. Although the transfer tax affidavit says that Justice Platt left real and personal property worth "over $40,000," his estate is said to total $750,000.

Not long before his death, Justice Platt sold a business building on Main Street, White Plains, for $350,000 and other real estate for $250,000. The will, filed with Surrogate Slater of Westchester, was signed on July 29, 1924.

STATE RADIUM IS URGED.

Massachusetts Health Officer Wants $120,000 Worth.

BOSTON, Nov. 12 (AP).—An appropriation of $120,000 to buy two grams of radium for the treatment of cancer will be asked of the incoming Legislature by the Department of Public Health. An additional yearly appropriation of $10,000 for a period of ten years to provide for the care of the radium and for the extraction, purification and distribution of the radioactive substances also will be requested.

Dr. George H. Bigelow, Commissioner of Public Health, said today that similar legislation had been opposed in the past owing to the lack of assurance that it would reach persons competent to use it. He pointed out, however, that "the Commonwealth within a few months will be admitting cancer patients to the Norfolk Hospital, where radium will be needed and where it will be adequately supervised. In addition the cancer clinic service, which is being extended over the State as rapidly as sound service is assured will need radium in increasing amounts."

GATTI AND ALDA IN DENIAL.

Both Declare There Is No Truth in Report of Separation.

Mme. Frances Alda emphatically denied at her home in Great Neck, L. I., yesterday a published report that she and her husband, Giulio Gatti-Casazza, general manager of the Metropolitan Opera Company, had separated.

"There is absolutely no truth in the report," said Mme. Alda. "It isn't true—it isn't true," she kept repeating.

Mme. Alda then explained that she and her husband had been forced to give up their apartment in town, after long residence there, as the building was to be torn down, and she was at present occupying her new country house at Great Neck.

Denial was also made by Mr. Gatti-Casazza at the Metropolitan. He said he was living at the Hotel Plaza so as to be near the opera house, and that his living in town and Mme. Alda in the country was a perfectly amicable arrangement.

Iowa-New Yorkers Give Dinner.

Former Iowans now residents of New York and members of Iowa-New Yorkers, an organization that recently established its permanent headquarters in the club division of Town Hall, celebrated this event last night with a dinner and entertainment. Several hundred members attended. Mrs. Austin Norman Palmer presided. Mrs. Hector Geiger of California spoke of the California residents who came from Iowa and who aggregate 60,000. S. G. Goldthwaite, editor of The Daily News Republican, Boone, Iowa, was another speaker.

URGES US TO LEAD IN OUTLAWING WAR

Good-Will Congress Advocates That We Call Nations Together to Accept World Court.

SCHOOL DRILLING OPPOSED

League Advised to Clear Way for Our Entry by World Alliance at Pittsburgh Meeting.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 12 (AP).—A program of principles forming a basis of unity "in which all lovers of peace may work together" for a warless world was adopted by the World Alliance for International Friendship Through the Churches at the closing session of its Good-Will Congress.

Foremost in the program was a provision for a "frontal attack" against war by making it a crime under the law of nations.

"To this end," the program read, "we urge that America take the lead and call an international conference for the purpose of adopting a universal treaty in which the nations shall forswear their ancient right of waging war and agree to submit their disputes to the Permanent Court of International Justice, and shall provide for this court a code of international law of peace whose primary status outlaws war and defines military aggression as a crime."

A plea for harmony among advocates of international disarmament and world peace was made by Professor James T. Shotwell of New York.

"In the past we have spent ourselves in mutual quarrels even more than in the attack upon the war system," said Professor Shotwell, who is director of the division of economics and history of the Carnegie Institute for International Peace.

A gloomy picture of international relations was given by Dr. John R. Mott of New York, General Secretary of the National Council, Young Men's Christian Association.

The entire atmosphere of the world is still surcharged with distrust, he said, and "there is a growing dissatisfaction over treaties, particularly in the Orient." A ray of hope for the future, he added, was to be found in the fact that people all over the world are humble and teachable to a degree and that a surging tide of vitality is drawing them together.

Other sections of the program of the alliance dealt with the World Court, the League of Nations, disarmament and education. The World Court was declared a "practical step" for the settlement of disputes between nations on the basis of law instead of war, and the President was urged "to continue looking toward membership in the Court under conditions satisfactory to the American people."

Urging that the United States cooperate more effectively in the activities of the League of Nations, the program also suggested that the League "take appropriate steps to modify its structure and covenant so as to leave the United States no valid excuse for remaining outside."

While of the opinion that adequate solution of the disarmament problem must await outlawing of war, the alliance stressed that "every practical step should be taken to relieve the nations of the enormous burden of military armament."

Opposition was voiced in another section to military training in all public and high schools and all compulsory training in non-military colleges and universities.

All officers of the alliance, headed by Dr. William P. Merrill of New York, pastor of the Brick Church, were re-elected. Nashville, Tenn., extended an invitation for the next congress, but selection of the city was left with the Executive Committee.

Sues for Libel in Shenandoah Case.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP).—An echo of the famous naval inquiry into the disaster to the airship Shenandoah was heard in the District of Columbia Supreme Court today, when Captain Paul Foley, Judge Advocate of the Court of Inquiry, entered suit for $100,000 for libel against The Washington Times. He objected principally to a cartoon bearing on the investigation.

several Senators who voted for America's entry into the Court have signified their intention of supporting a resolution withdrawing the resolution of adherence. Among them are Trammell of Florida and Gooding of Idaho. Arthur F. Gould, recently nominated in the Maine Republican primaries to succeed the late Senator Fernald, declared in his platform that he was opposed to the League of Nations and the World Court. The new Senate, which meets a year from next December, is regarded as more opposed to the World Court than is the present body.

The President's train reached St. Louis last night just before midnight. During the daylight trip the train crossed Indiana, Ohio and Pennsylvania. The usual station crowds appeared anxious to see the President and Mrs. Coolidge. At some of the stations school children, accompanied by their teachers, lined the platforms and railroad tracks, despite the early morning hour, and waved flags and cheered. Terre Haute was reached early this morning. There Secretary Sanders left the train to spend a few days at his old home.

When Coshocton, Ohio, was reached the train slowed down and permitted the crowd to see the President and Mrs. Coolidge, who came out on the observation platform and waved their hands. At Columbus, where a short stop was made, Mrs. J. L. Craft, 73 years old, rushed up and shook hands with Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge. At Pittsburgh, early in the afternoon, a number of policemen and railroad employes greeted the party.

The President, who varied the monotony of the journey by playing records on a phonograph, especially desired to see the famous Horseshoe Bend, near Altoona, and when the train reached that spot a special stop was made to enable him and Mrs. Coolidge to go to the observation platform and view the scenery.

Cheer Mrs. Coolidge From Windows.

When the train stopped at Altoona for five minutes the largest crowd of the journey, numbering nearly 5,000, was gathered in the square facing the station. A band played patriotic music, while hundreds of girls looked down on the scene from the office of the Pennsylvania Railroad. When Mrs. Coolidge raised her hands toward them applause broke forth, which she acknowledged with a bow.

Representative J. Banks Kurtz of Altoona and a welcoming committee presented a bouquet of roses to Mrs. Coolidge. The President spoke two words.

"First rate," he said when he was told the band was composed of high school students.

Vermont Turkey for Dinner.

When the President reached Harrisburg tonight at 8:30 o'clock the train shed and station were filled with people. The President and Mrs. Coolidge appeared on the platform and acknowledged the plaudits of the crowd.

Frederick Guhl, the veteran traveling chef of the Pennsylvania Railroad, had a surprise for Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge at dinner tonight. A Vermont turkey with chestnut dressing and Cape Cod cranberry sauce was served in the Presidential dining car.

By order of the President, canvasback duck was served at dinner tonight for the members of his staff, Colonel Cheney, Captain Brown, and his personal physician, Major James F. Coupal. The duck was one of two presented to the President by Vice President Eysmans of the Pennsylvania Railroad. The President and Mrs. Coolidge ate its companion yesterday.

President Back in Capital.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—The President and Mrs. Coolidge and those who accompanied them to Kansas City reached Washington tonight at 11:30 o'clock on the special train which had carried them on the long journey eastward. There was no crowd at Union Station when the Presidential party arrived. The President and Mrs. Coolidge went immediately to the White House.

HARVARD STUDENTS ASK PARLEY ON RIFT

Undergraduate Council Writes Princeton Board Suggesting a Meeting Next Month.

APOLOGIZES FOR LAMPOON

Regrets "Bad Manners" of Comic, but Admits Ill Feeling in Football Existed.

GRIDIRON PROGRAM IN DOUBT

Dartmouth Looked On as Possible Successor to Tiger in 1927—Mid-West Team Hope of Some.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 12.—A letter was sent today from the Student Council of Harvard to the President of the Senior Council of Princeton suggesting that representative undergraduate groups of the two universities meet early next month to confer on the break between the two institutions.

This overture closely follows the sentiments expressed yesterday in a statement made by Howard Elliott, President of the Board of Overseers of Harvard University. Mr. Elliott, speaking from the point of view of an officer and an alumnus of Harvard, expressed his regret at the break between Harvard and Princeton and suggested that through some official group at Harvard a meeting between the two colleges should be arranged, at which representatives from both institutions could "sit down in good temper and talk over things and arrange for a resumption of the cordial relations that have existed between Harvard and Princeton for fifty years."

Letter Sent by Harvard.

The communication from the Harvard body to Princeton today follows:

Nov. 12.

Joseph Prendergast,
President, Senior Council, Princeton.

Dear Sir:

I received your letter of the 8th on Nov. 11, and on meeting with the Harvard Student Council the following suggestion was drafted: In answer to your letter of Nov. 8, I wish to be absolutely frank, as you request. While the Student Council regrets the bad manners of The Lampoon editorial and while the undergraduate body as a whole would never have expressed their feelings in this way, it is only fair to say that there has been a recognizable element of bad feeling in our football relations for some time.

This bad feeling, which we regret as much as you do, demands some sort of frank and open discussion. Our council suggests that a representative committee be appointed by each council to meet early next month to enter into a complete and frank discussion of the grievances of each university. We feel that only by such means can an intimate and satisfactory agreement be made.

In any case, we sincerely hope that the action of your Board of Athletic Control in closing the Harvard relations will in no way affect the cooperation of our student bodies in those things in which we have always stood side by side.

Sincerely yours,
LEO F. DALEY,
President Harvard Student Council.

This letter was sent to the Princeton council in reply to a letter sent from Joseph Prendergast, President of the Princeton body, to the Harvard Student Council. The Prendergast letter was dated Nov. 8, but because of a wrong address did not reach Harvard until Nov. 11, after the break between the colleges had been made. In his letter Prendergast asked of the Harvard Council a "definite expression" of feeling on Harvard's part.

Policy Is "Watchful Waiting."

Except for this letter from the Harvard council there were no further visible developments at Cambridge on the recent rupture. Spokesmen in various branches of the university were silent today in regard to the matter. Their policy seems to be one of "watchful waiting" for further action from Princeton.

Questioned today regarding a successor to Princeton on the 1927 Harvard football calendar, Director of Athletics William J. Bingham had nothing to say, but it is expected that arrangements for this date will be concluded within the next ten days.

There have been rumors here to the effect that Dartmouth would replace Princeton on the Crimson schedule. Although Director Bingham has not openly denied this possibility, it is considered very doubtful by others in authority here. It is expected that if the breach between Harvard and Princeton is not healed within a short time Harvard will not pick out any one college to take the Tiger's place, but rather will adopt a policy of shifting the game from year to year.

Because of its position on the schedule, near the end of the football season, it is expected that the college chosen will be one whose gridiron strength will merit such a place on the schedule. Some interested persons look forward to the announcement of a midwestern team to take Princeton's place.

The college ruling on the matter of games played away from Cambridge allows one contest each season to be played abroad. This circumstance lends strength to the belief that the new game, when it is announced, will be played away from Cambridge.

FAVORS HARVARD PROPOSAL.

Princeton Council Member Thinks Body Will Attend Parley.

Frank Peabody of Newark, member of the Princeton Senior Council and editor of The Daily Princetonian, when informed of the invitation to a discussion, mailed last night by the President of the Harvard student body, expressed the belief that Princeton would be glad to attend such a conference at any date Harvard might name.

"We always doubted whether the Lampoon expressed the majority opinion of Harvard," Peabody told The Associated Press over the telephone, "and Mr. Daley's reply to our letter of the 8th indicates that it was not the sentiment of the majority."

"We do not feel, however, he added, "that things can be patched up at this time. It must be admitted that bad feeling does exist and that it cannot be smoothed over with a gesture.

"But we do feel and hope that in time such a conference might be conducive to an eventual resumption of relations."

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 12 (AP).—Dr. Charles W. Kennedy, Chairman of the Princeton Board of Athletic Control, declined tonight to make any statement regarding the action of the Harvard Student Council in inviting the Princeton Senior Council to a "frank discussion" of the grievances of both universities.

"I have no comment to make," said Dr. Kennedy when informed of the Harvard proposals.

Joseph Prendergast, President of the Princeton Senior Council, and other members of that body could not be reached. It was explained that Prendergast, a member of the football squad, was asleep and, according to athletic rules, could not be disturbed.

PRINCETON'S MIND DIVERTED.

Breach Replaced in Campus Talk by Today's Game With Yale.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 12.—On the eve of the fiftieth annual football game between Yale and Princeton, undergraduate discussion here turned from the athletic split between Harvard and Princeton to tomorrow's football game.

The break in Harvard-Princeton athletic relations became a dead issue on the Princeton campus for the day. The Daily Princetonian referred to the break editorially, only to look to the future and forget the past.

The editoriel opens:

"The ehonting and the tumnit of the Harvard misunderstanding have passed into the realm of the past. The incident to all events and purposes may he regarded as closed."

The editorial turns to the game with Yale, euggesting that there is no cause for overconfidence on the part of Princeton.

Members of the Board of Athletic Control have declined to add anything to what they have already said.

'FOES' MINGLE AT NEW HAVEN.

Princeton and Harvard Men Fraternize at Triangular Run.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 12.—Princeton and Harvard men fraternized pleasantly today at the cross-country meet of Harvard, Princeton and Yale at New Haven. The members of the three teams ran side hy eide over the Yale hill and dale course at New Haven, and later joined in a reception and tea given in the Lapham Club House by the Yale Track Athletic Association, at which Mrs. J. H. Smith of Louisville, mother of the Yale captain, and several Kentucky girls, were hostesses.

Yale will continue to work quietly for the restoration of the triple athletic alliance with Harvard and Princeton. No announcement will be made of methods or even progress, but scores of alumni of national prominence in husiness and professional life have already begun contacts with Harvard or Princeton graduates to urge them to strive for a reorganization of the triangular agreement. The future of American intercollegiate sport is believed at Yale to be vitally at stake.

Yale University officials would not discuss tonight a report of a new big four consisting of Yale, Harvard, Dartmouth and Brown, hut admitted that no one would be left unturned to bring Harvard and Princeton together again. At present their efforts are centring upon a continuance of scheduled sports of Harvard and Princeton.

DEMOCRATS WON'T RULE WATER POWER

Governor Smith Will Reappoint Republican to Board Under Reorganization Plan.

SHULER MAY BE TREASURER

Graves Likely to Be Assistant to Governor—State Secretary Not to Be an Active Politician.

The State Water Power Commission, even after reorganization of ths administrative departments of the State under the Hughes plan, will continue, nominally at least, under Republican control. This was learned yesterday when word came that Governor Smith would reappoint Commissioner Alexander Macdonald, a Republican, of Franklin County, as head of the Conservation Department.

Commissioner Macdonald will become titular head of the new Water Power Commission, which will he an even more important body under reorganization then at present, as it will take over the functions of the so-called Water Control Commission and the River Regulating Board as well. The commission will have three members. Attorney General Albert Ottinger, also a Republican, will he a member, and Colonel Frederick Green, Commissioner of Public Works, and a Democrat, will be the other.

It was said yesterday that the only thing that might interfere with the reappointment of Mr. Macdonald would be his alliance with other Republican members of the present Water Power Commission and vote for the granting of a lease on the St. Lawrence for hydroelectric development to either of the big private corporations now bidding for such a concession. There le no reason to believe that he will do thie, however, as Mr. Macdonald consistently has been in the Governor's corner in any controversy over power or other matters in his department.

To Have Full Veto Fewer.

Under the operation of the Hughes plan, the Governor will be able to exercise absolute veto power over hydroelectric concessions, as his signature will be necessary on every certificate granting snch a concession, to make it effective.

Attorney General Ottinger returned to this city from Albany yesterday. He was asked what prospect there was of Governor Smith's reqnest being heeded and action on the proposed St. Lawrence concession deferred until after Jan. 1.

"I do not know what they are going to do," said the Attorney General, who bas been a strong advocate of the plan, opposed by Governor Smith, providing for development of the State's water-power resources hy private corporations under rigid Stats supervision involving regulation of rates and control of the financing of such projects.

"Do you think a lease granted by the State commission would be valid without prior sanction from ths Federal Power Commission and the Canadian commission, whose consent must be obtained in this matter?" Mr. Ottinger was asked.

"What is the use of stirring up controversy where there may be no controversy?" the Attorney General rejoined.

"What chance is there that the Republicans may cooperate with Governor Smith in the matter of power development?" he was asked.

"I am not prepared to say anything about that," Mr. Ottinger replied. "It will he for the Legislature to decide what policy shall he pursued with regard to water power development."

Must Name State Secretary.

Governor Smith will have several places to dispose of after reorganization is effected. One of the most important will be that of Secretary of State, who will take over the functions of the present elective official and new activities which will be merged into the office.

The incumbent le a woman, Mrs. Florence E. S. Knapp of Syracuse. It was reported some time ago that Governor Smith would name a woman as her successor. It has been learned, however, that the appointee will be a man who has not heen actively identified with politics.

Under the reorganization, the Governor will not, as now, be head of the Executive Department, which under the new plan will be headed hy an "Assistant to the Governor." George Graves, Secretary to the Governor and a Republican, is slated for this important position.

Major George K. Shuler, who served one term as State Treasurer, probahly will be appointed State Treasurer. He would then be head of the Bureau of Finance in the Department of Taxation and Finance. Mr. Shuler was a candidate for the Democratic nomination as State Controller and had the backing of many up-State Democrats. The place on the ticket, however, went to Morris Tremaine of Buffalo. For a time friends of Major Shuler threatened to fight Mr. Tremaine in the convention. But the movement quickly subsided and it is now understood, as a result of pledges, that Mr. Shuler was to he appointed State Treasurer if Governor Smith was re-elected.

Joseph H. Wilson, director of the Board of Estimete and Control, will be appointed Director of the Budget. The board goee out of existence under the new plan.

Democrats Will Gain Board.

After Feh. 1, 1927, the Public Service Commission, which is continued under reorganization, will pase from Republican control. The commission ie now composed of three Republicane and two Democrats. A Democrat will be named hy the Governor to succeed Commissioner Charles Van Voorhie of Rochester, whose term will expire on that date.

Colonel Greene will have the appointment of a head of the new Engineering Division, who will be known as State Engineer. It was said yesterday that this important position probahly would he filled by promotion of one of the engineers in the department.

George E. Brower of Brooklyn, whose term ae a memher of the State Atnletic Commission will expire Jan. 1, probably will be reappointed. The other members, James A. Farley of Rockland County, wbo is Chairman, and William Muldoon of Westchester, have until Jan. 1, 1928, to serve.

WADSWORTH SPENT $5,855 IN CAMPAIGN

Others Reporting Outlay Include Brookhart, $598, and Williams of Missouri, $5,600.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP).—Smith W. Brookhart, Iowa Repnblican insurgent, spent $598 to regain a seat in the Senate from which he was banished early this year in the election contest brought by Daniel F. Steck, Democrat, he reported today to the Senate Secretary. This total was less than one-third of the amount spent by Brookhart's Democratic opponent, Claud R. Porter, who listed expenditures of $1,951 during the general election campaign.

Senator Wadsworth, Repuhlican, New York, who was defeated by Robert F. Wagner, Democrat, spent $5,855.

Other expenditures reported were Senator Williams, Republican, unsuccessful in Missouri, $5,600; Senator Willis, victor in Ohio, $1,000; Senator Bingham, Republican, re-elected in Connecticut, $2,530; Senator Curtis of Kansas, the Republican leader, spent $377 and received no contributions in his campaign. Atlee Pomerene, Democratic candidate of Ohio, who was defeated, reported expenditures of $3,001 and no contributions, while Senator Nye, successful Republican of North Dakota, reported expenditures of $902 with no contributions. Senator Fletcher, Democrat, Florida, reported expenditures of $14.38 and no contributions.

MOORE TO NOMINATE DEAR.

Will Ask Senate to Confirm Editor as Lay Judge in Appeals.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 12.—Joseph A. Dear of Jersey City, a Repuhlican, will be nominated by Governor Moore for confirmation hy the Senate to succeed Walter P. Gardner, also of Jersey City, who resigned recently as a lay Judge of the Court of Errors and Appeals. The place pays $40 for each day in court work. The appointment will be made Monday when the Legislature reassembles. Mr. Dear is part owner and managing editor of The Jersey City Journal.

A. S. GILBERT QUITS ANTI-KOENIG CLUB

Believes It Failed to Support Mills—Wanted Fight Kept Within the Party.

SMITH SUPPORT IS DENIED

Republican County Club Leaders Insist Members Worked for Their Own Nominees.

Abraham S. Gilbert has resigned as President and member of the New York County Republican Club, which he organized last Spring to bring about a reorganization of the local Republican organization hy the deposition of County Chairman Samuel S. Koenig, it was learned yesterday.

Mr. Gilbert's resignation followed a long continued disagreement of the officers as to the policy to be pursued, and was said to have been brought about directly by the failure of the Fifteenth Assembly District, in which Ogden L. Mille has his home and which was considered the one certain Republican district in Manhattan, to he for Mr. Mills at the last election. Mr. Gilbert also was reported to believe that some members of the New York County Republican Club living in this district voted against Mr. Mills as a protest against Mr. Koenig's leadership thereby deviating from his policy which has been to make the fight for reorganization entirely within the Republican Party.

"It is true that I have resigned from the New York County Republican Club," Mr. Gilbert said when asked about the report. "My reasons for resigning are stated in a letter to the Board of Directors of the club. Tbey are at liberty to make the letter public if they so desire.

"My resignation must not be construed as indicating any change of views on my part so far as the necessity for party reorganization is concerned."

The Fifteenth Assembly District gave a plurality of about 1,500 for Governor Smith at the last election, but vigorous denial that Mr. Mills's failure to carry the district was due to lack of support by members of the clnb was made hy Joseph W. Spencer, its secretary, and former State Senator Schuyler M. Meyer, both of whom are residents of this district.

"I am an election district captain in the Fifteenth," Mr. Spencer said. "I worked all Election Day for Mr. Mille and the entire Republican ticket. Thsre is no truth in the charge that the members of the clnh worked against Mr. Mills. So far as Mr. Gilbert's letter is concerned, I see no reason why I should make it puhlic as long as he has not done so."

"Mr. Mills's failure to carry the Fifteenth was due to other causes," Mr. Meyer said. "No Republican candidate for Governor has carried the district against Governor Smith in any campaign. Ths Republican business men in the district generally preferred Governor Smith and that was all there was to it. Personally, I worked for the entire Repuhlican ticket and was in charge of Senator Courtlandt Nicoll's campaign in ths Seventeenth Assembly District."

Mr. Spencer said he did not know just when a meeting of the clnb to elect Mr. Gilbert's successor would be held, but said that the clnb and the movement it stood for would continue. "We are informed that there is a great deal of dissatisfection with the result of the election within the county Repuhlican organization," he said. "We may make a canvass of the members of the Republican County Committee to determine just how widespread this sentiment is."

It was learned that Mr. Koenig's political foes had decided to adopt a waiting policy for the present in the hope that a reorgnization of the party in the State might lead to a reorganization of the party in the city. Charles D. Hilles, National Committeeman, it was learned, had been approached on the matter of how the party in the State could best be put in shape for the 1928 Presidential campaign and was now engaged in discussions with party leaders, both in the city and up-State. The members of the New York County Republican Club, it was said, would await the result of these conferences before renewing any campaign against Mr. Koenig.

SENATOR-ELECT WALSH SCORES VOTE BUYING

He Says It Was in Evidence in Bay State—Wants Curb on Campaign Funds.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., Nov. 12.—The necessity for imposing a legal restraint on the amount of money that can he spent hy a man or a party in an election was urged this evening hy Senator-elect David I. Wash, speaking at the victory dinner of the Liberal Civic League at the Hotel Bellevue. The Senator-elect also discussed the desirability of proportional representation.

Opening his address with an expression of appreciation of the efforts of the league and county workers in his hehalf during the recent campaign, Mr. Walsh spoke of the evidences shown since election of the widespread joy with which hie return had heen received by members of his party and independents in Massachusetts and elsewhere.

"The victory was not a personel one," he declared, "it was a victory for the average man and woman of this Sate, for liberalism and progress against reaction and standpatism."

In connection with the limitation of campaign expenditures, he declared it his belief that the Government should, before each election, print a pamphlet in which each candidate had a chance to set down his record and his views on questions of importance.

Quoting Senator Frederick H. Gillett, hie successful opponent of two years ago, who said the expenditure of millions was not too much for the education of the public, Mr. Walsh declared the expense of educating the public should be borne by the Government instead of being made a source of political expenditure. He said an extravagant use of money had cheracterized the recent Republican campaign and that, had he been a new man, without a record to help him, he would have been helpless against it. The Government printing of a pamphlet, he said, would be merely following the practice used by large corporations in their elections at present.

"The effect of money spent on campaigns is evident in the recent Pennsylvsnia and Illinois elections," he declared. "There were evidences of it here too."

He reiterated the charges of vote buying in New Bedford and referred to the thousande of telegrams sent out by Senator Butler there the night hefore election.

"Your enthusiasm in this campaign," he concluded, "was worth more than money. It had something of the spirit seen on a football field. This election came from the great rank and file of average men and women in this State. The break has come in the period of reaction which set in after the war, and the liberal, progressive spirit is again on the move throughout the country."

SPANISH NOBLEWOMAN, KING'S FRIEND, ARRIVES

Marquesa de Belmonte Brings Son, Who Will Be Educated Here, and Daughter.

The Marquesa de Belmonte de la Vega Real, personal friend of King Alfonso XIII of Spain and members of one of the oldest families of the Spanish nobility, arrived yesterday aboard the Spanish Royal Mail liner Manuel Arnus. She said she had come here to arrange for the education of her son José. According to friends, she promised her husband when he died that their son would be educated in this country.

"We both feit that the only way to fit a young man for the conditions of modern life is to send him to an American university," said the Marquesa. "Ths educational system in this country is ths best in the world and I want my son to have the benefit of it. It is with great regret that I leave my own country for a period of time, but I feel thet it is necessary if I am to give my son the best opportunities I can."

In addition to her son, José Llamport, the Marquesa was accompanied by her daughter Mathilde. She and her daughter will conduct an investigation of American educational institutions for women. The survey is to he the basis for working out a more modern system of education for women in Spain.

Three members of the Spanish Army were also passengers aboard the ship. They are Captain Emilio Lopez Lettona, Captain José Cabanillas Prosper and Captain the Marquis de Trujillos. They brought with them six horses valued at approximately $15,000 to enter in a horse show on Long Island.

Two sons and Marichu, the daughter, of Alejandro Pedilla, Spanish Ambassador to the United States, were also aboard the liner on their way to Washington, where they will stay with their father, who went down the bay to meet them.

CATHOLICS ENTER PROTEST.

Oppose Creation of a Federal Department of Education.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 12 (AP).—Proposed legislation to create a Department of Education headed by a member of the President's Cabinet was vigorously opposed in a resolution adopted hy the National Catholic Alumni Federation at its second annual convention tonight.

"Recognizing the inviolable rigbts of the individual States, we oppose any legislation that would create a Department of Education," the resolution read. "Such legislation is paternalistic and bureaucratic and can lead only to the undue capitalization of racial and religious prejudices for political purposes."

Another resolution denounced the attitude of Mexico in the controversy with churches, and expressed the opinion that "the American people ought to continue to voice their protest against such emphatic wrong."

In a brief address Cardinal Dougherty told the convention tbat Pope Pius XI had granted a epecial papal blessing to the delegates.

HAIL MAYOR WALKER AS 'NEXT PRESIDENT'

bunch of keye belonging to a visitor had heen found, whereupon Mayor Walker asked that they he given to him.

"I can present them to some English Channel swimmer," he said.

Olvany Joins the Marchers.

After luncheon the parade formed in Penn Hall Square, where it was joined hy Governor Smith, who remained in his automohile with Senator-elect Wagner. Judge Olvany, with the green emhlem of a Tammany sachem about his neck, joined the marchers.

The line of march was taken up to Independence Hall, where Mayor Kendrick extended Philadelphia's formal greeting from an outdoor platform. Mayor Walker in reply said it was a relief and pleasure to come from New York to breathe the air of hrotherly love in Philadelphia, and referred to New York as "one of Philadelphia'e suburbe."

"We rededicate ourselves to the principles enunciated here 150 years ago," said he, "and 150 years from now they will be just as strong as they are today."

After visiting the room in which the Declaration of Independence was signed, the marchers reformed and proceeded to Broad and Pine Streets, where buses were taken to the Sesquicentennial grounds.

Voorhis Among the Speakers.

The chief ceremonies there were on the balcony of one of New York State's two exposition buildings, the replica of Federal Hall, which once stood at Broad and Wall Streete, where George Washington was inaugurated as the first President of the United States.

Governor Smith and his party left before the exposition grounds were entered.

Mr. Voorhis kicked over the traces for the first time during the day. Because of the chill in the air, Mayor Walker asked him not to remove his tophat when he spoke. Mr. Voorhis promptly took it off. Mayor Kendrick added his plea, and, when that was unsuccessful, his Marine Corps aide, Superintendent of Police Mills, and Mr. Battle all interposed, hut Mr. Voorhis stood bareheaded until he had finished.

The Women's Committee of Philadelphia gave a tea this afternoon for the New York visitors at the Slate Roof House in High Street. Mrs. George Horace Lorimer was Chairman.

The ceremonies concluded with a dinner at the Benjamin Franklin Hotel this evening. Mayor Kendrick and the Philadelphia committee were the hosts, and the guests included not only Mayor Walker's party but the New York police and firemen. At its conclusion the special traine left on their return to New York.

Among those present were Assemblyman Morris Block, Philip F. Donohue, Treasurer of Tammany; Police Inspector William A. Coleman, Joseph V. McKee, President of the Board of Aldermen, and the boerd's other members; Willis Holly, Secretary of the Park Board; George F. Byrnee of the Board of Assessors, Park Commissioner Francis D. Gallatin, Commissioner of Public Welfare Bird S. Coler, Dr. Henry Darlington, former Health Commissioner; Thomas F. McAvoy, former Police Commissioner; Thomas F. Egan, Secretary of Tammany Hall; John H. McCooey, John F. Curry, Commissioner of Records; Fire Commissioner J. J. Dorman and Captain George Olson.

Vare Thanks New Yorkers.

At the dinner tonight Mayor Kendrick, after expressing appreciation of the visit of the New Yorkers, introduced William S. Vare, Senator-elect, who, he said, "was overwhelmingly elected and has the confidence of the people of Philadelphia."

Mr. Vare said he came to the dinner in response to a request from Mayor Walker, which he could not refuse. He thanked the New York representatives in Congress for aiding Philadelphia in securing a Federal appropriation for the Sesquicentennial.

Mayor Walker and John H. McCooey responded briefly.

In presenting Mayor Walker, Mayor Kendrick referred to him as "the most popular Mayor of any city in the world."

"Politics is all a matter of geography," Mayor Walker said. "If Bill Vare, Fred Kendrick and Charley Hall lived in New York they'd be Tammany leaders, and if John McCooey and Judge Olvany and Jim Egan lived in Philadelphia they'd be making up the Republican slate. We're all God's children and I don't believe in taking partisan politics too seriously."

Mayor Walker said he would he "the rankest kind of a failure if it were not for the loyalty and service of the municipal employes.

"When those New York cops and firemen walked down Broad Street this afternoon I got a kick," he said. "The only difference between them and me is that they work longer hours for less pay."

OUR FIREMEN SHOW PHILADELPHIA HOW

Jump From Dinner and Put Out Fire Before Local Firemen Reach the Place.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 12 (AP).—New York firemen gave Philadelphia a demonstration of efficiency tonight. The visiting firemen were attending a dinner at the Benjamin Franklin Hotel, the concluding feature of "New York City Day" at the Sesquicentennial Exposition, when they heard that a fire alarm had been turned in from the Little Chop House, at Tenth and Chestnut Streets, a block away.

Without stopping to change their dress uniforms, about thirty of them, mostly members of the New York Firemen's band, dashed to the scene. Forming a bucket brigade and using biankets to smother the flames, the New Yorkers soon had the blaze in band.

When the local department arrived a few minutes later they found the city's gueste had opened the fire piuge for them and had everything else in readiness. But the fire virtually was out, and the New Yorkers, after receiving congratulations from the local firemen, hurried back to the dining hall, where Governor Smith and Mayor Jamee Walker were the gueste of honor.

GOVERNOR ON TRAIN THAT KILLS MOTORIST

Accident Occurs as Smith Goes to Sesquicentennial—Two Others Die in Accidents.

A train bearing Governor Smith from Atlantic City to the ceremonies incidental to New York Day at the Sesquicentennial at Philadelphia yesterday morning struck and killed William Dugan, a cigar salesman, as he was driving a small automobile truck across the rails of the Pennsylvania Railroad at Lindenwold, N. J., according to an Associated Press dispatch from Camden.

Governor Smith was in a private car on the train with Senator-elect Robert F. Wagner when the accident occurred, but it was not until they reached Philadelphia that the Governor learned of the man's death. Dugan lived in Philadelphia. He died while he was being taken to the hospital at Camden. A short time before this accident Winifred Biere, 18 years old, was instantly killed when struck by a train at Ashland, near Camden.

Harry B. Shedsker, 55 years old, a farmer, known in agricultural circles in the Eastern States as an authority on seed growing, was instantly killed, and two other men in the automobile with him were seriously injured, early yesterday when their car ekidded in Colnmbus Roed, two miles east of Burlington, N. J., and overturned, after striking a telegrsph pole.

All three lived in Burlington and were on their way home from a meeting of a fraternal orgenization. James H. Birch Jr., a hanker, and hrother of Colonel Thomas H. Birch of this city, former Minister to Portugal, received a fractured skull and wes removed to a hospital in Philadelphia. The driver and owner of the car, Leonard Estilow, a traveling salesman, suffered cuts about the body and bruises. He was attended by a private physician at his home.

HAMMONTON, N. J., Nov. 12.—In a crash here today of sedans driven by Harry J. Unker of Trenton and Frank Jacobs of thie place, three persons were seriously injured. Mrs. Frank Jacobs suffered a fractured skull, shock and other injuries. Her condition is serious. Her husband, Frank Jacobs, euffered shock, injuries to the knee and severe lacerations. A daughter, Marie, 13, suffered shock and other injuries. Unker was held on bail by Justice George E. Strouse to await the result of injuries to the victims.

FISTS FLY AS COURT ACTS IN TOMBS CASE

Avenue and 141st Street on July 25 last, pleaded not guilty yesterday before Judge Rosalsky in General Sessione on indictments charging him with murder in the first degree and robbery in the first degree. Four men obtained $6,800 in the hoid-up.

Reichel told Judge Rosalsky he was without funds to employ counsel. Representative Nathan D. Perlman, Julius Hallheimer and Emanuel Hertz were appointed by the Court. The Court granted to the lawyers five days in which to amend their client's plea or make necessary legal motions.

Louis Lorch, keeper of the main gate at the Tombe, who prevented the actual escape of McKenna, Amherg and Berg, received a letter yesterday from Lieut. Col. Sheldon W. Anding of the Sixteenth Infantry at Fort Jay, Governore Island, praising Lorch for his bravery. Lorch served as first lieutenant with the regiment in the World War, being wounded at Belleau Wood, St. Mihiel and Soissons. Colonel Anding told the keeper that the writer expresaed the sentiments of all the officers and men of the Sixteenth Infantry, and added, "We remember well your heroic conduct as a member of the Sixteenth in France and we rejoice that in peace, as in war, you have shown the qualifications of a true soldier. You, indeed, are a credit to the regiment."

POINCARE TRIUMPHS AS CHAMBER OPENS

Wins, 365 to 207, on Vote to Proceed With Budget to the Exclusion of All Else.

58 QUESTIONERS READY

But They Are Silenced by Closure and Premier Is Assured His Program Is Safe.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Nov. 12.—By 365 votes to 207 the Chamber of Deputies at its first meeting today gave sanction to the Government's request that it abstain from all controversial, time-wasting and extraneous discussion during the coming short session and devote all its energies to passing the budget.

That vote shows clearly the position of Poincaré's Government of national union. Against it have been ranked the Communists, the Socialists and the extreme radicals and a few wild men who belong to no party. But its 365 supporters are solid. With that majority there is neither danger nor doubt.

There was for a moment an incipient revolt. Fifty-eight Deputies who had wanted to speak found their desires cut short at once by the Premier, who asked that every one of the questions involved be postponed indefinitely. The rules of the Chamber provide, however, that each member who has inscribed his question can have five minutes to explain why he thinks it should be discussed. Two dozen took immediate advantage of this rule. They wanted to talk about the Italian incidents, the high cost of living, China, the sardine fisheries of Brittany, the stabilization of the franc, the steel trust, the price of eggs at Saint Nazaire, the Government's economies and all kinds of other things.

Radicals Are Again Divided.

Then cloture was moved. The radicals went at once into committee to discuss whether they should make common cause with the Socialists and vote against postponement of these discussions or stand with M. Herriot and the Government.

As at their national congress, they were divided. Some thirty decided to throw in their lot with the Socialists, while the rest of the party voted for the Government.

Tomorrow the serious work of voting the budget appropriations will begin, and though in that discussion all kinds of questions will be introduced, there is hope the task can be completed by Dec. 20.

Of course, today's session could not pass undisturbed. The Communist Deputy, Vaillant Couturier, who, being a Communist, has strong anti-Fascist views, was not content with Parliamentary denunciation of the Italian régime. "Mussolini is an assassin," he shouted, and had to be remanded.

Demands a Vote of Confidence.

PARIS, Nov. 12 (AP).—Premier Poincaré today won a vote of confidence for his Government on the reopening of Parliament and at the same time declined to be drawn into debate on Franco-Italian relations centring about the Ventimiglia incident and the Garibaldi affair. The vote of confidence came after a three-hour debate in the Chamber, in which every subject of current interest, excepting the single question of war debts, was discussed.

The Premier made the postponement of interpellations a question of confidence, thus immediately making the vote a test of the strength of his Government. Not without an appearance of pride in the achievement, he pointed out that the economic, financial and monetary situation of the country had been greatly ameliorated in recent weeks.

"The nation," he said, "has followed the good example of voluntary discipline given by the Chamber before its adjournment. * * * If we want to achieve the work of public salvation, we must begin together to put everything else aside and devote ourselves exclusively to discussion of the budget."

The war debt question has receded far into the background and is not likely to come up until the regular session of Parliament after the new year.

APPEAL FROM VERDICT IN FEME PROSECUTION

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Nov. 12.—Whether the lenient verdicts handed down by the Landsberg Criminal Court at the trial of the agents of the Black Reichswehr's murder machine will be permitted to stand became an open doubt today following an appeal for revision by a higher tribunal, formulated by the public prosecutor and counsel for Sergeant Gaedicke, one of the sinister camarilla's surviving victims. Under the German law the Appellate Court can set aside the verdict and order a new trial.

The Prussian Judges' Association and Bar Association have begun an inquiry into the alleged bias in favor of the defendants manifested by Judge Wessling, presiding in the Landsberg court. He is accused of having prevented the introduction of testimony vital to the prosecution in order to shield men higher up in the Black Reichswehr. His extraordinary tribute to Sergeant Klapproth, who by his own confession is one of the Feme's most brutal slayers, as "this honorable old soldier"—the same Sergeant Major Klapproth whom the Judge had sentenced in a previous trial to fifteen years at hard labor for murder, has aroused indignation and astonishment in legal circles here. Judge Wessling is charged with having handled the case as a reserve officer of the old Imperial Army and as a member of the Nationalist Party rather than as an impartial jurist.

Pending the result of the appeal, Lieutenant Schulz, head of the Feme organization, who at two trials has been acquitted, will remain under arrest, as will Sergeant Major Klapproth and the other lesser assassins.

In the Prussian Diet today the Communists submitted a resolution for the suspension of Judge Wessling from office and preferring formal charges against him. The Nationalists obstructed immediate discussion of the motion.

LONDON BISHOP TELLS OF IMPRESSIONS HERE

He Writes Home That Fraternal Spirit With Britain Will Be Re-established.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—The Bishop of London, now visiting the United States, has sent home some interesting letters describing his journey. He is impressed by the welcome he is receiving from young men and women students. He has found Virginia the most English State of all; he believes that mutual explanations of disputed points will clear up all difficulties between England and America and that the fraternal spirit felt at the time of America's entrance into the war will be recovered.

The Bishop also says:

"Of course, I have not interfered with politics in any way. I have scorned the idea that we would ever come, hat in hand, and ask for any diminution of the annual sum which we have undertaken to pay, but I thought it right to bring home to a huge gathering of rich men in New York what it meant in concrete suffering and at what awful cost of lost homes and overwhelming taxes the old country was meeting its obligations.

"I have reason to know that what I said made a great impression on many of those present."

The Bishop reports that he has not asked the United States to join the League of Nations, but he has pointed out what that would have accomplished. He said it would have stopped five wars, repatriated 500,000 prisoners, shortened the hours of labor, established a system of international law and rescued Armenian girls from Turkish harems.

"My argument," the Bishop continues, "was that if, as all are agreed, the English-speaking nations were to avert another war, it were far better to try, as at Geneva, to get the nations of the world to agree not to fight, than to threaten them with financial ruin if they did. My own belief is that while there is a strong minority cutting across all parties, in favor of joining the League, now that it has been made a political question, there is no immediate prospect of any action being taken."

The Bishop says he tells Americans "how irritating it is to Great Britain to be classed with 'Europe,' as if it had no more connection with America than Russia or Poland."

He concludes by advising his fellow countrymen to stop calling America Shylock.

WOMEN TURN TO BEER TO AID LONDON CHARITY

Society Group Forms a Club With the Slogan: 'No More Cocktails.'

LONDON, Nov. 12 (AP).—Beer has replaced cocktails in certain London society circles, where a club has been formed to save money and to turn over the cash realized to charity.

The slogan of the club, known as the "Attractive Order of Fairy Belles," is this:

"No more cocktails—no more whisky: Beer and beer only—and very little of that!"

Lady Fripp, wife of Sir Alfred Fripp, well-known physician, is the leader in the movement.

"This is the only condition imposed upon women joining the Royal and Ancient Order of Froth Blowers, founded by Sir Alfred; the Order of Fairy Belles is an auxiliary," Lady Fripp says.

The idea is to aid destitute boys and girls, she explains.

HEAVY BUYING HITS MILREIS.

Rio Traders in Foreign Currencies Explain Brazilian Decline.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Nov. 12 (AP).—Local traders explain the sharp decline in the value of the Brazilian milreis, which began yesterday, as due to heavy buying of foreign currencies.

The buyers included many who had been holding off, believing President Bernardes would make an effort to push up the milreis so as to have the national currency at the highest level of his Administration when he leaves office next Monday. When it developed he was making no such effort the present buyers' rush ensued.

Bankers are awaiting with keen interest the procedure of the President-elect, Washington Luis, regarding control of the exchange rate of the Brazilian unit of currency.

The pistols were the gift of President Lincoln in appreciation of the King's grant to the Danes of a free Constitution. The King at the time received presents from nearly all world rulers. Most of the other gifts were tobacco and pipes, the King being an inveterate pipe smoker.

The Panama Government replied that aviators would have the rights accorded by Panaman laws regarding the liberty of transit.

MOSCOW, Nov. 12.—Whatever will be the ultimate settlement of the controversy in the Russian Communist Party, it is already evident that the recent convention cleared the air to a marked degree and the general atmosphere of Moscow is much more cheerful than it has been at any time in the past three or four months.

For one thing, the State grain collections are getting better than anticipated. Whereas the first weeks of the grain campaign showed less favorable results than last year, when the reluctance of the peasants to give up their grain, owing to the last of cheap goods seriously upset the official calculations, the second fortnight of September and all of October this year have proved to be a different story.

The amount of collections up to Nov. 1 was almost 4,250,000 tons, which is 500,000 tons more than last year.

Furthermore, the wheat returns are particularly high, which is most important for export, and the price is sufficiently low to ensure a profitable sale abroad, which was not the case last year.

It is true that this result was attained by shipping heavy quantities of goods, with the consequence that the waiting lines before the Moscow textile stores were longer than they had been for some years.

Cotton Crop Booms Textile Mills.

On the other hand, it was announced today that the Central Asian and Caucasian cotton crop was nearly 10 per cent. larger than anticipated, being about 750,000 bales. With the stocks already in hand, this will suffice for three quarters of the mill consumption planned for the current year, leaving the balance to be covered by foreign import.

In view of this larger production and cheaper foreign prices, it has now been decided to increase mill capacity, orders for textile machinery having been placed in England and Germany on credit, to a total of 1,300,000 bales of raw cotton, which is about 125,000 bales more than had been planned.

Economic Life states today that M. Kisievitz, the President of the Textile Syndicate, is going to Berlin immediately to study a new yarn spinning invention which provides great economy in raw material and has the particular advantage for Russia of requiring less human skill to operate.

Circulation of Money Increases.

Further proof of the better sentiment is a considerable increase of money in circulation—6 per cent. during the past month, making a total of 1,417,000,000 rubles—whereas emission has been restricted and even reduced in the Summer months owing to the Spring and Fall purchasing power of the chervonets. The new issue was successfully absorbed without this occurring, but there is still a marked shortage of manufactured goods throughout the country, which keeps prices high.

Despite efforts to prevent it, there is no doubt a considerable proportion of goods bought at a relatively low rate at the State stores and cooperatives and afterward sold by private dealers at an augmented price.

Another unsatisfactory feature is the decrease this year in special cultures, such as flax, tobacco, sunflower seed and medicinal herbs, which is said to be due to the fact that the State monopolies are trying to force low prices on the farmers. A special commission has been appointed to investigate the alleged grievances and to stimulate this branch of production.

APPROVE AWARD TO SHAW.

But His Winning of Nobel Prize Surprises Swedish Circles.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Nov. 12 (AP).—Award of the 1925 Nobel Prize for literature to George Bernard Shaw, the British author and dramatist, caused great surprise in Swedish literary circles, but it meets with general satisfaction.

The Dagens Nyheter, leading Liberal paper, says Shaw's works contain wit, paradoxes, sarcasm and irony, with a strong current of social pathos. It calls him "the Voltaire of our age."

Shaw's courage of opinion is emphasized by the Dagbiad, which in this connection points to "Mrs. Warren's Profession." His "Saint Joan" is considered the play which ranks him among the great dramatists.

Wife of Former American Envoy to Italy Gets Decree.

PARIS, Nov. 12 (AP).—The attorney for Mrs. Richard Washburn Child today admitted that she had obtained a divorce from the former American Ambassador to Italy yesterday. The decree was granted on the grounds of desertion. Mr. Child gave his address as Paris.

Mrs. Child started suit against Mr. Child in October, shortly after he had withdrawn his suit against her for a divorce in Pennsylvania.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 12.—Telegrams from the State of Guerrero report that the commander of the Federal troops has sent to Mexico City all members of the families of the Vidal brothers, who are now in revolt against the Government. He believes that it is necessary to assemble them all in one place as the Vidals have a large number of relatives in all parts of Guerrero who supply them with information regarding the movements of the Federal forces.

International Burns Club Formed.

LONDON, Nov. 12 (AP).—Robert Burns devotees have formed an "International Burns Club," to carry the spirit and philosophy of Burns into international life. Dr. J. Campbell McClure of London is the first President. It is hoped that Burns readers everywhere will join. The club has no politics but the founders feel that "in Burns's poetry and philosophy there is an excellent means of dissipating international misunderstandings and a sure way of bringing people together in a friendly spirit."

GERMANY EXPECTS ALLIED WATCH TO END

Sees Approaching Close of Supervision as Disputed Points Are Nearing Settlement.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Nov. 12.—The German Foreign Office today expressed confidence that the Allies' supervision over the Germany Army would cease before the end of the year. Thereafter the League of Nations will supervise German disarmament, according to its right of investigation. The form in which this will be done has not been defined precisely, but, according to official opinion here, the inquiry will be restricted to specific cases and will not be general or permanent in character.

The Wilhelmstrasse's optimism about the speedy appearance of the Interallied Control Commission runs contrary to reports in the French and British press, but appears to have a sound basis, nevertheless.

A spokesman for the Marx Cabinet has declared that there remain only five points at issue between the Berlin authorities and the Council of Ambassadors, and that all five are susceptible of rapid settlement. The principal issue, it is stated, concerns the question of what constitutes war material, and in German eyes this is an industrial rather than a military question.

The Allies disapprove of Germany exporting or importing certain machines, sometimes in a half-completed condition, which, it is charged, may be used or adapted for the manufacture of arms or ammunition. This is disputed by the Reich, which regards the Allied attitude as inspired by consideration of trade competition more than by the demands of disarmament. However, agreement on this subject is hoped for soon.

The Entente's objection to the so-called German "patriotic societies," which are alleged to have a militaristic character, are met, it is alleged, by existing German legislation. It is pointed out that there are only two numerically important societies, namely, the Steelhelmst League and the Young German Order, each of which numbers about 300,000 members.

The Steelhelmsts are described in official quarters as the prototype of the American Legion—a war veteran's association, reactionary but not revolutionary in tendency, and formally opposed to both armed assault against the German Republic and the restoration of the Hohenzollern Dynasty.

The Young Germans, on the other hand, are committed to the cause of Franco-German rapprochement as a shield against bolshevism. Whenever any patriotic society conspires against the State or violates the law against military training, it is dissolved, as in the recent case of the Vikingbund and the Bismarck League, which plotted the overthrow of the republican régime.

The problem of reducing the State police by 8,000 men, in obedience to the Allies' demand, also is being solved, although it offers great technical difficulties owing to the police being under the control of the various federated States.

TRY TO AMERICANIZE BUSINESS IN AUSTRIA

Authorities There Urge Our Methods of Standardization and Instalment Payments.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, Nov. 12.—A campaign has now started to Americanize Austrian industry and commerce as far as local conditions will allow. Dr. Karl Wessely, Director of the Austrian Trade Museum, who was recently in America, is studying the methods to be applied. Speaking last night to Viennese industrialists and merchants, he urged popularization here of the American system of instalment payments, and educational propaganda to break down the resistance of Austrian consumers to standardized articles. He thinks this is the secret of American prosperity and low prices and that it is impossible to introduce such methods here or in Central Europe until the buyers in this area can be persuaded that the numerous special types of goods they demand inevitably mean high prices.

He praises American salesmanship, but believes it hard to employ such methods in Austria and Central Europe, due to the strong influence that the Near East has had on popular buying and selling psychology.

Dr. Wessely is greatly impressed with American office equipment, the adoption of which he urges here, saying that nothing should prevent its introduction where the initial outlay can be afforded.

Julius Meinl, one of the biggest Austrian manufacturers and wholesalers, strongly supports Dr. Wessely, mentioning among proofs of the need of more standardization the fact that 150 types of water glasses are now made in Austria.

Austrian foreign trade statistics just published for August add a stimulus to the movement, for they show a deficit of $17,000,000 as against $10,000,000 in July. The average monthly deficit for the first semester of 1926 was $12,000,000. The increased deficit of August is due partly to heavy gold and silver importations.

The opera, given by the German composer, Alban Berg, caused a stormy demonstration on the part of the audience, supporters and opponents interrupting the show with furious invectives and loud vociferation. Dr. Vanek was in the midst of the storm when the excitement brought about apoplexy, causing instant death.

The Deputy Mayor was well known to many Americans visiting Prague, where he welcomed numerous official guests from the United States to various congresses held since the war. Largely due to him, Czecho-Americans received permission to erect a statue to President Wilson in Prague.

He traveled with the royal party as far as San Francisco.

DOLLY SISTERS WIN MOULIN ROUGE SUIT

Get $18,200 Because Paris Theatre Favored Mistinquette and Hurt Their Feelings.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Nov. 12.—The Dolly sisters, American musical comedy stars, won today their long legal fight since 1924 to obtain 550,000 francs damages from the Moulin Rouge for having been relegated to "the background" in its revue through the presence of Mlle. Mistinguette, a Parisian favorite, after they had signed contracts to be the stellar attractions.

The suit has been the sensation of the Parisian theatrical world, where it has already been hotly fought out many times both for and against the two Americans. The Dolly Sisters have had many warm supporters, for aside from their prominence in Paris, the outcome of the issue involved had been eagerly awaited.

The management of the theatre must now pay the two girls 550,000 francs (about $18,200) forfeiture for failure to carry out the terms of their contract, and at the same time the theatre loses a counter action for 750,000 francs brought against the Dolly sisters for "walking out" on the show after it had been in rehearsal three weeks.

Columns have been printed in the French theatrical papers about the suit, and the fact that Americans were involved led to some bitter comment, which prompted the Dolly twins to publicly announce that if they won the suit they would turn the money over to French charities.

The best most people expected for them was a compromise decision because of the undisguised jealousy of the theatrical world of Paris for all foreign artists and the special place which Mlle. Mistinguette holds in the affection of the French theatregoers.

The Dolly sisters were engaged as stars for the Moulin Rouge in August, 1924, at a salary of 3,000 francs a day—an immense amount for a French theatre. Their contract specified that no other artist's name was to be as big as theirs on the posters, programs, &c., and that all publicity matter was to mention them.

However, soon afterward, Mistinguett was engaged at 5,000 francs a day and in addition given a voice in the stage management and the creation of costumes.

Three weeks later the Dolly sisters left the show in a rehearsal, saying that they had been treated as secondary artists and otherwise "suppressed" by Mistinguette and the management.

RUSHDI AT ODESSA MEETS TCHITCHERIN

Mystery Surrounds Conference of the Turkish and Russian Foreign Ministers.

CONSTANTINOPLE IN DOUBT

Moscow Offers No Explanation—Geneva and Washington Skeptical of "Asiatic League."

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 12.—Tewfik Rushdi Bey, the Turkish Foreign Minister, met Georges Tchitcherin, the Soviet Foreign Minister, at 10 o'clock today in Odessa for their mysterious conference.

The Turkish press is devoting much space to the meeting, but its purpose is not disclosed. Public and even official opinion was bewildered yesterday by the Foreign Minister's sudden departure on board a cruiser for Odessa, but now the attitude has been taken up by the more responsible newspapers that the Odessa meeting is the natural sequence to the conversations which have been in progress in Moscow and Angora between the representatives of Turkey, Persian and the Soviet Government.

It is announced that Tewfik Rushdi Bey was received with much ceremony at Odessa and that he will be back in Constantinople late today.

Moscow Is Also Mystified.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, Nov. 12.—The Soviet press is reserved about today's interview between Georges Tchitcherin, the Foreign Minister, and the Turkish Foreign Minister, Tewfik Rushdi Bey, at Odessa. The only editorial comment appearing is in the Isvestia and the Moscow Evening News.

The Isvestia emphasizes the two following points:

First, the success of the Soviet policy of non-aggression compacts, which to date have been concluded with Turkey, Germany, Afghanistan and Lithuania, not to mention a similar Turko-Persian agreement.

Second, Western European efforts—especially on the part of Britain—to draw Turkey away from Russian friendship and by enticing her into the League of Nations to undermine her independence and render her subservient to Western imperialism.

The Evening News follows a similar line, declaring that the "real purpose of bringing Turkey into the League appears to be an attempt to weaken the bonds between Turkey and her Eastern neighbors, especially the Soviet, and to strengthen in Turkey the Western orientation hostile to the Soviet."

Rushes "Asiatic Bloc" Is Sought.

The news adds that the Odessa interview is new proof of Russo-Turkish friendship, but not of an "Asiatic bloc" directed against the Western powers, as alleged by the foreign press. On the contrary, it says, the Soviet policy aims at preserving peace, whereas the League of Nations has failed to overcome imperialistic rivalries sowing the seeds of future wars.

But why did the Turks invite Tchitcherin to the interview? What can Russia offer Turkey beyond the completion of the trade treaty that hitherto has hung fire? What might be the alternative to Turkey's entry into the League of Nations? On these points the Soviet commentators are silent.

True, the Isvestia makes a rather mysterious allusion to "other Eastern governments now inclined to regulate their foreign relations according to the principles of our non-aggression compacts"—which might be taken to mean China—but that is all.

Yet, generally, Soviet diplomacy has been conspicuous by Marxist realism and frankness. It would almost seem as though the Isvestia, which speaks for the Soviet Foreign Office, itself is not sure just what the Turks are driving at.

From the Turkish standpoint, of course, there are obvious advantages in the Odessa parley. After all, the Soviet is still a sort of unknown quantity—one might almost say a joker in the diplomatic pokar game. Turkey is not rich these days and undoubtedly is alarmed, as the Soviet press points out, by rumors of Anglo-Italian, Anglo-French, Anglo-Greek combinations, all more or less directed against her interests.

Turks May Attempt a Bluff.

Suppose, then, that Turkey has a two-pair hand at the best. If she can draw the joker it makes a lot of difference. Even supposing the parley is a complete failure, as far as genuine results are concerned, the Turks may bluff Europe into leaving the Soviet joker in her hand.

For the past fifty years Turkish diplomacy has been playing "both ends against the middle" in this difficult game of keeping the "sick man" alive. Formerly it used to play Britain against Russia, then Germany against Russia and England. Now it is playing the opposite end.

But what has Russia got to gain? First, there is the big advertisement; second, the possible furtherance of Tchitcherin's plans for an "Asiatic bloc," important by its sheer weight, however pacific it may be; third, the fact that Turkey is geographically important to Russia in that control of the Dardanelles can open or shut Russia's Black Sea traffic. None of these three may seem to be the trump cards, but in the hands of a subtle player like Tchitcherin they may take valuable tricks.

Great interest was aroused in foreign diplomatic circles here by the announcement that Tchitcherin had left Moscow Tuesday evening for Odessa, accompanied by the Turkish Ambassador, Zekiya Bey, to meet the Turkish Foreign Minister, arriving from Constantinople on a cruiser.

THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent is informed from a good source that the invitation from the Turks only reached Tchitcherin Tuesday morning.

Geneva Expects Turks to Join There.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Nov. 12.—The report that Turkey is about to conclude with Russia an alliance which will serve as the basis for the creation of an Asiatic league is not considered disquieting in Geneva, especially since it is said that Turkey is continuing plans for joining the League of Nations.

It is thought here that Turkey is simply concluding with Moscow a treaty on the same basis as that Germany and Russia signed some months ago.

It is generally believed in League circles that Turkey is less menacing in the League than outside. If she should disturb world peace after becoming a member of the organization there would be no end of means for holding her in check. On the other hand, under the present circumstances, it would be more difficult for the League to assure itself that these means would be taken despite the fact that the covenant provides for cases where a non-member attacks a League member. The difference, though psychological, exists nevertheless.

Turkey, if she has no bad intentions against League members, will find her interests far better protected if she is in the League than if an outsider.

As to the report that Persia is to join up with Asiatic States, it is generally discredited here. Persia has never liked the discrimination shown against her in the arms traffic convention in order to prevent her nationals running arms into India. But she knews the League of Nations will help her protect her frontiers and she has never had reason to suspect Russia of altruism in their mutual relations.

Paris Believes Alliance Is Sought.

PARIS, Nov. 12.—Although it is formally denied tonight by the Soviet Embassy in Paris, well informed diplomats continue to believe that a treaty of alliance is the real motive behind today's meeting at Odessa between the Russian and Turkish Foreign Ministers.

The French foreign office, like the foreign offices of Britain, Italy and Germany, is closely observing the outcome of the Turko-Soviet conversations, for one of the chief elements is thought to be the keen desire of Moscow to keep Turkey out of the Geneva League. This desire is said to go hand in hand with the Soviet dreams of an "Asiastic League of Nations" under Moscow leadership.

All the great powers in the Geneva League, but especially Germany and Britain, are eager to have Turkey in the League, and this desire has taken the form of considerable pressure to have the Angora Government apply for membership within the next year.

Tonight's official communiqué from the Paris Soviet Embassy reads:

"Dispatches in the press having indicated that the interview between M. Tchitcherin and Rushdi Bey at Odessa has for its basis the conclusion of a treaty of alliance between Russia and Turkey, the Embassy of the Soviet Republics in Paris denies this news in the most emphatic manner. Neither is it the purpose of this interview to establish the ground work of a vast pan-Asiatic compact to which allusion has already been made in the press. The voyage of the Turkish Minister of Foreign Affairs is wholly for the purpose of paying a visit of courtesy to the Russian Foreign Minister, motivated by the friendly relations which unite the two statesmen."

Washington Is Skeptical.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Reports that an "Asiatic League of Nations" is being formed, embracing Soviet Russia, China, Persia, Afghanistan and Turkey, as an opponent to the Geneva League of Nations were received with skepticism in official circles here today. It is regarded as possible that Soviet Russia and Turkey may be hatching some scheme together and that the meeting between Tewfik Rushdi Bey and Georges Tchicherin at Odessa may lead to some new agreement between those two countries, but officials here do not believe that this would draw China into the combination.

It has been known that Alfred Sze, Chinese Minister to the United States, has recently visited Angora and the purpose of his trip remains a mystery here. But it is pointed ont that no agreement which Minister Sze could make would be likely to bind the Chinese Goverament, which is virtually inexistent.

It is believed that Minister Sze is on friendly terms with Wellington Koo, who is at present acting Foreign Minister of the Peking Government and might enjoy his support, hut Koo's position is regarded as extremely weak and it is doubtful as to how long he will hold office.

The absence of Japan from the list of nations reported forming the "Asiatic League of Nations" is noted hy officials here. The exclusion of Japan, which occupies a dominant position in Asia, is regarded as rendering the organization well-nigh ineffective.

With Japan and China eliminated from consideration, Washington officials feel there is little to worry about so far as the United States is concerned, and that the "league," if it should come into existence, is likely to revolve mostly around Soviet Russia, Turkey and, possibly, Persia.

BELGRADE, Nov. 12.—Anti-Italian feeling has been growing here for several days. News of the arrest in Rome of the Italian-Slovene Depnty, Signor Wilfan, and reports of Fascist threats to kill another Italian Slovene, Signor Besednajak, Deputy for Gorizia, and of numerous searches in Slovene houses in Istria and Trieste, have excited Parliamentary circles.

All the Opposition parties are sending in interpellations on tha "persecution" of Slovene minorities in Italian territory. Many speakers at today's session of the Skupshtina declared that Italian activities against Yugoslavia and other Balkan States threatened to disrupt their friendly relations, and made capital of the "persecution" of the Slovene minority in Italy. Ministers frequently cheered statements made by Opposition speakers.

The Raditch Party showed especial bitterness, following their leaders' violent speech yesterday against Fascism and his attack on General Bodrero, Italian Minister to Yugoslavia, who, he said, should be arrested in retaliation for the arrest of Signor Wilfan in Rome.

WARSAW, Nov. 12.—Marshal Pilsudki, following the review yesterday, in which nearly 50,000 troops took part, was ready today for the meeting of the Sejm, where any parliamsntary revolution will be squelched summarily, even at the cost of military intervention.

The Socialists, who originally supported the Dictator, have joined the Opposition. The Right Democrat also are in opposition. Marshal Pilsudki, who holds nearly every Cabinet office, has not a single Deputy to support him, yet is the idol of the country, as was demonstrated by yesterday's outpouring, which showed his absolute rule.

The Socialist press, alarmed by his recent gag decree, is likely to start a disturbance at tomorrow's Parliament session, which is generally considered illegal, and momentous results may result therefrom.

The future of Poland will be at stake. The country is in the midst of a gala, permeated with militarism, and a monarchist outcome is a possibility.

France to Guard Gov. Fuller, Arriving Today, Fearing Attack on Him by Sacco's Friends

PARIS, Nov. 12.—The French police and American officials in France are rather concerned ever the arrival in France tomorrow aboard the French liner France of Governor Alvin T. Fuller of Massachusetts. Nowhere in Europe is agitation in favor of Sacco and Vanzetti so marked as in the French capital, and the presnce here of the only man who can pardon the two Italians convicted of murder in Massachusetts is the subject of much comment among those who have been informed of the Governor's visit.

The American newspapers published in Paris have been requested by the embessy to print nothing about the coming of Governor Fuller, and it is reported that the French press has received a similar request from the police.

There seems to be considerahle uncertainty as to the real purpose of Governor Fuller's visit at a time of year when activities of State would ordinarily occupy the time of the Governor. It has been suggested that he is coming to Europe to avoid the pressure which is being brought to bear on him in the United States to have Sacco and Vanzetti pardoned or the sentence commuted to life imprisonment.

In any event the Massachusetts Executive will be closely guarded every minute of the time he is in France.

The steamship France is expected at Havre tomorrow morning at 6 o'clock, and the Govsrnor plans to come directly to Paris on the boat train.

MARLBOROUGH GETS MARRIAGE ANNULLED

information of the grounds of the reported decree, it is at this time difficult to say that this was actually the ground on which it was granted."

Says Church Gives No Favoritism.

Mgr. Lavelle, rector of St. Patrick's Cathedral, when he was informed of the decree, drew attention to the statement of a Roman Catholic Church authority in England, who is in possession of all the details of the matter, published in THE NEW YORK TIMES on Thursday, where the English prelate was quoted as saying:

"Our Church does not do the sort of thing the Duke desires unless there is really just cause. Before the Duke can be received into the Church the stain of his divorce will have to be wiped out. • • • Nothing more can be done for a Duke than for a tramp."

The Monsignor then said:

"There is no favoritism. What the reasons are for granting the decree I do not know, or do not begin to know, but we can be perfectly sure they were reasons found to he within the law."

Mgr. Lavelle then pointed out that the Duke had been attending a Roman Catholic Church at Oxford, and said it was quite possible that the Duke is a "catechumen," or one under instruction for the purpose of being received into the Church. If this is so, he said, the Roman Catholic Church would have authority to pass on the validity of the marriage.

The rector also said that the Roman Catholic Church would not hesitate to pass on the marriage of any baptized person, no matter what his faith might be.

It was stated by Catholic authorities here that the Church would not undertake to annul a marriage merely because it was not a Catholic marriage, but that if in a marriage outside the Church there should exist a condition that would make it null and void if it had been performed in the Catholic Church, then the Church would, upon request, grant a decree of nullity.

By the Tametsi decree, issued by Pope Pius X in 1908, the Roman Catholic Church recognized as valid any marriages legally contracted prior to that time, irrespective of whether the contracting parties had been married in accordance with the laws of the Church. As the Marlborough-Vanderbilt marriage occurred many years before that decree was issued, it had been generally accepted that the Roman Catholic Church would look upon it as a valid marriage.

Catholic Law on Validity.

The Catholic Encyclopedia, in defining grounds on which the Roman Catholic Church may annul a marriage, says:

"There might be a sinful agreement hetweep those contracting marriage which nullifies their marriage, s. g., not to have more than one or two children, or to divorce and marry some one else whenever they grow tired of each other. Such an agreement or condition denies the perpetual duties of matrimony, limits matrimonial rights, suspends the duty consequent on the use and exercise of those rights; if really made a sine qua non of marriage, it necessarily annuls it."

The encyclopedia goes on to say:

"It must again be repeated that the Church teaches and has always taught that death alone can dissolve a ratified and consummated marriage. • • • The matrimonial courts may find on ths evidence addnced that a marriage is null and void; there may have been a known or hidden dirimsnt impediment [an impediment which of itself makes a valid marriage impossible] when the marriage was contracted."

Bishop Manning Is Puzzled.

Bishop Manning of the Episcopal Diocese of New York, in whose diocese is St. Thomas's Church, where the marriage took place, said he could hardly credit the authenticity of the despatch from ahroad.

"In spite of the apparently definite character of the dispatch," he said, "I do not wish to discuss the matter until the facts are fully known and verified. It seems incredible to me that the Roman Catholic Church, which takes so strong a position against divorce, should show such discrimination in favor of the Duke of Marlborough, who, because of the circumstances of his divorce and remarriage, was debarred by the present Bishop of Oxford from attending the Oxford Diocesan Conference in 1922.

"It would be a serious thing indeed, and most dangerous in its implications, if the Roman Catholic Church should claim the right to annul a marriage such as this, which was entered into in entire good faith, which resulted in the birth of two children and which was accepted as binding by both parties to it for many years."

Marlborough of Notable Line.

The Duke of Marlborough is the ninth of his line since Sir John Churchill was created the first Duke by Queen Anne in 1702. For his services in the wars against the French, and particularly for his famous victory at the battle of Blenheim, Queen Anne gave to the first Duke Blenheim Palace, the present seat of the Dukes of Marlborough. The family dates back to Charles Churchill, a valiant warrior under the flag of King Edward IV in 1480.

Miss Vanderbilt, the daughter of the late William K. Vanderbilt, was not quite 18 years of age at the time of her marriage. The Duke was then 24 years old and had recently inherited the title at the death of his father.

They were married at St. Thomas's Church by Bishop Littlejohn, who baptized and confirmed Miss Vanderbilt, while Bishop Potter and the Rev. Dr. J. Wesley Brown, rector of the church, also participated in the ceremony. The Rev. Waldo Burnett of Southborough, Mass., the Duke's former chaplain at Blenheim Palace, also attended. The Duchess was a great favorite with Queen Victoria and the then Prince of Wales, afterward King Edward VII. The Prince of Wales was godfather to their first child, the Marquis of Blanford, in 1896.

ROME, Nov. 12.—On the day following the attempt on Premier Mussolini's life in Bologna several houses of the Opposition leaders in Naples were invaded and damaged by Fascisti. According to newspaper stories, these included the home of Benedetto Croce, the philosopher, which contains his valuable library. The report, however, was immediately denied. An angry crowd did attempt to force its way into Croce's house, but the police managed to foil the effort.

ROME, Nov. 12 (AP).—Secretary General Turati of the Fascist Party today issued an order making the lifting of hats compulsory as a token of respect when processions carrying the banners of Fascist legions or the standard of Fascist organizations pass through the streets. The order is applicable to foreigners as well as to natives and ignorance of it will not be considered an excuse for failure to heed it.

FLORENCE, Italy, Nov. 12 (AP).—Thousands of Americans passing through Florence have placed their signatures on a document congratulating Premier Mussolini on his escape when the attempt was made to assassinate him at Bologna two weeks ago. The American colony of Florence collected the signatures, which will be bound in an album for presentation to the Premier. The document expressed sympathy to Mussolini and praised his work in behalf of Italy.

PARIS, Nov. 12 (AP).—Minister of Interior Sarraut announced after a Cabinet meeting this morning that the papers in the cases of Ricciotti Garibaldi and Francisco Macia, allegedly involved in the recent unsuccessful Catalan plot, would be turned over to the Minister of Justice. He formally denied published reports that a decree of expulsion from France had been issued against Garibaldi.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 12.—The seriousness of the Kuomintang and Communist invasion of the Yangtse Valley is illustrated hy the narrow escape recently of missionaries in the town of Liuyang, 50 miles east of Changsha. Their story is told in The North China Daily News, a British daily here, by the Rev. G. G. Warren, veteran Wesleyan missionary of Changsha.

For thirty years the Wesleyans have been conducting a flourishing mission in Liuyang, maintaining most amicable relations with the townspeople, who provided free quarters for the school, saying that the missionaries could run it better than they could. One of the mission's chief supporters was Mr. Tan, a wealthy Chinese, formerly manufacturer, who was converted to Christianity, abandoned trade and became a preacher.

Following the recent advance of the Cantonese army into Kiangsi Province came a horde of Communist toughs. These men immediately called out all boys from the mission school and compelled them to sign the usual list of demands, all of an extreme anti-Christian nature, it is said.

The same night the missioneries were privately warned that they themselves were in danger and bad better flee. Unable to persuade the boatmen, who were terrorized by the Communists, to take them, the missionaries managed to escape across the country, got boats lower down the river and reached Changsha destitute of everything except what they wore.

This party consisted of the Rev. and Mrs. P. E. Beale, the Rev. C. W. Thompson, Dr. Mark E. Andrews, Nurse Addy and Miss Pickles.

They charge that after their flight the men described as Communists seized Mr. Tan and subjected him to a public examination and every form of insult, endeavoring to compel him to abjure Christianity, which he stoutly refused to do. Mr. Tan, being very popular in Liuyang, escaped further molestation.

The Communists have seized the mission school and now are running it as a Bolshevist school, on lines alleged to be atheistic and approved by Moscow.

Mr. Warren's story is but one of many which are supposed to show that the situation is getting out of control of the Kuomintang.

In 1900 mobs called Boxers were at first encouraged by the throne and ultimately took the bit between their teeth. Today, it is alleged, a mob called Communists has been equally encouraged by the Kuomintang and now is becoming its master.

London Becomes Restive.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—News reaching here tonight of the apparent strength of communistic elements in the Cantonese armies, which are advancing northward in China, is regarded as "the gravest sort of menace to the Western powers interested in that country."

This, together with the news of the interview in Odessa between the Soviet Foreign Minister, M. Tchitcherin, and the Turkish Foreign Minister, Rushdi Tewfik Bey, which seems to corroborate the prophecies of a coming "Asiatic League of Nations," and the charges of outrages committed by camp followers of the Cantonese Communist soldiers arouse gloomy forebodings here which are not unmixed with apprehension.

The British are beginning to take the view that the time may be at hand when firm measures must be taken if the Far Eastern situation is to be kept from going from bad to worse.

In addition to the worry caused by the victorious march of the Cantonese—with all its communistic implications, as they are seen here—there are other elements in the Chinese situation which London does not like at all. One is the present visit of Marshal Chang Tso-lin, the Manchurian War Lord, to Tientsin. This is taken as possibly meaning the rallying of the Northern armies against the Cantonese and further battles and turmoil.

Whatever the outcome may be, certain influential circles in London believe that events in China are shaping themselves so as to increase Chinese hostility to the Occidental powers, especially Great Britain.

And it is felt in these circles that there is little to choose between the Cantonese and the Northern war lords when it comes to this hostility, since most of them are considered here to be in their hearts against all foreigners.

'HOT DOG' GAINS IN ENGLAND

It Is No Longer "a Sausage and a Roll, With Mustard."

LONDON, Nov. 12 (AP).—Englishmen at sporting events during the cold weather have adopted the "hot dog" habit. The demand for the little red skinned suasage, poked into a hun end smeared with mustard, has become so greet that "Hot Dog, Limited" has been organized and registered "to manufscture and deal in a comestible known in the U. S. A. under the name of 'hot dog.'"

At first the sandwich was called by th Englishmen "a sausage and a roll, with mustard." The promoters decided that they could make the sausage popular at quick lunch counters and coffee stands by simply using the snappy "hot dog" apellation.

They say that the "hot dog" already has taken the country by storm.

KONDYLIS PREDICTS A SECOND ELECTION

May Be Required to Give Some Republican Party a Majority in Greek Parliament.

HE IS READY TO QUIT POST

Dictator Would Then Re-enter Politics and Restore His Party, He Tells New York Times.

By ERNEST MARSHALL.

ATHENS, Nov. 12.—General Kondylis, who became head of the Greek Government last August following the military dictatorship of Colonel Pangalos, now has recovered from a brief indisposition and this evening received THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent at the Ministry of War.

"The elections were required to establish one thing," said General Kondylis, "which was whether the country was republican or monarchist. That essential point has been clearly and definitely settled.

"The great majority of the Greek people prefer a republic to a monarchy. Nearly one million voted in last Sunday's elections. More than half were given for the straight republican ticket, and nearly 900,000 other electors supported the existing régime. The monarchists obtained less than 200,000 votes, representing not more than 22½ per cent. of the total vote. After that there can be no further doubt of the nation's preference for a republic.

"Sunday's elections were a mirror in which the national will was clearly reflected. But as to the Parliament, unfortunately the reflection was not in all respects so clear. While the Republicans as a whole have a majority, no single Republican party will have a working majority in Parliament, and fresh elections may be necessary before a constitutional government is completely assured."

There is no need to emphasize the importance of this statement from a man who became President of the Council following and by reason of a military coup d'état. General Kondylis went on to give his view of the situation.

"I was prepared, and am ready, to resign office to any Government which will insure a proper administration of the country by constitutional methods. If Kaphandaris and Mikalakopoulos, leaders of the Republican Union, can form with Metaxis, leader of the Free Opinion Party, which accepts the republican régime, a Cabinet of concentration, my resignation is at their disposal.

"If they cannot succeed in doing that before the National Assembly meets on Nov. 26, I shall still tender my resignation and leave to the leader of the party which constitutes the strongest group in Parliament the task of holding new elections. I shall in that case enter the political arena and reconstitute my own party, which I dissolved when I became President of the Council. Fresh elections will undoubtedly result in the return of a solid republican majority, for some 200,000 votes which last Sunday were scattered among a number of small political groups were all republican, and would at a new election be cast for the official republican list."

General Kondylis laid stress on the fact that under no circumstances was a monarchical restoration possible. "The army," he said, "is, if anything, more republican than the country at large. The officers are republican to a man and would never permit the overthrow of the republic."

In conclusion the President of the Council declared he had every hope that Greece had overcome the worst of her difficulties. "All that is needed now," he said, "is patriotic sacrifice of personal predilections and prejudices. Greece has enormous resources and potentialities. All it needs is time to heal its wounds and regain its political and economic health."

It was only to be expected that in receiving me at the War Ministry the Kondylis entourage should be military rather than civilian. Sentries at the gates carefully scrutinized my invitation to meet the President of the Council and a handsome young officer courteously guided me off the premises through files of soldiers.

BRITISH DOCTOR FINDS GLAND TO RESTORE HAIR

His Experiments With Mice May Be Step Toward a Cure for Human Baldness.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—Experiments with bald mice at Edinburgh University may prove to have an important bearing on human baldness and its possible cure.

Dr. F. A. E. Crew, principal of the animal breeding institute of the university, experimenting with hairless mice bred by a naturalist and experimental breeder, discovered that the shedding of hair is due to the absence of a certain gland substance. By extracting the substance from normal mice and grafting it on the bald ones, he has been able to promote the growth of their hair again, completely or partially, according to the amount applied.

The experiments will be continued to find out if human baldness may not be due to the same glandular deficiency and curable in the same way.

DOMINION PREMIERS TO SEE ARMY WORK

Tanks and Tractors for Field Guns Will Be Shown Today to Delegates to London.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—The Dominion Prime Ministers who are here for the Imperial Conference will see at Camberley tomorrow a demonstration of army tanks and tractors for field guns.

American Ambassador Houghton and Premier Bruce of Australia were among the guests at the Canadian official reception tonight, held in connection with the conference.

On Monday discussion of imperial defense, which was opened by Premier Baldwin, will be resumed. A good deal of advance interest had been aroused on this question since Premier Bruce of Australia was credited with the intention of advocating that the Dominions contribute more substantially to the expense of the defense of the empire, now borne almost entirely by the mother country. It is now extremely improbable that imperial defense will be put on a new basis.

Premier Coates is understood to be ready to commit New Zealand to a contribution to naval defense. Premier Bruce's attitude, however, is said to be that the expense of keeping up Australia's own navy will make it impossible for her at the moment to contribute toward the maintenance of Britain's fleet. Neither Premier MacKenzie King of Canada nor Premier Hertzog of South Africa would find it practical politics to recommend a contribution even if they wished to take such action. Labor sentiment in Australia is also strongly against it and it is largely this factor which has modified Premier Bruce's attitude.

For security against possible aggression by Japan, Premier Bruce seems instead to have directed his attention to the possibility of closer cooperation between the British Empire and the United States. THE NEW YORK TIMES was informed by an Australian in close touch with the situation that this is one of the main motives which actuated Premier Bruce's appeal—twice expressed since he came to London for the conference—for an understanding with America. Anglo-American cooperation, in other words, would make the Pacific safer for Australia. The visit of the American fleet to Australia a year ago was a straw showing which way the wind is blowing.

Curiously enough, it was largely owing to the insistence of Prime Minister Meighen of Canada at the Imperial Conference of 1921 that the Anglo-Japanese Treaty was allowed to lapse. Premier Meighen urged this course, it was stated at the time, largely because of the effect it would have on Anglo-American relations. In taking such an attitude, therefore, he might be said to have justified in advance Premier Bruce's contention that the people of the dominions are well qualified to interpret America to Britain and vice versa.

REICH'S FLAG FLOWN ON ARMISTICE DAY

Action of Embassy Here 'Horrifies' Berlin—Did It as Courtesy, Says Attache.

BERLIN, Nov. 12.—A report reaching Berlin that the German Ambassador at Washington displayed the Reich's flags on Armistice Day was received with horror in reactionary circles and was considered so serious that the Foreign Office has been asked to act immediately, intimating that Dr. von Maltzan must be recalled.

"That our Ambassador at Washington," says the Lokal Anzeiger in an editorial, "participated in the display of pleasure on Nov. 11 by raising both the Reich's flags must be considered here as the most disgraceful self-abasement of which a German diplomat in a foreign country could be guilty. We do not consider Nov. 11 as the end of the war, but as the submission of the German Reich and subjugation to America, and her humiliation through the Peace Treaty was more malicious and criminal than the world ever before witnessed."

The editorial expresses amazement that on such an occasion Ambassador von Maltzan beflagged the embassy and hopes that their New York correspondent was mistaken and that the report is false, even though he telephoned to Washington and confirmed the incident through competent embassy authority. The Anzeiger appeals to the Foreign Office to investigate and not hesitate a second to make the necessary reprimand if the German flag was flown.

Republican sources are non-commital tonight, though inclined to take a milder view of the whole affair, citing that the English have decorated German soldier graves in occupied territory and Ohio invited German veterans as their guests on Armistice Day, and other evidences that veterans wish to show that the war is ended actually as well as theoretically.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Surprise was expressed tonight in German diplomatic quarters over the dispatch from Berlin saying that political circles there "are horrified" to hear that the German Envoy in Washington showed the Reich's flag on the embassy on Armistice Day.

That the German national standard was shown yesterday in commemoration of Armistice Day was readily admitted. The explanation was given that, under a private understanding, all the other embassies and legations in Washington displayed their national flags, and the German Embassy believed that it was the courteous thing to the Government of the United States to do likewise, especially as President Coolidge had made a proclamation on the subject. Action was taken without any instructions from Berlin.

At the time of President Wilson's death in February, 1924, there was much criticism of the German Embassy here for its failure to display its flag at half-staff. The incident created much comment in Germany and the United States.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Nov. 12.—The Preparatory Committee for the proposed International Economic Conference will meet here on Monday to prepare the program for the conference, which it is hoped will lay the foundations for the economic peace of the world and contribute to the security of nations.

The coming meeting will be the second held by the committee. The first, held in April, was devoted to procedure and methods of the committee and to the principles to be followed in collecting information.

The second meeting, in accordance with the instructions of the Seventh Assembly of the League of Nations, which noted that the general economic situation called more imperiously than ever for an effort toward international cooperation, will be devoted to selection from the information already collected the essential points on each problems as may be solved by international discussion. The problems thus selected will form the agenda for the approaching conference.

The Preparatory Committee was established last year by the Assembly following a resolution presented by Louis Louchsur of France. The resolution said that the time seemed ripe for the League to make an attempt to deal with economic problems as a whole in accordance with its mandate under Article XXIII of the covenant.

That article stipulates that members of the League will make provision to secure and maintain equitable treatment for the commerce of all League members.

But the French resolution owed its acceptance to the fact that it was heralded as an antidote to war rather than as a key to prosperity. The French have never failed to stress that military peace is impossible without economic peace.

Only last week the President of the Preparatory Disarmament Commission declared that an economic conference was a necessary complement to a disarmament conference.

International developments during the past year have given great momentum to the movement, and the proposed conference is now as greatly favored for the economic benefits which may be derived from it as for its possible contribution to world peace.

There is much evidence that the conference, although it will be open to the whole world, will devote itself chiefly to European problems, as it is the European countries which are suffering most economically.

Trade statistics prepared for the committee show that, while all other continents at least maintained their pre-war trade, Europe's trade is 10 per cent. below the pre-war level, despite the fact that seven new States have been created.

The trade of Central and Eastern Europe is only about 75 per cent. of what it was in 1913.

Despite the European character of the problems, however, all nations, including the United States, it is expected, will participate in the conference, to guard against the possibility of the European countries pooling their economic troubles and hopes and laying the foundation for an entente injurious to them.

At the first meeting of the committee Allyn Young, former Secretary Houston and Arthur Witter Gilbert were present as American experts. At the second meeting the American members will be Mr. Gilbert and Thomas Walter Page.

Broadcasting of Reichstag Debate Urged By Many Radio Fans in Berlin Petition

BERLIN, Nov. 12.—Many radio fans have petitioned Paul Loebe, Reichstag President, to permit all debates of the German law-makers to be broadcast, thus giving the public the benefit of knowing how Parliament functions. By allowing all speeches to be broadcast the radio would not interfere with the regulation which forbids the use of Government-controlled radio for political propaganda by any party, but would give the masses an insight into Reich politics, the fans argue.

Another point is that parliamentary law would be eliminated if microphones were installed, it is pointed out.

In the recent sessions of the Prussian Diet, when the question of that State's settlement with the Hohenzollerns was debated and voted, the Communists created such a tumult that it was necessary to clear the galleries and the press benches. The Reds now assert that the final agreement, allotting the ex-ruling family large sums of money, lands and castles, is null and void, since the session was not public, as the law requires. One legal interpretation has been given that if the proceedings of any session are broadcast, they are public, even though for the sake of order the galleries must be cleared.

The Government has not taken a stand on this request of the radio enthusiasts, but the Nationalist newspapers are outspoken in their opposition to it.

UNION DISCUSSES PROPOSAL

Delegates Have Not Decided on Approval or Reference to Districts' Action.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—Though peace in the coal fields is thought to be still imminent, it has not yet been achieved. The delegate conference of the Miners' Federation, which today discussed the Government's proposals for settlement of the dispute, will resume its discussion tomorrow. It remains to be seen whether the delegates will accept the responsibility of making a decision or refer the proposals to the districts.

The coal owners meanwhile have protested against some of the terms of the Government's proposals, to which they say they never agreed, and have announced that some of the statements attributed to the owners in the so-called memorandum of agreement are incorrect. A reply issued from 10 Downing Street admitted that the proposed terms of settlement did not represent an agreement with the owners, but declared that if the terms are "accepted and carried out by the miners, the Government will proceed independently with the legislation proposed."

It was later pointed out in a semi-official statement secured by THE NEW YORK TIMES that in view of the fact that the Mining Association—the owners' organization—contends it has no authority to negotiate for the coal districts, a collective agreement was not possible.

The proposals, however, had as a matter of courtesy been communicated last night to the President of the Mining Association, and the Government had obtained from him full assurances that to the best of his belief no objection would be taken in the districts to the proposals in the memorandum relating to the wages to be paid on resumption of work, to the setting up of interlocal committees and to the reinstatement of workmen as the opportunity offered without prejudice to the men already at work.

The coal owners, however, deny that the proposed terms of settlement were made known to them at the same time as to the miners, and say that the proposals cited above are not in a form agreeable to them.

RIGA, Nov. 12.—Having received news of the probable ending of the coal dispute in Britain, Moscow is endeavoring to prevent a settlement at all costs. M. Losovsky is the author of an article against allowing the General Council of the Trade Union Congress to mediate, contending that the miners are not yet in a position desperate enough to warrant such "suicidal steps."

M. Lozovsky declares that the British mining industry is losing one market after another and that Britain's entire economic structure has been shaken to its foundations. He says it is madness to allow "specialists in strike failures," such as Pugh, Thomas, Citrine and Purcell, to ruin the situation while there still is a chance for victory.

KNIGHTS OF ST. JOHN TO OUST KAISER'S SON

BERLIN, Nov. 12.—Prince Eitel Fredrich, second son of the ex-Kaiser, has been asked to resign his exalted post as Grand Master of the Knights of Saint John, the oldest and most exclusive order of Germany's nobility, because the courts have pronounced him the guilty party in his recent divorce case.

Should Eitel Fredrich fail to heed this request a court will be convened within the order, which would mean the formal ousting of the Prince, as the traditions and oaths of the Knights of Saint John brook no misconduct on the part of their members.

Applicants for membership, who must have attained the age of 30, must also show that they are of noble birth; possess hereditary landed property and that they have a clean life record.

Since the revival of the order in 1852 Eitel has been the third Grand Master, and the first in the long history of the order who has been requested to resign.

In order to attain this highest position a Knight must faithfully carry out the duties of all the inferior offices, which Eitel succeeded in doing.

The ex-Kaiser is the Patron of the order.

It is explained that the present action was taken after long deliberation, since the Knights did not wish to add to the misfortunes of the fallen dynasty, but that the sacred oaths of the order require the dismissal of any one making himself liable to a court sentence.

Germany Sends Kiep to Washington

BERLIN, Nov. 13 (AP).—Dr. Otto Kiep, former Chief of the Press Section of the Foreign Office, has been appointed Counselor and Chargé d'Affaires of the German Embassy in Washington, to succeed Dr. Hans Dieckhoff, who becomes Counselor of the Embassy in London, succeeding A. Dufor Ference, who goes to Geneva as German Under Secretary to the League of Nations.

HUNGARY REFORMS ITS HOUSE OF LORDS

$7,000,000 TAX CUT NEXT

Dissolving of Parliament With Elections Next Month Is Expected After Passage of This Measure.

BUDAPEST, Nov. 12.—With the reestablishment of the Hungarian House of Lords on a thoroughly reorganized basis now accomplished as result of the National Assembly's passing by a large majority the third reading of the bill last night, the program of the present Parliament may be considered practically concluded.

Though its term of office does not end until the Spring of 1927, it is generally believed that Premier Bethlen will ask Regent Horthy to dissolve the National Assembly in the near future. New elections are expected to be held for the House of Commons in the middle of December and for the House of Lords somewhat later. The Government considers these two houses competent to settle the throne question.

It now remains for the National Assembly to pass the bill which the Finance Minister has just introduced decreasing taxes by $7,000,000 and this is scheduled to be done next week. The chief reduction in the bill is the wine tax cut of 50 per cent. Land and house rent taxes are both diminished a fifth and sixth and the income tax exemption is extended.

The Opposition considers the tax measure a sure sign of the approaching elections, though it is doubtful if Count Bethlen needs it to maintain his majority. The Opposition also criticises the Finance Minister for not giving in his financial reports all the information and interpretive comment which Jeremiah Smith gave. But the answer is that a responsible Cabinet member's position is entirely different from that of the League Commissioner.

Composition of New House of Lords.

The new House of Lords represents a wide departure from the old House, which had 400 members, composed of 244 nobles paying taxes, thirty-nine clericals, fifty others nominated by the King, all the Hapsburg Archdukes, and sixteen high dignitaries. Excepting the last, who were ex-officio, all held office for life, mostly by hereditary right.

The present House will have 240 members, divided into six categories. The first, numbering about thirty-eight, includes both Representatives elected by the former hereditary noble members and those Hapsburg Archdukes who have resided five years in Hungary, own land in Hungary, speak and write Hungarian and are of age. These Hapsburgs—the only four Archdukes now able to qualify being Friedrich and his son, Albrecht, Joseph and his son, Franz Joseph—retain their permanent hereditary Hapsburg privileges, which have caused much opposition.

Local Councils to Elect Eighty.

In the second category about eighty will be elected for five-year terms by country and city councils. This category is the nearest approach to democratic representation in the House. Most of the councils who elect the members, however, have not been re-elected themselves since before the war. This detail has been the subject of intense criticism, especially since it is believed that Premier Bethlen will control practically the entire contingent.

The third category, which is thirty strong, represents the Catholic and two Protestant Churches and also includes two representatives of the Jewish faith.

In the fourth category are half a dozen high dignitaries such as the Senior Judges, the Attorney General, the Commander-in-Chief of the Army and the President of the National Bank, who are members ex officio.

The forty members of the fifth category will be elected by various bodies such as the Chambers of Commerce, Chambers of Agriculture, the Stock Exchange and scientific academic institutions, to represent them. Half of them will be re-elected every five years.

Finally there will be a maximum of forty named for life by the head of the State, Regent Horthy, on nomination of the Government.

Change Attacked as Reactionary.

The hereditary members, who formerly made up nearly all of the House of Lords, are thus reduced to the four Hapsburgs, though there is nothing to prevent numerous other Hapsburgs later qualifying for membership, and at once the dominant nobles become a small minority.

The categories elected by the second degree system, which formerly did not exist, now number half of the Chamber.

While this is obviously a step toward democracy, it has been attacked as reactionary by such leaders as Count Apponyi, who wanted the reform to go further and include, among other things, the representative bodies.

Count Apponyi also declared the bill unconstitutional, denying the National Assembly's right thus to change the Constitution, especially since the old House of Lords was never dissolved but merely prorogued on its own motion at the outbreak of the revolution in 1918.

Count Apponyi succeeded in getting only a vague reference to the possibility of a future change inserted in the bill.

The fact is that the Legitimists and the Social Democrats, the Opposition parties, fear that the new House of Lords is designed primarily to consolidate Count Bethlen's power to enable him to settle the throne question. They consider nearly all of the members of the second, fourth, fifth and sixth categories to be Count Bethlen's personal nominees.

The Government maintains that the National Assembly has the constitutional power to establish the new House of Lords and that such a house is needed in order to restore the normal Hungarian régime.

SOVIET CLOSES ROOMS WHERE CZAR DWELT

Furnishings of Winter Palace Apartments Are to Go to Make Way for Gallery.

MOSCOW, Nov. 12.—Apartments of the late Czar in the Winter Palace in Leningrad have been closed to the public. The furnishings will be sold and the rooms converted into a picture gallery.

The Moscow Evening News says the Ministry of Education and Fine Arts, which issued the order, was in view of numerous protests from workers' clubs and historical and other societies, the Leningrad closing is deemed necessary. The Ministry replied as follows:

"The furniture, &c., is considered to have little artistic value. Furthermore, the arrangement of the rooms was conducted without exactitude by the former imperial servants. Finally, the exhibition of the rooms to the public was considered to produce an unhealthy atmosphere."

It is true that from the viewpoint of artistic taste the apartments are not particularly successful. The French "art nouveau" furniture of the early twentieth century rivaled the extravagances of Munich art of the same period. The Czarina's private boudoir was decorated with chromo lithographs that modern standards "fail to esteem."

But this, one might think, would not induce the Soviet authorities to close the apartments. On the other hand, even the most cynical and most casual visitor cannot fail to be impressed by a sense of pathos—the very lack of first-class taste gives a sense of homeliness, simplicity and kindliness—especially, for instance, the depressingly poor little collection of amateur photographs of the imperial family, the children, dogs, dolls, &c. The visitor may not admire Russia's former rulers after seeing the apartments, but he can hardly visualize them as bloodthirsty tyrants.

CONGRESS MEMBERS LAUD 'JOE' CANNON

Democrats Join Republicans in Tributes to His Character and Public Service.

GREAT PATRIOT, SAYS BORAH

Fearlessly Upheld High Standards, Dawes Declares — Praised by Those Who Opposed Him.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Senators and members of the House who had served with "Uncle Joe" Cannon joined in tributes to him today.

Politics was forgotten and Democrats were as laudatory of the dead ex-Speaker's character and career as were the Republicans who had fought by his side in the memorable battle over the Cannon rules and the ultimate defeat of the wing of the Republican Party led by Mr. Cannon. Senator Norris of Nebraska, who as a House member was a leader in the anti-Cannon ranks, joined in today's tributes to the statesman of Danville. Following is what some of the men who knew Mr. Cannon so long and so well had to say of him:

Vice President Dawes:

"In the death of Mr. Cannon the country loses one of its outstanding figures. His picturesque character, which always excited such general interest, only emphasized the remembrance of the long years of arduous toil in the public service which gave to him a unique place among American statesmen.

"In his long service as Chairman of the House Committee on Appropriations he was a fearless exponent of economy and common sense and a tireless student of economic truth and financial fact. As the Speaker of the House he inspired universal respect despite the enmities created by his determined leadership.

"He belonged to the old school of statesmen, fearlessly upholding high standards and never seeking to compromise on questions of principle. He dies a universally honored and beloved figure."

Of the Lincoln Type, Says Borah.

Senator William E. Borah, Idaho:

"Mr. Cannon was a picturesque figure, belonging to another era. He was a great American and a patriot of the Lincoln type."

Senator Carter Glass, Virginia:

"Mr. Cannon was the most diligent member of Congress I ever encountered. He proposed to prevent the Federal Treasury from raids of all descriptions and stopped expenditures of great amounts of money. His career was probably without parallel in the history of the country. It is a great pity that he felt obliged because of extreme old age to retire from public service instead of remaining to die in his working clothes."

Senator James W. Wadsworth Jr., New York:

"With him passes one of the great figures American politics has ever known. Rugged, honest courageous."

Senator Wesley Jones, Washington:

"Uncle Joe was one of the most remarkable men in American history. As a public servant his record was surpassed by no man."

Senator Charles L. McNary, Oregon:

"Mr. Cannon was an intelligent and picturesque statesman. His career was a notable one and he leaves no one to take his place."

Norris Lauds His Honesty.

Senator George W. Norris, Nebraska:

"I am very sorry to hear of Mr. Cannon's death. He was a leader in public affairs for half a century. There was nothing personal in our fight. We represented different ideas, and that was all. He made a wonderful record in public service, and I do not think he ever did anything he did not believe was right. His death is a loss to the nation."

Senator Hiram Johnson, California:

"A remarkable figure in American politics has passed and, of course, it is very sad to all of us."

Senator Charles E. Warren, Wyoming:

"I am shocked to hear the news. I knew Mr. Cannon for fifty years and no truer heart ever ceased to beat than his. He was one of the ablest statesmen of his time, not so much because of his words, but because of his accomplishments."

Representative Martin B. Madden, Illinois:

"Uncle Joe was always my friend. He was one of the great figures in the greatest period of American history, a period that covered the years from the Civil War to the World War. He had more to do in a legislative way during his fifty years of service than any other man in public life. His every thought and all of his work was calculated to promote the nation's well-being. He lived and died for his country."

Senator Claude A. Swanson, Virginia:

"I served for fourteen years in the House with Mr. Cannon and knew him intimately. He was a rugged and striking personality and at the same time one of the most attractive and pleasant men I have ever known. He loathed a sham, hated a lie and was fearless and persistent in the advocacy of his convictions."

Representative William R. Green, Iowa:

"For half a century Mr. Cannon was one of the outstanding figures in Congress. He was a man of strong convictions and he never hesitated to express them. He naturally developed many opponents, but those who opposed him were never his personal enemies."

Fought for Economy, Says Burton.

Representative Theodore A. Burton, Ohio:

"Mr. Cannon was a great many years one of the great figures in Congress, fearless, honest and conservative. These were his most striking characteristics. He will not be forgotten, and mainly because of his great record for economy in public affairs."

Senator Sheppard, Texas:

"In the death of Joseph C. Cannon one of the great figures of recent times has passed away. His passing will be universally mourned. All sections and all parties will unite in expressing admiration for his many marvelous qualities and for his outstanding character and career. He was fearlessly devoted to his principles and ideals, and above all was a devoted patriot. He occupies a high place in American history and in American hearts."

Senator Dill, Washington:

"Uncle Joe's death comes as a great shock. He was one of the kindest and most lovable of the great men who have served for long periods of time in Congress. Those who served with him will always recall it with proud pleasure."

Senator Lenroot, Wisconsin:

"While I came to the House on the issue of anti-Cannonism and helped to dethrone Mr. Cannon I grew to have the greatest respect for him and to know that he was as conscientious and as patriotic as any of us who fought him."

'JOE' CANNON DIES IN DANVILLE AT 90

appear publicly in the weeks preceding his death, but his greatest regret was occasioned by his inability to speak at a schoolhouse near Annapolis, Ind., where he made his first public speech as a schoolboy.

For the first time since he voted, for Lincoln in 1860, Mr. Cannon failed to cast his ballot a week ago last Thursday. He would have gone to the polls, he said, but a long period of rainy weather prevented him from registering.

The courage which Mr. Cannon always displayed marked his last days. Recently he told his daughters and his nurse to have courage and not give up. He did not fear death and rarely spoke of it except incidentally, Dr. Wilkinson said.

Funeral Plans Are Deferred.

Plans for the funeral were incomplete tonight, pending the arrival from San Francisco and Washington of two granddaughters, Mrs. William Houghtelling and Mrs. Dorsey Richardson. Mr. Cannon's two daughters, Mrs. Mabel Leseure and Miss Helen Cannon, were with him when he died.

Funeral services will be held here and interment will be in the Danville Cemetery. It is believed that Tuesday will be selected for the last rites.

America knew Cannon as "Uncle Joe," the stalwart leader of the lower house, the fire-eating debater, the genial, whiskered politician, clenching a cigar in his teeth under a broad-brimmed hat.

Danville knew him too as "Uncle Joe" and as its most famous townsman, but it knew him also as a man who came to great wealth during a lifetime here. He was accounted many times a millionaire, and at his death he owned a substantial share of the national bank which he and his late brother, William, founded. Much of his wealth, it was said, was acquired through investment of his money by his brother.

CANNON FOR 50 YEARS HAD 'A BULLY TIME'

Former Speaker Enjoyed the Tempest Equally With the Sunshine.

No public man in America had a more colorful career than Joseph Gurney Cannon. That career lasted full fifty years, unless we deduct those two brief periods of enforced retirement when a disturbed electorate sent others to occupy his seat in the House of Representatives. It was a career of sunshine and tempest. If Roosevelt had "a bully time," as he said he had in the seven and a half years he lived in the White House, Cannon had as bully a time for half a century.

It is a question which he enjoyed most—the tempest or the sunshine. Probably, judged by the observation of those who were with him in stormy weather and fair, he enjoyed each equally. A two-fisted forensic fighter, an orator of the rough-and-ready sort, able to handle himself well against any nimble-witted foe; a master of slow-driven but penetrating invective, he gloried in the battle of politics and seldom if ever let the gauntlet of defiance lie at his feet.

But his man-at-arms onslaughts were all to practical ends. He was essentially practical in his legislative policies. President Coolidge, in his application of principles of economy and retrenchment, had an able predecessor in Cannon. In his long service as Chairman of the House Committee on Appropriations he was a veritable watchdog of the Treasury. He was ever on the lookout for attempts to loot the public money chest under cover of law.

Going over his legislative career, many might say that his name was attached to few, if any, constructive measures. Annual supply bills for the support of the Government do not have the names of men attached to them. But on these his dominating personality was deeply imprinted, with that dominance on the side of economy and efficiency of administration. His forte was hard work, the kind of hard work done behind the closed doors of a committee room, where the needs of the country were appraised and cared for in the light of public progress coupled with the status of the Government's finances.

It was not work that shone. Only among the few living who watched him labor in the heyday of his physical and mental vigor is there appreciation of the man's usefulness. He may be criticized for the manner in which he exercised power when he obtained power or for his abiding faith in outstanding principles of his party, but at least it was an abiding faith that, with these principles translated into action, the nation would be better served. At any rate, those who knew him did not question his honesty of purpose, however much it may have been doubted by others.

Loved the Company of Men.

In his personal aspects he was unlike any popular impression obtained from his fighting in the arena of public affairs. Genial, kindly, filled with the spirit of camaraderie, he loved the company of men. He worked hard and he played hard. If he was severely ironical in his private comment on those whose political or personal conduct or character he did not like, with his chosen friends he was kindness itself. The affection in which he was held was attested by the familiar pseudonym of "Uncle Joe."

He appeared to be affected little by any criticism aimed at his public or private doings. A good "cusser," his nation-wide reputation for profane expletive was not deserved in the sense in which the term profanity is commonly understood. The game of poker was a mental rest for him, not a struggle to win money. He never concealed his liking for it.

"How do you kill time?" he was asked.

"Raising the tariff in the afternoon and the ante at night," he answered.

He could not resist making remarks like that.

In his old age Mr. Cannon mellowed in kindliness and gentleness to the complete exclusion of any bitterness for political foe or desire to employ broadaxe invective in public debate. All his life full of the spirit of play in the periods allotted to play, he cast aside hard work when the burden of years told him that his days for work had passed. Then he calmly watched others carry on legislative labors in his place and devoted himself to his friends, young as well as old, playing with less animation, but keenly appreciative of hearing others sing the songs he used to sing or tell the stories that once were his.

Liked to Sing and to Dance a Jig.

He sang much in his playtime. Agile, too, he could dance a jig when the company was fitting. Half a century ago, when the President of the United States, members of the Cabinet Senators and Representatives journeyed from Washington to attend the Centennial at Philadelphia, this pink-cheeked, silken-bearded young Congressman of 40, executed a breakdown for the edification of part of this company, and from that time on everybody in the White House knew Cannon of Illinois by sight at least.

The memory of the writer of this sketch goes back many years to a day of Congressional adjournment, when, in the long, dim-lighted, almost deserted lower corridor of the Capitol, he saw three members of the House—Cannon of Illinois, McKinley of Ohio and Bayne of Pennsylvania—marching along, arm in arm, obviously happy in the ending of the wearisome Congressional session. They were singing, their voices low, and they kept step to the cadence of the song.

There was no lack of dignity in it. McKinley was dignity personified and conveyed its spirit to those in his company. But it was Cannon whose spirit ruled that day. Playtime had come, and to him playtime meant expression in song. The others could not resist his spontaneous, if subdued, joyfulness. Over those others hung tragedy. McKinley, President of the United States, went down under an assassin's bullet. Bayne, popular, lovable, died by his own hand when depression became too great to bear. Cannon survived them many, many years, rubbing elbows with tragedy, receiving and delivering hard knocks, touching the men who made history, helping to make history himself, suffering political misfortune, pushed outside the party breastworks on occasion by those in power, designated a ruthless "czar" by his enemies, loved by his friends, taking misfortune with philosophy and smiling face, and ending it all in contented retirement in the knowledge that he had had a half century of a "bully" time.

His Most Dramatic Moment.

There were dramatic moments in those fifty years. The most dramatic of them came when he was approaching his seventy-fourth birthday. Recalling his manner and appearance then, it is difficult to realize he was so old. He seemed to be in the very vigor of manhood. Those who sought to tear power from him never thought they were striking at one who had passed three score and ten.

It was in 1910. Cannon was Speaker of the House of Representatives. His power was enormous. He made committee assignments, chose committee Chairmen and dominated the Committee on Rules, which determined what legislation should be brought forward and what should not.

If one was a Republican Representative who flaunted the Speaker's orders, one found one's self in a lowly position on a lowly committee, with no chance to obtain prominence. To get recognition for a speech, one must appeal to the Speaker in advance. The Speaker virtually was the House. As Georges Clemenceau, paraphrasing Louis XIV, said of Woodrow Wilson:

"He is not the State; he is the forty-eight States."

The spirit which culminated in the Roosevelt revolt of 1912 had been seething in the Republican Party for some time. The Payne-Aldrich tariff legislation of 1909 had aroused a near-revolt in the party. Roosevelt, who was sympathetic to the party element which called itself progressive, had been succeeded as President by Taft. Dissatisfied Republicans in the House, mostly from the West, organized an "insurgent" movement against Speaker Cannon on account of certain of his rulings and his general policy. Representative George W. Norris of Nebraska on March 19, 1910, offered a resolution to have the members of the Committee on Rules elected by the House and to exclude the Speaker from membership.

Wins on a Dare.

A bitter parliamentary battle followed. Speaker Cannon sustained an objection against the resolution. An appeal was noted. Joining forces, the Democrats and insurgent Republicans overruled the Speaker. Amid the tumult there were shouts against Cannon. Sitting high on the rostrum, Uncle Joe calmly suggested that his place could be declared vacant by a majority vote.

The dare was accepted. While excited Democrats and insurgent Republicans rushed toward the rostrum, as if physically to tear the Speaker from his throne, a resolution was offered to declare the office of Speaker vacant and to proceed to elect a new Speaker. But that was going too far for most of the insurgents. Party loyalty hung by a thin thread, but the thread held. Only eight insurgents voted with the Democrats to depose Cannon. The resolution was lost, 155 to 192.

That was the beginning of the end of what had come to be called "Cannonism." In subsequent Congresses the Speaker's power was curtailed, until nowadays the Chairmen and members of committees are elected by the House, the Committee on Rules functions independently of the Speaker, and the House generally is dominated by the House itself.

The ninety years of life just ended were begun in a Quaker hamlet near Guilford, N. C. Mr. Cannon was born there on May 7, 1836. His parents were Quakers. When Joseph Gurney was only 4 years old, his father, a country doctor, moved with his wife and children and ten other Quaker families to Indiana, near Terre Haute. Their aversion to slavery was the cause of this migration. Dr. Cannon was drowned in the Wabash, and Joseph, a mere boy, became the chief support of the family.

Began Life as a Clerk.

For four years he "clerked" in a country store and studied law. He attended the Cincinnati Law School, walked back to the Wabash when his course was finished because he did not have carfare, practised law there for awhile, and then hung out his shingle in Tuscola, Ill.

In 1860, when he was 24, Mr. Cannon made his first trial in politics by running for the office of State's Attorney. He was defeated. He moved to Danville, his future home, and in the next year, the year of the outbreak of the Civil War, he won the State's Attorneyship and held the office until 1868. In 1872, the year U. S. Grant was re-elected President over Horace Greeley and Charles O'Conor, Mr. Cannon was elected to the House of Representatives. His term began the next year, when he was 36.

When Congress and the country were thrown into turmoil over the Hayes-Tilden Presidential contest at the end of 1876 and in the early part of 1877, Cannon was fairly well known as a member of the House. He was re-elected for term after term until 1890, when he was engulfed in the Democratic tidal wave, forerunner of Grover Cleveland's second Presidential triumph in 1892. But Cannon weathered the storm of Cleveland's election and was returned to the House. The Roosevelt Bull Moose movement of 1912 brought him another defeat, but two years later he was again victor at the polls and he served until his voluntary retirement from the House on March 4, 1923, just fifty years after he had entered that body as a member.

In those fifty years he served continuously in Congress with the exception of the four years mentioned. For many terms he was Chairman of the Committee on Appropriations. He was Speaker in the Fifty-eighth, Fifty-ninth, Sixtieth and Sixty-first Congresses, a period of eight years.

By his political critics Cannon was attacked as a reactionary, an obstacle in the way of progress and reform in government. A hidebound protectionist, he ran counter to the movement for lower customs duties, sponsored by some of the leading men of his party along the lines of "the Iowa idea," advanced by Governor (later Senator) Albert B. Cummins of Iowa. Back in the early '90s Theodore Roosevelt, then a United States Civil Service Commissioner, set Cannon down as an enemy of civil service reform. He was classed by these critics as a legislative friend of "the interests," an Old Guardsman who never surrendered to new ideas directed to the public welfare.

But his personal honesty and integrity were never attacked by those who knew him in Washington. Nothing he did as a legislator could be construed as designed to help himself or his friends in any direct material way. In fact, his consistent course was to hold down appropriations from the Treasury. His high protectionist policy was based on a general principle and not on an intention to help any particular group.

Although by profession a lawyer, his private income was derived from a country bank which his brother ran while Uncle Joe played the fascinating game of politics in Washington. His share of the bank's profit gave him ample means. A widower, he lived simply, taking little part in social affairs. When he became Speaker he leased a big house and entertained well, but without ostentation. His unmarried daughter served as hostess of the Speaker's home.

In the earlier stages of their official and personal intercourse the attitude of President Roosevelt toward Mr. Cannon was mixed and uncertain. Colonel Roosevelt became President in 1901. Mr. Cannon became Speaker in 1903 and served as such throughout the Roosevelt régime.

Just before Cannon's election as Speaker President Roosevelt, in a letter to William H. Taft, spoke of him and others as leaders of "great intelligence and power." When Congress adjourned in 1906 President Roosevelt wrote: "With Mr. Cannon as Speaker the House has accomplished a literally phenomenal amount of good work."

There are frequent references to Cannon, some admiring, some critical, in Roosevelt's letters to Henry Cabot Lodge. Cannon came to New York in 1906 to speak in behalf of Charles E. Hughes's candidacy for Governor, and (said Roosevelt) "half emptied a big hall by making a long speech" on the tariff, the history of the Republican Party, the full dinner pail, and various other topics about which people in New York this year are no more concerned than they are with the embargo on the Dred Scott decision."

"I have been protesting to Sherman (James S. Sherman) and Cannon against their use of the words 'stand pat,'" he wrote. "They (the voters) do not understand the expression 'stand pat,' and do not like it."

As to the labor question, Roosevelt told Lodge that he "thought Cannon took a very manly stand and was entitled to any backing I could give him." In the Presidential campaign of 1908, with Taft and Sherman on the Republican ticket, Roosevelt said he was "disturbed by the extent of the hostility and the revolt against Cannon."

Attitude on Tariff Attacked.

In 1910, with Taft President, Roosevelt expressed belief in what he quoted Elihu Root as saying:

"That it was useless to hope to do good work on the tariff if we adhered to the way which Cannon, Payne, Dalzell and even as able a man as Aldrich declared to be the only way."

And the same year Roosevelt wrote from Christiania, Norway, on his return from his African hunting trip, with reference to American political conditions, that "it seems to me that Taft, Cannon, Aldrich and the others have totally misestimated the character of the movement which we now have to face in America."

And Lodge had written to Roosevelt in Africa "that it would be a great misfortune to lose the House, but it must be understood that Cannon is not to be re-elected Speaker," and "it would be impossible, in my judgment, to elect a House if it was known that Cannon was again to be Speaker if the Republicans won." The Democrats won the House and Cannon passed out of the Speakership, never to resume it.

Clash With Roosevelt Inevitable.

Roosevelt and Cannon were of opposite types and clashing was inevitable. Cannon believed that changes in the existing political order should be made gradually and regarded Roosevelt's methods as disorderly. Roosevelt looked upon Cannon as a foe to progressivism. In his autobiography Roosevelt says he succeeded as President in working with Cannon and Senators Aldrich and Hale for some years, "although with increasing friction," but he "was forced to abandon the effort to persuade them to come my way," and after that he got results by appealing over their heads to the people, and "the Republican Party became once more the progressive and, indeed, the fairly radical progressive party of the nation."

Roosevelt clashed with Senator Aldrich, leader of the Senate, and Speaker Cannon, dominating personality in the House, over the railway rate legislation of 1906-07. Roosevelt wanted the law so drawn that the courts would be restricted in reviewing rate-fixing rulings of the Interstate Commerce Commission. Aldrich and Cannon insisted that the courts should not be restricted. In these days it is difficult to realize the country-wide excitement over the demand of Roosevelt for the "narrow review" as opposed to the "broad review" advocated by Aldrich, Cannon and others high in Republican councils.

In the end the matter was determined by a compromise offered by that noted conciliator, Senator William B. Allison of Iowa, but not until friendships had been broken and the tempers of Republican leaders were ragged. Roosevelt denied the accusation that he sought to make a bargain by which the Senate Democrats would join with those Republican Senators who favored the "narrow review."

The outcome of the denial was a break in his friendship with William E. Chandler of New Hampshire, former Secretary of the Navy and former Senator, who declared that he had served as Roosevelt's go-between to get Senators Joseph W. Bailey of Texas and Benjamin R. Tillman of South Carolina, between whom and President Roosevelt there was a cordial personal dislike, to induce the Senate Democrats to overthrow Aldrich and the Senate's Republican leadership.

Disturbed Over Foreign Affairs.

Roosevelt's international policies disturbed Cannon and he did not hesitate to make known his views to the President personally. During most of Roosevelt's Presidential tenure Cannon dominated the House, while Aldrich controlled the less resilient Senate almost as completely. Despite their power, however, each subscribed to the principle that "all legislation is compromise," as the writer of this sketch heard them say more than once in personal conversation, and they were able to effect understandings between warring factions of their following when less experienced men would have failed but the popular impression was that each ruled his branch of Congress with a punitive whip.

Much of the progress they made in enacting legislation was due to the community of interests they had established, with their close relationship made firmer by a suspicion of President Roosevelt.

The writer recalls an instance that demonstrated this virtual partnership. After finding Congress unsympathetic to a proposal from him that the President should be authorized to employ agents of the Treasury Department's secret service for other purposes than detecting counterfeiting and guarding the person of the President, Colonel Roosevelt made known his defiance in a brief paragraph of one of his annual messages to the effect that Congress had taken the attitude mentioned because Congressmen were afraid of being detected in questionable conduct.

L. White Busbey, Speaker Cannon's secretary, called the paragraph to the attention of the writer, who late that day showed it to Senator Aldrich. "That's going to cause trouble," exclaimed the Senate leader, with an unusual show of excitement. "I must see Cannon immediately."

That remark indicated how closely the two men worked. The brief paragraph resulted in an investigation by the House and a virtual censure of the President by that body, and admonitory but less severe action by the Senate.

Organized Labor Hostile.

Organized labor was hostile to Cannon. He and Samuel Gompers always were at swords' points. They had a famous quarrel, which worried Republican party managers.

Mr. Cannon's opponents in Congress were different in their attitude toward him from the outsiders who denounced "Cannonism." The outsiders looked on him as a bad man steeped in reaction. In Congress his opponents hammered him without mercy for alleged political shortcomings, but they respected his personal character. Off the floor of the House they showed an affectionate liking for Uncle Joe. His popularity among them was intense.

Honored on 70th Birthday.

On Mr. Cannon's seventieth birthday Democratic Congressmen joined with their Republican brethren in giving a reception in his honor at the old Arlington Hotel, abode of statesmen, that was the talk of the capital for years. Republican Congressmen contributed $100 each and Democratic Congressmen $20 each to defray the expense. President Roosevelt came, so did the Cabinet, the Senate and the corps of Washington correspondents. For that pro-Volstead occasion there was provided everything in the potent liquid scale from beer to champagne. Those who fought Mr. Cannon on the floor of the House came that night to attest their personal affection for him.

Just before he retired from Congress temporarily after his defeat in 1912, a testimonial dinner was given in Mr. Cannon's honor at the Raleigh Hotel in Washington. President Taft made an eulogistic speech. Other speakers were Champ Clark, Democratic Speaker of the House; Senator Elihu Root, Representative Oscar C. Underwood, Democratic leader of the House; Senators John Sharp Williams and Senator-elect Ollie James, Democrats, and Hilary Herbert, who had been Secretary of the Navy under President Cleveland. Uncle Joe enjoyed it all, but perhaps he enjoyed most joining in the chorus of his favorite song.

His Favorite Song.

This was "De Watermillion Hangin' on de Vine," rendered by Major Alfred J. Stofer of Culpeper, Va., who had sung it to Uncle Joe's delight at Gridiron Club dinners. His head thrown back, his eyes on the ceiling, the inevitable half-consumed but unlighted cigar tilted upward from a corner of his mouth, while he beat time with hand and foot, the venerable legislator sang with gusto:

"Oh, de ham bone am good, de bacon am sweet,
"Possum meat am very, very fine;
"But gimme, oh, gimme, oh, how I wish you would,
"Dat watermillion hangin' on de vine."

The passing of Mr. Cannon marks the passing of perhaps the last relic of the old régime—the régime in which opposition to one's party was a political cardinal sin, in which, through the distribution of patronage to party workers generally by the President, and by the Speaker in committee assignments in the House of Representatives, solidarity of party lines was reserved. Through that solidarity a party functioned as a party, with the result that in Congress, while the scope and character of legislation was restricted as a rule to the disposition of the party's leaders, campaign platform pledges were translated into laws and Congressional sessions spelled accomplishment. It was a rather ruthless system of oligarchic leadership, but it did things.

Last Survivor of 200 Statesmen.

In an upper corridor of the Senate wing of the Capitol is a painting showing the sitting of the electoral commission of 1877, done by Mrs. Cornelia Adele Fassett. The passing of the old régime with Mr. Cannon's death is emphasized by the fact that he was the last survivor of all the more than 200 statesmen whose portraits are preserved there. Of the others whose features are portrayed, only one is said to be alive today, Theron C. Crawford, a newspaper correspondent.

Uncle Joe was a familiar figure in the streets of Washington in his fifty years of almost continuous residence there. When he wore an overcoat it was more often thrown over his shoulders, or, sometimes, one arm would be thrust in a sleeve and the garment gathered around him like the cloak of a Spanish grandee. With the broad brim of his black slouch hat tipped rakishly over his eyes, his cigar tilted at an upward angle, he strolled along slowly, always apparently deep in thought.

But when in action on the floor of the House he presented a different appearance. There he was the charging champion. Beginning with voice deep and low, it rose to a scream if he was attacking or responding to an attack, as he pranced up and down the aisle, making wide-sweeping circles with his left hand.

Champ Clark dubbed him "The Dancing Dervish of Danville."

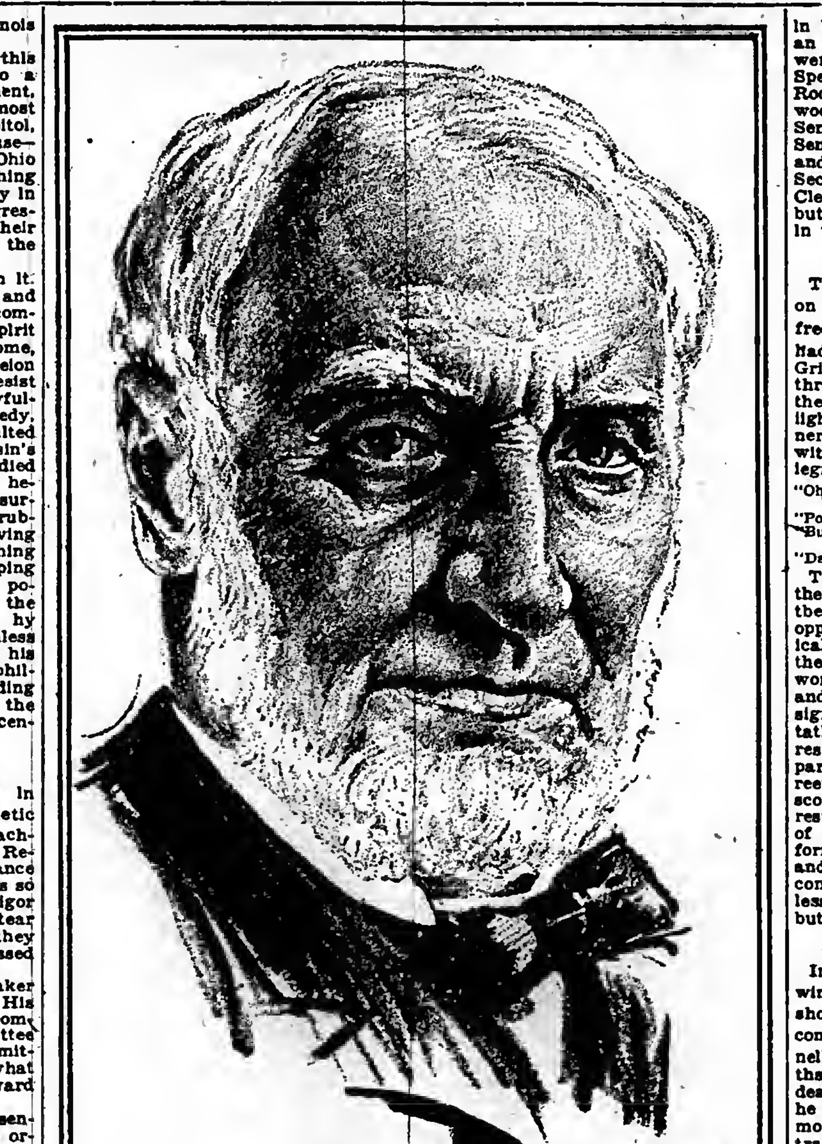
"For how long?" asked Speaker James G. Blaine. "As long as the gentleman will keep his left hand in his pocket," said Cox. But Cannon couldn't orate without the aid of his left hand and in half a minute Cox was able to shout, "Time's up." Hostile artists caricatured Cannon's left hand sometimes many-fingered and his political foes scattered the caricatures broadcast in his Congressional district. "They elected me," said Uncle Joe.

In 1908 Cannon was a candidate for the Republican nomination for President. Taft won the nomination. There were frequent reports that Cannon would enter the Presidential race. "Scat," was his only response to newspaper men when they asked him about one such report.

Mr. Cannon was born in the Administration of Andrew Jackson, so that his life covered the terms of all Presidents except the first six. He was elected to his first public office in Illinois the year Abraham Lincoln left Illinois for Washington to become President. In that office he remained through the Lincoln Administration and until nearly the end of Andrew Johnson's term. His Congressional experience commenced on the day of Grant's second inauguration.

If one counts Grover Cleveland twice, Mr. Cannon served in Congress in the Administrations of twelve Presidents: Grant, Hayes, Garfield, Arthur, Cleveland, Harrison, Cleveland, McKinley, Roosevelt, Taft, Wilson and Harding. His retirement from Congress came five months before Calvin Coolidge succeeded to the Presidency through Harding's death.



THE LATE JOSEPH G. CANNON.

Ex-Speaker of the House of Representatives Who Died at His Home in Danville, Ill., Yesterday at the Age of 90.

COOLIDGE SENDS CONDOLENCE.

President Telegraphs From Train to Cannon's Daughter.

Special to The New York Times.

ON BOARD THE PRESIDENTIAL TRAIN, Altoona, Pa., Nov. 12.—At Pittsburgh President Coolidge was informed of the death of ex-Speaker Cannon. Immediately he sent the following message of sympathy to the latter's daughter:

Miss Helen Cannon,
Danville, Ill.

In the passing of your distinguished father, Joseph G. Cannon, the nation has lost one of its most able, interesting and beloved public men of the last generation.

He will rank as a great American. His long service in the House of Representatives, devotion to his country, his faithfulness, his great courage and force of character made him a man that roused the pride of his party associates and commanded the respect of his opponents. His great influence gave his country a better government.

Mrs. Coolidge joins me in expressing to you and his other loved ones our deep sympathy.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

KEIFER EULOGIZES CANNON.

Ex-Speaker, Himself 90, Always Called the Illinoisan "the Kid."

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio, Nov. 12 (AP).—General J. Warren Keifer, 90, Springfield, a former Speaker of the House who served with "Uncle Joe" Cannon for years in Congress, was inexpressibly sad today when told of the latter's death.

"I always called Joe 'the Kid,'" said General Keifer. "You see, he was 90 years old last May and I will be 91 years old Jan. 30, so I am that much older than 'the Kid.' He always enjoyed that little joke, and often in his letters he would sign himself just that way.

"From the first I was attracted to Mr. Cannon because of his straightforward way of dealing with people. He was honest and sincere. He served his country well."

CALDER PAYS TRIBUTE.

Ex-Senator Says He Had a Real Affection for Cannon.

Regret at the death of former Speaker Cannon was expressed last night by former Senator William M. Calder.

"I served with him in the House of Representatives for ten years," Mr. Calder said. "No man who has served in Congress during the last fifty years rendered greater service to his country. I had a real affection for him."

LONDON, Nov. 12.—In a long obituary of former Speaker Cannon The London Times will say tomorrow:

"Beneath his rugged exterior he was a fine type of the rough and ready gentleman of the American Middle West. He had fine sympathies; he was a loyal friend and there was never a shadow of doubt where he stood.

"He meant what he said and often said it harshly but at the proper time and in the most fitting words. He could say words of real and genuine sympathy. He was a true, typical American."

PARIS, Nov. 12.—The American Ambassador was received by Foreign Minister Briand at the Quai d'Orsay this afternoon. It was Mr. Herrick's first official call since his return from a vacation in the United States, and it is understood that he had a long talk with M. Briand on the subject of the French debt to America.

The Ambassador could not be reached for a statement tonight, but ever since his return to Paris it has been generally anticipated that he would strongly advise ratification of the Mellon-Berenger accord as soon as he came into contact with the French officials.

The Ambassador was in a position to give the French Minister of Foreign Affairs a clear first-hand impression of the well-defined attitude of President Coolidge and the American public in regard to the debt question.

BURDEN ON SHIPPING BLAMED ON CHICAGO

Extra Load on Lake Business Due to Drainage Canal Put at $3,000,000 a Year.

CUT IN CARGO RAISES RATES

Effects of Diversion Are Felt as Far as Quebec, Witness for States Tells Hughes.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP).—Testimony that Chicago's drainage diversion burdened navigation on the Great Lakes system as far as St. Lawrence tidewater near Quebec was presented today in the Supreme Court lake level hearing before Special Master Charles E. Hughes.

Other claims emphasized by counsel for the six complainant States, which seek to curb diversions from Lake Michigan, follow:

A fall ranging from four to six inches in the water levels of the Great Lakes has reduced the cargo capacity of about 400 lake vessels by from 80 to 110 tons for each inch on each of thirty-eight cargoes in the average season.

The lower levels created shallow harbors to which higher rates must be charged to compensate vessel owners for loading light.

Newton D. Baker of counsel for the complainant States, charged that the Chicago diversion had reduced the level of Lake Michigan upward of six inches since 1900. He contended that the lower level represented an annual burden of about $3,000,000 on Great Lakes shipping.

Various witnesses called by the complainants today were questioned about the influence of lake levels on cargo rates. Records of the Federal Lake Survey office at Detroit were introduced, showing the result of Chicago withdrawals upon the various water levels.

Described by defense counsel as the crux of the controversy, these exhibits, submitted by Lieut. Col. George P. Pillsbury, attributed lake level reductions ranging from .380 to .562 feet in the Great Lakes system to the Chicago diversion.

Colonel Pillsbury testified that the effect of the withdrawal was observed in all the rivers, bays, inlets and harbors in or tributary to the Great Lakes, including the St. Lawrence River as far as Quebec.

Walter H. McGean, Cleveland, shipping operator, said his vessels lost 80 to 110 tons of cargo for each inch of draft lost in shallow harbors and that a number of lake ports, including Chicago, were charged compensating freight rates as a result.

STOP AMERICAN ART DEAL.

Belgian Cabinet Ministers Will Keep Altar Screen in Belgium.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 12.—Camille Huysmans, Belgian Minister of Sciences and Arts, and M. Hontart, Minister of Finance, took measures today to prevent the sale to an unnamed American of a priceless altar screen of the sixteenth century just discovered by them in a Brussels workshop.

This work of art was found in the town of Diest and was being repaired with the view of selling it to the American. The two Ministers visited the shop today and, after ascertaining its extreme value as a precious contribution to Belgian art, they announced that they would see that the screen is kept in Belgium.

TO ASK DRY POLL OF NATION

Senator Edwards Expects to Present "Momentous Issue" Monday.

Senator Edward I. Edwards of New Jersey will demand a national referendum on the Eighteenth Amendment in an address he is scheduled to deliver next Monday night at the Hotel Biltmore under the auspices of the Association for American Rights, a non-partisan organization having for its object the repeal of the amendment and the restoration of the principle of self-government.

"I firmly believe," said Senator Edwards yesterday, "that the message I shall give to the people of the United States Monday night will give rise to the most momentous issue ever presented to the people of our nation."

Engineers to Back Corporations in Demand That Government Reduce Interference.

REPORT MILLIONS WASTED

Many Official Agencies Require Frequent Returns, Without Any Uniformity in Their Methods.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 12.—The American Engineering Council today took action to check the flood of demands for data from corporations made by Federal and State Governments. The council, through its Administrative Board, meeting at Cornell University, voted to cooperate with the National Association of Manufacturers and other bodies in devising a plan to minimize the volume of corporate reports, which, it is charged, impose on industry useless burdens costing millions of dollars annually.

The engineers were urged to act by the Manufacturers' Association, which, in a communication presented to the council today, said:

"Other than fundamental data gathered every two years, at the instance of and useful to manufacturers, corporations are beset by numerous demands, some authorized by law and some not authorized, to make reports, statistical and financial, to sundry Federal bureaus and departments and to the States.

"These are of such frequency as to approximate one hundred separate reports annually from some manufacturing corporations. They are a serious tax on the time of important officials of the corporations as well as an item of no small expense in the conduct of business.

"It is believed that some systematic effort along this line can be made to produce tangible results so that corporate reports can be reduced to a modest number and at the same time be so unified as to very greatly minimize the time and effort required in their preparation."

Call Much of Data Useless.

The Engineering Council, under the direction of its President, Dexter S. Kimball of Cornell, will begin at once to work out a remedy by laying plans for "a comprehensive attack on the problem," with the aid of Federal and State officials, industrialists, accountants and other interested groups.

"In conducting industrial researches," Dean Kimball said, "I am continually receiving complaints from manufacturers that they are heavily burdened by a flood of requests for information from departments and bureaus of the Federal Government and of the States.

"Manufacturers are very anxious to obtain relief from this situation, which is growing more onerous and more costly. Engineers feel that this is an opportunity to perform a real service to American industry.

"Our experience has led us to believe that a great deal of the information collected by the various Governmental agencies is not readily usable. More serious, perhaps, is the fact that information collected by one agency cannot be coordinated with that gathered by another.

"A special committee of the American Engineering Council is now conducting a nation-wide study to determine the relationship between safety and production in industry. This committee must necessarily pursue two lines of inquiry.

"One line relates to the number and severity of accidents, and the other to quantity of production. As to accidents, the following governmental agencies collect information: Department of Labor, Interstate Commerce Commission and Bureau of Mines. Indeed, there may be others.

"There is no particular uniformity in the statistics gathered by these agencies regarding the one subject of accidents. Therefore, it is a difficult if not an impossible task to combine such statistics as are obtained from the three agencies.

"As to production, the following agencies collect statistics: Bureau of Census, certain divisions of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Interstate Commerce Commission and the Bureau of Mines. Again, there may be others. These statistics, like those concerning accidents, cannot be readily combined or used in any comparative way.

Lack of Uniformity.

"It is impossible to make any sort of comparison between accidents and production from data accumulated for instance, on accidents by the Department of Labor and on production by the Bureau of Census. Could this have been done, the safety and production study in which the Engineering Council is now engaged could have been accomplished at far less cost to every one concerned than is now the case.

"It is believed that coordination between the different Federal date collecting divisions, involving agreement as to the nature of the data to be collected and the field which should be covered by each, would enormously increase the possibilities of usefulness."

The council today voted to back Secretary Hoover's plan for a national policy in the development of water resources, as outlined in Mr. Hoover's recent speech at Seattle.

"The American Engineering Council fully endorses the plea of Secretary Hoover for an adequate national policy in developing water resources, and pledges its active support of his efforts to that end," declared the resolution presented by the Council's Public Affairs Committee, of which A. W. Berresford, Detroit manufacturer, is Chairman.

The Coolidge Administration, the engineers believe, will in 1928 be aggressively behind a program of major waterway improvement, with particular reference to opening the Great Lakes to the sea. Mr. Hoover's addresses of the past few weeks, it was declared, were intended to pre-empt that issue. Unanimity, it is held, will soon be accomplished between the American and Canadian authorities.

"Secretary Hoover," the Council's announcement said, "has well pointed out the growing interstate friction, local litigation, political obstruction and even international complication, over water questions, which are being evidenced throughout the country. Although in most every case this could be cured by the provision of more water supplies through storage or regulatory engineering works of some kind, only coordinated plans and organization can bring about this desired construction.

Adequate provision for housing the Patent Office as a part of the Government's $50,000,000 building program in the District of Columbia was also urged by the Engineering Council at today's session. Increased facilities and space for the Patent Office is essential, it was asserted, to science, invention and industry.

The Council voted to hold its annual meeting in Washington, D. C., Jan. 12 to 15.

OBREGON SEEN FIGURING IN OUR NOTE TO MEXICO

He Is Expected to Help Clear Up the Convention He Made—Sheffield Sees Kellogg.

Copyright, 1926, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 12.—All semi-official information here about the latest American note to the Mexican Government over its oil and land laws checks up with that emanating from Washington, that the note delivered by the American Chargé, H. F. Arthur Schoenfeld, to the Foreign Office on Wednesday is the most vigorous of any exchanged by the two Governments.

Taking a tactical advantage of former President Obregon's presence in Mexico City, the State Department is understood to have pressed the Mexican Government for a definition of its attitude toward the conventions entered into by the two Governments in 1923 when Señor Obregon was in power.

These provided, according to the American understanding, that the Mexican Government should not give a retroactive or confiscatory effect to Article XXVII of the 1917 Constitution.

The United States further contends, it is said, that the oil and land laws enacted last year specifically violate this agreement. It declines to accept the view that the document which Charles Beecher Warren and John Barton Payne signed for the American Government and Fernando Gonzales Roa and Ramon Rosa signed for Mexico, constituted a gentlemen's agreement, applicable only to the Administration presided over by President Obregon.

Accordingly, in the latest note, it is understood that the State Department inquired if the Calles Administration intended to abide by these conventions. General Obregon being at hand, it is expected that any misunderstanding about their status in international law will be cleared up.

It is also stated in well-informed quarters that the United States Government wishes to conclude the controversy on a basis of mutual accord before Dec. 31, when the time limit for applying for concessionary rights to exploit oil lands acquired prior to April, 1917 (when the present Constitution was promulgated), expires and the lands not asked for will be thrown open to the first applicants.

The perturbed oil companies, according to their representatives in Mexico City, are pressing the State Department to settle things for them before that date.

The Mexican Government, it is forecast, will return a fairly prompt reply to the latest American note.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP).—The reappearance of Ambassador Sheffield in Washington today for conference with President Coolidge and Secretary Kellogg served to bring the Mexican situation sharply to the fore. Despite the bleak silence of the State Department concerning matters under discussion, there can be no question that unusual importance is attached to these conversations.

Mr. Sheffield was with Secretary Kellogg for a considerable time today. Presumably he will find opportunity tomorrow for a talk with the President, since he is staying at the White House.

He is preparing to return to Mexico City, and there are indications that aspects of the situation he will face there, much wider than the continuance of the prolonged correspondence over Mexican oil and land laws, will be considered with the President.

Reports current in Europe today that the last American note, now before the Mexico City Government, contains a virtual ultimatum in connection with the oil-and-land controversy appear to be highly exaggerated.

At the same time there are signs that the note is regarded at the State Department as of more significance than the other two communications in the series.

AMERICAN FLIER HELD PRISONER BY MEXICANS

Naval Aviator Is Released by the Governor When He Learns Landing Was Forced.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Nov. 12 (AP).—Held a prisoner by the Mexican military authorities at Ensenada since yesterday, when he was compelled by engine trouble to make a forced landing near the Lower California port in his fighting plane, Lieutenant Joseph Gowan, attached to Fighting Squadron 2, Battle Fleet, was ordered released today by Governor Abelardo Rodriguez. Gowan returned to the North Island Naval Air Station with his plane.

Rear Admiral Josiah McKean, Commandant of the Eleventh Naval District, telegraphed to Governor Rodriguez, explaining that the naval aviator's visit to Ensenada was not intentional.

The Governor immediately telegraphed to Ensenada to release Lieutenant Gowan and his plane. Every possible assistance was given to him by the Mexican authorities after the facts of the forced landing became known.

Foster Mothers Hold Rally for Fund.

The first rally for the Tenth Anniversary Campaign of the Foster Mothers' Association was held yesterday at the Hotel Bradford, 210 West Seventieth Street. Dr. Alexander Lyons spoke. The organization feeds 1,200 undernourished public school children, has fifteen scholarships for children of widowed mothers and maintains two scout clubs. It is non-sectarian. Fifty thousand dollars is the goal for the campaign. The next rally will be held Dec. 6.

AIR LINES TO LONDON SEEN AS CERTAINTY

Federal Official Predicts Profitable Commercial Use in This Generation.

PRAISES THE MAIL SERVICE

Assistant Secretary MacCracken Outlines Government Policy to Marine Engineers.

William A. MacCracken Jr., Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Aviation, in an address last night at the annual dinner of the Society of Naval Architects and Marine Engineers at the Waldorf, declared that there was every reason to believe that profitable air commercial operations between New York and London would be one of the accomplishments of the present generation.

Mr. MacCracken outlined the Government's policy for the development of commercial air transport, discussed the high record of efficiency of the United States Air Mail Service and said that when the air mail record was compared to that of the automobile, railroad, steamboat or even the old horse and buggy it would be found that the air "is at the present time one of the safest mediums for transportation."

"This country has undertaken to develop commercial aviation without governmental subsidy," said Mr. MacCracken. "As far as Government regulation is concerned, Congress has undertaken only to regulate in such a way as to provide safety for aircraft passengers and cargo and those upon the ground. At present no attempt has been made to regulate either rates or service. Whether or not this will become necessary in the future depends largely upon the business ethics developed by those engaged in air transport. Should occasion require there is ample authority and precedent for such regulation, but it is to be hoped that the necessity for it will not arise."

Commenting on the possibility of a rapid development of aviation in this country the speaker cited the Air Mail Service as the outstanding example in the world for this type of transportation.

"The air mail last year had an on-time performance record of approximately 93 per cent.," he said. "Some of the commercial operators who have been carrying mail under contract for the last six months have a record of 100 per cent., and their average is well over 90 per cent. When you consider that these records were established by commercial operators during the first year of their existence, you must admit that they are furnishing a reliable means of transportation.

"The Postoffice Department has for several years had contracts with private operators carrying foreign mails between New Orleans and Pillottown and Seattle and Vancouver, each a distance of about eighty miles. All of these commercial operations have been carried on by heavier-than-air craft, and yet it has been demonstrated that lighter-than-air craft can satisfactorily negotiate transoceanic voyages."

Rear Admiral David W. Taylor, U. S. N., retired, President of the society, was toastmaster, and the other speakers were General A. C. Dalton, President of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, and Homer L. Ferguson, President of the Newport News Shipbuilding Company.

TO AID NEEDY ITALIANS.

Judge Mancuso Heads New Charity Body—Christmas Fund Sought.

Preliminary steps in the formation of the Italian Federation of Charities in this city were revealed yesterday by Judge Francis X. Mancuso of General Sessions in the announcement that an Italian Christmas fund had been started to distribute Christmas baskets and clothing to children of needy Italian families. All efforts of the main organization now are being centred on the success of the Christmas fund, Judge Mancuso said, in accepting the chairmanship of the fund, but completion of the organization was expected to be accomplished, he added after the holiday season.

The federation has opened headquarters at 434 Lafayette Street. It was announced, with Judge Mancuso in charge. Lionello Perera, for more than fifty years identified with banking and prominent in Italian-American affairs, has been elected Treasurer. Contributions to the fund will be received by him at his office, 63 Wall Street, it was announced.

ASKS DALY TO TESTIFY TO HIS FALSE ARREST

Marshal Hecht Begins Inquiry Into Mistaken Apprehension of Writer.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Nov. 12.—Carroll John Daly, novelist and short-story writer, of 37 Concord Avenue, this city, who spent a night in the Tombs a week ago when Deputy United States Marshal Schwartz arrested him by mistake for John J. Daly, wanted in California for using the mails to defraud, received a letter from United States Marshal William C. Hecht today.

Marshal Hecht asked Mr. Daly to testify at an inquiry which is being made into his arrest. The letter said: "Will you kindly call at my office in regard to your apprehension last Friday by my deputy, Nathan Schwartz. I am holding an inquiry into this matter and I would like very much to get your personal statement so that my inquiry may be complete."

Mr. Daly turned the letter over to his attorney, Charles J. Wallace of Yonkers. "I don't know just what I'll do about it," Mr. Daly said. "It depends on my attorney's advice. I've already suffered a great deal of unpleasantness, not to mention the night spent in the Tombs and $50 which I was compelled to pay for a bail bond and which no one has offered to refund. Why I should waste another day going to Manhattan to talk to the Marshal is beyond me. When they wanted me before, or thought they did, they came to White Plains. As far as I'm concerned, if they want my statement they can come here and get it. But I'll see what Mr. Wallace has to say."

Mr. Wallace declared that he had had a representative in Manhattan all day trying to get in touch with Marshal Hecht, but with no success.

The arrest of Mr. Daly was made notwithstanding protests by John McMillan, President of the Board of Aldermen of White Plains, and other citizens.

Late last evening Marshal Hecht announced that he had communicated with Mr. Wallace at Yonkers. "Mr. Wallace told me," the marshal said, "that Mr. Daly didn't want to be too hard on the deputy and was disposed to let the case drop."

SHOT, SUES FOR $50,000.

A. J. Tierney Accuses Ex-Patrolman and Four Companions.

Aloysius J. Tierney of 20 White Street, West Orange, N. J., former steward and manager of the Drug and Chemical Club of 100 William Street, brought suit yesterday in the Brooklyn Federal Court against Thomas M. Brennan, former New York patrolman, and four others for $50,000 damages.

The suit resulted from the shooting of Tierney while he was walking in John Street, a year ago, after an alleged drinking party in which Brennan and his four companions are said to have participated. Brennan was acquitted of the shooting but afterward was dropped from the force. The other defendants are: John Tagney of 149 Sixteenth Street, James J. Hayes of 530 Eleventh Street and James Reilly, all of Brooklyn, and Frederick W. Lamb of 9,732 109th Street, Richmond Hill.

Wants "Czar" for Night Clubs.

Regulation of night clubs by a commission or a "czar" was recommended yesterday by Thomas J. Furey, owner of such a club, at a meeting of the Broadway Cheese Club at the Twin Oaks Night Club. He said he had written Mayor Walker and Police Commissioner McLaughlin telling them of his idea. A committee of fifteen was appointed by Harry Hershfield, President of the club, to investigate the night club situation and report its findings to the club, the Mayor and the Police Commissioner.

SEE WAY TO BETTER COMPENSATION ACT

Two Deputy Attorneys General Tell Industrial Commission About Law's Faults.

TOO MANY APPEALS DECRIED

An Assessment on Appellants Urged —Increase in Maximum Payment Also Favored.

Two deputies of the State's Attorney General engaged in the administration of the Workmen's Compensation act sketched its faults and recited the difficulties met by their offices in testimony before the State Industrial Survey Commission yesterday, at the Bar Association Building, 42 West Forty-fourth Street.

E. C. Aiken, who is in charge of appeals, expressed the hope that appeals might be decreased, but said the operation of the law was as efficient as was possible. He would not favor the abolition of the right of persons or corporations to appeal from referees' decisions, though such tactics, he said, held up awards six months to two years.

Mr. Aiken advocated an increase of the present maximum payment of $20 a week to $25 to $30, explaining that the scale of wages had increased since the present figure was set. In hearings on accidents that result in death he would allow the admission of testimony by wives or doctors as to explanations of accidents made to them by the victims. Mr. Aiken's principal objection was to the volume of appeals. James W. Gerard, representing the public on the commission, suggested that a charge be added when an appellant failed to continue the case to the end.

Agrees With Suggestion for a Tax.

Alexander A. Tausky, Deputy Attorney General in charge of the New York Labor Bureau, which handles many details of compensation cases, agreed with Mr. Gerard's suggestion, though Mr. Aiken expressed the belief that such a step would not serve as a remedy. Mr. Tausky told of a bill drafted by the Attorney General assessing such appellants $10. He agreed with the suggestion of Representative Frederick Hackenburg that a fee of $25 would be more effective.

"The workman is the loser," said Mr. Hackenburg. He lies on his back, with no income, while senseless court delays go on. If a tax will hurry settlement of cases, it should be added."

Mr. Tausky said that appeals from the decisions of referees who hear testimony in compensation cases total 3,000 yearly in New York and only 500 such appeals are argued. He suggested that if the threat of assessment were held over the head of an insurance company it would appeal only such cases as it felt to be justifiable and worth fighting to the end. Thus, he said, "the nigger in the woodpile that explains those senseless delays would be located."

Violations of the State law requiring employers to protect their workmen were fewer, he said, pointing to figures for the current year as compared to 1925. There are 1,291 cases to be investigated this year and 1,916 last year. His office, he said, had collected $146,000 for claimants to insurance in 1925 and $139,000 in 1926.

Amendment Involves Eye Test.

Mr. Tausky endorsed an amendment offered by Mr. Gerard to a bill proposed by the Attorney General whereby the State Industrial Board would set the standard for eye tests in compensation cases. It was said by Henry D. Sayer, secretary to the commission, that the Snellen test was universally accepted and that its interpretation rather than the test was the cause of present confusion. Mr. Gerard's amendment was worded so that the Snellen test could be continued in New York while giving the Industrial Board broad rights in interpretation. Mr. Tausky agreed that the original desire to place with the board greater responsibility in eye cases would be met.

Mr. Aiken recommended the elimination of the clause whereby neither a physician who treats an injured workman, nor the workman himself, could recover the cost of the treatment when the bill was not reported to the Industrial Commission within twenty days. Mr. Tausky favored a clause extending indeterminately the period in which a workman treated for injuries at the direction of his employer or an insurance company may file his claim to compensation. The present period is one year, and the result, he said, was that many workmen, thinking only of the injury, neglect the compensation phase.

The commission adjourned yesterday afternoon until Nov. 22.

FAITH MAY COST HIM WIFE.

Husband Refuses to Renounce Catholicism and She Sues.

Peter Mallia's determination to remain a Catholic may cost him his wife, if Supreme Court Justice Edward J. McGoldrick approves the application of Mrs. Evelyn L. Mallia of 69 West 116th Street, for an annulment of their marriage.

Mallia made a fair enough husband but he was not always deferential to his wife's suggestions, it appeared from her testimony. In fact, after three months of marriage he still refused to embrace the Jewish faith. Consequently Mrs. Mallia left him in July. Added to her grievances was his persistence, she said, in avoiding the fulfilling of a pre-nuptial agreement to be married by a rabbi. The only ceremony was performed at the Municipal Building on April 5.

P. J. Fortinash of 192 Bowery, attorney for Mrs. Mallia, said his client was not yet 18 years old when she married. Mallia himself was not in court. Decision was reserved.

Noted Stars to Appear in Press Club Benefit Tomorrow Night.

There will be more than forty acts at the New York Press Club relief fund benefit at the Forty-fourth Street Theatre tomorrow ni and three orchestras will be on hand, Ben Bernie's, Vincent Lopez's and Eddie Elkins's.

Ben Gigli will sing at 10 o'clock. Mayor Walker, a member of the club is to appear in a minstrel act with George White, William Collier, Jack Donohue, Bugs Baer and possibly Al Jolson.

Harry Cooper has reassembled the Empire City Quartet for the occasion. Marie Dressler, Gene Tunney, Fannie Brice, Sam Bernard, Jimmy Hussey and others are announced to appear. Belle Baker has a special act for the occasion and so has Bobby Clark.

Princeton Head to Speak in West.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 12.—President John Grier Hibben of Princeton will leave Sunday morning for a tour of the Middle West to speak to Princeton alumni, fathers of undergraduates, and heads of secondary schools. He will discuss Princeton's progress during the last decade and especially since the war.

HELD IN DRUG FORGERY.

Woman Charged With Stealing Doctors' Prescription Pads.

Alma Kelly, 30 years old, of 203 West 107th Street, was held in $5,000 bail yesterday for the Grand Jury on a charge of forgery. She is alleged to have visited physicians' offices in order to steal prescription blanks and fill them out for narcotics. The complainant was Dr. Frank G. Esson of 166 West 105th Street. She was arraigned before Magistrate Edward Weil in Harlem Court.

Patrolman Westervelt arrested the woman Thursday night when, he said, she was acting strangely at Madison Avenue and 131st Street. Search of her person revealed numerous prescription blanks, the police said, and indicated that she was the woman who had been getting forged prescriptions filled in various parts of the city recently. She is said to have admitted the truth of the charge.

RENAMED IN HEALTH HOUSE.

Ginsberg Was Green and Klexner Became Kennedy, Hearing Reveals.

Testimony yesterday in the hearing of fraud charges against Dr. Leonard L. Landis of the House of Health before the State Board of Medical Examiners revealed that several persons worked at the institution under assumed names. Dr. Joseph Krohalski, under cross-examination by Deputy Attorney General Sol Ullman, admitted that Dr. Landis had asked him to shorten his name to Krobal that a Dr. Klexner was called Kennedy, a Miss Weishlatt was known as Miss White, and a staff member named Ginsberg was known as Green.

Four witnesses for the defense testified that the treatment they had received at the House of Health had been beneficial.

TAX SUIT ON JAN. 11 SEEKS $34,077,324

Largest Tax Collection Case in the History of the Country to Be Heard in Detroit.

EARLY FORD SHAREHOLDERS

Nine of the Original Owners Are Defendants—C. E. Hughes and John W. Davis Among Counsel.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Nov. 12.—The greatest tax collection suit in the history of the country will be heard in the United States Court of Tax Appeals, moving here especially for the occasion, on Jan. 11, when the Federal Government will seek a decision ordering nine of the original stockholders in the Ford Motor Company to pay $34,077,324.72 in back income taxes. Among the legal talent will be two Presidential candidates, Charles Evans Hughes and John W. Davis. The expectation is that nationally known economists will delve into the early history of the automotive industry.

The Government's original claim called for the payment of $38,177,322. This was later reduced by approximately $4,100,000. The nine stockholders sold their interests in the Ford Motor Company in 1919 for $12,500 a share, in most instances, and $13,000 a share in some. At that time the Government received $20,000,000 in taxes.

The Government collected 73 per cent. of the profits made at that time on the basis of an appraised value of $3,498.34 a share fixed by Commissioner Roper of the Treasury Department in 1913. The Government now contends this appraisal was too low.

James Couzens, United States Senator from Michigan, is alleged by the Government to owe the largest sum, $8,681,274.68. Horace H. Rackham is alleged to owe $5,044,396.20; the John F. Dodge estate, $5,455,396.20; the Horace Dodge estate, $5,455,396.20; John W. Anderson, $1,660,931.21; David Gray, $2,627,309; Paul Gray, $2,627,309; Philip H. Gray, $2,627,309, and Mrs. Rosetta Hauss, $34,404.82.

ROBBERS GET $140,000 FROM LA PORTE BANK

Five Men Force Officials and Patrons to Lie on Floor as They Loot Place.

LA PORTE, Ind., Nov. 12 (AP).—Five young men quietly robbed the People's Trust and Savings Bank of La Porte of $40,000 in cash and $100,000 in negotiable securities today, left town in an automobile and tonight no trace of them had been found.

Two employes and five customers were in the bank shortly before noon, when the five men, unmasked and well-dressed, drove to the bank and entered.

One shot was fired into the ceiling from a sawed-off shotgun, apparently in an effort to intimidate employes and customers, who were forced to lie on the floor while the cash from the till was scooped up.

This amount was not satisfactory and Harry Keller, the cashier, was forced to open the vault, from which the negotiable paper was obtained.

Leaving their victims face down on the floor the bandits hurried out, leaped into their motor car and were away before an alarm could be given.

The shot of intimidation was not heard by persons on the streets, although the bank is at the main corner of a town of 15,000 population. The bank is the largest in La Porte. This was La Porte's first bank robbery.

George McClane, President of the bank, was among those forced to lie upon the floor. George Petering, a teller, was talking over the telephone when the robbers entered. He was seized and thrown to the floor.

The alarm was broadcast immediately and all roads of Northern Indiana and the Illinois counties adjoining were patrolled without result.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12 (AP).—Four robbers, one armed with a sawed-off shotgun, seized cashiers' checks totalling $24,000 from a manufacturing company's bank messenger late today and escaped. The bandits accosted John Fisher, the messenger, as he was on the way from a bank to the Barrett Manufacturing Company's plant, grabbed a satchel containing the checks and escaped in an automobile.

DIRECTORS CLOSE A TRUST COMPANY

Kansas City Officials Act When Heavy Runs Deplete the Concern's Funds.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 12 (AP).—The Federal Trust Company of Kansas City, with deposits of about $2,000,000, was closed late today by the Board of Governors, who voted to place the institution in the hands of the State Finance Commissioner.

Heavy runs by depositors in the last two weeks caused the move, P. E. Laughlin, President, declared. He said the board believed the depositors were amply protected. The trust company did a general banking business.

Not a member of the Clearing House Association, the bank was reported to have lacked $100,000 of meeting items presented against it for clearance at the Federal Reserve Bank today.

"I think the deposits are safe," said President Laughlin, who was once a deputy in the Kansas Bank Commissioner's office. "I don't see how they can be otherwise. The bank has been operated carefully."

The State and the city are depositors. The city had $300,000 in the bank, which is protected by $330,000 in Government bonds on deposit in the First National Bank. The State's deposit is covered by a surety bond.

Hampered by "frozen" loans, the trust company had been leaning heavily on the rediscount facilities of the Federal Reserve System, until, it was said, all the eligible paper in the institution had been presented. The rediscounts were placed at slightly in excess of $400,000.

The bank's capital was $200,000 and its surplus $40,000.

Laughlin formed the Midwest National Bank and Trust Company here ten years ago and in 1920 this institution was merged with the National Reserve Bank. The resulting institution, the Midwest Reserve Trust Company, survived only a year. No depositors lost, but the directors and stockholders forfeited their investments.

Martin F. Ryan, for twenty years General President of the Brotherhood of Railway Carmen, was Chairman of the Board of the Federal Trust Company. He said tonight that he resigned several weeks ago because he was unable to devote his time to the bank.

TWO MINNESOTA BANKS CLOSED AFTER RUNS

Suspension of Concerns in Callaway and Detroit Lakes Follows Shooting of Bankers.

DETROIT LAKES, Minn., Nov. 12 (AP).—The mysterious shooting of two bankers in the Citizens' State Bank of Callaway, Minn., was followed today by the closing of that bank and the Security State Bank here, because of depleted reserves.

Physicians said another twenty-four hours must elapse before they would permit authorities to question W. J. Norby, a stockholder in the Callaway Bank, and Frank Murphy, its cashier, found in the bank Tuesday suffering from bullet wounds.

H. S. Erickson, President of the Callaway Bank, also is cashier of the Security Bank here, and both institutions were closed after runs had caused withdrawals imperiling their resources, the banks' officials said.

The Security Bank had deposits of $780,000 and the Callaway Bank $150,000. A. O. Sletvold, County Attorney, said he had found nothing in the closing of the banks to warrant any action by him.

The closing of the First National Bank here Monday, followed by the unexplained shooting of Norby and Murphy, "caused uneasiness among depositors of the Callaway Bank and Security Bank," in Mr. Sletvold's opinion, and led to the runs that forced their closing.

$16,817 for Arlington Gallery Art.

BANDITS GET $35,000 AT DOOR OF BANK

Two West Philadelphia Messengers Held Up Soon After a Payroll Robbery.

THIEVES BELIEVED SAME

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 12 (AP).—Five masked men tonight held up and robbed two messengers of the Belmont Trust Company in West Philadelphia of approximately $35,000 as they were about to enter the door of the bank.

Police believe the robbers, who escaped in an automobile, were the same that held up and robbed a member of a textile firm and his sister of payrolls amounting to more than $3,500 a few hours earlier.

The messengers, Raymond Kelly and Townsend Bongardt, were transferring the money in satchels from a branch of the trust company, at Forty-ninth Street and Woodland Avenue, to the main office, at Forty-ninth and Baltimore Avenue, five blocks away.

As they started to enter the door of the trust company they were confronted by four men wearing handkerchiefs as masks and armed with automatic pistols. Warning them not to make an outcry, the robbers ordered the messengers to hand over the satchels containing the money, most of which was in cash and negotiable paper. The messengers complied and the robbers jumped into their car, in which the fifth member of their band was sitting with the engine running and escaped. No trace of them has been found.

The bandits got two payrolls in the other robbery. The loot was $3,532, of which $2,561 was intended for the payroll of the Oswal-Lever Company, a textile machinery manufacturing firm, and the rest was a payroll for the Fine Arts Lace Company.

George Joyce, 23, member of the Oswal-Lever Company, was carrying the money in a bag, accompanied by his sister, Hanna, 25, an officer of the lace company, who had her money in a paper parcel. The money was in small notes and silver and had been obtained from a North Philadelphia bank a few minutes before the robbery.

BANDITS KILL CASHIER IN VAIN BANK HOLD-UP

Murder in Minot, N. D., Believed to Have Followed Refusal to Open Vault.

MINOT, N. D., Nov. 12 (AP).—Three bandits, who shot and killed Cashier H. N. Peterson in a fruitless hold-up of the Citizens State Bank of Wheelock today, were sought by authorities of Northwestern North Dakota tonight.

Reports of a closed automobile bearing three men speeding through several towns in Williams County caused sheriffs and deputies in that direction to be on the alert.

Peterson, who was 45 years old, was alone when the robbers entered the bank. He was found by a customer, shot twice in the head. He died soon after. Bank officials reported $100 in silver on the bank counter had not been touched. They believe Peterson was shot when he refused to open a compartment of the vault containing $3,000.

One of the men who fled from the bank in the automobile appeared to be wounded, several Wheelock residents said. If Peterson had a gun in the bank, the bandits were believed to have taken it, as it was not found.

G. O. Hougen, who went to the bank to transact some business, heard labored breathing in a rear room, and there he found Peterson lying on a small bed unconscious. Peterson died without regaining consciousness. In his pockets were found the keys to the vault compartments.

SHWARTZ COLLECTION BRINGS $47,183 TOTAL

The sale of books of fine bindings, first editions, manuscripts, colored plates and other items from the library of Simon J. Shwartz of New Orleans ended yesterday at the Anderson Galleries, 489 Park Avenue with a total of $47,183.75 realized. Of this $9,545 was taken in yesterday.

A high price of yesterday's sale was $825 paid by the George B. Smith Book Company for a collection of Napoleon autographs, manuscripts and portraits.

Gabriel Wells paid $440 for the secret dispatches which announced to the world the death of Napoleon; an announcement of his fatal illness and an autograph report of the autopsy. Mr. Wells also paid $260 for an album of autograph letters, documents and rare portraits of Napoleon, the Empress Josephine and Queen Hortense. Mr. Wells purchased for $510 an autograph account of the funeral of Napoleon by Arthur Bertrand, son of Marshal Bertrand, in whose charge the body of the Emperor was conveyed to Paris, and a copy of the Nuremberg Chronicle, illustrated with 1,800 woodcuts by Wohlgemuth and Pleydenwurff. The price for the letter was $400.

H. Mischke paid $430 for a sixteenth century manuscript "Book of Hours," a work made in France with inscriptions by earlier owners, dated 1615 and 1657. Another "Book of Hours" was bought for $310 by the George B. Smith Book Company.

Napoleon's own pocket map of Europe went to H. Woods for $340. A collection of sixty-five original drawings of and relating to Napoleon brought $470. The buyer was Barnet J. Beyer. Brentano's bought a bronze replica of the death mask of Napoleon for $320. It rests upon a bronze pillow supported by a pedestal.

RADIO GOES 'DEAD'; VANDAL CUT CABLE

Service From Temple Emanu-El on WRNY Interrupted for 15 Minutes to Make Repairs.

"LEAD IN" WIRE IS SEVERED

Runs Through Shrubbery in the Palisades to New Sending Point —Case a Mystery.

Broadcasting from Station WRNY abruptly went dead immediately after 6 o'clock last night, and investigation revealed that the cable leading to the antenna had been wilfully cut. The damage was repaired in fifteen minutes, but no trace of the persons who did it was discovered in the ensuing investigation.

WRNY, which is operated by the Hotel Roosevelt, broadcasts the regular Jewish religious service from Temple Emanu-El, 521 Fifth Avenue, every Friday evening. The preliminary tests had just been completed and the service begun, when the two men, whose duty it is to listen to the reception of the programs, suddenly found themselves listening to nothing.

The radio hook-up of WRNY takes the sound waves from the studio on the roof of the hotel, to which they are first collected, and transmits them by wire to the New Jersey shore, where they are put on the air. The station, which is a mile and a half above Fort Lee, was opened only last Tuesday. It is still incomplete, and the lead-in wire, which is to be buried in a conduit, at present lies along the ground. It was this wire which was severed.

Sergeant Joseph Rosentengel of the Fort Lee Police, who investigated, reported that there was no question that the wire had been intentionally cut. From its appearance, he said that apparently an attempt had been made to break the wire by bending it back and forth, as it was badly bent and showed marks of twisting near the cut. This attempt failing, he said the wire had finally been cut by a sharp instrument, probably clippers, leaving it cleanly severed.

The location of the sending station is on top of the Palisades, opposite 181st Street, and above Palisades Park. The region is sparsely settled, with few houses and many trees. At the point where the wire was cut there is heavy shrubbery, almost as dense as a thicket. Sergeant Rosentengel said there was practically no chance of finding any trace of the person who cut the line. Harold Hadden, technical man in charge of the sending station, who first discovered the cut, saw no one around at the time.

It was said last night that this was the first case of vandalism directed against a broadcasting station. Charles D. Isaacson, director of the station, while feeling that it was probable the job was the work of boys, or at least of some one who had no motive beyond mischief, insisted that he thought it quite possible that it might have been done by some one with an animus against the station.

Metropolitan Opera Tonight

"Meistersinger"

Little Librettos by LEONARD LIEBLING

WAGNER called his "Meistersinger" (The Master Singers) a "comic opera." Certain it is, that he had fun while he was writing the libretto and composing the music of "Meistersinger," for in this work, Wagner stuck out his tongue at his critical enemies, symbolically satirized and caricatured their conservatism, and lampooned their stupid inability to understand the progressive spirit of his genius.

But Wagner's somewhat sinister purpose fell under the spell of his overpowering creative and lyrical imagination. An exquisite love-story interwove itself with the argument, and three appealing and immortal characters were born; the arch and adorable Fräulein, her fiery young cavalier, and the tenderly romantic old humanist-philosopher who helps the pair unselfishly to a happy union.

"Meistersinger" is drenched with typically Wagnerian melody, garbed in marvelously varied orchestration of glowing beauty. The intoxicating love-music ranks among Wagner's most exalted inspirations. "Meistersinger" also features the imperishable "Prize Song," one of the world's most lasting best sellers in tune.

Conductor Artur Bodanzky achieves nothing more striking than his eloquent presentation of the melodic curve, the robust humor, and the brilliant orchestral pomp of this towering masterpiece of music.

This is Servian Rug No. 18—a rare 16th century Persian design with a rich rose ground.

Woven seamless in a variety of Oriental patterns, with a weave which shows the pattern through the back.

AMERICA'S NEWEST MASTERPIECE!

The Servian Rug by BIGELOW-HARTFORD

Here at last is the rug you always longed to afford!

A rug such as you have seen only at some unattainable price—soft and deep in fabric, with a seamless weave which shows the pattern through the back . . . lustrous colors patterned and shaded into the rarest designs of the ancient Orient.

A rug woven of the finest wools the world affords, a rug that will wear well-nigh a life-time, and hold the charm and freshness of its colors . . . your pride and delight for years, and yours at a price you would never have thought possible!

The Bigelow-Hartford Servian is far superior to the mass of foreign-made rugs now flooding the American market at low prices. Its heavy fabric has a consistency which only the power-loom can produce . . . its choice wools are colored with the world's finest dyes and woven by skilled craftsmen . . . under the best sanitary conditions.

How important it is to be sure of these things when you buy a rug, to know that the vital qualities which the eye cannot see are surely there!

These are the "hidden values" found in every fabric by Bigelow-Hartford, for more than a century weavers of America's finest floor coverings. Always look for the name "Bigelow-Hartford" on a rug or carpet; it is your one sure proof of fine materials and skilled workmanship, of true worth and lasting beauty.

See Them at Your Dealer's

Defense Attacks Motive in the Reopening of the Hall Case After Four Years

did not look his way as she answered. Then her replies seemed to slide out of the corner of her mouth.

Quotes Willie Stevens.

Finally her story was ended, so far as direct examination was concerned. Senator Case, with silken manner, cross-examined. She had attributed a statement to Willie Stevens that was susceptible to more than an innocent construction. When she came down early the morning after the crime, hurrying down because the shutters had rattled in the dining room, which was Dr. Hall's signal that he wished to breakfast in advance of the family, she encountered Stevens.

"Something terrible happened last night," the former maid had testified Willie Stevens had confided to her. "Mrs. Hall and I have been up most of the night, but don't tell Frances I told you."

The Senator for the defense did not bother with that. Mrs. Hall, as long as four years ago, had sworn that she had roused her brother at 2 A. M. to have him accompany her to the church to determine whether her missing husband had not fallen asleep there. Stevens, it has been said, did so, but was rather melancholy about the break in his slumber.

Counsel for the defense asked many questions. One of them was:

"Did you see anything of Mrs. Hall on Thursday night?"

The date of the murder fell on a Thursday. The witness said:

"Yes, I did."

Louise flashed her black eyes down at Senator Simpson, sitting at his table.

"What did you see?" asked Senator Case.

"Well," said Louise, "I think the bell rang between 9:30 and 10, maybe in between 9 and 10, but I am almost positive it was in between 9:30 and 10, and I knew that it was the bell to close up the house."

Mrs. Hall Playing Solitaire.

"By the bell you mean a signal bell in the house?"

"Yes, sir."

"Given by Mrs. Hall?"

"Yes, sir."

"Go on."

"And I came back," said Louise, "and closed up the shutters; I closed them in the dining room first and then went in the library, and Mrs. Hall was in the library, sitting at the table playing cards. I presume she was playing solitaire, because she was playing all by herself."

The widow had been watching the witness, manifesting merely the interest, no more and no less, displayed by the press representatives and the public in the court room. When Louise placed Mrs. Hall with the cards before her in the quiet library lined with theological works, rather than absent and presumably in the ghastly scene on the abandoned Phillips farm, Mrs. Hall smiled and continued to smile. Senator Case resumed:

"That was Thursday night, the 14th, between 9 and 10, and you think between 9:30 and 10?"

"Yes, because we very seldom closed up the house before 10 o'clock."

Senator Simpson by then had his finger in the page of the Grand Jury minutes of four years ago, which dealt with Louise's version then of the telephone call. Senator Simpson began to read, showing that Louise had said she turned away, at the head of the stairs on the second floor, leaving Mrs. Hall with the telephone receiver still in her hand.

Lawyers in Clash.

The defense leaped in with an objection to the reading of this excerpt from the minutes. Senator Case said that the special prosecutor had not "expressed 'surprise'," which seemed to a novice in the law to be some sort of legal requirement obliging an examiner formally to report "surprise" before two versions of testimony by a witness produced by him could be compared for discrepancies.

"This testimony about the telephone call," said Senator Simpson, "is directly contrary to what she now swears. I am surprised at what she now says. I am distinctly surprised."

The witness appeared amused. She bit her lip, as though to restrain merriment. An argument ensued between Senators Simpson and Case. The special prosecutor asked Supreme Court Justice Charles W. Parker and Common Pleas Judge Frank L. Cleary to strike Mrs. Riehl's answer that Mrs. Hall "placed back the receiver and turned around and walked out" from the record. He argued that it was not responsive to his question. Justice Parker agreed with him and directed that the item of testimony be ruled out.

Another former servant, Barbara Tough, had opened the court session, returning to the stand for further examination. The Scotch seamstress had testified on Wednesday that she had returned on Sept. 14 to the Hall home at 10 P. M., having had the day off.

The house was lighted—in the library and in the lower and upper halls, at any rate—but she had retired at once, without seeing any of the family. Senator Simpson suggested that nobody had been home, but Barbara would not say that. She had not considered it part of her duties to look around to make certain where the members of the household happened to be.

Maid Away That Night.

Barbara was coy when asked where she had been just before 10 P. M. She said briefly that she had gone "riding with another Scotch friend and he dropped me off at home."

"Who was your Scotch friend?" she was asked.

"Do I have to tell?" she asked.

"Certainly."

"Well, it was Archie Cooper."

Archie, it developed, was a stonemason. Those in the court room who scented a romance and a wedding at the kirk, had their ideas cast to the winds rudely, when Barbara was asked:

"Where does he live now?"

"I don't know," snapped Barbara with spirit, and with greater emphasis, "and I don't care!"

Even judicial gravity was strained at this.

John V. Hubbard, the New Brunswick undertaker who conducted the funerals of Mr. Hall and Mrs. Mills, was a witness. He had been called on Wednesday, but failed to respond. Senator Simpson directed that a bench warrant be issued against him, to be served if he had not appeared for yesterday's session. Dr. Edward I. Cronk, Health Officer of New Brunswick, had testified that the undertaker had said autopsies had been performed in Somerville, which was contrary to the record.

Mr. Hubbard, an elderly man with a gentle manner, plainly ill from the cold which kept him home on Wednesday, said that he had made his statement about autopsies out of his experience as a Coroner in Middlesex County. Autopsies were held in Middlesex as a matter of course in violent deaths, and he had assumed the rule held true in Somerset County. He testified further that the only member of the Hall family to visit the shop where Dr. Hall awaited burial was Henry Carpender. He told how the coffin of Dr. Hall had been placed in a vault in Greenwood Cemetery, Brooklyn.

Tells of Rector's Funeral.

He also disclosed that Mrs. Hall had asked that the coffin be so placed that when her time came she would rest beside her husband. The undertaker said that the only member of the family to leave the automobiles in Greenwood to go down into the vault had been Henry Stevens. He contradicted Dr. Cronk by saying that former State Senator W. Edwin Florance, who was Mrs. Hall's lawyer in 1922, had not telephoned to ask that Dr. Cronk identify the body of Mrs. Mills; he said that the attorney had asked that the physician identify Mr. Hall.

John G. Dunn, a New Brunswick fireman, testified that Willie Stevens, a firehouse enthusiast, had wandered into the firehouse one day and said that "something terrible has happened at our house," but Dunn was unable to say whether the remark was made before or after the murder.

Miss Millie Opie, a dressmaker, whose home is next to that of James Mills, husband of the murdered woman, told how Mrs. Mills and Dr. Hall had used her telephone to arrange their meetings. She related how she had been able, as she sat in her sewing room, to keep tabs—not intentionally, of course, she explained—on the frequency of the rector's calls upon Mrs. Mills when her janitor-husband was working and the two Mills children, Charlotte, then 16, and Daniel, then 12, were at school.

Reveals Neighbor's Gossip.

The general "neighborhood talk" on the intrigue was admitted to the record during Miss Opie's testimony and when she was called upon to be specific on what this one or that one had to say, she quoted a neighbor, who was a member of Dr. Hall's parish, as complaining that the rector called on Mrs. Mills nine times a week, but visited her home only once a year. The aggrieved neighbor threatened to join another church, said Miss Opie.

Philip A. Payne, managing editor of The Daily Mirror, a tabloid newspaper which was active in the Hall-Mills case before Governor A. Harry Moore appointed Senator Simpson to investigate it, was another witness. He and Mr. McCarter engaged in some lively passages, with the newspaperman more than holding his own. In the course of an appeal to the Court, on the admissability of certain testimony, Mr. McCarter charged that the investigation and the trial in the theory of the defense had been promoted and inspired by The Mirror "for financial reasons," and to promote circulation. Mr. Payne denied that gains by the tabloid would be reflected in his income from the newspaper. The Court ruled out many questions designed to show the rôle which the defense assigned to the paper.

Juror's Brother Dies.

Justice Parker adjourned court earlier than usual. The reason was twofold. He wished to permit Juror No. 5, Edward S. Tillman, to go in the custody of two Deputy Sheriffs to Rahway, where his brother, Ulysses, had died earlier in the day. The funeral is to take place tomorrow, when the trial will be in recess. The second reason was to enable Senator Simpson to catch a train for a conference on a matter unrelated to the trial.

The mysterious "Mrs. S.," who had been heralded as having been in De Russey's Lane the night of the crime, proved to have no story yesterday. She was not out there, nor was the man reported to have been with her and to have said, "There's Mrs. Hall and Willie," as he peered through the darkness. An investigator said there was no foundation, beyond imagination, for the heralding of these alleged witnesses.

Senator Simpson said his witnesses today would be Middlesex County Detective Ferd A. David, William G. Bearman, Alfred J. Buttler, former Sheriff Bogart T. Conklin, Samuel P. Sutphen and Jacob Van Pelt.

BARBARA TOUGH ON STAND.

Barbara Tough was the first of the day's witnesses, being recalled for further redirect and cross-examination.

Barbara Tough on the stand was a changed young woman. She had been decidedly self-possessed during her testimony late on Wednesday and had spoken with animation. Yesterday she appeared to be repressed and a shade less decisive in her recollection of details that took place four years ago. The examination was as follows:

Direct examination by Mr. Simpson:

Q.—You spoke on your examination in chief about taking a glass of water to Mrs. Hall. Is that your custom every night? A.—Every night, a thermos bottle of water.

Q.—Thursday night you did not do that? A.—No, not Thursday night.

Q.—Did you have to pass Willie Stevens's room or Mrs. Hall's room to go to bed? A.—No, not exactly.

Q.—How near did you have to go to them? A.—The way the stairs went up I had to go a few feet from Mrs. Hall's room and about twelve feet from Willie's room.

Q.—Do you remember whether the doors were closed or open? A.—I remember Willie Stevens's door was closed.

Q.—How about Mrs. Hall's door? A.—The way the stairs went up I could not see her door.

Q.—How long did you live in the house while Willie Stevens lived there? A.—I lived there six and a half years, and Mr. William Stevens was there all the time.

Q.—Did he work? A.—No.

Q.—He just lived around the house? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—He had no occupation that you know of? A.—No, sir.

Q.—What was his custom about being at home nights; did he go out a great deal? A.—No, he was always home evenings.

Q.—From what time? A.—He was always home after 6 o'clock, and very very seldom would go out again.

Q.—These Girl Scouts, do you know the names of any of these Girl Scouts?

Senator Case—There were no Girl Scouts.

Q.—What are they? A.—Guild girls.

Q.—Do you know the names of the guild girls or any of them who were away at the time you have testified Mrs. Mills and Dr. Hall were away, alone with them, and there were no other adult women there, and Mrs. Hall was not there?

Senator Case—I object.

A.—I don't remember which ones went to camp.

Q.—You testified you saw them go away? A.—No, I only knew they did go.

Q.—You testified about the gossip among the guild girls about Mrs. Mills and Dr. Hall being there alone without any other adult woman and without the presence of Mrs. Hall? A.—Yes, when they came back.

Q.—Do you remember the names of them at all?

The Court—Do you remember the names of the girls?

Q.—that came back?

Senator Simpson—I am not trying to find out whether the guild girls were away. I am trying to find out who the guild girls were that were gossiping at a certain time about Mrs. Mills and Dr. Hall being alone with a lot of girls and Mrs. Hall not being there. Who are these people that did the gossiping?

Justice Parker suggested that the testimony be gone over to clear up the point. Senator Simpson, however, said that he would not "waste time on it" as he could get the information elsewhere.

Barbara Tough Cross-Examined.

The former maid was then cross-examined by Senator Case. The defense counsel went at some length into the arrangement of the house and brought out that the usual exit from the garage was to come from it and swing around to the Townsend Street side of the house and so on out to an opening at Redmond and Nichol Avenue.

The Court—Then when the motor came out of the garage it would go out and go up to Redmond Street, around the corner into Nichol Avenue?

The Witness—No, sir. It generally came the other way. It swung around and faced toward Nichol Avenue; generally came that way.

Q.—Now, the regular kitchen entrance, you say, was the one that was off here? A.—Looking down the yard, looking down toward—

Q.—Toward the garage? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Now, when you came in by way of the side entrance, as you say you did that night, you came past the kitchen door—A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—And went around to get in the side door? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Was that side door what you called the laundry entrance? A.—Yes, sir.

Last In Locked the Door.

Q.—And you girls in going out so that you could get in with a key, which you could not do if there was a key left in the lock of the door, took the key to the laundry entrance, and that door was left locked with no key in it, and you or Louise, or whoever it might have been, would carry the key you were carrying to get in that door with, is that right? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Now, you had some sort of a signal arrangement so that whoever got in last would know that the other was in, and know what to do about locking up? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—The last in locked the house, is that it? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Well, when you got in that night did you get the signal that the others were in? A.—I did.

Q.—So you closed up and went upstairs? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Was there anything there at all in the house that night that was unusual? A.—No, sir.

The Night Visit to Church.

The witness said that she could not see the bedroom door when going upstairs, her view being blocked by the course of the stairs themselves. Barbara said that the clergyman and his wife occupied the same bedroom. The witness was asked if she remembered Willie Stevens saying on Sept. 15, the day after the murder, that his sister had "woke me up out of a sound sleep" to go down with her to the church to see whether Dr. Hall had fallen asleep there. The examination proceeded:

Q.—That was on Friday? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Referring to the night before, Willie told you she woke him out of a sound sleep? A.—Yes, sir; but it was not in the morning; it was about noon.

Q.—I believe you said that you were not a member of St. John's Church? A.—No, sir.

Q.—You are Scottish? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—And perhaps Presbyterian? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—So that your attendance at the church was only occasional? A.—Just occasionally, that is all.

Q.—But you did have contact with the guild? A.—I was a member of the guild.

Q.—The guild was something of a Ladies' Aid Society? A.—Yes, just like the mothers' meeting, only more unmarried ladies went into it.

Q.—You were speaking on Tuesday afternoon of an occasion when you were going to attend some sort of a guild function in the evening? A.—Yes.

Q.—And you saw Mr. Hall and Mrs. Mills at the church? A.—Yes.

Senator Simpson—Are you correct about Tuesday?

The Witness—It was Wednesday.

Q.—Wednesday, I should have said. Do you remember what month that was in? A.—I think it would have been the month of May.

Q.—And do you know whether there were lights in the Sunday school room, or otherwise? A.—No, there was no light.

Q.—Not even in the guild room? A.—No, sir.

Q.—I gather from what you have said this morning, Miss Tow—do I pronounce your name right? A.—Toockhe, but nobody can say it.

Q.—Well, I am aiming at it, but I am not getting there. I gather from what you said this morning that you were not present when the girls went down to camp? A.—No, sir. I did not go to camp.

Q.—Nor were you there when they came back? A.—No, sir, I did not see them come back.

Was "Off" on Murder Night.

The witness testified that Thursday, which was the night of the murder, was her night out. She was asked about Dr. Hall's mother, who has since died. The maid testified that Dr. Hall's mother had resided at the Bayard, a boarding house. The questioning then turned to the friendliness between Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills. The examination went on thus:

Q.—Do you recall any particular persons whom you heard gossip about it? A.—I would not just like to give the names out.

Q.—I see. Well, now, won't you help us in this respect, Miss Tough, by telling us who they were? A.—No. So many of them don't want to be brought into this, I don't think it would be fair to the girls.

Q.—Well, now, I guess we will have to have it. You will just have to tell us. A.—Well, I would have to mention them all, I think.

Q.—Well, anybody you heard indulge—that you yourself heard speaking of this thing that you call the gossip. A.—Well, there were the two Baker girls there; they are both married now; I don't remember their married names. And Lillian Wickert, and in fact, I would have to go and tell you the whole shooting-match, I think.

Q.—Come on; let us have the names. A.—I do not like to be mean to the girls. They were never mean to me.

The Court—You are not mean to them; you are only stating as a witness in court what you are required to state. There is no question of meanness about it.

Q.—What was the last name? A.—Lilian Wickert was the last name I gave you.

Q.—Will you give us any other names of those whom you heard talking about this? A.—I feel awfully mean doing that.

Q.—Well, this is an awfully mean thing we are in. Go on. Can you give us any more names? A.—Yes: Mabel Demerest. I know she is married now; I don't know her marriage name.

Q.—Mrs. Klickener? A.—Perhaps that is her marriage name; I don't know, since she is married.

Q.—Go ahead. A.—I don't want to.

Says She Feels "Like a Sneak."

Q.—Yes; well, we would like you to, and the Court has told you that you should.

A.—I feel such a sneak doing that.

The Court—No, do not feel that way. Every one of them will understand that you gave these names only when required to do so and under protest.

A.—But it will all come out in the papers tomorrow and I will be in ill repute in New Brunswick.

The Court—Everything seems to come out in the papers. This may as well come out, too. Go ahead.

Q.—Let us have the names. A.—I hate like the deuce to.

Q.—What? A.—I hate like everything to.

Q.—I am afraid you must.

Senator Simpson—You might as well, because I will ask you if he does not get it.

Senator Case—What sort of a remark is this?

Senator Simpson—I am trying to save time by getting her to answer it.

Senator Case—Oh, she has to get your permission?

Senator Simpson—No, not any more than I have to get yours to be in the court room, but I thought I could speed things up.

Barbara was plainly distressed and balked at "giving away" the names of her friends. Finally she was directed to answer, and the examination went on:

A.—There was Nellie Hudo; she is married now. Nellie Thompson is her name now; and her sister Nina; she is married, too. So many of them are married that I forget their marriage names.

Q.—Give us their single names. A.—And there is two Andersons; they were both sisters. They are both out of New Brunswick now.

Q.—These are all girls whom you heard gossip about this? A.—Yes.

Q.—Go ahead. A.—And Mrs. June.

Q.—Go ahead. A.—Well, the rest of them just off and on occasionally.

Q.—I am asking you for a full list of everybody you can remember. A.—We were all talking together; perhaps they didn't all know the real outs and ins of the whole thing, but one told the other, of course.

Q.—Now, have you told us all whom you remember? A.—I think most of them; and the others must have gotten it second-hand.

Q.—But, do you remember any name—have you told us all whom you remember? A.—I think so, yes.

"Crank Letters" to Mrs. Hall.

Q.—Now, you were asked at quite some length about Mr. De Martini and a man named Fisher, who were at the house after the murder? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—This man Fisher, he was only a night watchman there, wasn't he? A.—Yes.

Q.—The fact is that after this terrible tragedy took place, Mrs. Hall received all sorts of crank letters and threats, didn't she? A.—I understand she did. She sometimes said she did not like her mail.

Q.—And it was thought desirable to have somebody on guard at the house at night, wasn't it?

The Court—He didn't come there as a night watchman until after the killing?

The Witness—Oh, no, sir, some few weeks after that.

Q.—You were asked by Senator Simpson: "Did you ever hear Mrs. Hall receiving any message which purported to come from De Martini or hear her use the word over the phone of another addressing De Martini or address him as De Martini"? and your answer was: "No, sir." I do not understand that you meant to say by that that you never heard Mrs. Hall address Mr. De Martini as Mr. De Martini, did you? A.—Oh yes, but I meant over the telephone messages, I don't remember.

Q.—She did address him of course in speaking to him as Mr. De Martini? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—You knew who he was? A.—I knew who Mr. De Martini was, his name.

Q.—You were asked at quite some length about Mr. Pfeiffer being there and Mr. De Martini being there and Mr. Fisher being there and your being shut up in the same room with Mr. De Martini, &c.? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—They all used you as gentlemen would use a lady? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—There was nothing improper in their actions and conduct? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Speaking of Mr. De Martini, the only thing expressed by him as to anything that you should say either to him or to anybody else is that he only asked you to tell the truth, the only thing he asked you to do was not to say anything but the truth, wasn't it? A.—Yes, sir.

Simpson Takes Witness Again.

On redirect examination Senator Simpson asked:

"He did not stay in the house till Christmas to get you to tell the truth, did he?"

"I hope he had not to stay all that time to get me to say all the truth," was the reply. The questioning by Senator Simpson went on as follows:

Q.—What is the name of the person from whose home you came to go to the house of Mrs. Hall Thursday, Sept. 14, 1922, which you say you entered at 10 o'clock sharp? What is the name and address of the person you left? A.—Mrs. Anthony, 602 Livingston Avenue now.

Q.—Where was it before? A.—190 Easton Avenue.

Q.—What time did you leave her place? A.—About a quarter after 8.

Q.—Did it take you that length of time to get to your house? A.—Oh, no.

Q.—Where were you after a quarter after 8? A.—I went for an automobile ride.

Q.—With who? A.—With another Scotch friend.

Q.—What time did that Scotch friend deliver you at the house? A.—At 10 o'clock.

Q.—Did he deliver you at the house? A.—Yes, he dropped me at the Hall home.

Q.—So that from a quarter to 8 till 10 you were with that friend? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Who was the friend? A.—Have I to tell that?

Q.—Certainly you have to tell it. Who was it? A.—Archie Cooper.

Q.—Where does Mr. Cooper live now? A.—I don't know and I don't care.

Q.—When is the last time you saw him? A.—Last Winter.

Q.—What was his occupation? A.—Stone mason.

Nothing Unusual, She Insists.

The witness insisted there was nothing unusual about the Hall house when she entered. The lights were on in the library, she admitted, but she said the library "was always lit up." Senator Simpson then went on:

Q.—If lights had been lit up at 2 o'clock in the morning and neither Mrs. Hall nor Mr. Stevens were in the house, nor any of the people like Dr. Hall, no one, no one of the family, no one but the servants, would you call it unusual to enter that house at 10 o'clock at night, with Mr. Hall out, Mrs. Hall out, Willie Stevens out, nobody in the house but the servants, all the lights in the library lighted, and the signal set for you to lock up the house because all the servants were in bed, wouldn't you call that unusual?

Senator Case—I object.

The Court—Why?

Senator Case—There is nothing of that kind in evidence.

Senator Simpson—There is proof that Willie had been out of the house at 9 o'clock inquiring the way to the Parker House. There is proof by this woman that neither Dr. Hall nor Willie was visible when she came in; that the signal was set for her to lock up the house because everybody was in bed. They have asked her: "When you entered was there anything unusual?" She said no. Now, I am asking her on redirect if these facts existed, would you still say there was nothing unusual in that house when you entered?

The Witness—I would still say—

Senator Case—One minute.

The Court—The question is admitted. Go on.

The Witness—I would still say there was nothing unusual.

Q.—Was it usual for Mrs. Hall and Willie to be out and the library lighted and nobody in the house? A.—It was not often that everybody was out in the evening.

Q.—Was there any time that you remember when you came home on a Thursday night, when you found the library lighted up and nobody home?

Senator Case—I object. She had no duty to find out whether anybody was home.

The Witness—I never went to see whether any one was in or not. I didn't go to inquire.

She Sticks to Her Story.

Senator Simpson pressed the witness hard, saying she was not answering his questions. When the witness said she had not gone to put out the front door light, but only went to put out the kitchen light, the prosecutor again interrupted to demand an answer to his question whether she had thought the circumstances were not unusual. After considerable colloquy between the attorneys and frequent reframing of the question, Barbara stood to her answer that there was "nothing unusual."

"I only put out the kitchen light and went to bed," she insisted.

Q.—You say you did not go to the Episcopal Church, is that right? A.—I may be a heathen, I don't know. I don't understand the question.

Q.—All right; you went to kirk, didn't you? A.—I went to kirk, yes.

Q.—Now, then, with that in mind, see if you don't understand this question: Do you say it was quite usual for the library to be lit up with none of the family in the house when you came home on your day off, or night off, at 10 o'clock and found the signal to lock up—do you say that was quite usual?

The witness doggedly stuck to her story that she "turned out the kitchen lights and went to bed."

"I know you have told us that eight times now," the prosecutor remarked as he kept hammering away at his question over defense objections. The best he could get out of the witness was: "Yes, that was usual."

"It was often the case on Thursday when I came home I did not see anybody," Barbara added.

The examination proceeded:

Q.—Who put out the lights in the house, if they all went to bed? A.—I never made it my business to see whether the family was in or not in when I came in Thursday night.

Q.—You made it your business this night? A.—I went right upstairs; I did not go in to see who was in or out of the house.

Q.—The Thursday before when you came home, where was Willie Stevens? A.—I never hardly saw Mr. Willie Stevens when I came home Thursday night.

Q.—How did you go up, the back way? A.—I did.

Q.—Where did that land you? A.—On the second floor.

Q.—How could you see the library lighted up? A.—When you leave the kitchen stairs and go in the front stairs you could easily see the library lit.

Q.—You did not hear anybody in the library, did you? A.—Not that Thursday night.

Q.—Had you heard people before in the library on Thursday night when you came home on your night off? A.—On different nights, yes.

The Guild Girls Gossip.

Q.—You have been asked about these guild girls gossiping about the friendliness of Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills. Did you ever hear them gossiping about Dr. Hall's friendliness with any other women in the church? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Where is this camp that you say they would go away to? A.—It was at the shore somewhere. I don't remember just the point that particular Summer.

Q.—Do you remember when the guild girls went—what day they left? A.—It was the third week in July.

Q.—The only key you had was to the laundry? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Who would lock the kitchen door? A.—The cook did.

Q.—When she went to bed? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Were you the first up the next morning? A.—No, sir.

Under questioning by the Court the witness explained that the kitchen door opened toward Redmond Street and the laundry toward Townsend Street and that she had entered that night by the laundry door. The light signifying to her that the girls were all in was at the side of the kitchen, one single bulb hanging down, she said.

Senator Case took the witness and brought out that the kitchen door, though it was on the Redmond Street side of the house, in fact opened toward the back of the house. It ran directly down to the yard, sideways from Redmond Street, the witness said and the door itself did not face Redmond Street. There was no entrance to the house from Redmond Street, but rather an entrance to the grounds from Redmond Street and the front door faced Nichol Avenue, it was explained. Senator Case then asked:

Q.—And while there is an entrance to the grounds from Redmond Street near the garage, Redmond Street was in very bad condition, was it not, and not used? A.—It was not used. Mr. Hall nor Mrs. Hall never took the car out that way. They always swung it around the house.

PAYNE THE NEXT WITNESS.

Philip A. Payne, managing editor of The Daily Mirror, was then called. Questioned by Senator Simpson, the witness said he had seen the rector's calling card which the State contends bears the finger-mark of Willie Stevens. The card, he said, had been delivered to him by Captain Schwartz, the fingerprint expert of the Newark Police Department, in Newark, in a hotel "around the corner from the Robert Treat Hotel" about the first week in July. His examination proceeded.

Q.—With reference to the present condition of the card and its condition when you first saw it, what do you say? A.—It is exactly the same.

Q.—Defendants' Exhibit 4, is that a page of the Mirror of the date it bears, of your paper? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Does this first page contain, among other things, what purports to be a photograph of State's Exhibit S-17. A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Who took the photograph? A.—Mr. Walker of the Mirror staff.

The witness said that he had given "nothing of financial value" to Captain Schwartz in return for the card.

Cross-Examination of Payne.

Mr. McCarter then cross-examined as follows:

Q.—When did you become acquainted with Mr. Schwartz? A.—Several years ago.

Q.—How did you learn that he had this card? A.—I learned that he had worked on the case.

Q.—How did you hear he had this card? A.—He told me.

Q.—Mr. Schwartz? A.—Certainly.

Q.—Where did he tell you that? A.—In Newark.

Q.—Where? A.—Walking down the street together.

Q.—How did you happen to meet Schwartz walking down the street? A.—I did not meet him walking down there. I met him by appointment.

Q.—Where? A.—At the same hotel.

Q.—What is that hotel? A.—I think it is called the St. Francis, or something like that, but I am not sure.

Q.—Why wasn't it a good place to meet at his office right down at Police Headquarters? A.—Better ask him that, I don't know.

Q.—So you had three or four meetings with him previous to this day in July, every one of which was at this St. Francis Hotel, is that right? A.—We met at that place, and then would walk.

Q.—Where did you receive the card? A.—I actually received it in a taxicab.

Q.—Going from the hotel? A.—Picked up near the hotel, yes—going from the hotel.

Q.—You say you gave him nothing whatever for the card? A.—Nothing financial, no.

Q.—Well, if it was not financial, what did you give him? Why don't you answer me? A.—I can think while I answer just as well as you can think while you ask me a question.

Q.—Does it require a great deal of thought to remember what it was? A.—No.

Q.—Then why don't you answer? A.—I told Schwartz, "If he—

Q.—I have not asked you what you told him; I asked you what you gave him? A.—I told Schwartz that if he could help clear up this crime, he was going a service to the State of New Jersey. That was the only consideration he got.

Card Turned Over to Faurot.

Mr. Payne told how the card had been sent to former Deputy Police Commissioner Joseph A. Faurot at Middletown, N. Y., where he was on a vacation. Mr. Faurot testified several days ago that the fingerprint on the card was one made by Willie Stevens. Mr. McCarter asked who had taken the card to Faurot. The editor said that the bearer had been Herbert B. Mayer, a reporter.

A dialogue ensued, with Mr. McCarter asking if Payne had not "commanded" Mayer to take the card to Middletown. "I did not command," said Mr. Payne, "I am not the Queen of Rumania."

"Oh," said Mr. McCarter, with sarcasm, "but you are the Queen of The Mirror."

Payne said that his sex disqualified him for the post.

The questioning proceeded:

Q.—Where had the card been between the time it was given to you in Newark which you say was some time in July, and August 17 which is the date we have in the case that it was sent to Mr. Faurot at Middletown? A.—In a steel cabinet in the Mirror building.

Q.—In your particular office? A.—In my office.

Q.—And you had the key? A.—Yes, I had the key.

Q.—And was it enclosed then in this glass case that it is now in? A.—It was wrapped in waxed paper.

Present at Mrs. Hall's Arrest.

On the ground that the defense had a right to question along that line on the theory that Payne's "interest" might thus be disclosed, Mr. McCarter developed the fact that the editor had been present at the midnight arrest of Mrs. Hall on July 28. He then went into the investigation which The Daily Mirror made before the State took up its own inquiry. The examination went on.

Q.—How much money has The Mirror spent on this investigation that you have conducted?

Senator Simpson—I object to that.

The Court—We will hear you on that.

Mr. McCarter—It is the theory of the defense in this case, your Honor, that this murder that is now being prosecuted in the way of a solemn trial before a distinguished Judge of our Supreme Court, with Judge Cleary, Judge of the Court of Common Pleas, both constituting the Court of Oyer and Terminer in Somerset County, was promoted and is inspired by—or was inspired by the paper called The Mirror for financial reasons, and to promote the circulation of The Mirror, and it is our theory and contention that the activities of the paper as demonstrated in the matters that we have been able to elicit from the lips of this witness, are evidential of that fact, and I think we have a right, having that theory, to find out how much money that paper has spent upon the matter.

Senator Simpson—I object to it on the ground that this trial is on an indictment found by the Somerset County Grand Jury, and this speech of the General's is an attack upon that Grand Jury of Somerset County which found that indictment and brought this case here for trial. It is quite of no consequence whether this paper spent a nickel or five million dollars trying to prove what they believed were the guilty parties to this murder and bring them to justice after four years; as whether they spend a dollar or five million dollars is simply a red herring drawn across the trail by the defense, if that is the defense. I submit it is of no moment that The Mirror before the April Grand Jury found this indictment spent a lot of money, because if he is correct he is attacking the Grand Jury of Somerset County.

Defense Is Overruled.

The Court—The question is overruled.

Mr. McCarter—Exception.

Q.—Is it not a fact that your compensation from The Mirror or the corporation that controls and finances it is a flat sum plus a bonus or something of that character, depending upon the extent of the circulation of the paper?

Senator Simpson—Objected to.

Question overruled. Defendants except.

Q.—The first thing, to use a newspaper phrase, that broke, came out after you took hold of this matter, was the filing and later publication in The Mirror of a petition for annulment of the marriage of one Arthur S. Riehl, was it not?

Senator Simpson—Objected to as not proper cross-examination.

Mr. McCarter—I wish to show, if it be a fact, and I think it is, that the witness or the corporation which operates the publication that the witness is employed upon employed an attorney to prepare or take part in the preparation of a petition for an annulment which was the first break in this matter and that the paper paid that attorney his fee.

Senator Simpson—I object to that. The first break in this matter was when Eleanor Mills's throat was cut. That is the first break.

Question overruled. Defendants except.

A Political Interchange.

Mr. Payne said that he lived in West New York, N. J., which, he added in reply to a question, was in Hudson County. A sample of the interchange between counsel that breaks through now and then, occurred here, thus:

Senator Simpson—The same place the Governor lives, the same town.

Senator Case—The same place Frank Hague lives.

Senator Simpson—Yes, and a good county because he lives there, too.

Senator Case—From where you elect Governors but not the legislators.

Mr. McCarter—Does the Court think it is proper for counsel to make remarks like these?

The Court—The Court thinks the whole dialogue is improper.

Mr. Payne went back to Senator Simpson for re-direct questioning and brought out that The Mirror turned the card over on Aug. 15 last to John J. Beggans, Commissioner of Public Safety of Jersey City. The court adjourned from 12:30 to 1:30 P. M. for luncheon.

J. V. HUBBARD TESTIFIES.

When the session was resumed, John V. Hubbard was placed on the stand. He is an undertaker in New Brunswick.

During the session on Wednesday Senator Simpson obtained a bench warrant for Mr. Hubbard, and threatened to serve it if he failed to appear today. Mr. Hubbard explained that he had been ill on Wednesday. A detective said that while Hubbard was lying down when he called, he was fully dressed. Mr. Hubbard's testimony follows:

Direct examination by Senator Simpson:

Q.—Did you receive the body of Eleanor Mills in the County of Somerset? A.—Yes.

Q.—What time? A.—I think in the afternoon.

Q.—Who instructed you to send over for her body? A.—Mr. Mills and his daughter.

Q.—What time did the body come to your place? A.—I think it was in the afternoon of Sunday.

Q.—It was in your place, in your care as an undertaker, the remains of Eleanor Mills, on Sunday; that would be the 17th of September, 1922; is that a fact? A.—I think that is right.

Q.—Were you in the store or shop when the body came? A.—I could not say about that.

Q.—Were you there when Dr. Cronk made the examination of the body, of the wound in the abdomen, to see about her condition? A.—I don't know as I was there when he made any examination.

Clashes With Witness.

Q.—He says that he made some examination because you or Mr. Darling received a telephone message from Senator Florance. What do you say about that? A.—In regard to Mrs. Mills you are speaking now?

The Court: Yes.

Q.—Who do you suppose I am speaking about? Who have you been speaking about? A.—There were two bodies.

Q.—I am talking about Mrs. Mills. A.—Senator Florance telephoned and asked me to have the body of Mr. Hall identified.

Q.—What about Mrs. Mills? A.—He did not say Mrs. Mills.

Q.—Did you tell Dr. Cronk, as he testifies, to go and examine the body of Mrs. Mills and make an inspection of the abdomen to determine her condition? A.—No sir.

Senator Case—One minute. I do not understand that is the testimony of Dr. Cronk.

Q.—Did you have any conversation with Dr. Cronk about the examination of the body of Eleanor Mills—not what the conversation was, did you have any conversation with him?

The Court—With Dr. Cronk?

Q.—With Dr. Cronk? A.—Why, I don't recollect any conversation.

Q.—What did you do with the body of Mr. Hall? Where did you take it from the shop? A.—We took it from there to the church.

Q.—Was it ever taken to his home? A.—No, sir.

Q.—It was taken direct from your morgue to his church on Monday. What time Monday? A.—I think it was 11 o'clock in the morning.

Q.—Then after the service it was taken out of the city to Brooklyn, wasn't it? A.—Yes, sir.

No Autopsy Then.

Simpson then asked:

"And there was no autopsy in it up to the time you took it out of the morgue into the church, was there?" The reply was, "Not from my place."

"The body was in your possession all the time?"

"It was here first."

"In your place there was no autopsy?"

"No, sir; not that I know of."

Q.—And it was taken to Brooklyn from your place without autopsy, is that right? A.—Without autopsy at my place, yes.

Q.—What time Monday did you take it away? A.—I think the services was 11 o'clock, probably about half past 11 or twenty minutes to 12.

Q.—From 11 o'clock to half past 11? A.—Well, that is the usual Episcopal service.

Q.—You are not qualified as a theological expert. I am trying to get you, if I can, to tell me how long this minister's body was in the church before you took it to Brooklyn. A.—Well, I said from half past 11 to twenty minutes to 12.

Q.—Who conducted the service? A.—I think Dr. Dale; I think Dr. Dutton Dale.

Q.—A clergyman? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Then you took the body to Brooklyn? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Where did you take it in Brooklyn? A.—We put it in a receiving vault in Brooklyn.

Q.—What cemetery? A.—In Greenwood.

Q.—Who had instructed you to take Dr. Hall's body from Somerville? A.—Mr. Edward Carpender gave me the instructions.

Q.—Was the body dressed for burial in your establishment? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—It was not dressed in the home? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Did anybody come to look at the body in your establishment while it was there except Mr. Carpender? A.—I think not.

Q.—You were the coroner, weren't you, over in Middlesex? A.—Yes.

Q.—And you knew this had been a murder, didn't you? A.—Well, it was supposed to be so.

Q.—What did you think when you saw a woman with her throat cut and three bullet wounds in her head? A.—I supposed it was.

Q.—And you were Coroner. Did you do anything to see that there was an autopsy on this body up to the time it was buried? A.—No, sir.

Tells of Rector's Funeral.

On redirect examination Senator Simpson asked whether at any time while the body was in his place Mrs. Hall came to see the body.

"Not while I was there," he replied. He obtained the body, as he remembered it, on Saturday.

Mr. Hubbard described the interment of Dr. Hall's body in Greenwood Cemetery. Mrs. Hall, he said, did not leave the coach, Henry Stevens going down into the vault. Mrs. Hall, he testified, asked that the coffin of her husband be placed next the rack left open for her.

MRS. RIEHL'S TESTIMONY.

Mrs. Louise Geist Riehl was the next witness. She went to the stand after Mr. Payne had been recalled and questioned briefly on the attitude of The Mirror in the investigation. The former servant in the Hall household, whose duties were chiefly those of a waitress, was addressed as "Miss Geist" by Senator Simpson. She had taken pains with her dress for her advent on the stand, the registering features being a blue coat and a small toquelike hat of vivid red.

She seemed a trifle cocksure on the stand and was ever ready to match her wits against the nimble ones of the State's representative.

Direct examination by Senator Simpson:

Q.—Where do you live? A.—100 Livingston Avenue, New Brunswick.

Q.—Were you ever at any time employed in Mrs. Hall's home? A.—Yes.

Q.—How long had you been employed on the 14th of September, 1922? A.—From October until September.

Q.—And were you in the house on the afternoon of Sept. 14? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you get any telephone message—I am referring to a telephone that came in the afternoon of that day for Dr. Hall—or did Mrs. Hall get any in your presence? A.—I don't know, no, I don't remember getting any phone call.

Q.—Along toward evening did you answer the phone? A.—Yes.

Q.—Where was the telephone that you answered? A.—On the second story.

Q.—Where, with reference to the banister? A.—About twelve feet away from the banister.

Q.—What was the conversation you had on the telephone? A.—When the phone first rang I did not answer it. We never answered the phone if some member of the family was in. When it rang the second time I answered it, and the person on the other end of the wire asked for Mr. Hall.

Mrs. Mills on the Phone.

Q.—Who was the person? A.—Mrs. Mills.

Q.—What did you say when she asked for him? A.—I said, "Just a moment, I will get him."

Q.—At the time you said "Just a moment, I will get him," did you look over the banister? A.—I walked from the telephone over to the top of the stairway and looked over the banister.

Q.—You thought he was downstairs? A.—Yes.

Q.—What did you see when you looked down? A.—I saw Mrs. Hall.

Q.—What was she doing, coming in or going out? A.—She was coming in and had just lifted the receiver off the hook, had it half way up her body.

Q.—What did you say when she had the receiver half way up her body? A.—I said "This is for Mr. Hall. Mrs. Hall, is he downstairs?" She said, "No, Louise; isn't he upstairs?"

Q.—What did you do? A.—Just then Mr. Hall called from the bathroom. I said, "Oh, it is all right, he is up here." She placed back the receiver and turned around and walked out.

Q.—You started to walk back to the bedroom? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you call Dr. Hall or talk to Dr. Hall? A.—Yes, I called him and told him it was for him.

Q.—Did he go to the phone? A.—A few minutes afterward.

Q.—What do you mean by a few minutes? A.—About a second; I cannot remember the exact time. It was a few minutes afterwards.

Quotes Rector on Phone.

The witness said she had overheard the rector say on the telephone:

"Yes, yes, yes. That is too bad. I was going down to the church a little later. Cannot we make arrangements for later, say, about quarter after eight?"

That was all of the conversation that she could remember. The examination proceeded:

Q.—And what time did you go to bed that night? A.—Oh, some time between 9 and 10.

Q.—Did you see Barbara Tough before you went to bed? A.—No, I did not.

Q.—When he had finished his conversation where were you? A.—In one of the bedrooms in the back part of the house.

Q.—Whose bedroom? A.—It was a guest bedroom; it was little Frances Voorhees's bedroom at the time; that is, she was staying there.

Q.—Was little Frances in there when you were in there? A.—No.

Q.—After you had heard this conversation, or that end of it, did you see Dr. Hall again? A.—Yes.

Q.—When did you see him? A.—When I was coming down the stairway.

Q.—Where was he? A.—He was coming down in front of me, about seven or eight steps in front of me.

Q.—Did he say anything to you? A.—No.

Q.—Did he say anything to Mrs. Hall? A.—Yes, I heard him tell Mrs. Hall he was going out, he had to go out for a little while. He was going out to see about the Mills' bill.

Q.—Did she say anything to him? A.—She asked him if he would be late, and he said no.

Q.—That was what time? A.—I don't know; it might have been 7:30 or twenty minutes to 8.

Q.—Did he have an overcoat on? A.—Not that I remember.

Q.—Did he carry a satchel? A.—No.

Q.—Did he have a stick? A.—No.

Q.—Did he have any package that you could see? A.—I don't remember whether he did or not.

Q.—You have already sworn he did not? A.—Well, I will correct that and say I don't remember whether he did or not.

Q.—Well, now, what was the last time you saw him. A.—Oh, about five minutes after I saw him in the hall I saw him coming around the side of the house.

Went Toward Mills Home.

Q.—Which direction was he coming when you last saw him? A.—He was coming down the lane by the house, the sidewalk, going out toward Redmond Street.

Q.—Would that take you in the direction of the Mills house. A.—Yes sir.

Q.—Where was Mrs. Hall, if you know, when you last saw Dr. Hall. A.—I don't know. I presume she was on the porch.

Q.—The next morning did anything happen—Friday morning, the 15th—did you hear anything downstairs? A.—Yes; I was awakened by the noise of the shutters.

Q.—Will you tell what that was, if anything, in the way of warning you to get up? A.—When Mr. Hall was going to New York and wanted an early breakfast he generally came downstairs and ran the shutter down, and I could hear it up in my room, and I knew he wanted an early breakfast.

Q.—Did you come down then? A.—As soon as I heard the shutter come down, I got up and came down into the dining room, and there I saw Mr. Willie Stevens, and I says to him, "What are you doing up so early?" He said, "I would rather not tell you; I would rather have Mrs. Hall tell you." I said, "What are you doing up so early—what is the matter"? He said, "There was something terrible happened last night, and Mrs. Hall and I have been up most of the night."

Q.—Did you ask him what the terrible thing was? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Did he say anything about your not telling what he told you? A.—Yes; he said, "Don't tell Frances I told you."

Q.—What was his manner when he told you that, can you describe his manner? A.—Well he seemed a little nervous. I did not look at him very good.

Q.—Didn't you describe it to the Grand Jury in 1922 in the following language: "He looked as if he had katzenjammer"? A.—I don't think I really ever used that word.

Q.—Will you say you did not? A.—I don't remember.

She Quotes Mrs. Hall.

The former maid said that she had served breakfast at 7:30 P. M. on Friday. That night, she said, she heard "a connection." The questions and answers follow:

Q.—What was that? A.—I was going upstairs to bed. As I got to the second landing Mrs. Hall and Mr. Stevens had just gone up before me, and Mrs. Hall said, "Good night, Willie," and he said, "Are you going to bed, Frances?" [illegible] said, "Yes," and she said, "I am going to—wait a minute—I thought [illegible] would come last night, but I know [illegible] won't come tonight. I know he must be dead or else he would communicate with me, and I am going to bed." Words to that effect.

Q.—What time was this? A.—I don't know; it might have been before [illegible] might have been after.

Q.—Then, Saturday, what was the first you knew that the bodies had been found? A.—About 1 o'clock.

Q.—What was Willie Stevens's habit as to being out at night: was he always at home after 6 o'clock or was he out at night? A.—Well, he very rarely went downtown at night, but sometimes he would—not very often though.

Q.—And all the time you were there he had no occupation as far as you could see, had he? A.—No.

Q.—Directing your attention to Friday, Sept. 16, 1922, and referring to a time about breakfast time, did you have any conversation with Mrs. Hall about keeping the things warm for Mr. Hall and anything in addition to that? A.—I did.

Q.—What was it as you remember it? A.—Well, when I served breakfast there was only Mrs. Hall and Mr. Stevens and little Frances Voorhees. Mr. Hall was not there. And I waited quite a while for him to come down, and then I came in and asked her if I should keep the things warm or was he going to have his breakfast in bed; and she said, "Louise, Mr. Hall has not been home all night; I don't know where he is," or something like that. And I asked her if she had called up the police, and she said yes, she had called up the police and asked if there were any casualties or any accidents and she also said she had called up a hospital, I think, but I am not sure.

Mrs. Riehl Cross-Examined.

On cross-examination by Senator Case the witness said that at the time that conversation took place between her and Mrs. Hall she already knew that Mr. Hall had not been home all night, having learned that from Willie Stevens. The cross-examination proceeded:

Q.—Was Mrs. Hall crying that morning? A.—Well, her eyes were red. I could see that she had been crying. She did cry. Tears came to her eyes. Of course she did not cry real loud. The tears came to her eyes and I could see that she was worried. She played with some keys or something; she was rather nervous.

Q.—Did you see anything of Mrs. Hall the evening before—Thursday night, I am speaking of? A.—Yes, I did.

Q.—What did you see? A.—Well, I think the bell rang between 9:30 and 10, maybe in between 9 and 10, but I am almost positive it was in between 9:30 and 10, and I knew that was the bell to close up the house.

Q.—By the bell you mean a signal bell in the house? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Given by Mrs. Hall? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Go on. A.—And I came back and closed up the shutters; I closed them in the dining room first and then went in the library, and Mrs. Hall was in the library, sitting at the table playing cards. I presume she was playing solitaire because she was playing all by herself.

Q.—That was Thursday night, the 14th, between 9 and 10 and you think between 9:30 and 10? A.—Yes, because we very seldom closed up the house before 10 o'clock.

Senator Case asked the witness about the telephone call from Mrs. Mills, eliciting that Mrs. Hall had not put the receiver to her ear but had hung up when the maid told her the call was for Mr. Hall.

Says Mrs. Hall Did Not Listen.

On redirect examination by Senator Simpson, the witness said Mrs. Hall had keys that fitted the car or keys that fitted the garage, she did not know which. The redirect went on:

Q.—You say you know she was not listening to that conversation, don't you? A.—I said I didn't see her listening.

Q.—The first person you made a statement to was De Martini, was it? A.—I don't think so.

Q.—Well, who was the first [illegible]? A.—Well, wasn't I taken to the [illegible]tor's office?

Q.—Don't ask me questions, answer [illegible]. A.—I do not remember.

Q.—You went to the Middlesex Prosecutor's office? A.—Yes.

Q.—Is your memory good about what happened then? A.—I guess it is.

Q.—It was a few weeks after the murder? A.—Yes.

Q.—And you were asked about this telephone conversation: "How do you know she was not at the phone?" And didn't you answer: "I am not positive about that."?

Senator Case—I object. This is a question by the Prosecutor of his own witness and obviously an attempt to assail her testimony, and I object to it.

The Court—On the same principle as before?

Senator Simpson—Yes.

Senator Case—The principle—what principle?

The Court—The principle of so-called neutralization.

Senator Case—There has been no allegation of surprise, your Honor, and I wish to raise this point and have it thoroughly understood. I want the point I am going to be thoroughly grasped at this point. The Prosecutor does not say he is surprised by the testimony of this witness.

Says Her Stories Conflict.

Senator Simpson said he was "surprised" because parts of the witness's testimony were "directly contrary" to her story before the Grand Jury in 1922. He added that he had sent Mrs. Riehl's testimony before the Grand Jury out to her yesterday before she was called to the stand and had asked her to refresh her memory. He said the testimony before the Grand Jury had been taken to the young woman by Lieutenant Ciecuich of the Jersey City Police and that Ciecuich had reported that she had read the excerpt underlined by the Senator.

"Of course, I am 'surprised,'" pursued the Senator, "and I don't want this jury to get the impression that Mrs. Hall did not get this telephone conversation." The transcript continued:

The Witness—Did I tell Ciecuich I was very glad to have read that testimony? Is that the way he quoted me?

The Court—Never mind about that. That is not the question. We think that it is a distinction without a difference, a substantial difference, and therefore the question may be answered.

Senator Case—Exception.

Question repeated.

Q.—Did you so answer in Middlesex? A.—Yes, I presume I did, but the question was put to me altogether different.

Q.—All right. I asked you, I think, about De Martini. Did you make any statement to De Martini before you made any statement to the Prosecutor in Middlesex or to the Grand Jury in Somerset? A.—I don't think I did.

Q.—When did you first see De Martini at the Hall home? A.—About three or four weeks after the murder.

Q.—Very good. And the examination here began the 22d of November—before the Grand Jury—1922. Will you now say whether you were talked to by De Martini about this case before you appeared before the Somerset Grand Jury, beginning Nov. 22—I think the date is. A.—Oh yes; the session of the Grand Jury.

Q.—You said nothing at all to the Grand Jury about Mrs. Hall putting up the receiver— A.—They undoubtedly did not ask me.

Q.—Whether they asked you or not, you told them nothing about it, did you? A.—I try to tell you things and you don't let me tell them, so, therefore, I probably tried to tell them that and they would not let me tell it.

Q.—Have you any recollection on that? Is that your explanation? A.—I guess I did testify that way.

Q.—You told the first Grand Jury in 1922 nothing at all about Mrs. Hall putting up the receiver or nothing at all about your having actual knowledge as to whether she heard the conversation, did you?

Senator Case—I object.

The Court—It may be answered.

Senator Case—Exception.

A.—I must have told them.

Q.—You say you did tell them? Let us get that definite. You say that under oath you told the 1922 Grand Jury that Mrs. Hall hung up the receiver? A.—I don't remember.

The witness said that, after the murder of Dr. Hall, she had worked for Mrs. Hall from September until Feb. 1. She was married on Sept. 2, 1924, she asserted. Senator Case wanted to know why she was sworn as Louise Geist, and Senator Simpson declared he did not know she was married.

"I heard this talk about the annulment of her marriage and I thought the marriage was annuled," the prosecutor said. The transcript continued:

Senator Case—That is a statement I would like the prosecutor to repeat if he will. I understand you to say you did not know this witness was married?

Senator Simpson—No. I sent my [illegible] and asked her what was her name, she said Louise Geist, and I assumed her marriage referred to by General McCarter in his examination of the [illegible]

Custodian of Trial Exhibits Saving 3 at Fire, Arrives Late at Court; Child Dies in Hospital

Special to The New York Times.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Nov. 12.—Inspector Underwood, guardian of exhibits in the Hall-Mills case, arrived a few minutes late after the resumption of the trial this morning, because he had rescued three persons and had attempted the rescue of a fourth in a fire opposite his home in Madison Avenue, Jersey City. The fourth person, Eileen Nolan, 4 years old, who was overcome by smoke, was carried out by firemen and died later at the Jersey City Hospital.

Underwood was shaving when he heard the cries of Patrick Marano, a roomer at 69 Madison Avenue, that the house was on fire. As Marano ran to turn in an alarm, Underwood hurried into the burning house and found Mrs. Michael Nolan Jr., her mother-in-law, Mrs. Michael Nolan, and her brother-in-law, Patrick Nolan, in a dispute as to whether the women should leave the house before Eileen and Anna Nolan, 11 years old, were carried out. The women refused to go. Underwood caught them both as Nolan, in desperation, hurried them down the stairs, and he carried them out to the street.

Meanwhile Anna had left the house unaided and Nolan had fought through the smoke to Eileen's room. Flames were eating away the stairs and Underwood failed in two attempts to mount them. They gave way, and, hearing screams in the street, he ran outside. He saw Nolan had been forced by the smoke and flames to a window ledge without the child.

He got a ladder from a telephone exchange across the street, helped a telephone employe put it up, and collapsed. The employe helped Nolan down. Then came the firemen, who, with gas masks, got Eileen from her room. She was unconscious, and, although a pulmotor was used in an attempt to revive her, she died a little later.

Underwood offered no details to explain his tardiness, but Lieutenant Walter Cecieuch supplied them, and all day Underwood seemed to suffer embarrassment from the congratulations.

Tells of Willie Stevens's Fright

of The Mirror had been annulled by due course of law.
Senator Case—Didn't your tabloid—
Senator Simpson—I have no tabloid. You own the newspapers in Somerset. I own none.
Senator Case—Only the tabloid.
Senator Simpson—I do not own any tabloid.
Senator Case—That is not a newspaper.
The Court—Is there any question?
Senator Simpson—No. I beg your pardon.

JOHN G. DUNN ON STAND.

Then John G. Dunn, a member of the New Brunswick Fire Department, was sworn. He said he had known Willie Stevens for fifteen years and that Stevens had often been around the firehouse. Stevens, he added, was an exempt fireman, having been a member of the old non-paid fire department in New Brunswick. His examination disclosed:

Q.—Were you present at any conversation between him and any member of Engine No. 3 on Friday, the 15th, or Saturday, Sept. 16, 1922, before the bodies of Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills were found? A.—Well, I am not certain on the date, but one morning Mr. Stevens came in there and said if he acted queer or funny not to mind it, because he had some trouble.
Q.—Trouble where? A.—I don't remember.
Q.—Did he say at the house or where? A.—I don't remember.
Q.—What do you say as to whether or not it was before the bodies were found? A.—I am pretty certain it was.
Q.—Did you see him much after that? A.—Mostly every day.
Q.—He came to the firehouse after that? A.—Regularly.
Q.—Did he say anything to you about the murder of his brother-in-law? A.—I never had no conversation about it at all.
Cross-examination by Senator Case:
Q.—I understand you to say there is nothing to enable you to fix any time on this? A.—I don't remember the time, no, sir.
Q.—I mean the day of the month or anything of that kind, or the day of the week. A.—No, sir; I don't.

Miss Millie L. Opie, who lives next door to the home of James Mills, husband of the slain woman, stepped to the stand. Miss Opie, who is rather stout, said she had known Mrs. Mills for twenty years. This witness had to be cautioned often to "speak up." She seemed to be nervous. She testified that she had a telephone in her home and that Mrs. Mills had none. The examination went forward:

Q.—Did you ever receive any messages on the telephone for her from the Rev. Edward Hall? A.—Yes.
Q.—How long a period before her murder had you been receiving them? A.—Oh, a couple of years.
Q.—How frequently would you get the messages? A.—Quite frequently.
Q.—Would you say once a week or twice a week, or what? A.—Oh, I would say so, yes.
Q.—Was it more than twice a week? A.—Sometimes.
Q.—Did you see her the day she was murdered? A.—Yes.
Q.—Do you know Dr. Hall's voice? A.—Yes.
Q.—Did you get a message from Dr. Hall that day? A.—Yes.
Q.—What was it—the message? A.—He said, "This is Mr. Hall; can you get Mrs. Mills to the phone?"
Q.—What did you do? A.—I tried to get Mrs. Mills and could not make her hear.
Q.—What time was it? A.—Well, somewhere around the middle of the afternoon. I am not positive.
Q.—What did you do to get her? Did you go up to her house? A.—No. I called from the window.
Q.—You got no response, anyway? A.—No response.
Q.—Did you come back and tell him that? A.—I did.
Q.—Did he leave any message with you? A.—I asked him if he wanted to leave some message. He said, "No, just tell her that I called."
Q.—When did you see her again that day? A.—About a quarter after 7.
Q.—Where did you see her? A.—On George Street.
Q.—How near is that to her home and your home? A.—About a block.
Q.—Did she live near you? A.—Next door.
Q.—What direction was she going when you saw her? A.—Coming home.
Q.—Did you give her the message? A.—I did.
Q.—What did you tell her?

Court Allows the Question.

Senator Case objected and Senator Simpson, who is quick to meet all legal hurdles raised against him by the defense, promptly countered by citing the New Jersey case of the State vs. Hunter. He has drawn often on that case for support in his arguments to the Court. Justice Parker observed that "State against Hunter relates to declarations by the deceased," and Senator Simpson argued that "declarations to the deceased are a part of the declarations by the deceased." Justice Parker finally allowed the question and the examination continued:

Q.—What did Mrs. Mills say to you? A.—Do you want the answer just as it came on the telephone?
Q.—I want what Mrs. Mills said to you. A.—She asked me where I was going.
Q.—All right. What else? A.—I told her I was going to take a trolley car to a friend's house, and I told her if she wanted to go down to use my telephone she could.
Q.—What did she say? A.—She did not say a word and did not say whether she would or not, but we talked until the car came.
Q.—And you got on the car? A.—I got on the car.
Q.—That was what time? A.—Well, it must have been half past seven.
Q.—And where was she going the last time you saw her: in what direction was she going the last time you saw her? (No answer.)
Q.—How was she dressed when you saw her? A.—She had a blue dress with blue polka dots, trimmed with red.
Q.—That is the last time you saw her alive? A.—Yes, sir.
Q.—After the murder, that is after Thursday the 14th, did you see anybody at her house on Friday, Sept. 16, 1922? A.—No.
Q.—Did you see anybody in her house on Saturday, Sept. 17, 1922? A.—Yes, sir.
Q.—Who did you see? A.—I saw Mrs. Clark first, outside of Charlotte, and Mrs. Kelly, the woman downstairs, and then I went out, and as I went out I saw Mrs. Clark going into the Mills home.
Q.—That was Saturday, at what time? A.—After I had got the word that the bodies were found.
Q.—About what time was it? A.—Two or a little more.
Q.—Was there anybody with Mrs. Clark when she was going in the house? A.—She got out of an automobile.

Edwin Carpender There.

Q.—Who was in the automobile? A.—Mr. Carpender.
Q.—Which Mr. Carpender? A.—They told me Edwin.
Q.—Do you know the man himself? A.—Just as Mr. Carpender.

The witness was asked whether she could see Mr. Carpender in the courtroom. She could not. Thereupon Senator Case called: "Stand up, Mr. Carpender." Then Mrs. Opie, looking at the standing man, said, "It looks like him." The questioning proceeded:

Q.—Did he stay in the automobile while Minna Clarke went in the house, or did he get out too? A.—I don't know.
Q.—Did you see Mills anywhere around when Minna Clarke went in? A.—No.
Q.—You said the only one in the home that you saw was Charlotte, the girl? A.—Yes, sir.
Q.—How about Mills, did you see him around? A.—I didn't see him.
Q.—Do you know this Mr. De Martini, the detective? A.—I saw him once.
Q.—Where is Blitz's store? A.—About half a block from the house.
Q.—How far was it from the place where you got on the car and left Mrs. Mills standing. A.—Well, it is in a different direction.
Q.—How far from the place would it be? A.—Oh, she would have to go around.
Q.—Around the block? A.—Pretty nearly around the block.
Q.—I don't remember whether I asked you, when she left you when you got on the car she went in which direction? A.—Toward her house.
Q.—Would that bring her near Blitz's? A.—She would have to pass her house to go to Blitz's.
Q.—Can you tell whether that is the dress you saw Mrs. Mills wearing when you last saw her alive? Does it look like it? A.—Yes, sir.
Q.—The dress is Exhibit S-74, which I am showing you. This hat, Exhibit S-71, does that look like the hat she wore? A.—She had no hat on.
Q.—When she left you? A.—She had no hat on.
Q.—What time do you fix then as the time she left you? A.—About half past seven.

Seeks to Trace Letters.

Q.—In Mr. Carpender's car did you see anything when Minna Clarke went in the house?
Senator Case—I object to the question.
Senator Simpson—We will connect it up afterward by showing that the papers were removed from Dr. Hall's house on the Saturday following the murder, and we claim that these are the same papers that were in Mr. Carpender's car.
The Court—Let the question be answered.
Senator Case—I object.
The Court—Take your exception. Did you see anything in the car?
A.—Why, I saw like a lot of papers in the back like in boxes or little drawers, or something.
Q.—Drawers of what kind? A.—Well, the only thought I had was file drawers, something like that.
Senator Simpson—That is all.
Cross-examination by Senator Case:
Q.—Where were you? A.—Coming out of Mr. Mills's gate.
Q.—You were not in the house? A.—I was coming from Mr. Mills's house.
Q.—Going into your own home? A.—Into my own home.
Q.—What kind of car was it? A.—Well, I guess they call it a coupe. It was a small car.
Q.—Two doors to it? A.—I imagine so.
Q.—Just saw Mrs. Clarke get out? A.—Yes, Mrs. Clarke get out.
Q.—Was it a Ford? A.—I could not tell you that.
Q.—What color was the car? A.—It was dark.
Q.—On the top of the seat in back of the driver were these objects that you saw? A.—Yes.
Q.—In full view of everybody? A.—Why, yes.
Q.—There was no attempt at concealment that you could see? A.—No.
Q.—Just roughly piled in there, whatever it was? A.—Yes.

Tells of Couple's Tryste.

Senator Simpson took the witness for redirect examination and sought to establish through her that there had been much gossip in the neighborhood concerning the visits of the minister to the Mills home. She said that Dr. Hall called "most every day," and that she commanded a view of the front stoop of the Mills home from her sewing room, Miss Opie being a dressmaker. The redirect questioning was as follows:

Q.—And how long would he stay? A.—Well, of course, I could not tell how long.
Q.—You saw him when he went away? A.—Not always when he went away. I would see him go in.
Q.—Did he stay three weeks or thirty minutes or how long? A.—Half an hour or an hour.
Q.—What time in the day would he call? A.—Sometimes in the morning and sometimes in the afternoon.
Q.—What time in the morning and what time in the afternoon? A.—Oh, possibly after 10 o'clock in the morning.
Q.—And what time in the afternoon? A.—Sometimes around between two and three.
Q.—Do you know whether or not Charlotte, the daughter, was at school and the boy was at school and the man was at work when he called?
Senator Case—Well, tell her what to say. I object to that question.
The Court—Answer the question. A.—Yes.
Q.—Where would the man be? A.—At school.
Q.—He worked at the school, Mr. Mills? A.—Yes.
Q.—When was that, how long a period before the murder, did you notice that? A.—I think it was from a year to two years.
Q.—Did he come in an automobile, or how would he come? A.—Sometimes he walked, but very frequently in an automobile.
Q.—What would he do with the car. A.—Park it across the street.
Q.—What kind of car did he have? A.—A closed car.
Q.—Did you know the make of it? A.—No.

Questioned About Gossip.

At this point the special prosecutor turned to the neighborhood gossip. He drove at the dressmaker, seeking to have her tell about it. Senator Case was indignant. He peppered the record with objections:

Q.—I have asked you whether you knew anything about the talk in the neighborhood about the actions and conduct of Dr. Hall at the Mills home in relation to Mrs. Mills—don't tell me what it was. Just tell me if you know it or not.
Senator Case—I object.
The Court—Answer the question.
Senator Case—Exception.
A.—Yes.
Q.—From what period of time did you learn of it? A.—Well, only a little toward the last, because I did not talk with people.
Q.—Did you hear that from many sources? A.—From the neighbors.
Q.—Was there any family lived in the Mills home beside the Mills family, at the time you are describing? A.—Mrs. Kelly.
Cross-examination by Senator Case:
Q.—You say another family lived in the Mills home. I assume by that you mean another family lived in the same house that the Millses lived in? A.—It is a two-family house.
Q.—There was an outside stairway, wasn't there, going up to the Mills apartment? A.—Yes.
Q.—On your side of the house? A.—On my side of the house.
Q.—And you live right next door? A.—Right next door.
Q.—You saw Mr. Hall coming up and down those outside stairs? A.—Yes, sometimes, but I sometimes would be in the front of the house and just saw him go in.
Q.—Of course, you did not set out to watch, to see how often Mr. Hall went to the house? A.—No, but my sewing rooms looked on their steps.
Q.—And of course you don't know what he was going there to see her about, do you? A.—No.
Q.—Now, you have said that there was a somewhat general talk during the last two months; I understand you to say, preceding Sept. 14, that Mr. Hall was calling there too frequently? A.—Yes.
Q.—And you are quite sure that was limited to the last two months preceding the fourteenth of September? A.—Yes.
Q.—Now, whom did you hear indulging in that talk? A.—The neighbors. Well, there was a Mrs. Lathan.
Q.—Yes. A.—And a Mrs. Hardy.
Q.—Yes, anybody else? A.—Not to me, but these parties spoke about the other neighbors there.

Reveals Nature of Gossip.

Senator Case then asked the witness whether she had seen Mr. Hall call "every day" in July and August, 1922. Miss Opie declared she had, but then paused to reflect. Finally she remembered that the clergyman had been away from New Brunswick those months and she corrected her testimony. Miss Opie declared that Mrs. Lathan had been a member of the rector's parish, that of the Episcopal Church of St. John the Evangelist. Senator Case asked the nature of the "gossip" she had heard Mrs. Lathan say.

"Mrs. Lathan said," declared the dressmaker, "that if Mr. Hall could call on one of his parishioners eight or nine times a week and not call once a year on her she was going to another church."

This answer provoked laughter, and Senator Simpson asked the witness whether she had ever heard the clergyman "singing any hymns when he called." "No," said Miss Opie, "and the windows were open, too." "You never heard them singing," asked the Senator, "Gloria in Excelsis Deo, or anything of that kind, did you?" The witness pondered and said "No."

Senator Case asked Miss Opie if she knew what the Senator was talking about, and she said she knew what a "Gloria" was, but was a bit shaky on the rest of it. He asked: "Do you know whether they picked out any hymns there for singing in church?" The witness replied "No, sir."

Mayer Takes Stand.

The last witness was Herbert B. Mayer, a reporter for The Mirror. He began his testimony by addressing Mr. McCarter, who cross-examined, as "General." The dignified dean of the Jersey bar suggested that the witness drop the "General." He testified to the course of the calling card, which the State contends bears the imprint of Willie Stevens's left index finger, while the card was in possession of the tabloid newspaper.

The cross-examination of this witness was still in its initial stage when court adjourned until 10 A. M. today.

Fireman Gives Pint of Blood for Mrs. Gibson; She Smiles a "Thank You" After Transfusion

A blood transfusion was made on Mrs. Jane Gibson, star witness for the State of New Jersey in the Hall-Mills case, in the Jersey City Hospital at 10:30 A. M. yesterday. The blood was given by Fireman Thomas Kent of Engine Company 21. Two alternate firemen, Patrick Scott and Walter Granlick, waited by in case more blood was needed, but they were not called upon.

The operation took forty-five minutes. Kent gave up a pint and an ounce of blood. When the operation was over Mrs. Gibson smiled at Kent and said "Thank you." The fireman was permitted a leave of absence of twenty-four hours from his company, and after the transfusion went to his home.

The physicians who performed the operation were Dr. Charles B. Kelley, visiting gynecologist of the Jersey City Hospital; Dr. James J. Duffy, Dr. Joseph Commorato, Dr. Edward Daly and Dr. Charles Snyder, all of whom have had the "pig woman" under their care. "This transfusion," said Dr. Kelley, "is performed to correct a moderately severe secondary amenia, which was found and reported on Mrs. Gibson's admission to the Jersey City Hospital last Sunday."

When asked to reply to Senator Simpson's charge that "those physicians don't know what they are doing. I believe blood transfusion is not necessary," the hospital authorities referred to Dr. Kelley's statement which was issued before and reiterated after the operation. It was said at the hospital that reports of any relapse in Mrs. Gibson's condition had been exaggerated.

Throughout the day yesterday reports were issued that Mrs. Gibson's condition was "very satisfactory." The doctors said it would be several days before they could tell whether or not the transfusion had been successful.

Hospital authorities said that twenty firemen and policemen were on their list of available blood-givers.

DEBATE WOMEN'S TEACHING.

"Is Public Education in America Overfeminized," the Topic.

A conference on the question, "Is public education in America overfeminized," was held last night in the Brooklyn Academy of Music under the auspices of the Brooklyn Music and Arts Society. The speakers were Dr. William L. Felter, Principal of Girls' High School, Brooklyn; Professor David Snedden of Teachers' College, Columbia University, and Professor Donald Snedden of the Department of Psychology of Cooper Union Institute, a son of Professor Snedden of Columbia.

All three speakers agreed that there was a preponderance of women in the field of elementary education in America. Professor Snedden of Columbia held that it didn't make much difference whether the youth of the country were taught by women or men, but the two other speakers contended that boys constantly under the influence of women at home and being taught by women in school are subject to too much feminine influence.

RABBI'S HOME ATTACHED.

Revenue Officer Charges Zlotolow Owes $629,716 Income Tax.

Collector of Internal Revenue Warren G. Price, in Brooklyn, filed yesterday in the Federal Court an attachment against the home of Rabbi Solomon Zlotolow, at 39 Sunnyside Avenue, charging non-payment of income tax of $629,716.21, plus interest and penalties, on reputed earnings of more than $2,000,000 in real estate ventures since 1922. The Collector has also attached bank accounts of the rabbi at several banks in this city. The lien filed yesterday does not state the amount that the Government claims in interest and penalties. Mrs. Helen Zlotolow, wife of the rabbi, laughed when asked concerning the filing of the lien.

"I do not know anything about it," she said, and then added, "I wish we had a quarter of that tax. I should be happy if we had."

Rabbi Zlotolow was not at home.

BARNS TO REPLACE TEPEES.

Part of Shoshone Reservation in Wyoming Will Become Farms.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP).—From the tepee of the Indian to the barn of the farmer will be the transition of a part of the Shoshone Indian Reservation in Wyoming.

Forty farm units of public land on the reservation will be opened to entry by the Interior Department in the Pavillion Division of the Riverton irrigation project. Water for the farm units will be available in the irrigation season of 1927.

The land units vary in size from 25 acres to 112 acres. Former service men will have a preferential right of entry until March 3, 1927.

LEOPOLD MAY LEAVE JAIL.

Franks Slayer Is Wanted as Witness in Convicts' Escape.

JOLIET, Ill., Nov. 12 (AP).—Nathan Leopold, one of the two slayers of Bobby Franks, may have a brief trip outside the Stateville Prison, near here, in a few days. It was regarded as likely that he would be called as a witness in the trial of six convicts accused of the murder of Deputy Warden Peter Klein, killed last May when they made a break for freedom.

If attorneys' pleas to allow Leopold to serve as a witness prove successful, it will be his first release from confinement since he started his life sentence two years ago. The trial started today.

NEW SYNTHETIC FIBRE YARN

Fitchburg Company to Manufacture It After Long Experimenting.

FITCHBURG, Mass., Nov. 12 (AP).—The Fitchburg Yarn Company announced today the manufacture of a new synthetic fibre yarn as the result of experiments begun last March by their engineers with the aid of a Swiss textile expert. It was said the cost of production is one-third that of the best silk.

Although the process and formula have not been disclosed, it was said the new product has a cellulose base and consequently presents some dyeing problems, but that it has been subjected satisfactorily to warp dyeing. Independent tests are now in progress.

Tells League's Labor Aims.

At a dinner of the League of Nations Non-Partisan Association at the Astor last night, Harold D. Butler, Assistant Director of the International Labor Office at Geneva, which was founded by the League of Nations, told of the efforts of his organization to better the condition of working men in many countries.

SOFT COAL MINES RUN ON FULL TIME

Foreign Demand Results in the Reopening of Many After Long Standing Idle.

DELIVERIES MONTHS BEHIND

Department of Commerce Reports Fall in Trade Volume, but Greater Distribution.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Demands for bituminous coal, due in large part to the British strike and other foreign demands, have been responsible for unusual recent developments in soft coal mining, according to reports to the Federal Reserve Board and the Department of Commerce.

For the first time in months, the call has been so great that mines which have been standing idle have been reopened. In one Southern Ohio section where conditions were supposed to be anything but prosperous mines are running on full time, banks are doing a good business and the people are greatly encouraged.

A report tonight by the Department of Commerce on weekly business conditions says:

"The production of bituminous coal during the last week of October was higher than in either the previous week or the same week of last year, while the output of beehive coke was smaller than in either comparative period.

"Lumber production was larger than during the previous week, but smaller than for the last week of October, 1925. The output of petroleum continued to run higher than a year ago."

According to reports from agents and Governors of the Federal Reserve Board, the soft coal boom has more than offset the slight falling off in the automobile business.

Manufacturing industries are facing quite a problem because they did not anticipate the great foreign demand for bituminous coal. While no shortage has developed, or, at least, none has become acute, the mines are said to be behind on deliveries to industries. If foreign shipments were to stop abruptly today, according to information here, it would take two or three months to catch up on normal domestic soft coal demands.

Foreign deliveries are expected to continue strong, since reports indicate that even with the British miners going to work they will be unable to make up the shortage for some months. A report that Europe, including England, is 100,000,000 tons of coal short has stimulated the belief that the American soft coal situation is full of optimistic promise.

A new explanation has been given in financial quarters of the apparent falling off in October of retail trade, notwithstanding the fact that the month had five Saturdays. It is that automobile congestion in the vicinity of big department stores has caused buyers to visit shops in the outlying districts because they could not find parking spaces closer to the main centres.

The report from the Department of Commerce, which also causes speculation in this connection, says:

"The dollar volume of trade during the first week of November, as seen from check payments, was lower than for either the previous week or the corresponding week of last year. The distribution of goods, as seen from figures on car loadings, was the largest ever recorded in the last week of October, loadings for each week of October exceeding the corresponding periods of 1925."

With regard to wholesale prices, the report states:

"Wholesale prices again strengthened as compared with the last week of October and were higher than at any time since midsummer. Prices of most commodities, however, were well below last year.

"Loans and discounts of Federal Reserve member banks were higher than for either the previous week or the corresponding month of last year. Interest rates on call money were the same as during the previous week and lower than last year, while time-money rates declined both from the previous week and from a year ago.

"Business failures, although less than in the previous week, were more numerous than a year ago."

FARMER FOUND MURDERED.

His Wife Cuts Her Throat When Officials Seek to Question Her.

Special to The New York Times.

COLEBROOK, N. H., Nov. 12.—Samuel Brackett was found murdered in his home here this morning. His body had been dragged from a shed where the murder was committed supposedly about 9 o'clock last evening, when Albert Wallace, a neighbor saw a strange car drive to the house and a man alight and enter. The body was lying on a bed clad in a fur overcoat, and a revolver was lying across his breast.

The murder was discovered by Mrs. Russell Forrestall when she called to keep an appointment made yesterday with Mrs. Brackett.

Mr. and Mrs. Brackett had had much trouble and Mr. Brackett had not been living at home for some time. Mrs. Brackett, who was formerly Miss Ella Peary, was located this afternoon at the home of William Brown at Lemington, Vt., a half mile from Colebrook on the route to Canada. When Deputy Sheriff Kelsea and George Wood started there to question her, as she was known to have been in her home last evening, she saw them coming and cut her throat.

The officers rushed the woman to the office of Coroner Noyes, who had just ended the inquest on her husband's body, and who bandaged her wounds in time to save her life. She was incoherent and told conflicting stories.

William Brown and his grandson, Harley Bryant, in whose home Mrs. Brackett was found, were arrested and Willie Perry whose father, David Perry, is known to have been a frequent visitor at the home, is held for examination.

Brackett was employed as a farm hand by Arthur Stevens a few miles from town and was brought to his home in the village last evening by Willie Perry.

Boy, 2, Plays With Matches, Dies.

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 12.—Edward Nyul, 2 years old, of Broad Street Park, was burned to death this afternoon when a chicken coop in the rear of the Nyul home caught fire. A brother, William, 5, was playing with Edward. The boys had found some matches, and after lighting several, straw in the coop caught fire. Theodore Nyul, 13 years old, pulled William from the blazing structure, but could not reach Edward. Mrs. Anna Nyul, the mother, succeeded in rescuing him after she heard the cries of the children, but he died shortly afterward in St. Francis Hospital.

ASK CITY TO BUY ROAD TO CURB DISASTERS

Brooklyn Residents Protest Continuation of Grade Crossing Where Deaths Occurred.

One thousand residents of Brooklyn, meeting last night at P. S. 159, Pitkin Avenue and Crescent Street, to protest against the continuation of the Elderts Lane grade crossing, where five persons were killed last week, adopted a resolution urging the city to buy the Atlantic Avenue division of the Long Island Railroad and another asking the District Attorney to prefer charges to the Grand Jury against the officials of the railroad.

The first resolution offered by Municipal Court Justice Frank E. Johnson said the city should buy the division in preparation for converting it into a subway.

"The Long Island," he said, "has not made money on this line and intends to make as much of a nuisance of it as possible in order to force the city to buy it. Let's buy it."

The second resolution was offered by Robert E. Harper, who said that the officials of the railroad were guilty of neglect. It was followed by an address by District Attorney Dodd, who said he would make an inquiry to determine responsibility in the accident.

Other speakers were James J. Byrne, Borough President of Brooklyn; Charles E. Lockwood, a member of the Transit Commission; Assemblyman Jacob A. Livingston and James J. McCue, Chairman of the Twenty-second District Democratic Club. They all said steps should be taken to eliminate grade crossings and Mr. Livingston urged that the gateman at the crossing should be ignored in the investigation.

"He's not responsible," he said. "Don't punish him. Get the big fellows. Put them in jail."

LOST IN LEAKING DORY, PURSUED BY BIG SHARK

Maine Trawler Throws Fish to Monster and Rows Forty Miles to Island.

PORTLAND, Me., Nov. 12 (AP).—Rescued after being adrift in a dory for more than twenty-six hours, and part of the time followed by a huge shark, David Conrad, aged 50, a fisherman aboard the schooner Benjamin Thompson, returned today from Booth Bay Harbor aboard the packet Myra F. Wooster.

Conrad's dory drifted away from the schooner while he was fishing off New Ledge Monday and was lost in a dense fog. Conrad started for shore, navigating by the direction of the sun and the wind, and after rowing a day and a night covered the distance of forty miles to Damariscove Island.

Captain William Thomas of the schooner and his men spent the night burning rockets in an attempt to locate the lost member of the crew.

To lighten the boat, Conrad threw overboard some of the fish he had taken from the trawls. Around sunset the shark appeared near the boat. Fearing for his safety, Conrad began throwing over the rest of the fish to keep the shark occupied. For hours he could see the monster's fin plainly as it darted through the water a short distance from the dory.

Conrad rowed on, bailing the boat, which was leaking badly, and attempting to stuff the leak with his handkerchief. After several hours the shark disappeared.

MASEFIELD SAILS HOME.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lamont See Poet Off on Olympic.

John Masefield, the English poet, sailed at 12 o'clock last night on the White Star liner Olympic for Southampton, and was seen off by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lamont, with whom he has been living during his stay of four weeks in this country. He said he intended to take a rest until after the Christmas holidays from writing and then begin work on a new book which will deal partly with the old life at sea on sailing ships. Mr. Masefield was on the training ship Conway as a cadet with Captain William Marshall, the master of the Olympic.

When asked what he thought of the Nobel prize being awarded to Bernard Shaw, he replied, "I do not think that the committee could have made a better choice. Shaw is the best known and the wittiest dramatist today. His St. Joan alone should have merited him that honor."

Mr. Lamont took the poet and Mrs. Masefield to see "Broadway" last night before going on board the Olympic. He said that he had seen four plays during his present trip to America.

"Your stage is very liberal," he added. "It is willing to experiment. These experiments keep your theatrical life in a constant fluid. There is nothing stationary. Perhaps some of your themes go beyond liberality, but I do not regard this as unfortunate. It shows a wish to keep alive."

WILL AIDS METROPOLITAN.

Museum to Get Philadelphian's $200,000 Estate When Heirs Die.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 12 (AP).—The Metropolitan Museum of Art of New York is designated as the ultimate beneficiary of the estate of "$200,000 and upward" left by William Gardner MacDowell of Philadelphia, who died at Westfield, N. J., Oct. 16.

Mr. MacDowell's will, probated here today, provides that the bulk of his estate shall be held in trust for the benefit of his widow, a brother and two sisters. Upon the death of the last beneficiary of the trust fund the Public Library and a hospital at Rome, N. Y., are to receive gifts of $1,000 each, the residue of the principal to be given outright to the Metropolitan Museum.

COOLIDGE CABLES HAINISCH.

Congratulates Austrian President on Republic's Anniversary.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP).—The felicitations of President Coolidge on the eighth anniversary of the founding of the Austrian Republic were cabled today to President Hainisch at Vienna.

"On this anniversary of the proclamation of the Austrian Republic, I extend hearty felicitations and best wishes to your excellency and the Austrian people on my own behalf and that of the Government and people of the United States," the message from President Coolidge said.

Ex-Merchant Dies in Hotel Tub.

The body of Christopher B. Weicker, 52, a retired merchant, was found in a bathtub filled with water, adjoining his room in the Hotel Harding, 203 West Forty-fourth Street, yesterday by a maid. Death is believed to have been caused by a heart attack. An autopsy will be performed today. Weicker had lived at the hotel for several years. The police are trying to locate his relatives.

MACHADO PREPARED TO TURN DICTATOR

Cuban President Warns Party and Congress They Must Cooperate With Him.

WASHINGTON IS ASTONISHED

Threat Perplexes Officials, but They Incline to View It as Shot Across Enemies' Bows.

HAVANA, Nov. 12 (AP).—President Machado in his Armistice Day address to a Liberal gathering in Havana exploded a political bombshell among the members of his party. The President pleaded for cooperation by his party and by Congress in carrying forward the Government's plans for betterment of the administration and the attainment of the ideals of those who "lost their lives that Cuba might be free

"But if the Administration does not obtain that cooperation," said the President, "then, having the Constitution as my guide, I, alone, will prevent the efforts we have made for nearly two years from being lost, as seed dropped on rocky soil."

Continuing, the President said that his law was the law of patriotism and dignity, and on that law depended the future of Cuba.

"I know that many among those who hear me," the President went on, "will think this statement unconstitutional and I know that some will reach the conclusion that I am a masked partisan of dictatorship. But if dictatorship is necessary to keep alive the memory of those heroes who fell on the battlefield, I, with those among you who are willing to follow me, will be enough to attain that end."

Official Washington Cautious.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP).—President Machado's hint of a dictatorship for Cuba caused manifest surprise and perplexity in Washington.

Officials and diplomats permitted only the most discreet remarks to escape their lips, but it was perfectly plain that they had no clear understanding of what potentialities might lie behind the Cuban President's pronunciamento.

President Machado not only has the confidence of Washington, but there has been every reason to suppose that he also was strongly entrenched in the affections of his own people. In the recent elections his party was victorious throughout the island. Always a strong figure, he receives credit from Washington officials and apparently from the vast majority of his fellow-citizens for having saved the Cuban financial situation from a serious plight and for having exercised real executive ability in the midst of other difficult problems of administration.

Should the question of a dictatorship actually arise, the attitude of the United States would have to be decided on the basis of circumstances as they stood at the moment.

There is every confidence here that no decision of the kind foreseen by the Cuban Executive will become necessary. His allusions in yesterday's patriotic address are looked upon as probably resulting from an abundance of precaution and calculated as a warning shot across the bows of his enemies rather than as an actual sortie toward a dictatorship.

ROCKAWAYS TO REMAIN NAVAL AVIATION BASE

Admiral Josephthal, at Dinner of Fliers, Sees Reserve Unit Linked With the State Militia.

The establishment of a reorganized naval aviation reserve unit in combination with the State militia to be established at Rockaway was predicted last night by Rear Admiral Louis M. Josephthal, Commander of the State Naval Militia, at the first annual dinner of navy aviators at the Hotel Commodore.

Admiral Josephthal said that though the plane had not been completed it is expected that the Rockaways will continue as the main base for a combined organization of national and State naval aircraft operations. Other facilities will also be maintained, he said, the plane providing for the establishment of an operating station at Ninety-sixth Street and the Hudson River.

He stressed the necessity of submarines and aircraft and said this State had contributed more than $400,000 toward the naval militia, more than all the other States combined.

Commander Jacob H. Klein, U. S. N., urged American fliers to get together an all-American crew and outfit, with suitable machines and make a non-stop transatlantic flight.

Lieut. Commander Harry Guggenheim, President of the Daniel Guggenheim Foundation for the promotion of aviation, presided. The speakers included General Umberto Nobile, Italian pilot of the Norge, which made the first transpolar flight; Commander Kenneth Whiting, who led the first naval aviators to France in 1917; Lieut. Commander Edward O. McDonnell, winner of the Congressional Medal of Honor and member of the Yale flying unit in the war; Lieutenant Walter Hinton, pilot of the NC-4, who made the first flight across the Atlantic; Commander H. T. Bartlett, in charge of the forthcoming flight to Panama, and Lieutenant Jack Isman.

FIRESTONE TO CUT PRICES.

Rubber Co. Head Announces in West a Slash of 10% to 20% on Tires.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 12 (AP).—Harvey Firestone of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company announced here today that his company would cut tire prices approximately 15 per cent. next Monday.

Specifically, the price cut will be from 10 to 20 per cent., according to the class of tires. The manufacturer implied that his company had been able to obtain a large quantity of rubber for about 37 cents a pound; 5 cents a pound lower than the market.

Mr. Firestone came West to visit his sons in Arizona.

Begin Radio Talks on West Virginia.

A telegram from Governor Howard M. Gore of West Virginia praising the work of the Chamber of Commerce of Huntington in broadcasting speeches on the industrial advantages of that city through WRNY here was received last night by Major H. O. Aleshire, President of the chamber. Governor Gore had been listening in at the State Capitol at Charleston. The program was the first of a series of "Huntington Hours" which will attempt to interest Eastern industrialists in the advantages of that city.

HARBORD SEES WAR FORGOTTEN IN AMERICA

People Don't Know Which One Is Meant When It Is Mentioned, He Says at Armistice Dinner.

Major Gen. James G. Harbord, speaking last night at an Interallied Armistice dinner at the Army and Navy Club, attended by military and consular officials of eleven nations who fought together in the great war, accused this country of fast forgetting there was a war.

"When you speak of it most people don't know whether you mean the Revolutionary War, the Southern Rebellion or the Mexican War," he declared, adding tartly, "for myself, I consider it was a pretty good war."

Other speakers urged cooperation of the military in all allied countries to further the cause of peace. "The soldiers are the peacemakers," said Major Gen. Charles P. Summerall, newly appointed Chief of Staff of the United States Army. "Tonight we stand, more than any other group of men, for the brotherhood of the human family. The war wasn't all bad; there is at least one bright, constructive page. I believe the bond existing between the soldiers is the greatest guarantee of peace in the world."

Consul General George S. Duarte of Portugal warned nations against assuming the rôle of braggarts for their acts in the war, while Japan was pledged to the cause of peace by Consul General Hirosi Saito.

Other speakers were Sir Harry Armstrong, British Consul General in New York; Consul General A. A. Mongendre of France, Consul General S. Gruszka of Poland, Consul General Jaroslav Novak of Czechoslovakia, Consul General Emilia Axerio of Italy, Consul J. T. Johnston Mali of Belgium, Consul D. M. Stanoyevitch of the Kingdom of the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes, Vice Consul S. Drutzu of Rumania, Major Gen. Robert L. Bullard, Brig. Gen. William M. Cruikshank and Captain C. P. Nelson, representing Rear Admiral C. P. Plunkett. Colonel Franklin Q. Brown was toastmaster.

Roll call and taps were blown by Bugler Joseph Stankoski of the Eighteenth Infantry, Fort Slocum, following the addresses. The program was broadcast through Station WEAF.

AVERAGE 17½ SECONDS IN THROWING STEERS

Ten Cowboys Bulldogging Ten Animals at Rodeo Said to Have Set New Record.

What veteran cowboys declared was a world's record was established by ten cowboys at the Madison Square Rodeo last night when ten steers were thrown at an average time of seventeen and a half seconds each. The world's record for bulldogging a steer is six and three-fifths seconds but it is rarely that two or three cowboys will come within striking distance of this time with three different steers.

Virtually every seat except in the upper gallery was occupied at last night's performance and all the contests were exceedingly close. The proceeds are being turned over to the Broad Street Hospital Fund and the rodeo will close with a performance this afternoon and one this evening.

In yesterday afternoon's contests three cowboys stood out as strong contenders for the trophies and prizes offered to the week's winners. With only today's points to be added to their scores, Bob Crosby of Kenna, N. M.; Paddy Ryan of Ismay, Cal., and Hugh Strickland of Bruneau Valley, Idaho, were leading. Dick Shelton of Fort Worth, Texas, was virtually eliminated from the winning class when he missed his throw in the calf-roping contest.

The bulldogging competition was the feature of both afternoon and evening performances. Jack Wilson, dropping on an especially active brute, threw him in nine and three-fifths seconds, and was beaten out by a sensational throw by Jim Massey, a veteran bulldoggers, who shaved a fifth of a second off Wilson's time. Three cowboys failed to throw their steers at all after wild struggles which drew cheers from the crowd. One narrowly escaped being pinned against the arena wall by an infuriated animal.

There were three narrow escapes from serious accidents yesterday, and in the wild horse race a rider was knocked unconscious by flying hoofs as he fell from his animal.

DEER CRASHES INTO TRUCK.

Confused by Headlight, It Upsets Machine.

Special to The New York Times.

WINSTED, Conn., Nov. 12.—Benjamin Barranoff was operating a motor truck laden with lumber near Montville in Berkshire County, Mass., recently when a large deer evidently confused by the headlights jumped upon the machine upsetting it. The deer was pinned beneath the heavy load and killed. It weighed about 200 pounds. Barranoff was also injured in the mishap but not seriously and the truck was considerably damaged. Harry Rogers received a broken collar bone when his automobile struck a deer near New Boston. His car was damaged.

FORD A HERO IN RUSSIA.

English Visitor Says Workers Carry His Slogan on Banner.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—The Russian workers are making a new hero of Henry Ford, according to Mrs. Wedgwood Benn, wife of the English politician, who recently visited Russia.

"Workers' banners," said Mrs. Benn in a lecture tonight, "contained slogans for Ford. Every one believes in him and they all finally hope to live up to his ideas."

In order to live, continued Mrs. Benn, educated people sell papers outside the Moscow movie theatres at night.

AUTOIST ON 200-FOOT ROAD.

Alaskan With $7,000 Car Is Confined to Short Stretch.

DULUTH, Minn., Nov. 12 (AP).—Alaska claims the world's most ardent automobilist, says George F. Lewis, Alaskan author and lecturer, visiting Duluth today.

The motorist has a $7,000 automobile which he drives back and forth over his own private road 200 feet long. Alaska's 1,700 miles of highway are not available to him in his outlying home.

$20,000,000 ISSUE FOR FT. LEE BRIDGE

Port Authority Authorizes Bond Sale and May Begin Actual Work Next Year.

COST TO BE $50,000,000

Bankers Approached to Arrange Marketing, It Is Reported, but Board Official Denies It.

The Port of New York Authority has authorized the issue of $20,000,000 in bonds for the construction of the proposed Hudson River Bridge between Washington Heights in Upper Manhattan and Fort Lee, N. J., it was learned yesterday. The authorization was made at a meeting on Thursday and it was reported yesterday that prominent bankers had been approached with a view to making arrangements for marketing the bonds, but denial was made by an officer of the Port Authority that any bids for the bonds had as yet been invited.

Before actual work on the bridge is begun it will be necessary to obtain the approval of the War Department, and the invitation for bids on the bonds will contain a proviso to the effect that this approval must be obtained. Application for approval already has been filed by the Port Authority and no difficulty in obtaining it from the War Department is expected.

The decision to go ahead with the first issue of bonds will probably enable the Port Authority to start actual work on the bridge in 1927, and the sale of $20,000,000 worth will furnish sufficient funds to complete about half the work and carry it along until 1929 or 1930.

The cost of the project has been placed by the Port Authority at $50,000,000, but may reach $60,000,000 if it is decided to provide more traffic lanes at the approaches. In addition to the $20,000,000 to be raised by the first sale of bonds, the States of New York and New Jersey will each contribute $5,000,000 to the cost of the bridge at the rate of $1,000,000 a year for five years. These advances from the States will be repaid later out of surplus tolls.

The bridge will be two and one-half times the size of the Brooklyn Bridge, now the largest suspension bridge in the world, the plans calling for an unsupported span 3,568 feet long. Its towers will be 660 feet high and the clearance for vessels will be 206 feet. Its New York end will be in the vicinity of 179th Street.

CHICAGO TO WELCOME A POLITICAL BIG THREE

Democrats to Entertain Smith, Ritchie and Walker Before Army-Navy Game.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—Middle West Democrats are set for a political meeting as an embellishment of the Army and Navy football game here a fortnight hence. Governor Smith of New York, Governor Ritchie of Maryland, one of Governor Smith's prospective rivals for the Democratic nomination for President in 1928, and Mayor Walker of New York, who are coming here to watch the gridiron battle, will be guests at a luncheon given by the Iroquois Club the day before the game.

The party for the three Eastern Democratic leaders is expected by its sponsors to be one in which Republicans as well as Democrats will have a share. The game appears likely to attract almost as many of the prominent politicians to Chicago as a national convention would. Many notables among the Democrats in the Mid-West region have written for reservations for the luncheon. Iowa, Indiana, Wisconsin, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri and other States are expected to have a good representation.

Mayor Dever is Chairman of the Reception Committee and Ross C. Hall, President of the Iroquois Club, has announced the committees. James F. Bishop heads the Arrangements Committee and has for aides among others Sheriff-elect Patrick J. Carr, City Controller Martin J. O'Brien, Charles J. Vopicka, William M. Rothmann, Clayton F. Smith, Edward J. Kelley, Judge E. K. Jarecki, Judge Henry Horner and John F. Delaney.

HOBOES WILL 'EDUCATE' THEIR 'AUTO HIKERS'

Convention Considers Problem—Woman Delegate Complains of Memphis Rock Pile.

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 12 (AP).—Veteran "Weary Willie," whose usual means of transportation has been the railroad, whether it be on top of a freight or on the rods of a passenger coach, today took official cognizance of the rapid increase of the "auto hikers" and voted to "uplift and educate them to the ways of hobodom."

At today's session of their national convention here the hoboes, led by James Eads Howe, "Millionaire Hobo," voted to appoint a field agent who would canvass and organize the "auto hikers," who travel about in other persons' automobiles and to teach them the ways of the road.

V. C. Anderson, convention Chairman, warned the hoboes that they must always be civil to motorists.

"It's the young kids who do the murdering and robbing along the road," Anderson said. "They don't know how to bum and they get desperate. I don't know of a typical hobo who ever was convicted of robbing a motorist. We must educate these young fellows."

The rock pile of the South was bitterly denounced by the delegates today when the only woman delegate, Mrs. Mary Cotchell of Memphis, Tenn., declared the Memphis Chapter could not progress as all hoboes there were put to work breaking rock.

Dallas, Minneapolis and New Orleans are being considered for the 1927 convention.

Chauffeur Accused in Club Hold-Up

Benjamin Vesch, 25 years old, a chauffeur of 224 Sullivan Street, was found hiding in a closet in his home when detectives went to look for him early yesterday morning. He was arrested charged with being one of six men who, armed with shotguns and pistols, held up the Club Biarritz at 210 West Fifty-fourth Street on Oct. 22, lining up thirty-five patrons against the wall and taking $1,300 in cash and jewelry.

TOPICS TO INTEREST THE CHURCHGOERS

New Sounding Board Installed in Trinity, the Gift of Two Sisters, Parishioners.

BIBLE CLASSES MEET TODAY

2,000 Delegates Will Attend Men's Convention at Tompkins Av. Church, Brooklyn.

A new sounding-board, the gift of Miss Lucy H. Kean and Mrs. W. Emlen Roosevelt, sisters, has been installed in Trinity Episcopal Church, Broadway, at the head of Wall Street. The board was made from designs drawn by the late Thomas Nash, who was architect for Trinity. The old sounding-board will be presented to another church.

The Rev. Joseph H. Titus, assistant at St. John's Episcopal Church, Watertown, Conn., has accepted the office of assistant to the Rev. Dr. Roelif H. Brooks, new rector of St. Thomas's Episcopal Church here. Mr. Titus is 33 years old.

The Rev. Dr. G. Campbell Morgan will return from England on the Majestic, due to arrive Tuesday, and will begin a preaching tour of this country on Nov. 21. The clergyman refused an invitation to return permanently to Westminster Chapel, London, of which he was the pastor from 1904 to 1917.

Dr. Charles K. Edmunds, American director of Lingnan University, Canton, China, will leave for there the last of this month. Dr. Edmunds resigned lately as provost of Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, to take his present office.

Two uptown Presbyterian churches may merge, it was reported yesterday. They are the North, 155th Street, east of Broadway, and the St. Nicholas Avenue, at 141st Street. It is likely that the Rev. Henry B. Kirkland, new pastor of St. Nicholas Avenue, will be the pastor of the merged church.

More than 2,000 men from all parts of the State are expected to attend the convention of the New York State Federation of Men's Bible Classes this afternoon, beginning at 2 o'clock, in the Tompkins Avenue Congregational Church, at McDonough Street, Brooklyn. This evening the delegates will parade to the Twenty-third Regiment Armory where there will be a dinner. The Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman will address the delegates at the Bedford Y. M. C. A. this afternoon.

The seventh annual Older Boys and Girls' Conference will be held this afternoon and evening in the Park Avenue Baptist Church, at Sixty-fourth Street, under the auspices of the Greater New York Federation of Churches. The conference will be continued tomorrow afternoon in the Madison Avenue Methodist Church, at Sixtieth Street. The topic will be "Christian Youth in a Changing World."

The Rev. Paul Arndt of Moberly, Mo., has accepted a call to the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, Newark, to succeed the Rev. August F. Bruun, who resigned to become director of Lutherland, in the Pocono Mountains, Pennsylvania.

Park Avenue Baptist Church, at Sixty-fourth Street, begins this month the publication of a magazine, The Church Monthly, the feature of which will be a sermon in each issue by the Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, the new pastor.

Tomorrow in all Unitarian Churches of the United States and Canada the Unitarian Foundation, Inc., will open a campaign to raise $1,300,000 for the support of denominational activities. The campaign in the Middle Atlantic States will be directed by Harry A. Patterson of 299 Madison Avenue.

FEDERATION SABBATH DEVOTED TO CHARITY

Subscriptions Exceeding $3,000,000 for Jewish Philanthropies Expected by Monday.

Frederick Brown, General Chairman of the tenth anniversary $4,700,000 campaign of the Federation for the Support of Jewish Philanthropic Societies, predicted yesterday that $3,000,000 would be passed by Monday afternoon, when the next workers' rally will be held in the Hotel Pennsylvania.

Federation Sabbath is being observed today by Orthodox, Conservative and Reform congregations throughout the city in accordance with a resolution adopted by the New York Board of Jewish Ministers. In many cases sermons will be delivered by the rabbis and in other synagogues and temples the Presidents of the congregations will make the appeal in behalf of the ninety-one societies within the Federation. Rabbis Jonah B. Wise and Israel Goldstein headed the committee which arranged for the cooperation of the synagogues in the campaign.

Because of the Jewish Sabbath there was no tabulation of returns last evening, but workers will resume their work tonight. I. Edwin Goldwasser, Chairman of the Public Relations Committee, in issuing instructions yesterday to the workers, said canvassing of the home districts in every borough was highly important.

Tomorrow night the fifth annual dinner of the Real Estate Club of the Federation will take place in the Hotel Biltmore. The speakers, as announced by Nathan Wilson, Chairman of the Dinner Committee, will be Mayor Walker and Henry Morgenthau.

READY FOR HOSPITAL DRIVE.

Leaders Fix Quotas in Lutheran Campaign for $750,000.

Quotas for the $750,000 drive for a new building for the Lutheran Hospital were assigned yesterday. The preliminary gifts committee under the chairmanship of Henry Kroger has a quota of $500,000 and six divisions in Manhattan and the Bronx have quotas of $50,000 each.

Each of four woman's divisions has a quota of $25,000 each. Other quotas are the men's division for the outer metropolitan district, $25,000; the Junior Aid Society, $25,000, and the doctors' division, $50,000. C. C. Springhorn is heading the drive.

HITS LACK OF RELIGION IN THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Dr. Weigle of Yale Blames Its Absence for 'Pagan Lustfulness' of the World.

Absence of religious education in the public schools was blamed last night by Dr. Luther A. Weigle, Professor of Religious Education at Yale, as the principal reason for the "pagan lustfulness of a world that is drifting away from God and good."

Dr. Weigle, who was speaking at the final session of the forty-ninth annual convention of the Kings County Sunday Schools at the Hansom Place M. E. Church in Brooklyn, said a spirit similar to the one of the present age was in vogue in the early days of the Republic and was overcome by the revivals which followed the Revolutionary War. Then, in the latter half of the nineteenth century, he said, religious teaching was taken out of the schools, and the country has begun to "reap the fruits of our fathers' mistake."

"The desire of folk to do what they please, when they please and where they pleases find supposedly scientific backing and sanction in the behavioristic psychology of John B. Watson, the psychoanalytic mythology of Sigmund Freud and the free-love philosophy of Bertrand Russell.

"This pseudo-scientific materialism and pagan ethics find fit expression in the sex fiction and sh-ly verse, the indecent shows and raucous jazz which have so largely taken the place once occupied by literature, art and music. And then we blink our eyes and shake our heads and ask despairingly, 'What ails our youth? What is the matter with our young people of today?' We forget that youth holds a mirror to middle age. There is nothing the matter with young people today except that they are reacting in perfectly natural ways to the stimuli afforded them by the pagan lustfulness of a world that is drifting away from God and good.

"One reason why middle-aged men and women ignore religion is because their education ignored it. We have committed the education of our children to a system of public schools which we have almost completely stripped of religious elements. This was the work not of infidels and atheists but of folk who spoke and acted in the name of religion. The public schools are at the mercy of minorities with respect to matters of religious conviction. The ignoring of religion by the schools of America endangers the perpetuity of those moral and religious institutions which are most characteristic of American life. It imperils the future of religion among us, and with religion the future of the nation itself. Inevitably this ignoring of religion discredits religion in the minds of our children. This danger is greater today than ever before because the public schools are greater today than ever before.

"The revival which America needs today is the revival of the teaching function of the church, broadly conceived and in right relation to the whole life of the church on the one hand and to the whole of our educational system on the other. The churches must undertake the teaching of religion in terms that help men to integrate their lives and catch something of the eternal meaning that lies beneath the welter of facts and laws, interests and occupations that make up the modern world."

The Rev. Owen V. Davis, director of Christian education of the New York Presbytery, spoke on "Helpful Books for Teachers." The Rev. Jay T. Stocking spoke on "Teaching Religion to Young People."

DROPS COMPULSORY CHAPEL

Vassar Adopts Voluntary System After Two Years' Discussion.

Special to The New York Times.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Nov. 12.—A voluntary chapel system at Vassar College will go into effect Monday, replacing the compulsory system. Fifteen-minute services from Tuesday to Friday will be the rule, and President MacCracken may call a meeting of the whole college Monday evenings at such times as he sees fit. The present Sunday services will be maintained.

Students have advocated voluntary religious services for two years, and various plans have been discussed and discarded. Last June the Board of Trustees appointed a committee to confer with a committee of Faculty and students and the present plan has resulted.

The only religious feature of the Monday night meetings will be the singing of a hymn. The program for the rest of the week will consist of a prayer, congregational singing, reading from the Scriptures and perhaps a short address.

Women Thank

Science for this new hygienic pad that discards easily as tissue — no laundry

THERE is now an exquisite successor to the old-time "sanitary pad." A new way that offers far greater protection. A way that ends the old problem of disposal.

Eight in 10 better-class women now use "KOTEX."

Five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads.

Deodorizes, thus ending ALL danger of offending.

Obtainable at all drug and department stores simply by saying "KOTEX." You ask for it without hesitancy.

Package of 12 costs only a few cents. Proves old ways a needless risk. In fairness to yourself, try it.

KOTEX

No laundry discard like tissue

EBEN DRAPER WEDS HAZEL ARCHIBALD

Son of Late Governor of Massachusetts Marries Seattle Girl in Rutherford, N. J.

HIS SECOND MARRIAGE

He Wed Ruth L. Carroll After a War Romance and They Were Divorced in Paris.

A wedding of much interest in New York was that of Eben Sumner Draper of Boston and Miss Hazel Margery Archibald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Silas Archibald of Seattle, Wash., which took place yesterday in Rutherford, N. J. Mr. Draper, who has twice been a member of the Massachusetts State Senate since returning from the war, and his first wife were divorced in Paris last Summer.

Mr. and Mrs. William B. Bristow of 36 East Eighty-first Street, uncle and aunt of the bridegroom, were present at the ceremony, as well as Mr. Draper's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gannett, and his brother, Bristow Draper, and Mrs. Draper.

After the ceremony the party returned to New York. A small reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond D. Little, 485 Park Avenue.

Mr. Draper and his former wife, who was Miss Ruth Lawrence Carroll, daughter of Mrs. William Bloodgood Trowbridge of this city and Darien, Conn., were married in New York soon after they returned from the war. She was a Red Cross nurse and he was a Captain in the Twenty-sixth Division when they met for the first time in France. The custody of their daughter was awarded to Mrs. Draper by the French court in granting the divorce.

Mr. Draper is the son of the late Eben S. Draper, one-time Governor of Massachusetts. His mother was the daughter of General Benjamin Helm Bristow of Kentucky, who was the choice of President Grant for Secretary of the Treasury. His uncle, General William S. Draper, was a General under Grant in the Civil War and was later Ambassador to Italy.

Haig—Smedberg.

Miss Edith Ludlow Morton Smedberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adolphus Smedberg, was married yesterday to Quentin F. Haig, son of the late Frederick Haig of Washington, at the home of her parents, 943 Lexington Avenue. The ceremony was performed in the presence of a small group of relatives and intimate friends by the Rev. Dr. Henry Howard of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church. A small reception followed.

Mr. Smedberg gave his daughter in marriage and Miss Mary Smedberg, sister of the bride, was the only bridal attendant. Frank A. Moore was best man and the ushers were Allan McGhee and Azro Patterson.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Carl G. Smedberg, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Jennings, Mrs. James McClellan, Miss Nancy McClellan, Mrs. Beverley M. Eyre, Mrs. George Purdy Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Humphreys, Frank Howard of Hartford, Mrs. Osborne Day of New Haven and Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Coleman.

After a wedding trip to Bermuda Mr. and Mrs. Haig will make their home at 129 East Sixty-ninth Street.

Suprenant—Kildunn.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Nov. 12.—Miss Margaret Kildunn, niece of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schanb of 57 Callon Terrace, New Rochelle, was married to Valmore J. Suprenant, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Suprenant of Adams, Mass., at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Syracuse, on Wednesday. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Jerome McCarthy, pastor of the church.

Miss Marie McQuirk of New Rochelle and Richard Welsh were the attendants. The couple will reside at 35 Thayer Street, New York City.

ELIZABETH H. TRAUB TO MARRY TODAY

Will Wed Karl McM. Jones in St. Bartholomew's — Dorothy Kellogg Bride Today.

Miss Elizabeth Hudson Traub, daughter of Major General and Mrs. Peter Edward Traub, will be married to Karl McMaster Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Jones of Montclair, N. J., this afternoon in the chapel of St. Bartholomew's Church. A reception will follow at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Adams Kissam, 9 East Seventy-sixth Street.

Kurtz—Kellogg.

The marriage of Miss Dorothy Scott Kellogg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul C. Kellogg of 30 Riverside Drive, to Walter Raymond Kurtz Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Raymond Kurtz of 418 Stafford Street, Germantown, Pa., will take place today in Ardmore, Pa.

Behrman—Solomons.

The marriage of Miss Janet Cahn Solomons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edouard Joseph Solomons of 11 West Eighty-eighth Street, to Morris Behrman of this city, will take place Thursday afternoon at the Ambassador. The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. Dr. Stephen S. Wise.

Miss Florence Morris will be the bride's only attendant. Samuel N. Behrman will be the best man. The ushers will be Hyman N. Behrman, Samuel Feingold, Harold Hansman, Dr. Ned Schnerson, Richard Manson, Archibald London, Dr. Seymore Adolph, Jules Belecber, George Backer and Jean Kramer. A reception will follow the ceremony.

After a wedding trip to White Sulpher Springs, W. Va., Mr. Behrman and his bride will live at 90 Riverside Drive.

PARTY FOR NATALIE POTTER.

Dinner Dance Given at Boston in Honor of New York Girl.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Nov. 12.—A notable social event tonight was the dinner dance given in honor of Miss Natalie Potter, daughter of Mrs. Nathaniel B. Potter of New York, by her grandfather, Professor Charles S. Sargent, and his daughter, Miss Alice Sargent, at Professor Sargent's estate, Holm Lea, in Brookline. Mrs. Potter and her daughter returned recently from Europe. THE PLAY

By J. BROOKS ATKINSON.

In Which the Actors Enjoy Themselves.

PRINCESS TURANDOT, a play in three acts and eight scenes, by Carlo Gozzi, adapted from the Russian version by Henry G. Alsberg and Isaac Don Levine. Directed by Leo Bulgakov; setting and costumes by Robert Van Rosen; produced by the Provincetown Players. At the Provincetown Playhouse.

From eighteenth century Italy via post-revolutionary Russia, Carlo Gozzi's "Princess Turandot" came to America last evening and set up its paraphernalia at the Provincetown Playhouse. Strutting about the tiny stage in their fantastic costumes, the young people of the cast enjoyed themselves most of the evening while the audience rested comfortably upon the newly upholstered benches of that transfigured stable. Down in Macdougal Street, among the "iniquitous" dives for respectable uptown burghers, no one is disposed to be stiff-necked in criticism. By virtue of tradition, that is the holiday quarter of the intelligentsia. Accordingly it is impossible to be seriously vexed about a vain Chinese princess and a lithesome youth who cries frequently throughout the evening, in the eloquent style of Patrick Henry, "Turandot or death!"

The piece comes heralded by an ear-splitting fanfare of advance publicity. It was written by Carlo Gozzi, an impecunious Venetian Count, and produced in Venice in 1761. Enamored of the tale, Schiller rendered it into German verse. For the past five years it has been making theatrical life hideous in Russia, where the third studio of the Moscow Art Theatre put it on with contemporary satire. Reinhardt produced it in Salzburg last Summer; and Puccini's operatic version will be set up at the Metropolitan next week. In Macdougal Street "Princess Turandot" has been directed by Leo Bulgakov of the Moscow Art Theatre." Our 'Turandot,'" he writes, "is no replica of the Moscow play. We have new and original sets, new costumes, and the entire framework of Gozzi's comedy has been studded with new stones reflecting the modern spirit of America."

Being a rather obtuse young lady, with no sense of proportion, this Princess actually hates men. Fancy that! Up to the present she has flung off impetuous suitors by asking them three difficult riddles. Finally a paragon of manly virtue comes along, one Kalaf, who solves her riddles and, according to law, demands her hand in marriage. Cured of her strange malady about men she condescends to his ardent proposals and attains the exalted dignity of marriage.

With nothing more urgent than this tale to unfold, the director has devoted the evening to satirical farce by way of outlandish costumes, paper roses, catch-as-catch-can references to the Bronx and Staten Island, and similar sources of amusement to village cosmopolites. Before the play begins, the players are introduced individually with many a merry, merry jest; and they struggle into their nondescript costumes right before the audience. Hats are made of lampshades or phonograph disks, beards of ragged towels and law books of the telephone directory. One of the indigent royalty wears an oiled raincoat and carries a boat hook for his staff. As the lyric advance notices phrase it: "The simple tale now weeps with crocodile tears and now rings with the laughter of a buffoon." Churlish fellows might have thought it was silly.

The charming Barbara Bulgakov, also of the Moscow Art Theatre, acts the stubborn Princess agreeably, although in a voice too shrill at times for so tiny a theatre. The others play their parts amiably and vivaciously. As the director says of the new stagecraft, the latest watchword is "Play with us as if at a glass of good old wine." Well, if it comes to that, we are all as willing as Barkis.

"THE PIED PIPER" PLAYED.

Musical Extravaganza, With Cast of 400, Given at Mecca Temple.

"The Pied Piper," an operetta extravaganza by J. Francis Smith, was played last night at Mecca Auditorium, in West Fifty-fifth Street, in aid of the National Association for Music in Hospitals, Inc. Charles Massinger, Helen Shipman and Charles Gallagher had the leading rôles, and there was a cast of four hundred, including a group of Denishawn dancers and choral units from Fordham University, the Fifty-seventh Street Y. M. C. A., and Barnard College.

There will be two more performances today, also in aid of the National Association for Music in Hospitals, Inc.

Indian Opera, "Winona," Produced.

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 12 (AP).—The première of the opera "Winona" was acclaimed by a crowded house at the Municipal Auditorium here last night. It was written by Perry S. Williams of Minneapolis and set to music by Alberto Bimboni. The story of the Indian maid, Winona, was embellished by a melodious score that voiced the spirit of the Indians, but avoided any suggestion of a tom-tom effect. The opera was elaborately produced by the American Grand Opera Company of Portland.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Charles L. Wagner has accepted for immediate production "Ballyhoo," a play by J. K. Nicholson dealing with tent show life.

"Ching-a-Ling," described as a "Chinese-Oriental revue," is being prepared for Broadway presentation by Arthur Lyons and William Seabury. It will open out-of-town in about four weeks.

On Monday night "The Pearl of Great Price" will be tranferred from the Century Theatre to the Casino and "The Vagabond King," the present attraction at the Casino, will occupy the Century stage for a two weeks' engagement at popular prices.

J. C. Nugent will preside at a meeting of the Drama League at the Playhouse tomorrow afternoon. Among the speakers will be George Kelly, Patrick Kearney, Charles Summerville, Agnes Morgan, Lawrence Langner and Eva Le Gallienne.

A luncheon to Archibald Flower, Chairman of the Board of Governors of the Shakespeare Memorial at Stratford-on-Avon, and Mrs. Flower, will be given by Otto H. Kahn at the Bankers Club next Wednesday noon. Mr. and Mrs. Flower arrive in New York on Monday.

Arch Selwyn, George White and Martin Beck are scheduled to sail today on the Leviathan. Mr. Selwyn will see the London production of "Princess Charming" to which he and Mr. White have purchased the American rights, and the premiere of Frederick Lonsdale's "The League of Nations" which he and Arthur Hopkins plan to produce here.

The last two weeks are announced of "Naughty Riquette" at the Cosmopolitan Theatre.

Dorothy Dilley, last seen in "Kitty's Kisses" will play the leading role in "Peggy," instead of Ada Mae as previously announced.

Helen Hayes will act in "What Every Woman Knows" for the 251st time at the Bijou Theatre this afternoon. This is said to establish a new record for revivals.

"Aladdin" will be the second production of the Children's Saturday Morning Theatre.

Mildred Blanchard, an English actress, will soon appear in vaudeville in a condensed version of Sardou's "Fedora."

"Sporting Widows" will be next week's attraction at the Columbia Theatre.

The Artef of Arte will give its opening performance of the season on Sunday night at 152 East Fortieth Street. The program will include "Aphrodite," a comedy by Ivan Narodny.

FILMS FOR SCHOOL USE.

Eastman Company Preparing for a Two-Year Experiment.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 12 (AP).—Fifty motion picture films are being developed for use in an experiment to ascertain the possibility of producing a type of film satisfactory for daily classroom work in the schools of the country, the Eastman Kodak Company announced today.

Plans contemplate the completion during the current school year, probably about Jan. 1, 1927, of ten films in geography, five in health and five in general science for showing in the schools of twelve cities selected for a two-year experiment with motion pictures in definite work in connection with the daily lesson.

The remaining thirty films will be completed for use in the experiment at the opening of school in September, 1927. These will be made in connection with a training school to be established at the company's plant in Rochester next Summer for teachers employed to prepare the content of the films.

The films are being prepared specifically for the classroom instruction of pupils from the fourth grade up, and are designed to meet the requirements of intellectual development of school pupils of the various grades and ages.

The cities whose schools have been selected for the experiment are Rochester, Springfield and Newton, Mass.; New York, Atlanta, Winston-Salem, Kansas City, Detroit, Chicago, Denver, Los Angeles and San Diego.

CHAPLIN OBJECTS TO FILM.

Cables Protest Against London Movie Story of His Life.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—Charlie Chaplin today cabled a protest to his London representative against the presentation here, announced for Nov. 23, of a film entitled "The Life Story of Charlie Chaplin." Chaplin declared the film was unauthorized.

The private lives of artists, Chaplin cabled, are their individual property and should not be exploited by third parties. Chaplin also expressed the fear that some might think the film version of his life was authentic.

John Carroll in Song Recital.

John Carroll, American baritone, gave a recital at Town Hall last evening. He pleased a large audience by singing Irish ballads, old and new. A soft brogue and a mellow, warm baritone gained the sympathies of his hearers. Two of the numbers in the third group were in manscript, a "Ballade of Colleens," by Yalden, and "It's a Fine Day," by Proctor. Both were well received. Mr. Carroll was less pleasing when he sang "The Devout Lover," by Maude Valerie White. The audience called for several encores during the evening. Edward Morris was at the piano.

Special to The New York Times.

HAMILTON, N. Y., Nov. 12.—The feature of today's alumni day festival at Colgate University was the dedication of Lawrence Hall, the recently completed recitation building named in honor of Dr. William Mangan Lawrence.

Dr. George Barton Cutten, President of Colgate, called attention of students and alumni to the fact that it was just 100 years ago that West Hall, the first building on the campus, was completed.

Dr. Cutten presented Lawrence Hall to the Board of Trustees, represented by James C. Colgate, the Chairman, and a cousin of Colonel Austin Colgate, donor of the $40,000 structure, who was unable to attend because of illness. Enoch Hardwick, President of the Students' Association, spoke for the undergraduates, and the dedicatory address was delivered by Dr. F. C. Parry, President of Hamilton College.

The honorary degree of Doctor of Laws was conferred upon George W. Cobb of New York City, President of the Alumni Corporation.

Dr. Cutten announced four scholarships presented by alumni and friends of Colgate University. Henry Thompson of New York City recently handed to the Board of Trustees $50,000, the income from which sum is to be used for ten scholarships to be awarded to students in the arts department.

The salary of a permanent Y. M. C. A. secretary for Colgate University for four years has been guaranteed by W. W. Fry of Philadelphia.

Edward W. Harden of New York City has placed $3,000 in the Endowment Fund, and Mrs. Stella Barton Hazelton of Rome, N. Y., has presented $700 for the use of needy students.

50 CENTS FOR LOSS OF HAIR.

But Jury Finds Philadelphia Man Has Grown a New Crop.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 12 (AP).—A man's hair, the loss of which he declared might have prevented his getting married, was valued at but 50 cents by a jury in Common Pleas Court today. Perhaps the fact that it had grown out again had something to do with the finding.

Harry Riloff, who contended that the shock of being in a vehicle struck by a trolley car caused the loss of every hair in his head within two weeks, had sued the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company for damages suffered through his changed appearance. He told the jury he had consulted thirteen physicians in the hope of regaining his hair. Finally a masseur had been successful, and when he appeared today a luxuriant growth covered his head.

"Why were you so much annoyed about being bald?" querried the Judge.

"Well, your Honor, I am a single fellow and I might want to get married," he replied.

FINDS CITY CHURCHES RURAL

Investigator Calls Majority "Transplanted Country Institutions."

Relatively few Protestant churches in cities of more than 100,000 population are adapted to urban conditions in any real sense, said a report titled "One Thousand City Churches" issued yesterday by the Institute of Social and Religious Research, 370 Seventh Avenue. More than half of the churches studied, the report said, were simply "transplanted country institutions," the "hold-over of a rural heritage." The typical big-city church was described as "a one-story affair in a skyscraper environment."

Dr. H. Paul Douglass, who was the investigator, suggested that lack of adaptation to urban interests and activities might be one reason why the city church was losing its hold on the young people, which he reported to be the case.

$1,000 FOR MUSIC PRIZE.

Awaits American Composer for Best Setting for a New Hymn.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 12 (AP).—A prize of $1,000 awaits the American writer of the best new musical setting for the hymn of the National Federation of Music Clubs, "America the Beautiful."

The award was posted at a meeting today of the federation's Executive Board.

The board also was on record as favoring the appointment of State supervisors of music and requesting superintendents of public instruction to appoint supervisors that the teaching of music may be standardized and improved.

The next biennial convention will be in Chicago April 18 to 25, 1927. Finals of the federation's music tests in voice, violin and piano will be heard then.

1,500 at Legion Post's Ball.

More than 1,500 were present at the eighth annual reunion and Armistice ball of the Lieutenant Jeff Feigl Post 247 of the American Legion, composed of First Division men, in the Hotel Astor last night. Major Gen. Charles P. Summerall and Mrs. Summerall led the grand march. Others present were Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, Major Gen. Robert Lee Bullard and many officers from near-by army stations.

SOREL BRINGS ARRAY OF DAZZLING FINERY

HER FORTUNE IN FURNITURE

Comtess-Actress Plans to Enthrall Americans as France's "Ambassadress of Elegance."

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Nov. 12.—Cecile Sorel, Comtesse de Segur, will sail from France tomorrow aboard the Berengaria to play in the theatres of New York, Boston, Washington and other cities in America in her rôle of Mme. du Barry.

In itself that event is noteworthy, for Mme. la Comtesse, actress, has charm and ability, but even more important is the rôle she intends to play both on and off the stage as France's Ambassadress of Elegance to the United States.

No woman ever traveled with such a wardrobe. Here is but a fragmentary list of it, in 127 trunks, valises and bags:

Ninety-seven gowns specially created by the leading dressmakers of Paris.
One hundred pairs of silk stockings.
One hundred and twenty-three pairs of unduplicated shoes.
Seventy pairs of gloves.
Thirty-three hats.
Twenty-three stage costumes and fifteen coiffeurs.

These are but the outward and visible signs of elegance. In those 127 trunks and bags are hidden mysteries of lace and needlework. The Countess's shoes are not ordinary shoes, nor are the seventy pairs of gloves such as any one can buy over the counter. Every item in this wardrobe, from the filmiest lingerie to my lady's jewelry, has been specially made by artists. Madame du Barry herself had certainly nothing equal to it.

212 Persons in Her Retinue.

With Cecile as private retinue are two secretaries, two maids, two dressers, two coiffeurs and a masseuse. Her professional attendants comprise thirty actors and actresses, thirty musicians and 150 supers. Furniture and scenery for the whole troupe will take innumerable crates of all sizes.

The Countess's home for the last week resembled a shipping firm's warehouse and resounded to arduous hammering like an army engaged in building a barracks.

It is estimated that the cost of her passage will be 125,000 francs, plus 50,000 for her retinue and 800,000 for the troupe. She spent 300,000 francs for padded crates, 500,000 for scenery painted by Allegri. Costumes for the cast cost 200,000; her own dresses 500,000. This does not include a chinchilla coat valued at 800,000 and a sable wrap worth 1,000,000.

First in the prominent cast is the Count Guillaume de Segur, husband of the actress, and heir to one of the greatest names in France, and a descendant of the Marquis de Lafayette. One of his ancestors, Marshal the Count de Segur, was Minister for Louis XVI. Other famous actors are M. Ravet of the Comédie Française and Mlle. Norman, a cinema star and war hero.

Among the furniture Mme. Sorel is taking is a little bureau on which Louis XV wrote love letters to Mme. de Pompadour; Mme. du Barry's bed, for which Cecile once received an offer of 2,000,000 francs, and a dresser of Mme. Elisabeth, sister of Louis XVI. Mme. Sorel has expressed regret at having behind her chateau, yacht, cows and Regency home in Paris, built for the Duchesse de Mazarin.

Highest Salary Ever Paid a Star.

Mme. Sorel sails on the Berengaria, but her suite and baggage will follow on the President Roosevelt on Nov. 17. The crates will be guarded by a representative of an insurance company and by three French detectives, who will be replaced by three American sleuths in New York. Thirty staterooms have been hired on the two vessels.

The star is traveling with special permission of the Government, which has granted to her leave of absence from the State-subsidized Comédie Française. Her contract with Lee Shubert, made through Bert F. Howell and George Band, is said to contain the highest figure ever paid to any one for a stage appearance. She will stay at the Ambassador Hotel in New York and play at the Cosmopolitan Theatre for a month, afterward appearing in Boston, Philadelphia, Washington and Chicago for a week each.

It took six months to prepare for the trip. One of the most amazing drops, painted by Allegri, shows a perspective of the whole Versailles Chateau Park. Every fashion establishment in France pleaded with Mme. Sorel, asking that its creations be worn, and, to do justice to the greatest number possible, most of her time will be taken up in changing.

Cecile has made no special arrangements for cuisine during her American tour, and will partake of American food. The first private engagement accepted is for a banquet by the Alliance Française in New York, which entertained Foch and Joffre.

Equity Ball at Astor Tonight.

The seventh Equity annual ball will be given tonight at the Hotel Astor, beginning at 11 P. M. Mayor Walker will be the guest of honor. At midnight a pageant devised by Hassard Short will be staged, in which Laurette Taylor, Pauline Lord, Blanche Ring and other well-known actresses will appear. "The Midnight Jollies," also arranged by Mr. Short, will then be presented by a large cast of theatrical celebrities. The attendance at the Equity ball will, it is said, be limited to 2,000 persons.

Pinero Play Tonight in Brooklyn.

The last of three special performances of "His House in Order," by Sir Arthur Wing Pinero, will be given tonight at the Brooklyn Academy of Music under the auspices of the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences. The cast, which is directed by Ann Walter, is headed by Georges Renavent and includes Edgar Barrier, Helen Dumas, Mona Marshall, Irene Beavons, Clement Walsh, George Currie and Lawrence Vivian.

German Drama at the Heckscher.

Weekly performances of German drama will begin at the Heckscher Theatre, Fifth Avenue and 104th Street, tonight with "The Raschoffs," the latest play of Herman Sudermann, as the first production. The second play will be "Im Hafen," by Georg Engel, which will be shown next Saturday night. The company is under the direction of Hans Hansen.

MUSIC

By OLIN DOWNES.

Concert of Bach and Ravel.

Among the signs and tokens of the popularity of Bach in this modern day and age are orchestral programs as well as recitals and choral concerts devoted to his music. Next Tuesday Mr. Stokowski with the Philadelphia Orchestra gives a program consisting entirely of Bach. With perhaps more regard to laws of contrast and also of striking comparisons between centuries of music, Mr. Damrosch arranged a program of J. S. Bach and Maurice Ravel for the concert given by the New York Symphony Society last night in Carnegie Hall. Bach was represented by the C major Suite, with Mr. Damrosch's editing; the A minor concerto, with Paul Kochanski as violinist, and the Gavotte in D, orchestrated by Mr. Damrosch's father, Dr. Leopold Damrosch. Ravel's compositions were the suite, "Le Tombeau de Couperin"; the "concert rhapsody," "Tzigane," and three excerpts from "Daphnis et Cloe."

It was good to hear again the C major suite. The attention given the Brandenburg concertos and other orchestral suites of Bach have caused this one to be seldom played of late seasons. But the C major suite is delightful music, even if it has not the depth of Bach in other compositions. It is Bach in his most popular vein. It testifies with particular emphasis to the manner in which dance music of his day was assimilated and glorified by the cantor's genius. But all this is an old story; it does not bear the retailing as the composition bears replaying, and Mr. Damrosch conducted the suite with a straightforwardness and buoyancy that met the requirements of the music.

The D minor Gavotte, orchestrated by Dr. Leopold Damrosch, employs instruments not used in Bach's time, and is in no sense an attempt at correctness of archaeology. It is again simple, healthy music, by a Bach not afraid of laughter. Thus was heard J. S. Bach as orchestrated by the father, edited and conducted by the son.

The A minor concerto is also beautiful music, though we preferred Mr. Kochanski as exponent of Ravel rather than Johann Sebastian. He played with his wonted beauty of tone, and with attention to ensemble, but his Bach was a little sugary. It was in Ravel's extremely clever and amusing caricature of a concerto in the gypsy manner that this violinist excelled, playing with a point and virtuosity, a reckless and intentional extravagance that superbly interpreted the music. It may be said that in this piece of caricature, in which orchestra and solo instrument play horse with all the pomps and vanities of old-style pieces of display, Ravel has parodied the concerto as mockingly as he parodied Italian opera in "L'Heure Espagnole." "Tzigane" is of dizzy effectiveness; it is also an epitome of Gallic irony. It is the perfect carrying out of a special purpose.

The precision and the resource with which that purpose is achieved were paralleled last night, first, in the exquisite suite in the old manner, written in homage to Couperin, and, secondly, in the impressionistic "Daphnis and Chloe." What three pieces, from any other modern master, could have offered more striking divergencies of style? "Tombeau de Couperin" uses forms of Couperin's period, but often with very modern harmonic and orchestral device; yet the suggestion of old music, the perspective of distance, is always present, astonishingly conveyed in a piece which attests to the culture of the French race and the renaissance of that culture through the pen of a modern master. This evocation of the past has the charm and atmosphere of a tapestry. It is no wonder that the audience showed enthusiasm, only surpassed by that which greeted Mr. Kochanski, demonstrating in prolonged applause its indebtedness to Mr. Damrosch for another admirably conceived program.

'JINX' STILL PURSUES SINGERS IN 'LA JUIVE'

Queena Mario Unable to Finish Role—Caruso Was Stricken in Halevy's Opera.

The luck of "La Juive," which has pursued that famous opera in recent years through the illnesses of Caruso, who sang his last performance in this work, and of Martinelli, who followed him only to be laid low for a whole season, came to the fore again with the season's first resumption of the same lyric tragedy at the Metropolitan last night.

Queena Mario became voiceless from an inflamed throat during the first act. She pluckily continued, but by the end of the second scene Charlotte Ryan, who formerly had sung the Princess, daughter of Emperor Maximilian, reached the opera house on a hurry call and relieved Miss Mario for the rest of the evening. The audience recognized the difficulty of singers and management by its applause as the opera went on.

With Rosa Ponselle, Martinelli and Rothier in familiar impersonations of Rachel, Eleazar and the Cardinal, the revival brought Alfio Tedesco, a new Italian light tenor, making his first appearance on this stage as the Prince, sung last year by Ralph Errolle. Mr. Tedesco made a good impression in the modest part assigned him in the dramatic action.

Halevy's "La Juive" has become, in spite of the opera "jinx" that has pursued its singers, a big drawing card on Broadway. The house last night was sold to capacity. The Messrs. Picco, d'Angelo, Ananian and Wolfe filled out the cast, and Mr. Hasselmans conducted.

THE STRINGWOOD CONCERT.

Berezowsky's Theme and Variations Heard Here for First Time.

The Stringwood Ensemble, consisting of Josef Stopak, first violin; Samuel Kuskin, second violin; Michael Cores, viola; Simeon Bellison, clarinet; Arthur Loesser, piano, and Abram Borodkin, 'cello, gave a chamber music concert at Aeolian Hall last evening. The program included Brahms's Quintet in B minor, for clarinet and string quartet; Saint-Saëns's Quartet in B flat major, and the Theme and Fantastic Variations by Berezowsky, performed by the Stringwood Ensemble for the first time at the Chamber Music Festival in Washington last month and for the first time in New York last evening.

The Stringwood Ensemble is one of the best chamber music organizations before the public, and its performance last night was of a high order. The smooth coordination of the instruments bespoke careful rehearsal. The Brahms Quintet had the qualities of clarity and warmth. The adagio, in which the clarinet was more in evidence, was particularly fine.

There was much applause for a spirited reading of the Saint-Saëns Quartet, but interest centred in the new Berezowsky work. The theme has several distinct variations. The clarinet declares the subject at the outset, and is answered by the first violin. Each variation permits a different instrument to take the lead, or to join in a duologue of reed and string. There is a quick scherzo-like movement in which the clarinet plays a Straussian part and a finale much in the same master's style. But Mr. Berezowsky is no imitator; he has an individuality of his own, and a romantic fancy, full of surprises. The value of the work as an addition to chamber music literature doubtless will give it a permanent place on instrumental programs.

SPEAKER CANNON.

Colloquially, Mr. Cannon was known by his familiar nickname, hut in tha long Congressional tradition he will always be thought of as Speaker Cannon. Tha was only in part because his last Speakership was marked by a resounding and only partly sincere political fight to clip the wings of his power. Long before that episode, which now has receded into something lika its trua proportions, he had come to be known as ons of ths great figures of the House of Representatives. In appearance and speech he was a sort of Joseph Prudhomme of American politics. Homely bnt ahrewd, commonplace but sagacious, he spoke and thonght in the vernacular of the common people. It required, for example, apt persuasion, and all kinds of diplomatic blandishments to induce him to lend his authority to the great and finally successful plan for the beantifying of the City of Washington. Why urga npon him the glories of a Florentina palace, when it waa his profound conviction that sucl. luxuries never should have been indulged in by any people and were certainly not fitting for plain Americans? However, he rather reInctantly joined this march of esthetic progress.

It is needless to comment on the length and vicissitudes of his long public career. Fult obituary notices will supply all needed details of that kind. But no mere chronological record can do justice to tha kind of service which for years he rendered the country as a strong and glowingly infinential member of the House of Representatives. As Chairman of the Committee on Appropriations, he came to know minutely the whole business of ths Government. The dutiea and personnel of each big department he had at his finger's end. When it was a question of voting money to carry on ths Federal establishment, no one was more acuta and ready than he in detecting the encroachments of extravagance and political favoritism. On ona occasion he announced on the floor of tha House what might well he called an immortal principle of public finance. "You think," he said, "that it is the duty of the Committee on Appropriations to make appropriations. On the contrary, it is its chief duty to prevent their being made."

As one looks back now upon the immense uproar which attended the "revolution" that led to the change in the rules of the House greatly reducing the power of the Speaker, it seems far less important than it did at ths time. Mr. Cannon was attacked as a "Czar," a tyrannical trampler upon tha liberties of private members and upon the freedom of debate, and was pictured as a type of political obscurantism and reaction that must be got rid of if the country were to ha really "progressive." As a slight indication of the way in which opinion has since veered, we note that The Idaho Statesman declared the other day that "Theodore Roosevelt played a sorry trick on America when he dressed up the word 'progressive' and made it 'the banner, the shield and the battle cry of a political party."

That would hava heen rank heresy to say in 1910. Then the country was to be signally blessed hy getting rid of "Cannonism." Yet the more the essence of it was got rid of, the more it has sinca seemed necessary. Saying nothing now about Speaker Cannon's personal attitude or affiliations, the main thing for which he contended was that it was necessary to have a strong party organization in control of the House of Representatives. At that time, as for years previously, the chief centralizing and directing force waa the Speaker. But the work which the reformers took out of his hands, it was soon found, had to be done hy somebody, unless the Congressional machine was to be left running wild. One great point of attack was the Speaker'a power to appoint committees. He was shorn of that, hut it will have been noted that committees of about the same sort have continued to he selected hy the new method, and with about the same iron grasp on the business of the House. Moreover, Speakers subsequent to Mr. Cannon have been compelled quietly to adopt soms of his methods. Nobody today refers to Speaker Longworth as a Czar, yet in quiet hut persistent ways he has done a good deal to assert the inherent anthority and power of his office, much in the old Cannon fashion.

From the summit of his greatly prolonged life, Mr. Cannon looked out upon the developments of government and of pnblic life dnring his time, and acquired a serena and benevolent philosophy concerning it all. Even the bitter contest against him when he was Speaker left no sting with him. He probably thought that the more the rules of the House of Representatives were changed, and ihe more the methods of politics were altered, the more they remained the same thing. But among things which never changed with Mr. Cannon wsa his thoronghgoing Americanism, and his unfaltering belief in the high destinies of his country.

RESTORING THE DEPRIVED.

It is right that Senator Borah, who practices to perfection the art of Republican regularity, should be tha first to look tenderly upon the survivors and successors of the four errIng Republican hrethren who were cast out from the conference of Repnblican Senators in 1925. That was an "error of judgment," he tells "Jim" Watson, imploring him, as Chairman of the Republican Committee of Committees, to give Brother Frazier of North Dakota his old pew and certify that he is in good and regular standing in the congregation. It was an error of jndgment, hut the gift of prophecy can't be expected even from the orthodox. Now ths saints need the sinners in their business. They can't work the farm without ths assistance of the prodigals. The regular regulars can't organize the next Senate save by the aid of the former irregulars. Therefore the status of the latter must be corrected.

How good the veal must look even to those austers eyes. The fatted calf is nothing compared with a fat chairmanship. No matter how strong a sufferer a Senator may he, to take from him the precious right of seniority is a cruel and unusual punishment. Hands that were clenched in wrath against ths Administration in 1924 ars now turning over lovingly the list in tha Congressional Directory of committees of the Senate. There is room at the top, thongh some "stalwarts" may hava to stand aside. Colonel Brookhart, elected as an impeccabla regular, will return from banishment, hound to have the best. If No-Party Norris succeeds by seniority to the great post of Chairman of tha Judiciary Committee, the forgiven and restored dissenters are justified in thinking that nothing is too good for them. Mr. La Follette and Mr. Blaine, sdepts in Republican regularity, Wisconsin style, must have as choics treatment as the freshmanshtp of the latter and ths sophomoreship of tha former are entitled to.

Mr. Nye of North Dakota is included with his colleague, Mr. Frazier, in the proposed gracious amnesty and deal. It is pleasant to sea Mr. Borah, so accnstomed to making trouble, trying to make peace; peace with assignments. When he, a Borah Republican all the year, except a week or two at election time, has the best committee billet in the Senate, why should any other guerrilla he kept out of the uniform of Republican regularity? Principle, policy, opinion, doesn't stick its wretched, rash, intruding nose into this high proceeding. "Republican" continues to ba a word connotating the sharpest opposites. A business transaction is in progress under the direction of an "honest hroker." The restored unrepentant offenders promiso to be good temporarily for good and valuable consideration.

Colonel Brookhart can't leave off hrookharting; and the rest of the irregular troops can't unlearn the long habit of undisciplined warfare. Here is no conversion, but a bargain. Yet the thought of it is edifying. One feels, too, that former Senator Butler will be reconciled to his defeat. He is spared from seeing the way of tha transgressor made easy.

WASTEFUL AND FUTILE STRIKES.

Peace has been re-established in the cloak and suit industry after a prolonged, bitter and costly struggle that never should have been begun. Compared with their original demands, the terms accepted by the Garment Workers' Union spell defeat. This is no verdict on the merits of a fight. But when battle is joined without adequate cause and without regard to an insuperable state of facts, the reason is either ignorant or selfish leadership. By accepting the recommendations of ths Governor's Advisory Commission back in June the garment workers would have secured virtually everything they have now won, and without incurring an enormous loss in wages and dislocating the industry. They hava consented to a 10 per cent. margin of liherty for the "inside" manufacturers in employing and discharging labor, and they have postponed the forty-hour week for two years. The minimum wage scale agreed upon is but a trifle higher than tha one recommended hy the commission.

The etrike was additionally unreasonable. It was directed against the ultimate best interests of the workers In being aimed at tha so-called "inside" manufacturers—the larger shops. In them the wage scale is higher than in the small shope patronized by the jobbers, the annual average of emoiyment is nearly 40 per cent. greater, the sanitary conditions are incomparably better. If the comparative importance of the modern inside shop has declined in recent years, it is because the employer, as stated in the commission's findings, has been handicapped by union regulations which the union has not even attempted to apply to the smaller shops. Intelligent union leadership would have exerted itself to lift general conditions in the industry by cooperating with the inside manufacturers instead of handicapping them against the jobber. It has taken the union leaders nearly five months to recognize a simple, basic truth.

The reasons behind the strike may hava been ignorance or may have been union politics involving a struggle for control by the radical elements. In either case the affair suggests, on a smaller scale, the story of the British coal strike. There, too, peace seems imminent after a etruggle of seven months, and on terms that the workers might have had long ago. In Great Britain, also, there has been obstinate refusal to admit that ths welfara of the workers is bound up with the welfare of their industry. To insist on wagea and hours that the mines cannot pay without going into bankruptcy is to cry out for tha impossible and to inflict injury on ths workers themselves. To wage war against ths most enlightened employers in a garment industry regardless of what their disappearance would do to the industry as a whole is wanton recklessness.

There are timea when it would seem that labor has outgrown the ancient slogans about the robber capitalist who need only be taken by the throat to pay any wages desired. Labor leaders are now not afraid to admit that wages must go hand in hand with productivity, workers' responsibility and acquiescence in basic industrial conditions. And then along comes a garment strike, or a coal strike, to show that the old fallacies are still strong enough to be exploited hy ignorant or selfish leaders.

GOVERNMENT REORGANIZATION.

What ths engineers propose in their latest report on Government reorganization is a new "Department of Public Works and Domain," hnilt around the chief hureaus of the present Department of the Interior, hut faced in the direction of engineering service and conservation. The Geological Snrvey, tha Reclamation Service, the General Land Office and the National Park Servtce, all in the parent department, ars to be retained in the new one. The Bureau of Public Roads and the Forest Service are to be transferred from the Department of Agricultnre, the non-military work of ths army enginsers from the War Department, public huildings work frśm the Treasury Department, and so on.

The proposal has the merit of dealing with a definite group of functions and proposing a concrete plan. It will meet plenty of opposition in Congress, where its main features have long been debated. Senator Pat Harrison strenuously objected to taking the Bureau of Public Roads away from tha Department of Agriculture when the majority members of the Joint Commission on Government Reorganization urged that change two years ago. The farm bioc put its pitchfork into the suggestion to take the Forest Servics away from Agriculture, and conservationists were a hit dubious about putting it in Interior.

The river and harbor activities of army engineers hava always been in controversy. President Hardino originall proposed that they be transferred to the Interior Department. The Joint Commission feit, however, that this wo.k afforded good training for the engineers and refused to recommend tha transfer. There has been some criticism iately of army incursione into civilian functions of the Government, notably in tha case of the Budget Bureau.

This business of reorganizing the Federal Government is uphill work. Ever since the days of President Taft one attempt after another has resulted in failure. The hopeful effort of the Congressional Joint Commission during tha present Administration went on the rocks because it sponsored some innovations too radical and urged many sound reforms which were blocked by entrenched bureaucracy. The latest scheme, tentatively approved by President Coolidge and the Congressional leaders some months ago, hut not yet acted upon by Congress, is to appoint a reorganization board to consist of two members of the Senate, two members of the House and one representative of the President. This hoard is to report its findings not back to Congress hut direct to the President, who would then be free to put them into effect by executive order. If this scheme goes through, reorganization would be effected hy a sort of triple play, Congress-to-commission-to-Coolidge.

The need of Government reorganization is as plain as it ever was. It is gratifying to see that public-spirited groups like the engineers are still hammering away at it. New York has shown how it can be done. It should not be impossible for the nation to do what the State has done. Only it will be a harder task, requiring the most vigorous support from public opinion.

THE SCHNEIDER CUP RACES.

Weather permitting, Italian and American naval aviators will fly for the Schneider Cup in Hampton Roads today over a triangular course of 350 kilometers. Great Britain, Italy and the United States have each won two races. The trophy goes to the winner of a third. Lacking fast seaplanes, Great Britain will not be represented today.

The Schneider Cup was presented to the Aero Club de France in 1912. Under its auspices Prevoer, a Frenchman, won in 1913 the first race at Monaco, his speed being 44.7 miles an hour. The Italians in their second victory at Venice in 1921 attained a speed of 117.4 miles an hour. An Englishman raised it to 146 miles at Naples in 1922. The following year Lieutenant David Rittenhouse, U. S. N., won at Cowes, England, with a speed of 177.38 miles. At Baltimore last year Lieutenant James H. Doolittle hung up a record of 245.713 miles an hour. The country that produces the winner becomes host for the following year. No better stretch of water than Hampton Roads could be selected for the final contest. It is dear to the American Navy for its memories, and there will be disappointment on every ship afloat, in every home yard and in every hureau office if the Schneider Cup does not stay in thia country. But to vanquish the Italian officers who have come over will be a notable achievement. Their machines are fast, and as pilots they are formidahls.

Six planes will be entered. They will be sent away at intervals of five minutes, an Italian having the honor of getting the gun first. For the most part the course will lie over water. Seven timea round the pylons the planes will bank and roar before straightening out for the maximum, which should be 250 miles or better. Lieutenant Frank H. Conant Jr., in a practice flight off Port Washington on Oct. 26, sxceeded that speed by several .miles in one of the three Curtiss machines which will be used at Norfolk today. A few days later he lost his life in an accident off ths Virginia coast. To his place on the American team Lieutenant Casleton C. Chapman was appointed. The seaplanes of the Americans were used at Baltimore last year, hut new engines have been installed.

As has been well said, there will be "a race within a race" on the American side, between geared and ungeared (Curtiss) types of motors, and between the one-piece and the two-piece propeller. The Curtiss engines are believed to be an advance upon those of last year. The Italians are equipped with Muzio Macchi monoplanes, which carry Fiat engines. Monoplanes will meet hiplanes. The Italians, it is said, have also flown faster than 250 miles an hour. Prophets declare that a new world'a record for seaplanes will be made.

WHO'S WHO IN CHINA.

Nominally, China is a republic and at the head of the Government is a President. This gentleman, however, has disappeared from official life and, if reports are correct, is in "retirement" in ons of the foreign concessions in Tientsin. His career has not been altogethsr happy, as, prior to his voluntary retirement in Tientsin, he had been held in involuntary retirement in Peking, and the Government was carried on hy one who enjoyed the title of Chief Executive. He, apparentiy, is also "missing." Hencs the British Government is at a loss to know to whom its new Minister to Peking is to present his official credentials.

Nor do the complications end there. In Canton, where an ingenious young Chinese hy tha nama of Eugene Chen has made himself very vocal as "Foreign Minister," the dean of the consular corps, who had presented a communication from the diplomatic corps in Peking, was informed that the Canton Government recognized neither the Peking Government nor the diplomats accredited to it. A year ago tha war lord of the Yangtse, Sun Chuan-fang, who is still endeavoring to driva the Cantonese troops out of Central China, let it be known that ha refused to accept orders from or to recogniza the Peking Government. When the celebrated Manchurian "super war lord" Chang Tso-lin occupied Peking last Summer, those who had formerly heen recognized as tha "Peking Government" discovered that the climatc in the foreign concession in Tientsin was healthier than elsewhcre in China, and hastened there.

Thc reasons for maintaining the fiction of a "central government" of China, located in Peking, have been many. It was the snccessor of the old empire. It had assumed the treaty obligations of pre-republican days. Yet a large measure of decentralization existed in practice, for China is so vast that many of the Consuls are more or less isolated from Peking, and the impotence of the Peking Government has been so great outside of the walls of the old Imperial City that the only way of transacting business with the Government in the provinces has been through local war lords.

Great Britain suggested last Winter that one of the provisions of the tariff conference be ratified hy the provincial authorities. This might well have led to further diplomatic recognition of these regions. The Canton Government demands that it be treated as the "national Government" of China. For the moment the Cantoneee control the greater portion of Central and Southern Chins. Their Government has, in the main, been more efficient and less corrupt than that of the other provinces. Alone of the various Chinese groups they seem to possess a definite program. But in it is no willingness to assume tho international and financial obligatione of the heir to the Imperial Government. This is hardly likely to encourage foreign Governments to accord it instant recognition.

THE VISITING NURSE SERVICE.

New York should havc special interest and prida in maintaining and extending a unique organization thst originated here in the lower east side thirty-three years ago, and that now serves three boroughs. It keeps the name of the street in which its beneficent work grew into a placs of hlessing for the entire community, with the care of the sick in their homes as the foundation of all its activities. Henry Street would be no better known than scores of other streets were it not that it has become associated with one of the finest types of neighborliness. The Henry Street Settlement is indeed so widely and favorably known that forty-eight countries in Europe, Asia and Africa have sent women to acquire ths technique and something of the spirit that lives in its Visiting Nurse Service.

Ever since this work started people of all races and all creeds have been benefited: ths very poor, whose income leaves nothing for the accidents of illness and who have been served without pay and with love; ths people who are economically above that line, who have paid what they could in their prids and gratituds; and the people who cannot pay for or do not require ths full tims of a nurse, hut are grateful for ths privilege of calling upon a staff that they can pay. Education haa accompanied the nnrse in her ministration. Ths women who go into homes where there may be infection, fearless and esger to serve, have given New Yorkers a sense of deep gratification.

The Visiting Nurse Service has on its staff 200 graduate nurses, who work in Manhattan, Richmond and the Bronx. They answer calls from American families, foreign-born, Protestants, Jews and Catholics. They attend ths mother before snd during child-hirth, teaching her all she needs to know for the welfare of her baby. They instruct all with whom they come in contact how to keep well, thus protecting tha city from an epidemic. During the first nine months of 1926, 47,528 patients were visited, in the total of 270,234 visits. For examination and advice 14,532 people came to the health centrea and 6,629 mothers received help and instruction, while 1,733 children attended pre-school clinics.

A campaign has been launched to raise $500,000 to help meet ths current expenses for the next three years. Maintenancs and growth are dependent npon money to meet the carefully planned budget. Each dollar which is received sends a nurse on her way to visit some one ill at home. Sixteen hundred and fifty dollars will keep a nnrse in ths field for ons year. The problem of the care of the sick grows out of all proportion to the mcrs increase in population in our great cities. Hospitalization demands increase enormously because of the difficulty of giving certain kinds of treatment in ths home; but where the visiting nurse can give the requisite care in home surroundings it is to be preferred. The call of the visiting nurse often makea the transfer to a hospital unnecessary.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Reviving the Old Frontier.

If the Canadians hsve their way, the term "flivver thief" will havs the ugly significancs that "horse thief" had in the old days out where the West hegan. We ueed to make short shrift of horse thieves (see any authentic novel of the frontier). They were even more contemptihie than cattle rustlers, for the man who stole cattle mersly took movahle property, whereas the man who stole a horse removed the possibility of reclaiming lost property. The distinction, though suhtle, was actual. The horse thief was a social pariah. He was so low that honest men would only talk to him with their guns.

Social values have changed. The flivver has supplanted the cayuse, though there are occasions when he who steals an automohile does the owner a favor. This wae never true in the days of oats and hitching poste. The real criminal is he who steals only the tires or the carhuretor or some other essential part of an automobile and leaves ths owner stranded and possibly strangled with rage.

The suggestion of applying the death penalty to flivver thieves has one thing to commend it. To the scenario writers and movie producers it would give an entirely new set of old stories. The lowly villain, instead of galloping off with ths ranch owner's favorite horse and daughter, would disappear with her in ths flivver, to he followed hy a posse of tractors, trucks and motor plows. The hero would then appear, immsculately dressed in plus-fours, driving his fifty-cylinder Unhestahle.

There Seems a Change in Mr. Shaw.

It is surprising to discover the outcropping of a vein of boyish awkwardness in ons eo urbsne as Mr. Bernard Shaw. He has heard, though not as yet officially, that the Nohel Prize for literature for 1925 has heen awarded to him. He professes to he mystified, and can see no reason why it should he given to him unless it is a reward for having written nothing in that year.

Perhaps it is a little early for a graceful speech of acceptance, since the official announcement of his good fortune has not reached him. But this is no time for ths distinguished author to go back on his own estimate of his work. In the past fifty years of delighting or infuriating readers and playgoers he has thoroughly convinced all of us that he is, as he announced on his seventieth hirthday, "an extraordinarily clever fellow." After bringing the world to agree with him, he now seems to wish to let us down.

Just s few days ago he got into the news hecsuse he requested sn alteration in the sign on a theatre where a play of his is on. His name appeared in letters that were so large he thought people might get ths impression he himself was performing. Perhaps it is modesty, long suppressed, that is now coming out in him.

Raiders of the Farmers' Crops.

President Tsn Eyck of ths New York Stste Farm Bureau Federation may be right when he says that the farmers lose $1,000,000 a year in fruit, vegetables and other products stolen by "motorists," hut why should only those from the cities be suspected? Secretary Underwood reported a "vigilance" service "to swaken the merely careless city motorist to the fact that fruit, vegetables and the like are the farmers' means of livelihood."

Many farmers set out their products in baskets along ths highway for sale to automobilists. A thriving trade is dons at good prices. "City motorists" are glad to ohtain fresh fruit and vegetahles in this way. It is not credihle that they deliberately pilfer a million dollsrs' worth of the farmers' crops every year. Raiders are more likely to be a certain class from ths country as well as the city. Potatoes, apples and corn are stolen by the truckload.

The pleasure car owner may be a "city motorist," but he is seldom a despoiler of the farmer. When he is he deserves to be severely punished. If ths farmer can be protected from the rascals who make it their business to carry off fruits and vegetables to sell in the markets, ths yearly losses at the hands of "city motorists" will not be very large.

Would It Have Made a Difference?

It is the oninio of Mr. Green, President of the New York Stats Hotel Association, that hotel construction has been overdone in New York City, and that the owners of apartment hotels in particular are facing difficult problems. However, it is only proper to note that Mr. Green's views were formulated before the 1,500 hotel men sat down on Thursday to their annual dinner, which consisted nf tbe following:

Coups Favorite

Croute au Pot aux Toasteties

Celery Salted Nuts Olives

Diamond Back Terrapin, Maryland

Soprems of Guinea Chicken Massena
Mousseline nn Mushrooms

Rack nf Spring Lamb Roti a la Menthe
Potatn Parisienes Parsilice
Fresh Peas Etuvee

Chiffonade of Lettuce a l'Estragon

Couronne of Chestnuts Caprice
Mignardises

Mochs

Mineral Water Ginger Ale
Cigars Cigarettes

It la conceivable that over the coffee snd the cigars Mr. Green would have taken a much more cheerful view of ths situstion. Only an aggravated case of pessimism could resist ths impact of such a formidahle array of calories, proteins and carbohydrates.

Unthinking in Our Ignorance.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Professor Bergen Davis offers us one more illustratioo of the sad cass of the scholar operating under those unscientific laws nf the irony of fats.

Nobody cares whether Professor Millikan deserves to have his name on the famous ray or not—that is, nobody but those real bodies who are important in science. We shall undoubtedly—ignorantly and unscientifically, as before—go on forever talking of the "Millikan ray." So what's the use?

GOOSE WINGS.

Wind from the mountain of my blood,
Swishing about my feet,
Tangle my hair and whirl my cape—
Never would I he neat!

Vineyards in bud, snd stirring dust,
I had a crooked stick,
Following geese through olivs groves,
Twisted snd hrown and thick.

Early in thin, high dawns I rose,
Sped hy ths smiling old;
Leaving the steam of kettle heat;
Racing through brilliant cold.

Light that a mote could cleavs in half
Quivered with tearing ehade;
Falling before my noisy gcese;
Trodden in our parade.

When you return to the mountain,
Wind,
Say that I've come to grief.
Once that a goose wing has been clipped,
Flying is sad and hrief.

QUESTIONING TRADITIONS.

Another Chapter Is Written in the Pacifism vs. Militarism Debate.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In reading G. H. B.'s letter, "Pacifism Not Progressive," in reply to William I. Hull's "Pacifism versus Militarism," one may be led to question if G. H. B. means just what he says or is trying to emphasize how ridiculous mental conceptions are today.

It appears to me that what is needed today is the force of a little common sense, a little study of the nature of things and their complete significance. The growing habitual tendency to use standard labels, such as religion and the church in this instance, to counterbalsnce militarism and war, to make creditahle pacifism or militarism, is a matter of shifting the mind from one confused concept to another. These mental characteristics account for the fact that history repeats itself.

There always has been conflict hetween conservatism—specifically traditionalists and religious creed followers—against progreselves (radicals). And whichever force gains the upper hand sets out to discredit the other hy hook or crook. The tendencies always have been to revert to such arguments as G. H. B.'s—"I don't believe pacifism was ever a keynots to progress"; "progress comes after every war"; "I don't believe there will ever come a time in history of this planet when war will he no more."

But to assert that one theory is and another isn't, is not going to get us out of repeated conflicts. What we need is to shake loose from some of our age-old distorted concepts and think less of clever phrases and tricks to beat the other fellow; and a little more of the nature and complets and far-reaching purposes of these things we love so well.

Mr. Hull seems to have learned ths nature of some of these things. G. H. B., however, certainly betrays himself when he says, "But it must be remembered that killing mankind in International warfare is not the sams as one individual killing another to settle personal quarrels," and defends the ststement by, "God did not hesitate to lead the children of Israel into battle when occasion demanded."

I would liks to ask G. H. B. if he is sure hia suthority for the latter statement is authentic. I am surs when we learn to find out upon what positive foundation our concepts and traditional records are based, we will then be in a position to assure ourselves of how progreseive we are in our thinking.

The Progress in Pacifism.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

William L. Hull's letter was a pleasing contrast to tha general run of militaristic tommyrot.

G. H. B., commenting on Mr. Hull'a letter, does not believs that "pacifism was ever the keynote to progress." He also says, "It took a World War, in which millions were killed or wounded, to put this country in the position it occupies today as a world power, and pacifism." If war is progress can G. H. B. explain to us why it is that some of the European countries who gloried in warfare are now in such a bad way financially?

Cerisinly pacifism does not consider ths terrific and degrading sacrifice of millions killed or wounded "progress." That is wholesals murder. War has heen the undoing of many a proud nation, and therefore even a world power should profit by experience and be convinced that pacifism is progresa because it sdvocates a more sane and humane method of accomplishing what militarism has failed to do—abolish war.

Objection to Night Deliveries.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The proposal of Percy S. Straus to have all deliveries of merchandise tn business houses between Fourteenth and Fifty-ninth Streets made at night nr in the early morning must have brought a feeling nf despair to thousands of peopls who live in that zone. I am sure Mr. Straus does not live in a district where business is encroaching or he wnuld realiza that if his suggestion were adopted leases would have to be canceled by wholesale.

There is nothing more murderous to sleep than the hanging of stors boxes and ashcans in the comparatively etill hours between midnight and 7 A. M. I know whereof I speak. A business concern opened up in nur neighborhood and boxes wers delivered any time between 3 and 6 A. M. Sleep was impossible, aod a protest from the near-by residents was sent to the owner, who tives uptown. He was extremely sorry and now allows no deliveries to be mads befors 7 o'clock.

We still have one achcan flood who collects a load around 4:30 A. M. I raised my voice in protest in The Times some months ago, but my plea was soon drowned out by letters against unnecessary auto-horn blowing in daytime. I contend that one load of boxes plus a dozen ashcans at night equals all noises in daytime.

Objection to School Merger.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The proposed merger of the Bronx Evening High School and the Morris Evening High School ehould not take place. As an officer of the general organization I take the liberty of expressing my views and those of the entire school as to why such ao amalgamation is unadvisable.

For thirteen years the Broox Evening High School has done its utmoet to give to its students the best it had. It is therefore not surprising that the registration should increase each term. A school that is powerful enough to attract eo many, and as a result create another school in the horough known as the Fordham Evening High School, i think shonld be allowed to keep its identity.

The greatest drawback of the proposed plan is that it would tend to decrease the number of pupils oow attending, for the reason that other schools do not offer as many subjects as the Bronx Evening Hi.h School.

It is the sincere and earnest hope of 1,100 students that if the school is to be moved at all it be moved as a unit without losing its identity.

Tear Gas for Jail Breakers.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The death and suffering which occurred during the attempt at jail delivery at the Tombs recently might have been avoided or certainly reduced materially by the use of non-poisonous tear gases. I was much surprised to see no mention made of any equipment of this character by the prison authorities.

Devices have been perfected which, if properly installed, would have enabled the Warden to flood any section of the yard or corridors with tear gas.

OLD CANADIAN FIRMS.

Many Business Houses Still Managed by Families of Founders.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I am addressing this to you [illegible] knowledgment of the receipt of the supplement of the seventy-fifth anniversary numher of The Times.

May I he permitted, as a Canadian, to congratulate you on the wonderful success of your great journal? It is an honorable and important event in the history of any institution to be in a position, in this world of constant change, to celebrate a continuance of husiness over so lengthy a period as three-quarters of a century.

I thank you for the kind thought that prompted you to give an international aspect to your celebration by including Canadian institutions and Canadian firms in your long list of those included in the "seventy-five years old or more" list.

My sons and I feel deeply honored that you should havs included our business and our dear country, Nova Scotia, on so very honorable a roll. It may be of interest to you to know that the business of W. H. Schwartz & Sons, Ltd., is now in the eighty-sixth year of its age; that it is owned, controlled and mansged hy the son and grandsons of the founder, and is the oldest coffee and spice house in Canada, and we are Canadians of the fifth generation.

My reason for this detailed information is that I am very curious to know, and I should he glad to extend greetings to the family of the founder of the oldest coffee business in the United States now in existence. I think also that it would be interesting to you and your readers to know just how many families of the founders are still taking an active interest in the business firms mentioned in your list. In Nova Scotia the following firms, besides ourselves, are still in control of the families of the original founders:

Sterns & Son, Ltd., Dartmouth.
Blackader Bros., Halifax.
T. A. S. De Wolfe & Sons, Halifax.
A. & W. McKinlay, Ltd., Halifax.
Mahon's, Ltd., Halifax.
G. P. Mitchell & Sons, Halifax.
Moir's, Ltd., Ben's, Ltd., (one son of the Moir family branching out under his Christian name).
William Roche, Ltd., Halifax.
J. J. Scriven & Sons, Ltd., Halifax.

Probably the oldest and greatest firm in Nova Scotia is William Stairs Son & Morrow, Ltd., in the hardware business, who not long since elected a great-great-grandson of the founder to be President of that very honorable firm.

I may mention also that Lunenburg, our great fishing port and the home of the celebrated Bluenose of international fame, possesses a very ancient business. Zwicker & Co. are the oldest exporters of fish in the Maritime Provinces, and after 150 years of honorable transactions could the founder of this great business visit Lunenburg he would find descendants still in control and carrying on business at the old stand. Also, there is the very old business of H. A. Smith & Sons, Fort Hood, now condncted by the fourth generation.

I think there are other firms in Nova Scotia which were in existence seventy-five years ago, but I am not sure that the same families are in control.

In conclusinn, may I suggest that a great newspaper liks The New York Times has a great field of usefulness in your great nation if it will serve its country by endeavoring to promote, by a proper process of edncation, that peace, harmony and good-will that should prevail, and the elimination of offensive reference in the press and school books which builds up and breeds a sense of hostility toward the great British Empire not warranted by the fact, and whoss people live under the freest and greatest system of government in the world, and where true liherty ahides, and who have nothing but the friendliest feeling and good-will toward this great American nation, where so many of our own sons live and have attained eminent positions in every walk of life

Grapes as a Campaign Factor.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Outside nf William Morgan Butler's unsetting enough votes to elect him, the other contributing causes were The Times editorials and the fact that the voters of Boston did not believe a person who could only eat hothouse grapes at the Parker House and who did not know where the South End, the West End or Scollay Square are could be elected to represent Boston.

The Back Bay voters hardly ran true to form after reading Mrs. Curtis Guild's letters and those of the daughter of the late Senator Henry Cabot Lodge.

Let this be a warning to all eaters of hothouse grapes that no elective office can be theirs.

For the last month, from dewy morn to pensive eve, I have eat in my office where the click of the lawn mower is never heard, reading of the greatness of William Morgan Butler. No doubt the voters of the South End, controlled by Charles Inness, did likewise, but refused to accept the orders of the machine.

Eaters of hothouse grapes in public will never appeal to the bleacher crowd.

Skyscraper Parking Spaces.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Why not park automobiles vertically? As we nwn "all the way up," we might build in the neighborhood of the most congested places fireproof elevators with ample floor spaces and lifts on one or more sides.

They need not he eyesores, and if economically managed would they not pay a handsomo profit aveo with a very reasonable charge for parking?

Here co Staten Island, as to many other suburban places, if we wish to go to New York and return in our own cars, we must wait for hours for a chance to board the ferryboat. And if we wish to park our cars on the island side, we must explore almost all the way from St. George to New Brighton to find an unoccupied spot.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Now that the work of the Women's Committee for the Relief of the British Miners' Wives and Children has come to an end, I wish to thank all who so generously contributed and to state that the net amount sent to Lady Sleeser, the British Treasurer, was $10,260.

Receipts for these contributions have been kept on file and those who gave can rest assured that every penny was spent on relief.

QUEEN AT ST. LOUIS STANDS GODMOTHER

Arkansas Baby Rebels at Kiss of Royal Sponsor Before the University Chapel Altar.

MARIE LAUDS OUR WOMEN

She Says They Have a "Glorious Time," Sharing Husband's Work—Divides Honors With Princess.

New York Times Associated Newspapers. From a Staff Correspondent.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.

ON BOARD THE QUEEN OF RUMANIA'S TRAIN, St. Louis, Nov. 12.—A much frightened girl baby of Rumanian descent was christened as the godchild of Queen Marie today in the Queen's presence in the chapel of St. Louis University.

The child, two-year-old Marie Weber, was brought here yesterday by her mother, who lives in Smackover, Ark., in the hope that the Queen could be induced to officiate at her christening. The Queen was willing if there was an opportunity, and the opportunity came today in the course of the royal family's visit to the university.

Only a few persons witnessed the ceremony. The Rev. Raymond Brock, rector of St. George's Episcopal Church, performed the rite. Prince Nicholas and Princess Ileana also stood before the altar. Queen Marie was silent except to pronounce the baby's name, "Marie Weber."

When the ceremony was ended, the child wept and squirmed. Queen Marie tried to comfort the baby and leaned over to kiss her. The baby was only the more distressed, however, and buried her face in her clothing so that the Queen had to make several attempts before she could caress her.

Intercede For Ousted Ford Man.

The solicitude of the royal family for the welfare of J. B. Ayres, the Ford Motor Company representative who was put off the royal train at Seattle after a statement had appeared in the press quoting Ayres as saying that Henry Ford was paying incidental expenses of the Queen's party, was disclosed today in a telephone call from Colonel John H. Carroll, in command of the train, to Henry Ford's secretary in Detroit.

The royal family had feared that Ayres, whose geniality and willingness to serve them in his capacity as organizer of their automobile service had won favor, might lose his position as a result of the unpleasant publicity. Accordingly Colonel Carroll informed the Ford people of the precise reasons for Ayres's dismissal from the train.

Today's reception in St. Louis was friendly but pronouncedly quiet in comparison with the tumultuous and almost riotous welcome Queen Marie received last night in Kansas City. And today Princess Ileana appeared to get more attention than her mother.

Ileana Shares Cheers for Mother.

St. Louis has seen queens before, but never before has it had a royal princess in its midst. As the party motored through the packed downtown streets there were as many cheers for the young and ingenuous Princess as there were for the Queen, and the Princess responded to them with a trace of embarrassment, but gaily.

Once a boisterous city fireman shouted as Ileana's car passed: "There's my baby."

The Princess heard it, smiled in amusement and rewarded him with a wave of her hand.

The royal train stopped this morning in the western residence district in St. Louis, and the Queen and her children left it soon after 10 o'clock, to the accompaniment of a booming twenty-one gun salute.

The Queen's departure from her car was delayed several minutes during which photographers made studio photographs of her and her children. The royal family have given hundreds of photographs away during their American visit and it was necessary to replenish their stock.

The parade through the city was the high spot of the public reception here. After it was finished the Queen and the Princess were conducted to the Coronado Hotel, where a large suite on which $300,000 had been expended to make it as nearly like the Bucharest Palace as possible, was placed at their disposal.

Queen's Tribute to American Women.

Queen Marie was the guest of prominent St. Louis women at luncheon at the Coronado, and there the Rumanian sovereign met another queen—Miss Martha Love, Queen of the Veiled Prophet Pageant, an annual celebration participated in by the city's leading families. In response to the toasts of her hostesses, Queen Marie paid a tribute to American women.

"I am struck with the wonderful lives of the women here," said the Queen. "I shall take home a vision of the wonderful work that women do here, while at the same time they are having a glorious time of it.

"Your men allow the women to do their share. Of course, in my country the women were allowed to do their share, too, but not as in America. The position of women in America is happier than anywhere else."

Prince Nicholas, who is a leader in Y. M. C. A. work in his own country, had luncheon today with a group of St. Louis Y. M. C. A. men. In the afternoon the Prince and his sister attended a tea dance at the Country Club, while their mother was visiting the show of chrysanthemums, her favorite flower, at the show's garden.

1,200 at Dinner to Royal Guests.

The Queen and her children were guests tonight at a dinner of 1,200 places at the Chase Hotel. Later they went for a short time to the horse show at the Coliseum. The Queen again was showing a little strain at the strenuous program through which she had been put in recent days and retired early in her private car.

The royal party's chief hosts today were former Governor Herbert S. Hadley, President of Washington University, which the Queen visited, and Mayor Victor J. Miller, who led the city's welcoming committee.

Colonel Carroll also figured in today's welcome. He is a former resident of St. Louis and many in the crowd recognized him as he drove by. Mrs. Carroll arrived today from Washington to accompany her husband on the remainder of the Queen's journey.

The Queen's special train will depart at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning, stopping at Springfield, the capital of Illinois and scene of Abraham Lincoln's early career. The train is due to arrive in Chicago tomorrow evening.

Hill Also to Reach Chicago Today.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12 (AP).—Samuel Hill, noted road builder in the Northwest, who was host to Marie, Queen of Rumania, while she was in the Pacific Northwest, will arrive here tomorrow night, just two hours after the special train of her Majesty comes in from St. Louis.

WANTS QUEEN TO MOVE TO END ANTI-SEMITISM

Rabbi Goldstein Says if She Does Not, Good-Will Expressions Will Be Gratuitous.

Queen Marie's expressions of good-will toward the Jews of Rumania will be regarded as gratuitous, said Rabbi Israel Goldstein in a sermon last night at B'nai Jeshurun Synagogue, unless she "uses her prestige and her talents to publicly condemn anti-Semitic outbreaks and to publicly protest against violations of the rights of the Jew as a citizen."

Rabbi Goldstein referred to the reported reappointment of Alexander Cuza to the chair of economics at the University of Jassy in Rumania after his dismissal for anti-Semitic disturbances following his alleged propaganda among the students, and continued:

"Queen Marie probably understands that in her very title as 'Queen' there is implied a promise to the Jew. When the sovereignty of Rumania was assured by the Treaty of Berlin in 1878, it was assured upon the condition that, 'In Rumania differences in religious beliefs and confessions shall not be brought against any one as a ground for exclusion or unfitness as regards the enjoyment of civil and political rights, admission to public offices, functions and honors, or the exercise of various professions and industries in any place whatever.' The fulfillment of that condition toward the Jew has been consistently evaded by the Rumanian Government. More recent constitutional guarantees have been similarly rendered nugatory by means of subterfuges.

"It would be majestically noble if her Majesty, descended as she is from Queen Victoria on the one hand and from Alexander II on the other, would in that liberal tradition dedicate her talents and her powers to the end that the Jew in Rumania shall enjoy the peace and equality which have been often promised him, but which have to this day never been fully and freely extended."

LIEUT. JEFF FEIGL POST GIVES ARMISTICE BALL

Gen. and Mrs. Summerall Lead Grand March—The "Amps" Are Guests.

The First Division Lieutenant Jeff Feigl Post of the American Legion held its annual Armistice Ball last night in the large ballroom of the Astor. The proceeds will be used to aid the needy and disabled men of the First Division.

The grand march, which began at 11 o'clock, was led by Major Gen. and Mrs. Charles P. Summerall, followed by Major Gen. Robert Lee Bullard, Brig. Gen. Hugh A. Drum, Brig. Gen. William A. M. Cruikshank and many army officers stationed in the Second Corps Area, as well as State and city officials. The color guard of the post and a special guard of honor from the Sixteenth Infantry, First Division, at Governors Island, took part in the ceremony, which was followed by the sounding of "taps" in memory of the men who fell in battle during the World War.

The wounded men's organization, the "Amps," were the guests of Major Mortimer Schiff in his box. Colonel Theodore Roosevelt was Chairman of the Ball Committee and Mrs. Adele Perry Wright of the Women's Auxiliary.

Among the patrons and patronesses were General John J. Pershing, General Charles G. Dawes, Major Gen. Robert Lee Bullard, Major Gen. James G. Harbord, Major Gen. William Weigel, Brig. Gen. Frank Parker, Brig. Gen. and Mrs. James A. Drain, Brig. Gen. and Mrs. William G. Graves, Colonel and Mrs. Fred Feigl, Colonel Michael Friedsam, Major Lorillard Spencer, Major A. J. Drexel Biddle Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Frederick A. Muschenheim, Miss Anne Morgan and Mr. and Mrs. James F. Pershing.

Also Ogden L. Mills, Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Roosevelt, Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Colonel and Mrs. Franklin Q. Brown, Mrs. Herbert L. Satterlee, Miss Rose Bullard, Mrs. Arthur Coppell, Mrs. Thomas Ellis Brown, Mrs. George E. Chisholm, Miss Jean Conrad, Mrs. Aubrey Dale, Mrs. Henry C. Drayton, Mrs. William S. GOVERNOR PROCLAIMS THANKSGIVING DAY

Aligns the State With Rest of Nation in Gratitude for Divine Blessings

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 12 (AP).—Governor Smith issued a Thanksgiving Day proclamation today.

"Each year," the Governor wrote, "the State of New York, in conformity with custom, aligns itself with the nation and sets aside a day on which the people may devote themselves to giving expression to the gratitude they feel to Divine Providence for the blessings of the year just past.

"The State receives blessings and benefits as well as the people themselves, and as an inspiration to youth to turn to a divine power in appreciation of the gifts of peace and plenty I hereby set aside Nov. 25 so that all the people of the State may cease from their daily occupations and in their accustomed places of worship, young and old, give thanks to Almighty God for blessings bestowed and pray for a continuance of His mercy and good will."

Walter Wilson, Actor, Stricken.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 12.—Suffering from a sudden attack of pneumonia, Walter Wilson was taken from the Taft Hotel this morning to the New Haven General Hospital. He is a play producer and actor and is with the Al Jolson Company, which is to give "Big Boy" at the Shubert next week.

Mr. Wilson lives at 3,405 Kossuth Avenue, New York, and is 56 years of age. At the hospital tonight his condition was reported as favorable.

AUTO DRIVE GETS 38, ONLY 1 NEW YORKER

Speeders in Rockville Centre (L. I.) Campaign Pay $250 in Fines.

NONE FROM MANHATTAN

One From Brooklyn—$50 Fine for a Rate of 63 Miles—Two Choose Jail.

Special to The New York Times.

ROCKVILLE CENTRE, L. I., Nov. 12.—Chief of Police Tyree E. Bacon's drive against automobile speeders and reckless drivers, which began here on Wednesday, brought a record attendance at Traffic Court today. In the hour during which the court was in session Judge John S. Thorpe disposed of thirty-eight cases and collected $250 in fines.

Contrary to editorials which have been appearing regularly in local papers, laying the blame for infractions of traffic regulations at the doors of motorists from New York City, not one of the defendants came from Manhattan and only one from Brooklyn.

The fines ranged from $2 to $50 and the rates of speed from 30 to 63 miles per hour. The 63-mile rate drew the $50 fine. Most of the speeders paid up promptly and left the court room smiling, but two pleaded poverty and chose to work out their fines in the county jail with sentences of five and ten days.

Only one woman was arraigned and she got a suspended sentence. For two months prior to the beginning of Chief Bacon's drive no summonses had been issued here. William R. Reis of 44 Union Avenue, Lynbrook, was the first man to receive a summons in the drive. A few hours later he was killed when his car overturned on a curve at Valley Stream.

HELD AS ABDUCTORS OF WOMAN IN TAXI

One of Two Prisoners Formerly Boarded at the Home of His Accuser.

Raffaelo Adamo and Giuseppi Savino, both of 221 East Eighteenth Street, were held without bail in West Side Court by Magistrate Flood yesterday, charged with kidnapping Mrs. Anna Dale, 30 years old, of 346 West Forty-fifth Street.

Adamo boarded with the Dales several months ago when they were living at 513 West Twenty-ninth Street. The Dales moved, the police say, because of Adamo's unwelcome attentions to Mrs. Dale. Last week, the Court was told, Adamo went to the Dale home and announced that he had come to take Mrs. Dale away, declaring that he loved her, whereupon Dale threw him out and warned him to keep away.

Last Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. Dale testified, she was walking in Eighth Avenue between Forty-second and Forty-third Streets when Adamo and Savino, each with a pistol, forced her into a taxicab in which were three other men. They took her to a house in Van Brunt Street, Brooklyn, she said. There she learned she was to be taken to 221 East Eighteenth Street, and under pretense of asking for money telephoned this fact to her sister.

When Mrs. Dale and her captors arrived at the Eighteenth Street address her husband was watching. He notified the police, who raided the place and arrested Adamo and Savino. The other men escaped.

SECOND GUIDER WILL FILED FOR PROBATE

Original of Later Document, Copy of Which Was Found, Still Gone—Estate May Be $100,000.

A second will made by the late Borough President Joseph Guider was filed for probate yesterday in the Surrogate's Court in Kings County, together with a statement that an original of a copy of a purported later will could not be found. It was said that Mr. Guider's estate might amount to about $100,000, approximately double the amount of prior estimates. The petition for probate, however, lists the realty and personal property in excess of $10,000 each.

This second will was executed by Mr. Guider on Feb. 26, 1916, after the death of his wife, Sadie B. Guider, to whom he had bequeathed all of his estate by a will in 1907. His sister, Mrs. Katherine M. Lubbe of 678 Park Place, is the sole beneficiary of this second will. The copy of a will referred to was dated June 2, 1925. It was discovered by Harry E. Shirk, an attorney, who said Mr. Guider had taken the original. In this later copy of a will Mrs. Lubbe and her niece and a nephew, Marie and Cornelius Guider, shared equally in the estate.

Mrs. Lubbe has notified the court, in her application to be appointed executrix, that she will voluntarily share the estate with this niece and nephew, though no trace of the missing will has been found.

REV. A. V. WITTMEYER DIES AT 79 YEARS

ITS RECTOR FOR 45 YEARS

Veteran of the Civil and Franco-Prussian Wars—A Founder of Huguenot Society of America.

The Rev. Alfred Victor Wittmeyer, rector emeritus of the French Church du St. Esprit at 40 East Twenty-seventh Street, died yesterday of ailments incident to his age, seventy-nine years, at his home, 606 West 137th Street. He is survived by his wife and four children. Funeral services will be held at his old church at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Born in Saar-Union, Lorraine, France, Mr. Wittmeyer was brought to this country as a child by his father, who had been banished by Napoleon III for excessive republicanism. The son quickly caught the spirit of his new surroundings, enlisted in the Union Army and fought at Gettysburg and the second battle of Antietam. After the declaration of peace he began his preparation for the ministry and in the course of it went back to France for further study. There he found himself in the turmoil of the Franco-Prussian War and again answered the call to arms.

Afterward he attended the University of Strasburg, returned to the United States and completed his theological training at the Union Theological Seminary. He was ordained a deacon in 1879 and advanced to the Priesthood of the Protestant Episcopal Church the following year by Bishop Potter.

His first church appointment came to him in 1879 and he held it for forty-five years, throughout his active career in the ministry. It was to the rectorship of the Eglise du St. Esprit, the first French church established in New York City. It was formally organized in 1687 by the Huguenot refugee, the Rev. Pierre Peiret, who erected its first building in 1688 in Marketfield Street. But its beginnings really go back further, to the year 1628, when the first French service was held on Manhattan Island by a group of Huguenots who had fled from France following the revocation of the Edict of Nantes. The church has always been a rallying place for Huguenots in this country.

Mr. Wittmeyer was one of the founders of the Huguenot Society of America and was the author of several works on French Protestantism in the United States. During his long service as rector the congregation used a French translation of the Episcopal book of Common Prayer made by him. Sixty men and ten women of the parish went overseas in the World War to aid the Allied cause.

DR. OLIVER H. EVERETT.

Prominent Physician of Worcester Dies at the Age of 74.

WORCESTER, Mass., Nov. 12 (AP).—Dr. Oliver H. Everett, for many years a leading physician of Worcester, died suddenly at midnight last night in his home here, at the age of 74.

He was born in Charlestown, the son of the Rev. Oliver Chapin and Betsy Williams (Weld) Everett. The father was a Unitarian clergyman. Dr. Everett graduated from Harvard in 1873 and from the Harvard Medical School in 1876 and later studied in Vienna and Paris for two years. He settled in Worcester in 1879. For many years he was on the staff of Memorial Hospital, and headed the Department of Dermatology.

Dr. Everett married in 1885 Sarah Frances Dewey, daughter of the late Judge and Mrs. Francis H. Dewey. Mrs. Everett died in 1892. Two children survive.

Funeral of Rev. Owen M. McGee.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Nov. 12 (AP).—Catholic clergy from all over Springfield Diocese attended the funeral of the Rev. Owen M. She smiled her whole life through,
And smiled through days of pain;
She was loved by all she knew,
And too good to let remain;
She is gone, but not forgotten;
Never shall her memory fade;
Sweetest thoughts shall ever linger
Around the grave where she is laid.

PARK BOARD WINS IN PAUCHOGUE CASE

Appellate Division Sets Aside Judgment of Lower Court for Land Corporation.

FURTHER PROCEEDINGS DUE

Decision Allows the Commission to Contest $22,000 Judgment Levied After Default.

The Appellate Division set aside yesterday the decision of the lower court which gave judgment to the Pauchogue Land Corporation against the Long Island State Park Commission over possession of the 1,500-acre Taylor estate on Great South Bay and assessed a $22,000 judgment against the three members of the commission, Robert Moses, Chairman; Townsend Scudder and Clifford L. Jackson. The Appellate Division held that the defendants should not be deprived of the opportunity to contest the claim for damages made by the land corporation.

The case against the Long Island State Park Commission went by default when its counsel refused for several days to put in an appearance and finally refused for the commission to go on with the trial. Justice Selah B. Strong gave judgment for the land company after the default, and Justice Lewis L. Strong upheld this decision on the ground that the commission had stood mute when it had an opportunity to be heard. Yesterday's decision by Presiding Justice Kelly, with Justices Jaycox, Manning, Young and Lazansky concurring, reversed the former decisions.

Robert Moses, President of the commission, said that the decision would give opportunity for a new trial. The commission issued the following statement:

"The decision of the Appellate Division is a sweeping victory for the public, as the Court unanimously vacates the judgment obtained last Summer. That judgment was not the result of any trial. The Park Commissioners withdrew from the case on the ground that their rights had been prejudiced.

"The public will now have its day in court and will definitely establish the baselessness of the attack which the Panchogue Land Company has made upon the State's title to Deer Range Park."

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Nov. 12.—Members of the Board of Supervisors of Westchester County, headed by Chairman Charles D. Millard of Tarrytown and E. P. Barrett of Bedford, Chairman of the Committee on Parks, inspected today the projects involved in the Park Commission's $36,000,000 program in the southern half of the county. A tour of the northern half of the county is to be made on Nov. 19. Members of the Park Commission accompanied the party today.

About 75 per cent. of the cost of the commission's program is to be expended in the southern section on the following projects:

Rye Beach and Manursing Island Park; Cross Connty Parkway, from Yonkers to Rye Beach; Pelham-Port Chester Parkway, the Sawmill River Parkway, the Hutchinson River Parkway, Saxon Woods Park, Mamaroneck River Parkway and Maplemoor Golf Course.

The party after leaving the Court House at White Plains first visited Maplemoor, which parallels the Mamaroneck River and where an eighteen-hole golf course is being laid out. It will be opened to the public next Summer. At Manursing Island Park, Rye, the progress in dredging for the eighty-five-acre salt water lake was noted. Plans for the reconstruction of Paradise Amusement Park, recently destroyed by fire, and the old Rye Beach Amusement Park into a modern amusement place to be operated by the county were gone over.

The route of the Hutchinson River Parkway system, from its starting point at the New York City line at Pelham, was traversed. The visitors were impressed with the plans to avoid a grade crossing at the New Haven Railroad tracks in North Pelham.

A sixty-foot span with an eighty-foot arch will be made directly through the four-track railroad embankment and the under crossing will be one of the most expensive the commission has had to build, the estimated cost to be $300,000. Other projects inspected were Tibbetts Brook Park, the New Nepperhan Heights section and Woodlands Park.

STILL BLAST WRECKS HOUSE

Nun Is Hit by Chief's Auto as He Speeds to Bronx Blaze.

The explosion of a still in the private dwelling occupied by Frank Miata, his wife and two children at 927 East 229th Street, the Bronx, gave that neighborhood a scare yesterday, set fire to Miata's home and garage and indirectly caused serious injury to Sister Mary Carlo, a nun, who was struck by the automoblie of Fire Chief George Bauer of the Fifteenth Battalion.

The Miatas, who were in the house at the time of the explosion, disappeared. The sister was run down at East 220th Street and Bronxwood Avenue. She was taken to Fordham Hospital suffering from a possible fracture of the skull, fractures of the ribs, left leg and left elbow.

The 100-gallon still was in the basement. The explosion rocked the house, broke all the windows and threw furniture all about. The blaze spread to the first floor and to the garage. The damage was estimated at $5,000. Police seized the still and five five-gallon tins of raw alcohol.

ASK CLEMENCY FOR SLAYER.

1,500 Brooklyn Men Petition Smith for Former Policeman.

Fifteen hundred business men of the Williamsburg section of Brooklyn had signed a petition to Governor Smith yesterday requesting executive clemency for John J. Brennan, formerly a policeman who is sentenced to die in the electric chair at Sing Sing next month for shooting and killing Samuel Krainin, a tailor, in the Clymer Street Station House when Krainin went there to make a complaint against him. The petition contends that the sentence was too severe in view of the "supposition" that Brennan was intoxicated when he shot Krainin. The tailor's complaint was that Brennan had sought to extort money from him.

The Minister's Sermon

He asked his little girl if she liked his sermon, and she said "No."

"Well, what did you like—the first part?"

"Yes."

"Did you like the last part?"

"Yes."

"Well, what part didn't you like?"

"Oh," she said, "there was too much middle."

We shall not let you say such things about this page of the newspaper.

There shall be no sing-songing over stale and old goods.

Each day's shopping news is as fresh as the cables from Paris and London of the world's latest things.

It is peculiarly interesting that no other business in the United States can put on its page so many fresh facts each day.

RECORD PLANE SINKS ON EVE OF AIR RACES

Lieut. Tomlinson Has Narrow Escape When Pontoons Hit a Wave in Landing.

GOES DOWN WITH MACHINE

But He Extricates Himself and Norfolk Launches Rescue Him From Water.

SHAKE-UP IN OUR FLIERS

Wrecking of Plane Forces the Elimination of Lieut. Champion From Today's Contests.

Special to The New York Times.

NORFOLK, Va., Nov. 12.—With both the American and Italian teams ready the stage was set on the shores of Hampton Roads tonight for the historic Schneider Cup race for the world's seaplane speed honors—but not until after a vitally important shake-up in the personnel of the American fliers and a crash which eliminated one of the fastest of the American racing planes from the contest.

The wrecking of the seaplane, the Packard engined Curtiss racer officially designated as the R-3-C-3 and which was to have started as No. 2 in tomorrow's contest, almost cost the life of its pilot, Lieutenant William Gosnell Tomlinson, who escaped without injury in a manner little short of miraculous. His plane turned a side somersault when one of its pontoons hit a wave in landing, and sank with its pilot squeezed into its tiny cockpit. Clad in heavy flying togs and strapped in his seat, Lieutenant Tomlinson was submerged in the cold waters of Willoughby Bay for some seconds.

The large gallery of spectators watching his performance from the Hampton Roads naval airbase, in full view of the accident, including many notables in the realm of aviation, gasped and shuddered. Then they saw him crawl out of the water to the top of one of the upturned pontoons of the capsized plane and wave his hand in reassurance to those ashore. Launches and seaplanes sped to his rescue.

The pilot was found to be cold but absolutely unhurt. Unshaken by his narrow escape, Lieutenant Tomlinson again took the air this afternoon in a Curtiss "Hawk" plane and qualified in a navigability test for participation in tomorrow's Schneider Cup race. The maximum speed of the "Hawk" is about 160 miles an hour—nearly 100 miles less than that of the other five planes now entered—and its participation in the speed trials was decided upon on the theory that the tortoise once defeated the hare in a famous racing contest.

Hawk Replaces Damaged Plane.

The shake-up in the American team's personnel included the elimination of Lieutenant Carleton C. Champion, who was to have flown the No. 4 Curtiss-motored plane, the substitution in his place of Lieutenant George T. Cuddihy, who was to have flown the Packard-motored No. 2 plane, and the assignment of Lieutenant Tomlinson, an alternate, to fly the latter racer. It was after these changes had been announced that Lieutenant Tomlinson wrecked the No. 2 plane while attempting a landing after a thirty-eight-minute flight during navigability tests.

The damage to the Packard-engined plane was so great that it could never be repaired in time for tomorrow's race, and then Rear Admiral Moffett announced the eleventh-hour substitution of the Curtiss Hawk plane Lieutenant Tomlinson will pilot. Otherwise the American team would have been restricted to two planes in the race against the intact outfits of three entered by the Italians.

Even with the Hawk entered, the percentage chances of the American team have been cut to a 3 to 2 ration by the temporary loss of the No. 2 Packard-motored plane. The challenging team will have three planes, each credited with a straightaway speed of over 250 miles an hour, while the American team will have only two fast planes—Nos. 4 and 6, which Lieutenants Cuddihy and Schilt will pilot tomorrow. Consequently, if two of the Italian planes fail, they will still have a third in the race capable of very great speed, while accidents to Nos. 4 and 6 would leave the American with an entry capable of approximately 160 miles an hour at best—the Curtiss Hawk.

American Team Undismayed.

But problems and mishaps have not dismayed the American team, whose members profess to be confident of winning with one of their two remaining fast planes. Admiral Moffett said that Lieutenant Cuddihy had been shifted to the No. 4 plane because he was considered the most experienced high-speed racer on the American team and practice flights had also produced convincing evidence that the Curtiss-motored No. 4 was the fastest of the American planes at the time—9 o'clock this morning—it was decided not to entrust it to Lieutenant Champion. It was No. 4, piloted by Lieutenant Cuddihy, that established a record of more than 256 miles an hour—how much more is still an official secret—in Monday's practice flight.

Admiral Moffett said the Packard-engined No. 2 plane had a record of 238 miles an hour straightaway in practice flying before being brought here, also that it was originally believed this plane might make an even better showing than the Curtiss-engined No. 4.

The practice flights between the No. 1 and No. 4 planes have constituted a race within a race between two racing machines equipped respectively with power plants of two of America's greatest airplane engine manufacturers, Packard and Curtiss. No. 4 plane is equipped with the new Curtiss V-1550 engine of 685 horsepower and 2,300 revolutions per minute. It is a development of the V-1400, used in last year's Schneider Cup planes. The No. 2 plane wrecked today was equipped with a special Packard V-1500 geared engine developing 700 horsepower and the same number of revolutions. Admiral Moffett said today there had never been any question as to who would fly the No. 6 plane, in which Lieutenant Schilt of the Marine Corps has qualified, and that the latter should get every inch of speed out of this plane, the one Lieutenant "Jimmy" Doolittle of the army won the Schneider race with last year.

Tomorrow's race marks the climax of more than six months of intensive activitq, in which the tIalians heve spent over $500,000 to prevent America capturing the Schneider Cup permanently, which it would do by winning tomorrow.

Program of Race.

After a special meeting of the Race Committe tonight the order of start tomorrow, at five-minute intervals, was announced as follows:

No. 1—2:30 to 2:35, Lieutenant Bacula.
No. 2—2:35 to 2:40, Lieutenant Tomlinson, in his Curtiss Hawk.
No. 3—2:40 to 2:45, Captain Ferrarin.
No. 4—2:45 to 2:50, Lieutenant Cuddihy.
No. 5—2:50 to 2:55, Major de Bernardi.
No. 6—2:55 to 3:00, Lieutenant Schilt.

Weather prospects are favorable. The forecast is clear sky, much warmer weather, temperature 60 degrees, and southerly wind ten miles an hour. This wind shift from today's northeast breeze necessitated a conference tonight, at which the starting rules were modified to enable the racers to take off in a different direction. Originally each plane was allowed five minutes in which to hop off. This still holds, bnt each racer will now have an extra interval of fifteen minutes in which to complete the start.

The teams are better matched than in any prior race. The contest is actually in doubt tonight. The favorites are Lieutenant Cuddihy of the American team and Captain Ferrarin of the Italians, although Lieutenant Schilt of the marines has many ardent supporters.

New Jersey Mayors Asked To Judge Pie-Baking Contest

Special to The New York Times.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., Nov. 12.—Mayors of Plainfield, North Plainfield, Dunellen, Bound Brook, Somerville, Westfield and Metuchen have been invited by the Watchung Community Pie Association to act as judges at the second annual pie-baking contest to be held at the Old Mill, Watchung, next Thursday night. They will be called upon to sample all the pies and select the best three for which prizes will he awarded. The association's slogan is "More and better pies."

After the judging, pie, cheese and coffee will be served for the price of admission, the proceeds to go to charity. George E. Hughes, organizer of the Pie Association, declares that pie is pre-eminently an American dish and has too long been neglected. He wants to restore the art of making wholesome pie in the American home.

FORCED INTO BIGAMY BY PISTOL, HE ASSERTS

Salesman Says Father of Second Wife Threatened His Life—His Testimony Denied.

Jack Revitch, 29 years old, a salesman, of 55 Tiemann Place, on trial for bigamy on complaint of Miss Jeanette Abrams, 22, of 2,078 Arthur Avenue, the Bronx, who testified she was his second wife, told Judge Albert Cohn and a jury in the Bronx County Court yesterday that he was forced with threats of death to marry Miss Abrams.

Revitch testified that on the night of June 19, 1926, one day previous to his bigamous marriage, Morris Abrams, father of Miss Abrams, and three young men, friends of the Abrams family, kept him prisoner in the Abrams home while Mr. Abrams stood guard at the door with a pistol. He said he was forced into an automobile the next morning and taken first to Newark and then to the Bronx Borough Hall for a marriage license, prodded frequently with a pistol and told he would be killed if he did not marry Miss Abrams.

He said his wedding trip consisted only of a taxicab ride of one block, whereupon he was pushed from the automobile. Later, he continued, his first wife, who is the mother of his two children, discovered the bigamous marriage. She met Miss Abrams, he said, to try to reach an agreement with her, but failed, and then he was arrested, charged with bigamy.

Miss Abrams and witnesses for her denied all Revitch's statements, and Assistant District Attorney Julia Alice Hainey introduced love letters, alleged to have been written by Revitch to Miss Abrams, intended to show he implored her to marry him. The case will be continued Monday.

EMBEZZLING CHARGE FAILS.

Woman Fails to Press Case Against L. H. Hardy, Real Estate Broker.

When Mrs. Marie Mabel of 57 West Sixty-eighth Street and St. Louis, Mo., failed to appear in Harlem court yesterday to press the charge of embezzlement she had made against Leonard H. Hardy, real estate broker of 163 East Sixty-third Street, Magistrate Edward Weil discharged him. The Magistrate said, however, that if Mrs. Mabel, who is now in St. Louis at the bedside of her mother, wishes to reopen the case when she returns here she may do so.

Mrs. Mabel, according to the story, had given Hardy $12,000 to invest for her in New York real estate. She was dissatisfied with him as a business agent, she said, and asked him for her money. He finally gave her three post-dated checks, the first of which, dated Sept. 20, was for $5,000 and was drawn on the Hamilton Bank, 130 West Forty-second Street. When the check was returned for lack of funds she had Hardy arrested.

The case was called on Oct. 29. Mrs. Mabel was not in court, but she said later that she had been bound and gagged by two armed men who had entered her apartment, and after ransacking the place demanded that she tell them the whereabouts of Hardy's three checks.

Trussed to a bedpost and gagged, Mrs. Mabel was discovered when a clerk sent by her lawyers gained entrance to her apartment, aided by the police.

Girl, 15, Scolded, Takes Poison.

Special to The New York Times.

BAYONNE, N. J., Nov. 12.—Vera Shanosky, 15 years old, of 289 Avenue A, Bayonne, was scolded this morning by her mother, Sophie, for wearing a caracul coat of a neighbor, Mrs. Sophie Glass, without permission. A few minutes later Mrs. Shanosky heard Vera scream and found her lying on the bathroom floor with a bottle of lysol beside her. The girl was treated at the Bayonne Hospital and taken to the Parental Home. She will be arraigned tomorrow before Recorder Eugene Sharkey, charged with attempted suicide.

RATIFY AGREEMENT TO END CLOAK STRIKE

Representatives of General Committee and Local Unions Accept Leaders' Terms.

WORKERS TO VOTE TUESDAY

Union Sees Considerable Gains—Will Now Concentrate Fire on Jobbers in Industry.

The agreement to end the strike of cloakmakers in the shops of the inside manufacturers, approved by the Joint Conference Committee early yesterday morning, was ratified yesterday by members of the General Strike Committee, representing every local union in the strike, and subsequently by a meeting of 1,500 delegates, representing every union shop in the industry.

Ratification by the rank and file of the union is expected on Tuesday, when the agreement is to be submitted to a referendum. Morris Hillquit, counsel to the union, and William Klein, counsel to the manufacturers, continued yesterday the task of writing into legal form the agreement made in the office of Raymond V. Ingersoll, Impartial Chairman, early yesterday morning. The compact mey be signed today by the leaders of both sides.

To Concentrate on Jobbers.

The Joint Board of the Cloak, Suit, Skirt and Dress Makers Union, in a statement yesterday, characterized the peace agreement with the inside manufecturers as "a peece wherein some concessions were granted to the manufecturers end considerable gains were obtained by the union." With the financial and moral assistance of those who have already returned to work and those who will soon return to the shops of the inside manufacturers, the nnion declared it would concentrate its fire on the jobbers, "who are the main factors, and who have created the chaos in the industry."

Joseph Boruchovich, a membar of the General Strike Committee, explained the tsrms of the new agreement to the shop chairmen at a meeting held in Webster Hall, Elevsnth Street near Third Avenue. The nsw contract, he said, was "neither victory nor defeat." He explained that the nnion was compelled to accept the manufacturers' demand for the right to reorganize their shops once a year by discharging 10 per cent. of the employes. To that extent the agreement was a defeat, he added.

The forty-hour week was a compromise, he explained, the union demanding the immediete installation of the forty-hour week and the employers granting it for the third year of the agreement after two years of work at forty-two hours a week.

The increase in wages, said Boruchovich, was a clear gain and so was the union's right to unionize examiners. The union, he further said, lost in its demand for a guarantee of thirty-six weeks' work and for unionization of designers.

The proposed peace agreement was ratified by the 250 members of the General Strike Committee at a meeting in Beethoven Hall, 210 Fifth Street, after being presented by Louis Hyman, Chairman of the General Strike Committee. In both meetings the agreement was voted npon article by article.

Jobbers' Agreement Seen.

Despite the reports emeneting yesterday from the ranks of the jobbers that they would not meet the union, it was said in trade circles that within two weeks the union would be well on the way toward an agreement with the jobbers and with the submanufacturers.

In its statement yesterdey the union asserted that with the support of the returned workers it would be "invincible" in its attack on the jobbers.

The statement added:

"The settlement with the Industrial Council is a peace wherein some concessions were granted to the manufacturers and considerable gains were obtained by the nnion. The concessions granted are the right to reorganize the personnel of their shops to the extent of 10 per cent. This is in the nature of an experiment for the next two and a half years. We will then be ehle to establish the effect of this move upon the industry end to what extent it reacts on the conditions of the workers.

"The question of hours is a distinct gain for the workers in this etrike. The entire labor movement is intereeted in the ehortening of hours, in the five-day week and especially in the forty-hour week. We have gained the five-day week and forty-two hours for the first year end a helf of the agreement, and for the last year a clear forty-hour week of five days. The entire labor movement, and particularly the needle trades, have been fighting for this demand in order to distribute the work and to help solve the complications of a seasonal industry and its consequent unemployment. Further, our gains will afford the cloakmaker two days' leisure instead of one.

"The union has obtained substantial increases in wages, not only above the old scales, but also above those recommended by the Governor's Mediation Commission. Increases of the minimum scale average from $4.50 to $9 per week."
